FIELD TRIALS TO BE HELD AT WARREN MONDAY AND TUESDAY

Charles Jordan of Monticello, Ga., and Charles Babcock of Morganville, Ala., are Judges For the Event

Arrangements are being completed for the fall trials of the Northern States Amateur Field Trail association at Warren, Minn August 31 and September 1.

Warren was selected because of its wonderful open places for the trying out of dogs, and because it is a natural chicken country with an abundance of birds. The grounds are only five miles out of Warren, which has splendid hotel accommodations and ideal train service for those who wish to go to the trials by railroad. The Warren Commercial club also pledged its wholehearted support in making the fall trials a success.

Two stakes are to be run; first the all-age stake, and second the derby stake for dogs born after January 1, 1924. It was decided by the Board of Governors that August 31 would be an ideal time to start the trials, because by holding them that early the rainy season probably will be avoided, and there will be no conflict with the dates of the Minnesota State fair, the All-American field trials and the Manitoba club's trials, which are held later in September. Moreover, the board wished to have the all-age dogs perform on birds, which may be done to greater advantage before the chickens become so wild.

The Northern States Amateur Field Trail association has affiliated with Amateur Association of the United States, and the winner this year will have an opportunity to compete at Grand Junction, Tenn., in January with other winners of amateur trials.

It was deemed advisable by the board not to hold open or subscription stakes, but to confine the association's activities to good all-age and derby stakes.

The association is fortunate in having obtained Charles Jordan of Monticello, Ga., and Charles Babcock of Morganville, Ala., as judges for the fall trials. Both are field trial handlers of renown, and are especially able to serve the entrants in this territory.

The first evening at Warren will be devoted to the annual meeting, at which time a number of interesting subjects pertaining to field trials will be considered. There will be a drawing for the all-age and derby stakes, amendments to the constitution and by-laws will be considered, the officers will submit their reports, and new officers will be elected. There will be a bench show on the second evening, to which the public is invited, and for which there will be no charge. Every dog entered in either stake will be eligible to entry in this show.

Arrangements for the fall trials are being conducted in behalf of the association by a committee composed of Dr. Clarence Perry, Carl E. Speakes and Mike Gibbons of St. Paul.

Dr. Weber To Speak Here In October

Dr. Frank R. Weber, well-known community advancement lecturer of Fargo, N. Dak., will spend two days in Holt sometime in October (exact time will be announced later). His topic will be on the building up of a better community.

As the Commercial Club of Holt is in charge of all preparations, it will defray the expenses of having Dr. Weber to speak here. He has a message of importance for everyone. There will be no charges for hearing this wonderful man, so everyone should plan to attend his lectures.

Women Bankers.

It is interesting to note that women are recognized more frequently in the banking business throughout the West than in the East.

$3,500,000 FAIR PROGRAM READY

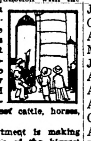
Agricultural, Livestock and Industrial Resources to be Displayed at State Fair.

All roads in the Northwest will lead to the Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Dairy Exposition, Twin cities, September 5 to 12.

The Minnesota State Fair this year will be a $3,500,000.00 Exposition. It will vividly portray the agricultural, livestock and industrial resources of the great Northwest.

The 60th annual State Fair promises to surpass those of all other years. It will be the most stupendous fair ever presented in America, and prize money and premiums totaling $141,937.50 have been set aside by the management. This is more money than offered by any other fair and makes secure Minnesota's title of "World's greatest Fair."

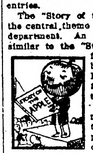
No department will prove of more interest to visitors than the Boys' and Girls' club activities. More than 1,000 youngsters from all parts of the state will be brought to the fair as guests of the management.



The Northwest Dairy Exposition, which will be staged for the third successive year in conjunction with the fair, has outlined a program of diversification that will be stressed at this year's show. Not only are farmers being encouraged to improve their dairy herds, but the gospel of better sires is being preached for beef cattle, horses, sheep and swine.

The Horse department is making preparations for one of the biggest shows in years. Premiums totaling $19,880.00 are offered for the two divisions, breeding and horse show. The Night Horse Show will be staged five nights, September 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11.

The other shows in the livestock department, including swine, sheep and goats, promise to set a new record for entries.



The "Story of the Apple" will be the central theme in the Horticultural department. An exhibit along lines similar to the "Story of the Plum," featured in 1924, is being worked out. Premiums for fruits, flowers and vegetables total $7,756.00.

Eighty acres of machinery, including tractors, threshers, plows, mixing machinery, farm lighting plants, milking machines, cream separators, will be exhibited.

Every booth has been taken in the Agricultural building for the county exhibits. Prize money totaling $19,833.00 has been set aside for agricultural contests.

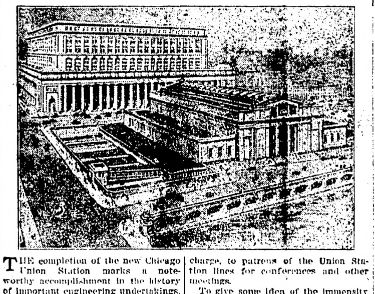
The Fine Arts Show, which will be International in character, will feature one of the finest loan exhibits ever shown in the Northwest.

The exhibits of canning, baking and sewing in the Womans building, the display of live bees and honey, the work of the school children, the dental, posture and general health contests in the Public Health department and the butter and cheese exhibits, will prove of interest to all.

A Style Show, the biggest ever staged at the State Fair, will be put on in the Automobile Show rooms, main floor of the grandstand.

The Government Livestock Exhibit, showing the value of balanced rations in feeding, will be one of the outstanding features of the fair.

Latest Triumph in Railroading



THE completion of the new Chicago Union Station marks a noteworthy accomplishment in the history of important engineering undertakings, from which travelers from all parts of the United States will derive pleasure and benefit.

The station is without doubt one of the finest and most efficiently designed railroad terminals in the world. It forms a vital link in the realization of the "Chicago City Beautiful Plan." Simplicity, accessibility and convenience for the traveling public are the essential virtues of the new terminal. Rest and recreation rooms, ticket offices, barber shop, dining rooms, stores of various kinds, and almost every convenience known to travelers, are to be found on the one level, no steps to climb.

The main station is a low monumental type of building with a row of massive columns of classic design along the entire east front. Once inside, the traveler finds himself in a gigantic waiting room more than 100 feet high and brilliantly lighted through skylights in the great arch ceiling. Colonnades inclose the room, the walls of which are patterned after the architecture of ancient Rome. Bordering this room are the ultra-complete passenger terminal facilities. An innovation in railway terminal design is a conference room accommodating 125 people, which is available, without charge, to patrons of the Union Station lines for conferences and other meetings.

To give some idea of the immensity of the new station, it may be stated that the main building covers an area of about three acres with a concourse covering 60,000 square feet. The entire terminal facilities cover more than 35 acres and will expedite the prompt and satisfactory handling of 50,000 passengers, 400 tons of baggage and 300 trains daily with room for future expansion. Fifteen acres of glass were used in the various coverings over the train sheds, which extend more than 1,200 feet beyond the main structure. A total of 17,000 tons of structural steel, 175,000 cubic feet of Indiana limestone and 10,000 cubic feet of granite were used in the station building and concourse. The foundation consists of 449 cylindrical concrete piers from four to ten feet in diameter, reaching to a depth of more than 60 feet below the level of the Chicago river.

Those who have had the privilege of inspecting the new station pronounce it a marvel in terminal construction and are urging their friends to see it on their next visit to Chicago.

The station is used jointly by the Pennsylvania Railroad; Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry.; Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R., and the Chicago & Alton R. R.

To Our Patrons

A Message Which Is All Cream And No Milk

Beginning with September 1 we will pay 2c more per pound butterfat for Land O' Lakes cream. In other words, we will have three grades; namely, a Land O' Lakes grade, a First grade, and a Second grade. Land O' Lakes cream will pay 2c more per pound butterfat than First grade cream, and First grade cream 3c more than Second grade cream, the same as it has been.

A large number of creameries have only two grades—the Land O' Lakes grade and the First grade. We are aiming to do the same but at present we feel that it is best to have the three grades.

We should all try to get in the Land O' Lakes class. Land O' Lakes cream must be sweet, clean, and not over two days old. Be sure to have your cream well cooled, as it might be Land O' Lakes cream when you leave home, but fail to meet requirements when it gets to the weigh room. Land O' Lakes cream must start at the milk-pail. If you milk with wet hands, don't be surprised if your cream does not come up to the standard it takes to make a Land O' Lakes product. If your milk is clean, the separator clean, and your cream is properly cooled, you have a mighty good chance of making the Land O' Lakes grade. It means 2c more per pound butterfat. It does not seem to be very much, BUT IT WOULD HAVE MEANT SOMETHING OVER $80 TO JOHN HOLST FOR THE YEAR OF 1924. Besides this, to deliver Land O' Lakes cream to this creamery gives you the satisfaction that you are delivering cream that makes the BEST BUTTER IN THE WORLD.

PHEASANTS SHIPPED TO NEWFOLDEN

The state farm at Mound, Minn., shipped twenty ring necked pheasants here last week. They were at once taken out to New Maine township, near Slattum's farm and released. The management at the state farm has requested that these birds be left undisturbed. These birds do not fly around from place to place but usually remain in the same vicinity. Parties out hunting should use care and not shoot any of them. —The Newfolden Review.

ASK STATE BODY TO GET FAIR RATES

Organization Would Seek Fair Deal For All Shippers--To Start General Probe.

Fargo, N. D.—Proposing the establishment of a permanent organization that would devote its whole time to the problem of obtaining an equalization of both interstate and intrastate freight rates on farm products and commodities used in the agricultural industry, a group of prominent Jamestown business men have sponsored the North Dakota Fair Freight Rate association, with the job of selling the idea to the people of the state already well under way.

Such is the word of Logan Powell of Jamestown, apointed manager of the association, and of V. P. Cadieux, rate expert of Jamestown.

"This association," said Mr. Powell, "has as its objective the initiation of rate case, or group of rate cases, that will go into the whole rate situation as it affects the transportation of grains, livestock and other farm projects, and into the situation as it affects the rates upon agricultural implements and supplies.

"It is a non-political movement; it is not to be construed as a railroad baiting movement, but, rather, as a movement that has for its objective the job of bringing to the people of this state the same benefits in the matter of rates that we have reason to believe are enjoyed by the people of other states, similarly situated.

"In other words, the job of the association will be the wiping out of any unfair rates that exist: the equalization of rates, to the end that the people of this state shall not be assessed any greater portion of the freight cost than should be rightfully borne by them.

"This is a big program, requiring a lot of money to finance, but under the plan of asking each county in the state to contribute a certain sum, the cost per unit will not be great. We are going out on a three-year program, believing that it will require at least that much time to get anything like the results that we hope for.

"Thereafter, and if the association has proved itself of value, there should be no difficulty about its continuance.

"This organization will not devote itself to the problem of the individual shipping point, or the problem of the individual shipper. It will not concern itself with the rates affecting ordinary jobbing, but will deal, specifically, with the program as it affects agriculture."

Already the association has achieved considerable success in the matter of enlisting support, several counties having subscribed their full quota.

The association directorship is made up of Alfred Steel, H. T. Graves, E. B. Murphy, R. R. Wolfer and John W. Carr, all of Jamestown. These men, and the following, comprise the incorporators: A. B. DeNault, Paul N. Allen, Arthur W. Johnson, P. W. Eddy, Ben Orlandy, Oscar Zimmerman, J. E. McElroy, Percy M. Hansen, Logan Powell, C. A. Klaus, Alson Wells and Redmond A. Boton.

SORLIE CANNOT PICK SENATOR

Senate Is Held Certain to Refuse Any Appointment Made.

Washington.—Uncertainty as to the plans of Governor Sorlie of North Dakota for filling the senatorial vacancy in his state, especialy his failure to call a special election, is causing much speculation in political circles here as to his authority to appoint a successor to the late Senator Ladd.

The action taken by the senate upon the appointment of Frank P. Glass by the governor of Alabama is declared to be a precedent. The constitution and laws of Alabama at that time are said to have been the same as those of North Dakota at present, so far as the power of the governor to appoint is considered.

Appointed by Governor O'Neil to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Senator Johnson, Mr. Glass was rejected by a Democratic senate by a majority of four, on the ground that the governor has no authority to appoint.

The record of the senate debate shows that Alabama, like North Dakota, had not at that time passed a law dealing directly with the constitutional amendment for the election of senators by the people, but that there was in Alabama, as there is now in North Dakota, a law giving the governor authority to fill vacancies in state offices by appointment, the office of the United States senator not being mentioned.

In the Glass case, the senate held that under such circumstances the vacancy must be filled by a special election.

The President's signature to the agreement leaves the next step, so far as the American government is concerned, up to congress which, under the provisions of the act creating the debt funding commission, must ratify all settlements.

WRECK KILLS 2; 75 ARE INJURED

Dispatcher Summons Nurses and Relief Workers as Passengers Rush to Destruction.

Calida, Colo.—Two trainmen are dead, 16 passengers are seriously injured, 10 being in a hospital here and 76 others are nursing cuts and bruises as the result of a headon collision between two tourist-laden Denver & Rio Grande western trains near the little mountain station at Granite, Colo.

Only the fact that the trains were comprised of all steel coaches prevented a much greater toll of casualties.

Responsibility for the wreck was laid by railroad officials to failure of one train to receive orders to stop at Granite.

By a queer twist of events preceding the crash, Samuel L. AN OPERATION RECOMMENDED

Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Los Angeles, Cal.—"I cannot give too much praise to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me. My mother gave it to me when I was a girl 14 years old, and since then I have taken it when I feel run down or tired. I took it for three months before my two babies were born for I suffered with my back and had spells as if my heart was affected, and it helped me a lot. The doctors told me at one time that I would have to have an operation. I thought I would try 'Pinkham's,' as I call it, first. In two months I was all right and had no operation. I firmly believe 'Pinkham's' cured me. Everyone who saw me after that remarked that I looked so well. I only have to take medicine occasionally, not but I always keep a couple of bottles by me. I recommend it to women who speak to me about their health. I have also used your Sanative Wash and like it very much." — Mrs. E. Gould, 4000 East Side Boulevard, Los Angeles, Cal.

Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised.

The end came as a surprise, at a time when Miss Ederle apparently was swimming sturdily after a battle with rising wind and waves. She was forced to quit because of nausea and seasickness brought on by swallowing salt water.

New York—John McGraw, vice president and manager of the New York Giants, said that the ball which has been used in the major leagues during the past few weeks is much slower than the kind with which the season was started. McGraw said that the club owners, without making any announcement, reached an agreement among themselves that the ball in use was too lively for the good of the sport and that several changes in its construction was ordered. He called attention to the large number of small score games during the last month to show that the ball is not as it used to be.

Foreign

Kottowitz, Upper Siberia—One football player was killed and five other players were severely injured when a bolt of lightning struck among the players during a match at Josefsdolac.

Rome—Ettiorie Friedlander, for 40 years general manager of the Stefano agency, the semiofficial Italian news disseminator, is dead here. He retired from the news agency about 10 years ago.

Copenhagen—The Danish admiralty has decided to blow up the German submarine U20, which was wrecked on the Jutland coast in 1916. The U20 was credited with the torpedoing of the Lusitania.

Managua, Nicaragua—The first of several German operated hydroairplanes arrived here from Columbia on its way to Cuba. The airplane company is said to be seeking a mail service contract in Cuba.

Rome—The return to Rome of Giacomo de Martino, Italian ambassador to the United States, is interpreted here as a step toward the consummation of a loan of from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 by American financiers to Italy. Il Sereno, commenting on the ambassador's conference with Premier Mussolini, points out that preliminary negotiations over the American debt have been going on satisfactorily.

Amboyana, Malaya—The Italian flier, Commander Francesco de Pinedo, who is on an air journey from Italy to Japan, has arrived here from Thursday Island. He had been delayed on Thursday Island for three days by bad weather.

Dublin—The third state celebration of the anniversary of the deaths of Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins was conducted at the Cenotaph in Leinster lawn. Governor General Healy and the chief officers of state, the foreign consuls and large crowds from all parts of Ireland came to pay their respects.

Oslo, Norway—Officers of the American torpedo boat destroyer squadron which is visiting here, were received in audience by King Haakon. They were introduced by Laurits Swenson of Minneapolis, the American minister.

Paris—Victor Berger, socialist congressman from Wisconsin, arrived at Paris at the head of 15 American delegates en route to the international socialist conference at Marseilles. He said he would advocate the bringing of American pressure on Europe through the war debts to insure disarmament and peace.

Permanent roads are a good investment—not an expense

One Horse Town, Good-Bye!

Any community whose streets are not durably paved is going to be known as a "one horse town."

When that time arrives, Prosperity says, "Good-bye, old friend. Good-bye!"

People start moving away. Bank deposits fall off. Business in general begins to take a slump, and the place is no longer "on the map."

Contrast all this with the city that is well paved.

It steadily forges ahead over its hard, even streets. Automobiles, busses and delivery trucks, operate efficiently and economically, regardless of season or weather.

Business is good, and keeps getting better. Modern, fire-safe buildings spring up. New industries are attracted to town. Plants and factories are working full time. Trade at the stores is brisk, and everybody's busy.

In short, permanently paved streets and roads are one of the very best investments any community can make. You can enjoy the tonic effect of well paved streets by helping your local authorities to find ways and means to build more of them.

Sees Age of Science

Prof. A. M. Low, famous scientist, asserts that in all probability the man of the future will not have to shave and will most likely be bald. But that is not all. Among Professor Low's genial forecasts are the following: Women will wear trousers. Incubators on the hire system will solve the difficulty of rearing children. Prettiness in women will be a drug on the market and national birth control will free women for education. Foods will come from communal kitchens in tubes. Complete triumph of radio communication in every department of life. Professor Low is very sure of it all. And he does not think it is so very funny, either.

Not to Blame

Surgeon General Ireland of the War department was discussing the reformation of drug victims.

"To reform these people is a difficult thing," he said. "Whenever I look at a collection of drug victims, with their sensual mouths and weak chins, I can't help thinking of the Chinese proverb:

"'Rotten wood can't be carved.'"

Alligator Seen In Red River

According to the Argyle Banner, Hugh Parr of Fork township saw a large alligator in Red river about three weeks ago. Mr. Parr had gone to the river to get some clams he had in a cache at the edge of the water and was startled when the huge reptile splashed into the stream from the bank in full view. Mr. Parr estimated its length at fifteen feet. He followed along the bank for some distance as the alligator made its way thru the water down stream.

A party of boys who went to the river to swim a few days before, where Forest river empties into the Red, four miles up stream from the Parr farm, saw the alligator crawl from the underbrush on the bank into the river before they had gotten their clothes off, and went home without taking their swim. The alligator was seen again some days later by parties further down the river. Mr. Parr believes it to be the same alligator that was reported being seen in Red river at Emerson about ten years ago.

Quotes Bible To Show Milk's Value

That the ancients had a clear idea of the high food value of milk even tho they were ignorant of its vitamine content, is contended by M. D. Munn, president of the National Dairy Council, who cites the fact that milk is mentioned 49 times in the Bible in his support. Butter and cheese are mentioned several times from Genesis to Revelations, he says, and the cow very frequently.

"For instance," says Mr. Munn, "in Samuel 17:28 we read: 'And Jesse said unto David his son....bring these ten cheeses unto the captain of their thousand and look how thy brethren fare.' In Genesis 18:8 we find:'....and he (Abraham's servant) took butter and milk and set it before them....' Proverbs 30:33 says: 'For the churning of milk bringing forth butter.' And while it is not probable that the butter referred to was butter in the sense in which we understand it today, because of the climatic conditions of Palestine, it does show that the people of that period knew and appreciated the value of milk and milk products for human consumption."

The dress of today consists of two armholes bounded on the west by nothing whatever; on the east by the same, on the south by hardly anything, and on the north by less than that.—Detroit Free Press.

THE EDITOR LEAVES TOWN

Typographical errors are one of the chief banes of a newspaper man's existence. In the rush of daily newspaper making, "proofs" are read hurriedly, or sometimes not at all, and occasionally the result in the printed product is astonishing. For instance, the story is told of an editor who recently wrote a "puff" for the belle of the ball, saying, "Her dainty feet were incased in shoes that might have been taken for fairy boots," but the blundering compositor made it read: "Her dirty feet were incased in shoes that might have been taken for ferry-boats."—Ex.

The Loyal Booster Speaks Again

LET THIS BE KNOWN TO ALL GOOD MEN, that the time has come when fighting among ourselves (both socially and financially) must stop;

AND FURTHERMORE, that we should get together and organize a good, upright community, that will stand out with its merits above all, and that can be so used, by combining Cooperation and Good Will in such a way that when it becomes 100 per cent excellent it will stand an A No. 1 chance of winning a banner for itself.

Dr. F. R. Weber will be here October 2 and 3 to analyze our difficulties and will put us on the track to a better community.

Minnesota State Fair Starts Tomorrow

Dirigible "Shenandoah" Will Arrive At Fair Grounds At 8:15 A. M.

The Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Dairy Exposition opens tomorrow (September 5).

The tens of thousands of persons who are planning on visiting it to see the gigantic dirigible, Shenandoah, must get there early in the morning, or they are not likely to see it at all.

A tentative schedule of its arrival at the state fair has been received by Herman Roe, president of the fair, from Admiral Eberle, of Washington, D. C., in which Mr. Roe has been informed that the Shenandoah will come to the fair about 8:15 a.m. in the morning, and leave about two hours later for Milwaukee.

"The time of arrival at the Minnesota State Fair depends entirely upon atmospheric and weather conditions," said Admiral Eberle. "We are planning on coming from Iowa early in the morning, and arriving at the state fair about 8:15 o'clock. At 10:30 o'clock we plan on leaving for Milwaukee."

Since the big airship is to be given its official welcome at the state fair, the management expects a tremendous early morning crowd at the grounds to see it. To prevent congestion all admission gates will be open at six o'clock Saturday morning. An elaborate program of welcome is being worked out to make the visit of the Shenandoah a long remembered one by all who see it. The fair will be open Sunday.

Mrs. H. Peterson returned Wednesday from Thief River Falls where she has been visiting the past week.

Emma Engebretson left for International Falls yesterday after spending a week here visiting her folks.

Mrs. Lofgren and daughter Louise of Karlstad, Mrs. John Dahl and son Ralph, Miss Ebba Loungren and Mrs. Harry McKenzie of Hallock visited at the home of W. G. Thompson and family on Wednesday.

Purple Cow To Be Shown At State Fair

History relates the story of P. T. Barnum's world-famed white elephant. Reminiscent villagers with good memories can tell of multi-hued menageries which roamed at large in pre-prohibition day.

But here is a new one—the Purple Cow!

The self-same animal made famous by Gelett Burgess' nursery rhyme, will be on exhibition at the Northwest Dairy Exposition on the mezzanine floor of the large cattle barn, according to Edward Barr, executive director of the exposition.

Back in the days when it wasn't necessary to be reminescent about colored animals and things like that, Mr. Burgess dashed off this little jingle:

"Reflections on a Mythic Beast,
Who's Quite Remarkable, at Least

I never saw a purple cow:
I never hope to see one:
But I can tell you, anyhow,
I'd rather see than be one."

Then about five years later, in one of his less inspired moods, the poet retracted the above verses with:

"Ah, yes, I wrote the 'Purple Cow'—
I'm sorry, now, I wrote it!
But I can tell you, anyhow,
I'll kill you if you quote it!"

So much for the origin of the purple cow. Exposition officials give the assurance that she will be present when the show opens on September 5, housed in a specially constructed, octagonal barn.

Northwest School Helps Valley Farmers

That the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston has grown until it has become a necessary art of the Red River Valley, is indicated by the use farmers and business men are making of the institution. In addition to assisting as judges at local fairs, demonstrations and meetings are conducted in every county according to C. G. Selvig.

This fall the poultry department will hold many culling demonstrations under the direction of A.M. Pilkey, poultryman. The boys and girls club work is directed by A. J. Kittelson, district state club leader at the Northwest School, and almost 4000 boys and girls are in club work. Mr. Selvig also reports that 405 extension appointments were filled last year. This past summer thirty-six community clubs visited the station and 1970 were presnt on these trips, many of whom came long distances.

Reports are available on the numerous experiments being carried on and these reports may be obtained for the asking. In addition to the experiments being made, school is in session from Sept. 28 until the last of March. Over 200 have already reserved rooms for the coming year and will represent almost avery community in Northwestern Minnesota.

Origin of Honeydew Melon.

The original seed of the honeydew melon is said to have been obtained from a melon shipped from Africa to New York city. The seed was planted at Rocky Ford, Colo., and crossed with other varieties for two or three seasons. The so-called honey-dew melon is the result. As yet this melon has not been brought into a stable condition of reproduction.

MINERS' OFFICIALS CALL COAL STRIKE

Lewis Opens Strike Headquarters at Philadelphia—Both Sides Stand Firm.

Philadelphia—The anthracite coal strike began to make itself felt throughout the districts where 158,000 men have been employed. Some of the workers, notable in the Pottsville district, had removed their tools from the pits and gone to their homes until the strike shall have ended. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers and director of the strike, became in general charge of the economic destinies of a vast army of men, affecting thousands of families. Lewis, storm center of wage disputes, organized central headquarters in the Bellevue-Stratford hotel here and issued orders arranging the details of the suspension.

As the strike plans progressed, the state and national governments were silent. No indication was forthcoming that either would step into the situation with an arbitration plan.

$51,000,000 Dam At Muscle Shoals Is Given First Test

Florence, Ala.—Seven years after work was begun on the gigantic Wilson dam, the waters of the Tennessee river were turned through the first of the giant turbines that are to supply power for a new industrial empire of the south.

The huge generator, performing smoothly, will be run for 10 days before it is harnessed to a load and its 30,000 horse-power strength is put to work. Three other turbines have been installed and the power house has accommodation for 10 others, so that eventually the Wilson dam will be the means of generating more than 600,000 horsepower. Described by United States engineers as one of the greatest engineering feats on record, the dam rises from the river bed to a height of 122 feet with a length of 5,000 feet.

The President made it clear at Swampscott that, as far as he was concerned, Mr. Palmer and not Chairman O'Connor, of the shipping board, was running the fleet corporation.

The Sebastino Veniero was ordered to lie in ambush off the east coast of Sicily between Cape Passero and Cape Murro Di Porco during the maneuvers and when last seen was en route to fulfill this assignment. Mrs. Ackerman and Mrs. Mayer Tell Women How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Them at This Trying Period

MRS. ELSIE ACKERMAN CONVOY, OHIO

Convoy, Ohio.—"During the Change of Life I was weak and run-down and could hardly do my work. By reading your advertisements I found out about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has straightened me right out and made me feel like a new woman. By the time I had taken eight bottles I was well and could do my housework on the farm without trouble. I recommended it to my daughter-in-law after her second baby was born and it did her a wonderful lot of good. I told her to try it and if it didn't help her I would pay for it, and before she had taken one bottle she said to me, 'You won't have to pay for it! It is helping me wonderfully!' And she took three bottles of it. You can use my testimonial if you wish." — Mrs. ELSIE ACKERMAN, Convoy, Ohio.

Mrs. Mayer's Experience

Litchfield, Conn.—"I have given your medicine a fair trial (I am on my fifth bottle) and can truthfully say that it has helped me. I am at the Change of Life and was not able to sleep nights, had indigestion, palpitation of the heart, pains in my right and left sides (more so if I hurried), had a rapid beating in my left ear and dreaded to see night come. I felt smothered if I lay on my left side, I had gas dreadfully, at times felt as if some one had me by the throat, had hot waves through me and sometimes I would shake in spells of nervousness. I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot praise it enough. I can say it does all it claims to do and I can recommend it to my friends. I can sleep much better, the pains in my sides are gone, I am not so nervous, my digestion is much better, and I very seldom have the hot waves. I must say that the Vegetable Compound is the best medicine for women's ills and I will answer letters from women asking about it." — Mrs. JOSEPH MAYER, SR., Box 86, Litchfield, Connecticut.

Cows Fond of Garlic

American dairy interests recently appealed to the Department of Agriculture for a solution of the problem of preventing the garlicky taste in milk from cows that have eaten garlic, says Popular Science Monthly. Experts of the department determined that the only way is to keep the cows from the weed, in which they revel.

Spanish Grandee Well Loaded With Titles

The duke of Alba is a duke by four other titles than Alba. He is a marquis by ten titles attached to as many landed estates. He is the twenty-fourth count of Lemos—that title goes back beyond the year 1000—and he is count 13 times elsewhere. And he is hereditary constable of Navarre, once a kingdom not to be sneezed at. The duke's father, from whom he inherited all this nobility, died in New York 24 years ago.

This does not end the mixed and marvelous blood boiling in the veins of this grandee who turns to the people. His family name is Fitz-James and he is tenth duke of Berwick in Scotland, which means he is descended straight from James the Second, the last of the Stuart kings of England. And it also means he is a descendant of Mary Queen of Scots.

Famous Old Mansion

The Quincy mansion is at Quincy, Mass., formerly called Braintree. William Coddington built the original house, which consisted of a large kitchen, a living room and two chimneys. Coddington died shortly after the erection of the house. His successor, the first Quincy, to occupy it, was the first of three Edmund Quincys'. In 1706, the third Edmund added the present dining room, parlor and the chambers over these rooms. Later a study and bedroom were added. Among the many noted guests entertained there were Lafayette and Benjamin Franklin. The latter, after a visit, sent a "Franklin stove" as a return for hospitality offered him.

They Bother Them Now

The coal crisis in England served to recall the methods employed by the miners in bringing their grievances to public attention more than a century ago—in 1815. At that time the workers made their protest in person. They dragged loads of coal to London and demanded to see the prince regent. But the magistrate sent for them, told them they must not bother London's august personages, and bade them go back to their work. And they went back home, carrying their loads behind them.

"You Takes Your Choice"

A Cairo correspondent of Journal de Geneve contrasts that city with Constantinople, whose dilapidated streets and deserted wharves "afford a striking picture of what would happen to the whole Near East if the foreigners who create its wealth were driven out. He depicts the Turks as "stagnant, pauperized, and politically contented and the Egyptians as busy, prosperous and politically discontented."—Living Age.

REVEAL FIGURES ON INCOME TAX

Rockefeller Leads the List With Over $6,000,000 Assessment.

Washington.—Uncle Sam Tuesday threw open for inspection the income taxes paid by some of his largest contributors during 1924 for government expenses.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., paid the largest personal tax thus far reported —$6,277,669.

Henry Ford paid $2,608,806.

Edsel Ford, not far behind his father, paid $[illegible],158,855.

Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, paid $1,882,609.

Government officials paid their share of taxes.

Moving picture stars contributed liberally. Douglas Fairbanks led with $182,190.

Among the lawyers, Max Steuer paid $198,455, and John W. Davis paid $49,533.

New York.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., paid income taxes of $6,227,669 for 1924, it became known Tuesday when the tax lists were made public. This was the largest amount paid by any individual in the downtown Manhattan district, which includes Wall Street. Mr. Rockefeller paid income taxes of $7,435,169 for 1923.

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., paid taxes of $128,420. J. Pierpont Morgan's tax was $574,379; E. H. Gary, $322,680, and Charles Evans Hughes, $1,554.

Los Angeles.—Film fans here expressed surprise when the federal income tax returns of internationally known motion picture celebrities were made public by the collector of internal revenue.

A comedian and a former comedian handed readers of the published tax lists one of the biggest surprises in the district.

Charles Spencer Chaplin, thought by many to have one of the largest incomes in the world, paid a $345 personal income tax, while Roscoe C. Arbuckle, thought by many to be nearly broke, paid $5,116.

Others who trailed Arbuckle included Rudolph Valentino, Wallace Beery, Monte Blue, Lon Chaney, Hobart Bosworth, Reginald Denny, Buster Keaton, Barbara LaMarre, Ramon Navarro, Charles Ray and a score of directors and prominent in filmdom.

Chaplin's showing on the list was strengthened somewhat by the $1,994 tax paid by the Chaplin studio, Inc., but even with that, he was well behind the cross-eyed Ben Turpin, who paid $6,104.

Of the 42 residents of Los Angeles and vicinity who paid more than $40,000 each on their personal income only four hailed from the motion picture colony.

There were Douglas Fairbanks, who paid $182,190; Gloria Swanson, who paid $57,075; Jesse L. Lasky, the producer, whose tax was $48,592, and the director, James Cruze, who was down for $40,353.

Mary Pickford paid $34,387.

PN-9 NO. 1 MISSING AT SEA

Runs Out of Gas Within 300 Miles of Destination.

San Francisco.—The navy seaplane PB-1, which was unable to accompany the two planes on the proposed flight to Honolulu on account of motor replacements, will take off on an attempted non-stop flight to Hawaiian islands Thursday.

The navey vessels stationed at intervals of about 200 miles along the course will hold their positions for the flight of the PB-1.

San Francisco.—Five hours after the last direct word had been received from the PN-9 No. 1, the project flight commander's office still was without definite word as to the fate of the big seaplane and its crew of five men headed by Commander John Rodgers.

The missing plane that is believed to have descended to the surface after messaging that its fuel supply was virtually exhausted and continuation of the San Francisco to Honolulu flight seemed impossible, was last heard from at 4:12 Tuesday about 150 miles from the isle of Maui.

When the plane passed over the destroyer Corry, 600 miles from the golden gate, it was more than an hour behind its schedule. By the time it passed the destroyer Meyer, stationed 800 miles from the California coast, it had reduced this to 50 minutes.

The catastrophe to the PM-9, No. 3 is believed by navy officials in charge of the flight headquarters here to have occurred about 7:30 p. m. Monday, less than five hours after it took off from the upper reaches of San Francisco bay.

New Dry Army in Control.

Washington.—Prohibition's revitalized army took the field Tuesday under the baton of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews, and with orders designating the bootleggers' capture as its main objective. The sudden passing of authority and responsibility from Washington to the divisional administrators, has found shortages of personnel at some points. But the area commanders are picking their staffs and Mr. Andrews is hopeful of finding soon suitable men to fill the gaps.

Varied Soil Possibilities Shown.

Bowman, N. D.—Trees, greenery, flowers, garden products and fruits on the J. E. Phelan premises here, furnish ample demonstration of the varied possibilities of North Dakota soil, visitors declare. Starting on the bare prairie in 1910, Mr. Phelan now has transformed the grounds of about 200 by 300 feet into a profusion of trees, shrubbery, flowers and vines. Growths include 530 feet of honeysuckle hedge, 150 feet of willow hedge, 300 feet of Virginia creeper, and 240 feet of caragana hedge.

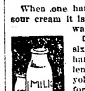
SOUR CREAM DISHES

When one has a cupful or two of sour cream it is nice to know several ways of using it.



Deviled Eggs.—Cook six eggs in the shell until hard. Cut into halves lengthwise, remove the yolks and mash with a fork, adding enough thick sour cream to moisten. Add mustard, salt and a little red pepper. If the cream is too sweet add a dash of lemon juice and put the mixture back into the whites.

Sour Cream Pie.—To one cupful of sour cream add two-thirds of a cupful of raisins chopped, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of vinegar, one tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, the yolks of the two eggs, and a little salt. Bake in one crust and use the whites of the eggs for a meringue.

Hermits.—Take a cupful of thick sour cream, two cupfuls of brown sugar, one cupful of chopped raisins, two-thirds of a cupful of butter, two well-beaten eggs, one teaspoonful each of cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg, with flour to make a dough as stiff as can be stirred. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a well-greased pan, leaving plenty of room to spread. A raisin or nut may be added to each to garnish.

Quick Cream Cookies.—To one cupful of sour cream add one cupful of sugar, one egg, two and one-half cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of soda, with salt and flavoring to taste. Drop by spoonfuls on well-greased pans, pat out and sprinkle with sugar, adding a nut or a raisin. Bake in a quick oven.

Sweet Potato Pie.—Take a cupful of sour cream, one cupful of sugar, one pint of mashed sweet potato, the yolks of four eggs, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half a nutmeg; salt all well mixed together. Bake in one crust and spread with strained honey while hot.

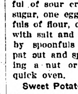
Graham Muffins.—Take one cupful of sour cream, one cupful of graham flour, one teaspoonful of soda and one tablespoonful of sugar, a beaten egg, all well mixed. Bake in buttered gem pans.

Sour Cream Dressing.—Take a cupful of sour cream, add a bit of salt, sugar and cayenne, and mix well. Pour over sliced cucumbers or shredded cabbage.

Cream soups, which are so nourishing, may all be made with skim milk, adding a little more butter to the flour when binding.

Everyday Dishes.

Fried salt pork has gone out of style, except in farm homes, where it is served at its best. A few slices of good fat—and a steak of lean (pork) cut into half-inch slices and fried in its own fat until crisp and brown, then the gravy thickened with flour and well-browned—a cupful or more of milk added and the gravy is ready to serve with the pork and nicely baked potatoes. Such a dinner will be found appetizing and agreeable once in a while on a cool day. A coleslaw will be good to serve with such a dinner. Shred the cabbage and serve with a hot boiled dressing poured over it.



Popovers.—Beat two eggs until very light, add gradually seven-eighths of a cupful of milk, a cupful of flour, a half-teaspoonful of salt; beat all together ten minutes with an egg beater, then add half a teaspoonful of melted butter. If skim milk is used add a teaspoonful of butter.

Cream of Tomato Soup.—Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add three and a half tablespoonfuls of flour and stir until smooth; add a teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of chopped onion, then a pint of canned tomatoes, mixing all. Add soda and onion, using a fourth of a teaspoonful of soda. Reheat, then strain and pour this, after slightly cooling, into a cupful and a half of milk. Reheat and serve hot. Do not let the soup boil.

Coffee Cup.—To a pint of strong coffee, strained through a cloth, add one-third of a teaspoonful of almond flavoring and heat to the boiling point in a double boiler. Add two beaten egg yolks, two tablespoonfuls of cream and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Stir until it thickens to a custard, remove and cool, pour into a serving pitcher with a pint of sweetened ice-cold whipped cream, a quart bottle of charged water and a pint of shaved ice. Serve in tall glasses, place a little shaved ice in each, then some coffee, then twice the quantity of charged water, and on top the whipped cream.

Mintade.—To two cupfuls of water add one bunch of mint cut very fine and the juice of six lemons. Let stand one hour. Strain, chill and add sugar sirup to sweeten, and two quarts of ginger ale. Serve at once with cracked ice.

Diced pineapple added to chopped or shredded cabbage, with a good salad dressing, makes a most delightful combination.

Evidently Had Not Absorbed "Business"

A story is being told of the engagement of an additional chorus man for the musical production, "Rose Marie," at Drury Lane theater.

The male chorus in the show are mainly mounted police and frontiersmen, for the action of "Rose Marie" takes place in northwest Canada.

Out of the two hundred applicants for the position one was selected because of his excellent voice. He was duly brought before the "powers that be," and promptly turned down as looking "nothing like the part."

The producer was keen to have him and made inquiries as to his previous stage experience. Imagine his surprise when the man replied, "I haven't done much acting lately—I've spent my last five years in the Canadian Northwest Mounted police!"—Vancouver Province.

Might Be Construed as "Gentle Hint"

Little Francis Irwin, film prodigy, is very partial to ice cream cones and discovered that the way to get them was to speak up on any and all occasions.

His parents often reproved him and finally, with the threat of a spanking hanging over his head, little Francis lapsed into silence.

A few days later the company went on location. Francis said not a word and when the car hesitated while the driver tried to ascertain which street to take, one of the party asked the child if he were getting sleepy.

"Oh, no," said Francis. "I was just wondering if you were looking for a drug store."

Knew All About Pajamas

Woman's right to dress like a man is not recognized in the Balkans. A Bulgarian girl, well known for her enthusiastic work on behalf of the Y. W. C. A., recently returned from a trip abroad carrying in her suitcase several suits of new pajamas. The customs officials at the Bulgarian frontier said that each suit was liable to a tax of $2. In vain the girl protested that the pajamas were wearing apparel and would be worn by her. The customs officials remained obdurate, saying: "Those are men's clothes and are not for women to wear!"

Where Poultry Profits Begin

Your poultry profits begin right in your HEN HOUSE! If it isn't dry, warm, proof against rats, weasels, skunks and lice, easily cleaned and kept clean, you don't and never can get full profits from your hens. If it is, your hens have nothing to do but lay eggs and more eggs and your broilers have nothing to worry about but turning feed into flesh.

The best investment any man who raises hens can make is to provide them with clean, sunlit, sanitary quarters—that's where profits BEGIN!

RED RIVER TRAIL WAS REALLY THREE TRAILS

Map Published By Historical Society Shows Location of Early Trails to Red River Country

That there were three well-defined and recognized Red River trails used for communication in pioneer times between the settlements on the Red River of the North and those in the vicinity of Fort Snelling is brought out in a map of the trails published in the September number of "Minnesota History," the quarterly magazine of the historical society.

The common use of the term "Red River trail," according to Dr. Grace Lee Nute, author of a brief historical article which accompanies the map, has tended to obscure the fact that there were in reality three trails. The first, known as the "woods trail," followed the Mississippi to Crow Wing, then turned westward to Otter Tail Lake and northward to Pembina; the second, designated on the map as the "east plains trail," left the Mississippi at St. Cloud and joined the woods trail near the Wild Rice River; the third or "west plains trail" ascended the valley of the Minnesota River, crossed the Bois des Sioux, and contineud northward on the west side of Red River. The trails met at Pembina and followed the Red River to Fort Garry.

Sheep Raising Pays Well

That raising sheep is a good way to make money is proved in the instance of Frank C. Johnson of Thorholt.

Last November Mr. Johnson borrowed $200 from the First National bank of Thief River Falls to buy 20 ewes. July 1 this year he sold his wool crop for $63.21 and September 1, he sold 10 buck lambs for $100.80, leaving less than $40 which he owes the bank while he still has the original 20 sheep and 13 ewe lambs, which are worth approximatly $330 in cash value.

The Weather Man has been on a rather damp spree this week. Some nights he went to bed and forgot to close the spigot.

EASING THE BURDEN OF STATE TAXATION

Banker Points Out Benefits of Community Property System in Some States.

Favorable aspects of tax systems are now among the most highly prized assets of our states, it is pointed out in the American Bankers Association Journal in connection with an article on how California, which has never had a state income tax, cuts state and Federal death taxes nearly in half by the "community property" system. L. H. Roseberry, Vice President Security Trust and Savings Bank, Los Angeles, author of the article, says that a recent amendment to the tax law enables future residents of the state to take advantage of it. Reference is made to a former article by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Dewey, voicing the need for death tax reform and citing a hypothetical case involving California inheritance taxes which might have been levied in 1920. Since that time the laws have been changed, Mr. Roseberry declares, so that the figures then given do not correctly represent the present situation. He says:

"Ever since its admission California has had the 'community property' system. Eight other states have a similar system. 'Community property' is property accumulated by married persons during their marriage, except that which is acquired by gift, bequest or inheritance. Approximately 65 per cent of all property in the state is 'community property.' Such property in California enjoys the most favorable position in regard to death taxes, both state and Federal, of any state in the Union (excepting possibly the eight other states having a similar property system) including states boasting of no inheritance tax whatever. The California 'community property' system is recognized for the purpose of levying Federal estate taxes, and only one-half of it is now so taxed, while in Florida the whole estate of a decedent is subject to the Federal levy.

How the Law Works

"California's law expressly provides that upon the death of either husband or wife, testate, only one-half of their net 'community property' shall be subject to inheritance taxes. The same exemption applies upon the death of the husband, intestate, while the whole net 'community property' is totally exempt from all state inheritance taxation upon the death of the wife intestate. The Federal estate tax law now follows precisely the California law in this respect.

"As the result of an amendment made to the California inheritance tax law by the 1925 Legislature, this immunity from state inheritance taxes likewise now extends to 'community property' of non-resident married persons, who hereafter take up their legal residence in the state. This puts 'community property' in a more favorable position regarding death taxes than exists in any other state in the Union, with the possible exception of the other community property states. This extension of the exemption will add 15 per cent to property in the state coming under this definiton, which means that approximately 80 per cent of all property probated in California will enjoy the lightest death taxes in America.

"To illustrate, the following example of a man survived by a wife and two minor children is computed, the estate consisting of 'community property' all left by will to the wife and children. One-half of such property would go under the law to the wife without any death taxes, and the other half only would be subject to both state inheritance and Federal estate taxes.

"As a subject of comparison, take a state which has no inheritance tax, such as Florida. If the comparison were made with the states which impose inheritance taxes but do not have the 'community property' system, the advantage in favor of California would even be more striking.

	Total Tax
Estate of $100,000
California	None
Non-inheritance-tax state	$500
Advantage in favor of California	500
Estate of $200,000
California	905
Non-inheritance-tax state	3,000
Advantage in favor of California	2,095
Estate of $400,000
California	5,779
Non-inheritance-tax state	13,000
Advantage in favor of California	7,220
Estate of $10,000,000
California	1,249,155
Non-inheritance-tax state	2,542,500
Advantage in favor of California	1,294,345

"If the two children were adults, the California tax would be increased only $230 in each case.

Another New Amendment

"Another feature of the recent amendment to the California inheritance tax law is a section fixing the inheritance taxes on stock in California corporations owned by non-residents at a flat sum of 2 per cent on their actual value. When considered in conjunction with the ruling that no inheritance taxes can be levied upon any stock in foreign corporations, or upon bank accounts, bonds, notes, debentures, or similar securities belonging to a non-resident but located in the state at the time of such non-resident's decease, it will be observed that at present the inheritance tax situation in California is most favorable, both to non-residents who have property in this state and to married people who live here or who may subsequently move here from elsewhere."

DEATH TAXES AS BUSINESS KILLERS

Assistant Treasury Secretary Tells Fable of Fate of Two Successful Men.

Men cannot be expected to continue to work, day after day, increasing the productiveness of this country and benefiting others, if they know that on death the major portion of their earnings will be dissipated in Federal estate and state inheritance taxes, declares Charles S. Dewey, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in the American Bankers Association Journal. He says:

"I am going to relate a fable in terms of modern business conditions. John Henry and Walter Brown were aggressive, hard-working men, and each had started business for himself.

"At the time this history opens, John Henry had just died, leaving his entire estate to his son, John Henry, Jr., and had appointed his old friend, Walter Brown, as executor. Prior to his death John Henry had moved to California, leaving his business in the hands of his son under whom it had continued to make excellent headway. The father had been doing a little speculating in oil. This venture had not proved successful and he was indebted in the sum of $500,000.

"Executor Walter Brown, on examination of the estate, found the following situation:

Capital stock of Henry & Co., Inc., a Michigan Corpn.	$5,000,000
Personal debts due banks	500,000

"Walter Brown soon made the unpleasant discovery that in addition to the personal indebtedness of $500,000, and administration expenses of $250,000, the following death duties must be paid:

Federal estate tax	$497,500
California inheritance tax	585,700
Michigan inheritance tax	122,000
Total	$1,205,200

"Added to the personal debt and administration expenses, this made a grand total liability of $1,955,200. The year was 1920. Money was tight. Other manufacturing companies in the same line which might have been interested in a purchase had no money for extensions nor were the banks in a position to handle a loan of this type. Here was a most successful business, built up from small beginnings by one man and carried on to further successes by his son, about to be placed under the hammer.

"Is there any justice in taxation that may force a man and his family to lose the fruits of his entire life's labor, and permit others to benefit? As a last resort, Henry, Jr., was forced into a bond issue. A loan, to settle the debts, administration expenses and death duties, of $2,250,000 was negotiated, upon the following basis:

"The capital stock of the company was left at $5,000,000 represented by 50,000 shares. First mortgage 8 per cent bonds were offered the public with a bonus of two shares of stock with each $1,000 bond. The banker, to protect his bond customers, kept 30,000 shares to assure control of management, and John Henry, Jr., received the balance of 15,500 shares. John now has a good job as general manager of his father's old company, but they do not pay him very much.

"Now we must return to Walter Brown, executor of John Henry, Sr. Walter had always kept close to his own manufacturing business. The more he considered his own situation, the more closely it seemed to him to resemble that of his old friend.

"He therefore called a lawyer and made a complete schedule of his assets, requesting that an estimate of administration expenses and death duties be made. The schedule of assets was as follows:

Capital stock, Walter Brown Co., Mich. Corp.	$4,000,000
California real estate	1,000,000
Tax-exempt bonds, Minn., Mont. and Colo.	500,000
Total	$5,500,000

"Within a few days Mr. Brown's lawyer made the following report:

Debts and admin. expenses		$500,000
Fed. estate tax	$710,625
Cal. inheritance tax	443,134
Mich. inheritance tax	260,409
Minn. inheritance tax	4,289
Mont. inheritance tax	4,486
Colo. inheritance tax	2,760
Total death duties		1,425,703
Total expenses		$1,925,703

"On this basis the estate suffered a reduction from $5,500,000 to approximately $3,574,000, thus wiping out all assets except the corporate stock and placing a heavy loan on that. Mr. Brown had one son and, as he thought of John Henry, Jr., toiling away with little hope of opportunity he determined that he would not subject his own son to the same tribulations.

"Boom times having come, there was no difficulty obtaining a purchaser for Walter Brown & Co., and the California real estate was sold at a good price. The whole was invested in tax-exempt bonds which yielded a very safe return of about 4½ per cent. Walter Brown then moved his legal residence to the more friendly climate of Florida, where state inheritance and income taxes are forbidden.

"The country suffers by the loss of effort which Walter Brown might have continued to expend under a more intelligent system of taxation. We must reform the tax system in such a way that business and industry shall not be hampered. We must make sure that American citizens shall not be deprived of the incentive to work and accumulate and that this country shall not cease to be a land of opportunity. A tax system which discourages initiative cannot be the right system for America."

Charles Babcock Sails To South America

Marshall county officials and citizens who would confer with Charles M. Babcock, state highway commissioner, in person about trunk route matters must delay their interviews because the highway executive left last week for South America to take part in the Pan-American Road Congress in Buenos Aires and will not return for several weeks.

Commissioner Babcock was honored by President Coolidge as one of seven United States representatives to the Latin-American conference after congress had authorized the appointments and appropriated funds for the expenses of delegates. Recognition of the Minnesota highway official is attributed by his friends to the prominent part he has taken in national good roads councils for a number of years and to the showing made in this state under the new highway program Mr. Babcock is administrating.

Mr. Babcock will present before the road congress the principal address on the subject of Highway Financing and will lead discussions of other subjects. The United States party sailed last week from New York.

LIVESTOCK TOURS AND [illegible]ATION SALE OCT. 7

The [illegible] of September 14 Was Postponed: Combination Tour And Sale On October 7

October 7 is the date of the six Red River Valley livestock tours and donation sale combined, according to C. L. Spaulding, Warren, and F. O. Green, of Stephen, directors of the Red River Valley Livestock association. The sale will be held at Crookston. There will be no tours on September 14 as previously announced as all the officers and livestock breeders favored the October date and to have both events at one time.

More than 60 animals have already been listed for the donation sale, according to C. G. Selvig, president of the association. Committees will be appointed to secure the number necessary to pay off the present mortgage indebtedness of $12,000 on the pavilion property at Crookston to permit expansion of the Red River Valley Winter Shows. Much interest is being shown in this event.

Marshall county's committee to promote these tours and sale includes besides Mr. Spaulding and Mr. Green, J. I. Sinclair, Stephen, Joe Berg, Warren, New Solum, Argyle, J. C. Nordlen, Middle River and Carl Hjelle, Newfolden.

BOOSTERS HAD GOOD MEETING

Worked Out Plans For Community Days

The Commercial Club met in the schoolhouse Saturday night and elected new officers and initiated quite a number of new members. P. L. Anderson was re-elected president; A. L. Carlson was elected vice-president; Geo. Fricker, secretary; and Clarence Erickson, treasurer.

The responsibility of working out a successful program for the Market and Community Days to be held in Holt October 2 and 3 was wholly taken over by the club. Ways and means of making these days a success were proposed and discussed. The different committes chosen were: Progr[illegible] refreshment, Dance, and [illegible] committees. If Advertising Ceases

A generation ago "St. Jacob's Oil" was one of the most widely advertised products in America. It was a patent medicine enjoying enormous sales. When Chas. Vogeler, the head of this business, died, an "expert" went over the balance sheets and saw the enormous advertising appropriation.

This expert trimmed the advertising expenditure to little or nothing, reasoning that St. Jacob's Oil was so well-known that it was unnecessary to spend money any longer to advertise it. Orders dwindled as advertising contracts ran out; business departed never to return, and it is safe to speculate that hardly one in fifty who reads this article remembers or ever heard of St. Jacob's Oil, one of the best known products on the continent 35 years ago.....

The illustration shows the wreckage of Smith's plane and a portrait of Captain Heptig.

ARMAGEDDON NAME TO CONJURE WITH

Few Spots Richer in Historic Associations.

In this day of fascinating exploits in historic places there is scarcely a more interesting undertaking, or one with richer promises of results, than the surveys and excavations which are about to be made at Armageddon. For centuries that resounding name has been of both practical and mystical significance, for its historic associations and for its apocalyptic reference, while its dramatic injection 13 years ago into our political vocabulary invested it with vital interest to multitudes to whom it had thitherto been little more than half-forgotten fiction.

"The Mountain of Megiddo" was a city west of the Jordan which was rebuilt by King Solomon, probably after its destruction by the armies of one of the pharaohs, and it is entirely possible that exploration of the site will disclose ruins and records of first-rate importance. But even greater interest attaches to the adjacent plain of Esdraelon, to which indeed the name of Armageddon has often been applied, and which is one of the most famous battlegrounds of the world. It was there that Barak overthrew and destroyed Sisera and his army, and that Gideon vanquished the Midianites. It was also there that Saul was finally defeated and slain by the Philistines, and that Josiah met a like fate at the hand of Pharaoh Necho of Egypt. On the height overlooking it at the west Elijah fought with the prophets of Baal the great "Battle of the Gods," and across it Jehu drove for the conquest of Jezreel and the kingdom of Israel. There occurred one of the greatest conflicts of the Crusades, and there the armies of Napoleon fought. And finally, in the present day, it was the scene of General Allenby's overwhelming victory over the Turks, which ended their dominion in Palestine.

The site of the city and its immediate environs has been known by many names. Herodotus called it Magdolon. The Egyptians called a place in that vicinity Taanach, in modern times known as Taannuk. The ancient Legeon, since called Lejjun, has been thought to be identical with Megiddo itself, and it has been called by the Arabs Ras el-Kishon, meaning head of the brook Kishon; and it has long been known to possess well-preserved remains of buildings of great size and magnificence. The entire region, indeed, is invested with history and tradition surpassed by few spots in the world, and it is cause for rejoicing that American scientific explorers are at last to reveal the treasures of ancient information which probably lie thick beneath its soil.

Philippine Paternalism

Recently there came to Manila, on a boat bringing shell from Bohol, an unusually intelligent youth with some high school education. The company buying the shell, wished to employ him, with a view to raising him eventually to an important position. He could not accept the offer, however, "until I return to Bohol and get the consent of my amo (master), so that he will not flog me. I did not tell him I would stay in Manila." In Visayan native culture, expressed in such customary law, deliberate offense to one in authority over you is very grave. It is under such rigid mandate that the coastal barter is safely carried on; the same thing perpetuates the good character of Filipino sailors in the ocean trade.

Grecian Boy Scouts

The organization of the boy scout movement as an educational force among the children of 2,500 new refugee villages throughout Greece has been approved by the ministry of education. Initial plans call for the recruiting of 25,000 scouts.

An appropriation of 10,000 drachmans by the Near East relief will be used to provide uniforms and equipment for a model troop in one of the Athens refugee camps, and it is expected that the American gift will be followed by many similar donations from wealthy Greeks and Armenians. The model troop will consist of picked Armenian boys under fourteen years of age. It will travel to various parts of Greece as a recruiting force.

Waterproofing Golf Clubs

A new process for treating wooden golf clubs makes them waterproof and extremely hard, according to the Popular Science Monthly. Heads of seasoned persimmon wood are subjected to a vacuum that extracts every particle of air and moisture from the wood, which then is impregnated with the newly discovered chemical. The club heads then are dried and hardened. Clubs treated in this manner are said to have greater driving power than other wooden clubs and not to shrink or expand with varying atmospheric conditions.

Electricity and Growth

Tests with 1,000-watt electric lamps at the Cambridge (Mass.) Electric Light company have shown astonishing results in the growth of grass by artificial light, says the Popular Science Monthly. Dr. Andreas F. Christian of Boston claims that bald heads may be covered, beards coaxed on clean-shaven faces, and bobbed hair grown long in a short time, by use of strong artificial light. The only requisite in the cases of both lawns and heads, he says, is that the germ of life must exist.

Lizard Skins in Demand

Lizard farming in England has been greatly stimulated within the last few months since the skins for women's shoes have become fashionable. Lizard shoes for street wear have become popular in London this summer and lizard slippers for evening wear have been the fad for some weeks. Dealers say lizard skin shoes are here to stay, as the material is serviceable and comfortable and not nearly so expensive as is usual when a new idea is introduced. Lizard skin shoes retail in London at from $15 up.

Two Letters

The first written twenty years ago, the second recently by Mrs. J. H. Bourland, Frankston, Texas.

June 2, 1904, she writes:—

"For twenty-three years I was a constant sufferer from chronic catarrh. I had a severe misery and burning in the top of my head, a continual dropping of mucous into my throat causing frequent expectoration. My entire system became involved and I grew worse. It seemed as if I could not recover from a constant cough and frequent attacks of bilious colic. My bowels were affected, causing alarming hemorrhages. I tried many remedies and finally took Pe-ru-na. In three days I was relieved of my bowel trouble and entirely cured by five bottles. I most cheerfully recommend Pe-ru-na."

June 30, 1924, Mrs. Bourland writes again:—

"I will soon be seventy-nine years old and enjoy god health for one of my age. I still recommend Pe-ru-na and take it myself when necessary."

For more than half a century Pe-ru-na has a proud record of good done. Men and women the world over stand ready to testify to its value in the treatment of all catarrhal disorders.

Send 4 cents postage to the PE-RU-NA COMPANY, Columbus, Ohio, for book on catarrh.

Little John had gone to a rural community with his mother and he had been taken from house to house on the adjoining ranches of his relatives. At every home he had been well fed, both at meal time and in between times.

The last place they called was at his grandmother's and he had no sooner arrived than his grandmother started for the cupboard.

"Keep your seat, grandma," said John sorrowfully, "I has been eated everywhere and even a little boy has got to quit some time."

Permanent roads are a good investment —not an expense

How Much Are Poor Roads Costing You?

5,000,000 of America's 18,000,000 motor vehicles are recognized as an economic necessity on the farm.

Is your car giving the full efficiency of which it is capable—and at the lowest cost per mile possible?

Not if you are jolting over bumps and ruts. Not if you get stuck in the mud.

In addition to the time you thus lose along the way, you also pay from one to four cents a mile more in gasoline, tire and repair bills than you would pay on permanently paved highways.

Think, too, how many so-called improved roads have gone to pieces within the past few years, thereby piling up huge maintenance and rebuilding costs.

Contrast all this with the record of Concrete Roads—the roads that have repair built out and maintenance built in. Firm, rigid and unyielding, free of bumps, ruts, holes, mud and dust, they are, in every way, the most economical roads.

Tell your highway officials you want more Concrete Roads. Such an investment will pay you big dividends year after year.

14 KILLED IN CRASH OF SHENANDOAH

Airship Strikes Air Squall While Traveling 3,000 Feet Up—Keel Breaks in 2 Pieces.

Caldwell, Ohio—Air rushing into holes torn in Shenandoah by the twisting off of the radio and control cabins caused the buckling of the ship and its breaking up into two major parts, in the opinion of the naval board of inquiry that visited the wreckage of the ship's prow. The board also reported that the wreckage had been stripped of nearly every movable object by souvenir hunters.

Caldwell, Ohio—The giant dirigible Shenandoah went down in three pieces here and killed its commander, Lieutenant Commander Zachary Lansdowne, and at least 13 of the officers and men, making up the crew.

The airship struck a line squall—a variety of storm most feared by airmen—near this Noble county village, while traveling at an altitude of 3,000 feet enroute from Lakehurst, N. J., to the Minnesota State Fair.

There was no explosion. The big ship simply met winds of a strength which it was unable to combat.

Most of Dead in Cabin.

After encountering the storm at the high altitude, the ship headed heavenwards to an altitude of approximately 5,000 feet, when it suddenly came down again and broke in three pieces. One piece, 450 feet or more in length, fell in a field about one and a half miles from Ava. The control compartment in which the commander and navigating crew were riding, fell 50 feet away and the third section, 150 feet long, drifted through the air like a free balloon for 12 miles, landing near Sharon, Noble county.

Most of the dead were found in the tangled wreckage of the control cabin where a full crew was on duty attempting to ride out the buffeting winds which resulted in the complete destruction of the giant of the air.

Official Investigation Started.

The reason for the collapse of the dirigible Shenandoah, which carried 14 of its crew to their deaths, will be determined by a board of inquest and inquiry which was appointed in Washington. The board will make its investigation under the direction of Commander Jacob H. Klein, executive officer at Lakehurst and commander of the Los Angeles, sister ship of the Shenandoah.

The two brains will be studied to prove or refute the theory, in which Mrs. Gardiner was interested during her lifetime, that woman's mental capacity is potentially equal to man's.

Among those affected are the Tsouls, who are considered the fiercest warriors in Morocco. Trade Parley to Be Reopened.

Paris—France-German trade treat negotiations will be resumed about September 15, when Dr. Trendelenberg, chief German negotiator, will return to Paris. He will discuss the points with M. Chaumet.

Boat Strike Shows Little Progress.

London—The channel boat strike which started at southampton has made little progress. Two of four boats operated by the Southern railway, which were abected, sailed with full crews.

Bomb Traps 23 Tenants.

New York—A time bomb exploded in the hallway of a four-story dwelling in Brooklyn, throwing the neighborhood into a panic. Although nobody was seriously injured, more than a score were treated afterwards for shock and hysteria. Police were trying to place the explosion to labor troubles. The bomb blew a hole eight feet square in the hallway, trapping 23 tenants until police arrived and led them to safety. The vestibule of the house collapsed. Every window in the house was shattered.

FRANCE NAMES DEBT MISSION

Caillaux and Conferees Will Sail for Washington September 16.

Paris—Eight members of parliament and two bankers were named by the cabinet to accompany M. Caillaux, the finance minister, to Washington to seek a settlement of France's war debt to the United States. The party will sail on the steamer Paris, September 16.

The preponderance of politics over finance in the mission is understood to be due to the desire of the government so as to associate representative groups with the debt settlement as to facilitate ratification.

This group is generally regarded as fully adequate to decide all questions which may arise at the Washington negotiations.

Earth Quake Shakes Indiana, Kentucky and Illinois Towns

Evansville, Ind.—Evansville was shaken by an earthquake. It was the second quake felt here within a few months. No damage was reported. No official record of the quake was made at the weather bureau. Observer Albrand said he had unofficial information that the quake was general in southern Indiana and Illinois and in western Kentucky and that from reports he had received it probably centered in that territory. Earthquake shocks were reported from several places in Kentucky. At Louisville the tremor was slight. Owensboro reported that a loud rumbling preceded a distinct shock.

Ford Motor Co. Lists Assets of $644,624,468; Big Increase

Lansing, Mich.—Assets of $644,624,468 were shown by the Ford Motor Co. in its annual report to the state corporation division, it was announced. This is an increase of $170,000,000 over last year. The company paid the maximum corporation fee of $50,000. Assets of subsidiary companies, it was estimated, would raise the total to $1,000,000,000.

The statement which was of December 31, 1924, listed cash on hand, patent rights, formulas, good will and value of credit at $265,723,525; stocks and bonds, $55,070,305; supplies, $95,254,936; prepaid expenses, $1,455,082; fixed assets, less depreciation and amortization, $227,126,617.

Shipping Board Member Defies Coolidge Ouster

Washington—The relation between the fleet corporation and the shipping board has again been thrown into sharp relief through the refusal of Bert E. Haney, Democrat, of Oregon, to resign as a commissioner of the board at the request of President Coolidge.

Asked to resign because of his efforts to remove President Palmer of the fleet corporation, Mr. Haney has refused to accede on any such grounds.

The President made it clear at Swampscott that, as far as he was concerned, Mr. Palmer and not Chairman O'Connor, of the shipping board, was running the fleet corporation.

Submarine Crew Found Dead.

Rome—The Italian submarine Sebastian Veneiro was reported to have been located in 90 meters of water off Cape Passero. The navy department has notified the families of the Veneiro's crew of their deaths.

The submarine was lost during the recent navy sham war and floating oil off Cape Passero indicated that the spot was its burial ground.

Italian Debt Mission Comnig.

Rome—Italy's mission for the funding of the Italian debt to the United States will sail for the United States next month. This was decided upon by Premier Mussolini after a conference with Count Volpi, minister of finance, and Giacomo de Martino, Italian ambassador to the United States. Signor Buti, first secretary of legation, will accompany the mission as secretary general. A large staff of fiscal experts and financiers will go along.

Spanish Troop Transport Sunk.

Fez, French Morocco—It is reported here that the Spanish transport Espano No. 5, carrying troops from Penon de Valez to Alhucemas, both in Spanish Morocco, has been sunk. The Espana No. 5, a steamer of 2,156 tons, built at Luebrok in 1906 was requisitioned by the Spanish government. The officer commanding the Spanish battleship Alfonso XIII, was wounded while the battleship was cruising in the Bay of Alhucemas.

Germany's Wheat Crop Shows Gain.

Rome—Germany's 1925 wheat crop amounts to 2,903,000 metric tons, an increase of 20 per cent over last year's crop, the German government has reported to the International Institute of Agriculture. The German rye crop this year is 7,663,000 metric tons, an increase of 34 per cent; barley, 2,431,000 metric tons, an increase of 1 per cent; oats, 5,489,000 metric tons, a decrease of 3 per cent. The reduction of the acreage planted in rye and wheat this year is considered large.

Riffs Flee Before Tanks.

Fez, Morocco—Several French flying columns, supplied with tanks, have carried out operations on a large scale with the object of cleaning up the northwestern regions of the battle area, where the Riffian tribesmen have been filtering through in large numbers recently and making raids on isolated villages and farms. The enemy was attacked in the Asejer range, strongly entrenched. Completely surprised by the tanks, the Riffians abandoned the position and fled in disorder, leaving 60 dead.

Evidently They Were Coming in Quantities

The Randall Babbitts, who live over near Hollenbeck park are very proud of their twins, so one day, when Mrs. Babbitt brought one out and placed it in the baby carriage, she was not at all displeased when a little boy, a stranger in the neighborhood, came up and said:

"Oh, what a nice 'ittle boy!"

"Thank you," said the fond mother. "Would you mind watching him till I come back?"

Presently she returned with the other twin and the little boy's eyes doubled in size as he exclaimed:

"My goodness! Wherever is you detting all those babies!"—Los Angeles Times.

Maine Hen Lore

A contributor to a Cleveland newspaper, telling of a hen running through heavy traffic with a bright ribbon dangling from her tail feathers, adds: "Evidently she had been struck before." Tut! tut! Is it possible that the writer has never heard of that time-honored method of "breaking up" a setting hen by attaching a bit of red cloth to her tail—red flannel preferably? Just why flannel has never been satisfactorily explained, but flannel has always been demanded by the good folk who believe in this plan, and happy was the boy who was called upon to affix the streamer and then watch the crazy antics of its unwilling wearer.—Portland Press Herald.

The Cuticura Toilet Trio.

Having cleared your skin keep it clear by making Cuticura your everyday toilet preparations. The Soap to cleanse and purify, the Ointment to soothe and heal, the Talcum to powder and perfume. No toilet table is complete without them.—Advertisement.

Howe Condemns Himself

What a lot of time I waste in advising others! And how I neglect myself! You may say you are sufficiently selfish; that you do not neglect yourself.

How about that bad stomach? How about the medicine you take? Both indicate the grossest neglect of yourself. How about the debt you owe, which keeps you worrying at night, when you should be asleep and recovering your energy? That debt probably represents neglect of yourself. How about that foolish action that causes you humiliation? You are no better than I am—and I am a fool.—Ed Howe's Monthly.

Woman's Many Honors

Mrs. Arthur Strong, who recently retired from the post of assistant director of the British school in Rome, is said to possess honorary degrees from more universities and honors from more learned societies than any other woman in the world. Mrs. Strong has a worldwide reputation as an authority on art, ancient and modern.

WEAK, RUN-DOWN NERVOUS, DIZZY

Mrs. Lee Suffered From All These Troubles, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well

Terre Haute, Indiana.—"I was weak and run-down and in such a nervous condition that I could hardly do my work. I was tired all the time and dizzy, had no appetite and could not sleep. I tried different medicines for a year but they did not help me. Then my husband saw the ad. for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and had me take it. I regained my strength and never felt better in my life. It completely restored me to health. I had practically no suffering when my baby boy was born and he is very strong and healthy. I know that the Vegetable Compound is the best medicine a woman can take before and after childbirth for health and strength. I would be willing to answer letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Wm. J. Lee, Route E, Box 648, Terre Haute, Indiana.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for all these troubles.

When Poultry Profits Begin

Your poultry profits begin right in your HEN HOUSE! If it isn't dry, warm, proof against rats, weasels, skunks and lice, easily cleaned and kept clean, you don't and never can get full profits from your hens. If it is, your hens have nothing to do but lay eggs and more eggs and your hustlers have nothing to worry about but turning feed into eggs.

The best investment any man who raises hens can make is to provide them with clean, sunlit, sanitary quarters—that's where profits BEGIN!

THE BRIGHT SIDE

Too Much To Expect

"Look here," he said, "I'm going to leave. I've never seen such dirty towels in my life, and can never find any soap."

Awaiting Orders

The fancy prices charged in some New York stores daze the out-of-town visitor.

"Gimme two of these," he said to the clerk, holding out a five-dollar bill. "How much are they?"

The clerk thot he knew a hick when he saw one.

"Two dollars apiece," he said, quickly producing the dollar change.

"Just keep the dollar, son, and we'll be square," said the stranger. "I stepped on a grape coming in."—Ex.

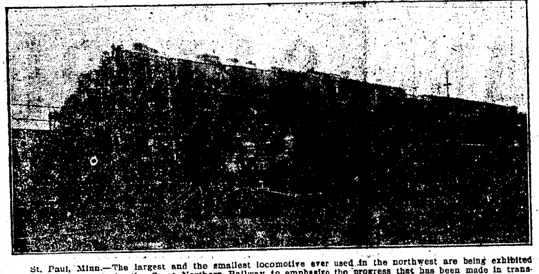
So rapidly is the poultry industry expanding that within a short time over production may cut the farmer's poultry dollar unless production can be maintained at a lower cost, according to the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

A recent survey shows that more than 5,000,000 farms in this country produce poultry and eggs. It is estimated that there were 491,000,000 chickens on farms before the hatching season started. This is an increase of over 50,000,000, or nearly 12 per cent over figures of a year ago and 121,000,000, or over 32 per cent increase since January 1, 1920.

Production of eggs increased 33.3 per cent between 1920 and 1923 while the population increased only 5.8 per cent. In the past five years the estimates of egg production have shown a close correlation with the estimated number of chickens on hand at the beginning of the year, the ratio being 4.6 dozens per fowl. If the same ratio holds good, egg production in 1924 will gain 10 to 12 per cent over 1923 when it showed a gain of 33 per cent over four years ago.

Profitable poultry production at the present stage of expansion is dependent upon the present high level of demand. Up to date consumption has kept pace with production. In 1923 enough eggs were produced to furnish 20 dozen for every man, woman and child in the United States. This would mean 100 dozen for the average family of five.

Leviathan Locomotive of Today and Toy-Like Engine of "Yesterday" Mark Epoch in Railway History



St. Paul, Minn.—The largest and the smallest locomotive ever used in the northwest are being exhibited to throngs of people by the Great Northern Railway to emphasize the progress that has been made in transportation during half a century.

The giant oil burning locomotive and the 152,000-lb. capacity box car shown in the picture are the last word in modern railway development. For instance, in this box car, 2,750 bushels of wheat are transported at one loading, an amount equal to the production of a 137½-acre farm yielding 20 bushels to the acre. Thus with a string of 100 of these big type box cars one of these locomotives will haul to market in one trip enough wheat to make the "daily bread" for a large city.

When James J. Hill built the old St. Paul & Pacific Ry. which was the nucleus of the present day transcontinental Great Northern Railway, no such massive railway rolling stock was even dreamed of.

In contrast with this latest million-ton-haul capacity locomotive and spacious box car the tiny Wm. Crooks locomotive and toy-like box car look like the playthings of children. Yet 50 years ago when they were put into operation there was a brass-band celebration marking a great stride in the railway history of the Northwest.

The exhibition of the big and little locomotives with "specimen" box cars of their "respective days" attached were viewed by 100,000 people during the two days they were on show in the terminal stations of the Twin Cities. The modern locomotive and a string of the new "wheat elevators on wheels" will go into service immediately. In all, four of these mammoth locomotives will be used on the mountain divisions of the Great Northern Railway. Meanwhile the Wm. Crooks goes back into the shops where it is tenderly cared for daily by mechanics who keep it in running order for special occasions when it is brought forth to tell its own story of early day railroading when wood was the fuel instead of coal and crude oil.

Lilacs Bloom At Stephen

Stephen, Minn., Sept. 12.—What is considered to be quite a phenomenon of nature occurred here during the past week when the lilacs at the C. F. Johnson residence burst into bloom.

On account of backward conditions in the spring the bushes had no blossoms, and Mother Nature is apparently trying to make up for her neglect, the proprietor thinks.—Grand Forks Herald.

Vacancy To Be Filled In Annapolis Naval Academy

Hawley, Minn., Sept. 1.—There will be a vacancy at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis to be filled by appointment from the Ninth Congressional District of Minnesota for the year 1926.

Congressman Wefald intends to follow the policy adopted by him in naming candidates for West Point last year to select the principal candidate and the three alternates by a selective competition that is open to every boy in the district who may wish to try out. The candidates must be not less than sixteen nor more than twenty years old on April 1. 1926.

A special preliminary examination will be held under the Civil Service Commission to test the educational qualifications of the applicants, and the candidates to be selected for principal and alternates will be chosen on the basis of this examination and physical fitness.

Full and complete information will be given by Congressman Knud Wefald, who can be addressed either at his home; Hawley, Minn., or Washington, D. C.

WHY BANKS?

LESSON VIII

By J. H. PUELICHER, Chairman,
Committee on Public Education, American Bankers Association.

Why open a savings account in a savings bank?

J. H. Puelicher

SAVINGS=money set aside by keeping expenditures below income which is essential to individual as well as to business success.

ACCOUNT=accurate record, as applied to savings in a bank, of deposits and withdrawals, showing also earnings from interest; savings banks will open an account with one dollar—the amount most depositors have started with.

SAVINGS BANK=a safe place to deposit savings where they will earn interest; the bank gives the depositor a pass-book, that is, an account book showing deposits, interest credited, withdrawals and balance. Many banks not called savings banks now conduct savings departments.

A savings account in a bank indicates and encourages thrift which is an essential aid to success. Unlike money hoarded, money in the bank is safe from loss by fire or thieves, earns interest and is put to use by the banks in developing the community.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run-down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a Combined Treatment, both local and internal, and has been successful in the treatment of Catarrh for over forty years. Sold by all druggists.

ON GUARD AGAINST FARM CROOKS

With every constructive movement for the improvement of agriculture, one is likely to find men who will attempt to capitalize it for their own personal benefit. This may take the form of shipping in poor and unprofitable livestock to palm off on unsuspecting farmers, or it may sometimes be selling fair to good livestock at exorbitant prices under promise of taking back some of the offspring at high figures.

There are several instances where the college of agriculture through its county agent system has co-operated in heading off the introduction of undesirable or extravagantly priced livestock. In other instances the state bankers association, through its agricultural committee or the secretary's office, has sent warnings to its member banks relative to individuals or firms operating on an unsound basis. It is as important to head off undesirable and unprofitable investments as it is to encourage constructive and porfitable ones.—Banker-Farmer.

BANKERS HELP

The banks of Bedford county, Tennessee, are furnishing pure bred eggs to all who will agree to return one pullet for each fifteen eggs in the fall.

The Missouri Bankers Association issued the first number of the "Agricultural Information Service Quarterly" in April. This publication deals with timely agricultural subjects of interest to bankers. A discussion of the various projects proposed as a basis for the program of banker-farmer co-operation in Missouri appears in the first issue.

Clearing houses in Georgia have approved a proposal for the expenditure of $30,000 annually for the next three years for the purpose of carrying out a program of farm development and crop diversification in Georgia. The proposal was initiated by the Georgia Bankers Association. The plan calls for the creation of a state-wide development committee of thirty members which will function under the direction of the Agricultural Committee of the Georgia Bankers Association.

Nebraska bankers are going to school. The College of Agriculture is having a short course in agriculture for bankers. Registration is in charge of the Nebraska Bankers Association. The predominant thought is, "Every bank in Nebraska should be represented." Nine out of ten banks in one county have signed attendance cards. Scores of the cards have been received by Dan V. Stephens, chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the Bankers Association, and he has received over a hundred letters on the short course.

THE DULL GRAY THREEDECKERS

By DORA MOLLAN

(©, 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

MARY closed the outside door behind her, the door which the Deans shared with two other families. It was the ugly gray door of an ugly gray house. As Mary walked down the steep grade of the sidewalk she passed, at regular intervals, other houses as like it as peas in a pod. They cluttered the hill like a litter of huge dingy packing-cases. One hundred, the specifications had called for, three stories high and housing six families each. There were no trees—roots damage walks; no vines—vines "rot wood." Some one had named the hill "Threedeckerdom," and the name stuck. It was the housing development of the Bates Loom works where Mary's father worked—and Mary hated it.

Mary had made plans to pull herself free from this environment, into which she had been born, before her roots took firm hold; and, as the appointed day drew near she found her courage weakening. After all, it meant leaving her father and mother—and Eddie. It was to strengthen her resolution that Mary had set out on that Saturday afternoon's walk.

At the foot of the hill lay a yet more densely populated neighborhood, a section of ancient, dirty houses bulging with children. Here Mary felt the impulse to hug still closer to her slender self the scanty folds of her blue frock.

Now straight ahead loomed a steep hill, crowned with a stately tower of stone modeled after a medieval castle to honor the memory of a famous man. Mary found the beginning of a dirt path at the foot of the hill and followed its winding rise to the top. Before her stood the tower; below her lay the city.

Gaining the battlemented observation platform, whence a spiral stairway led to the tip-top of the tower, Mary paused for a moment's rest. With her back to the city she looked first at the distant mountains. Beyond them, where the sun was already slipping, lay the city where she would find work and begin the struggle for the things she craved.

A sound from below intruded on Mary's thoughts. Footsteps on the stone stairway! Should she hurry to the top, or start down? The October twilight would be short. Yet, if she should start down now she must pass him—for Mary felt sure it was a man.

The footsteps sounded on the last flight of steps now; still Mary stood irresolute.

"Eddie Morrissey!" Relief made Mary's cry one of joyful welcome—and yet, ten minutes before she would have desired anything but his coming.

"Mary! I thought I would find you here! Why is it, Mary? Some force seems to draw me straight to you!" Eddie was a slightly built boy with dreamy brown eyes. He spoke the name, "Mary," as though it were the word he loved best.

"Eddie, don't—please! I want to go to the top just for a few minutes, Eddie, alone. Then we will walk home together."

"That stairway is narrow and steep, Mary; better let me go with you," Eddie persisted. So together they climbed to the very top of the tower. As Mary looked down she felt that dizziness which comes of a great height; felt that horrible desire to fling herself out into space; to fall down—down— She closed her eyes. Her body swayed. Then came Eddie's steadying hand on her arm and again she was glad he had come.

Mary opened her eyes to the glory of the setting sun. Now was the time to carry out her purpose in coming to the tower. She must turn from that miracle of color in the western sky to the clutter of dull gray threedeckers. On the top of this tower hate of their ugliness had first been born in her; here she would clinch her resolution to leave them forever.

But Eddie was a disturbing factor! Emboldened, he was slipping an arm around her waist. He was speaking, and the word "love" occurred often. She couldn't find it in her heart to rebuke him, for surely his years of devotion deserved one memory. It dimmed the clearness of her vision. Mary felt herself drifting into a great peace and content there, on the top of the world, alone with Eddie. It was an anesthesia from which she must arouse herself, for marrying Eddie would mean staying on the desecrated hill of drab tenement houses. . . . .

So Mary turned her eyes toward the east and saw—a reflection of the sunset, all pastel grays and pinks and blues! She saw a thin, nebulous mist enshrouding the hill—and gasped at the sheer beauty of it all. For behind that translucent curtain lay, not a huddle of dingy domiciles, but a cluster of fairy castles of smoked pearl, opalescent and mysterious in their shadowy outline!

Eddie's arm tightened around Mary's waist and somehow Mary's head found the hollow in Eddie's shoulder that had been made for it. And right there, somehow, Mary forgot all about going away. Eddie was saying something about not working in the mill all his life; and something about some day building a little house with a green roof for Mary.

But Mary wasn't really listening—there were already fairy castles, over there, in Threedeckerdom.

Does Sheep Raising Pay?

This is the story of Olaf Halvorson, who purchased 14 head of sheep from the Agricultural Credit Corporation last fall.

Mr. Halvorson paid $10 per head for these sheep with an investment of $140.00

From this investment he sold wool to the amount of $48.96. He sold nine lambs for $94.80. These added make a total of $142.76.

This left him a profit of $2.76 on his original investment and besides this he still has thirteen of the original sheep and also six ewe lambs.

This bank believes that the raising of sheep in this community does pay and is very anxious to help the cause along.

Should you have sheep to sell, or should you be interested in the buying of more sheep, we will be very glad to serve you.

Tests Prove Beet Sugar in Jelly Making

Judges of the beet sugar test at work. Inset at the left, Miss Gail Redfield, Davenport, Iowa; at the right, Associate Professor Belle Lowe, both of whom conducted the test.

Impartial tests just concluded in the Home Economics Division of Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa, have again proved that beet sugar is unsurpassed for use in the making of jellies and cakes.

The tests were made by Associate Professor Belle Lowe, specialist in experimental cookery, and Miss Gail Redfield, of Davenport, a senior home economics student.

At one time a belief prevailed widely among housewives that beet sugar was not suitable for jelly making. Much of this belief disappeared years ago with the acceptance of research work that had proved sugar had no part in the jelling process—that fruit juice jelled only because of the presence of sufficient pectin and acid in the fruit juice itself.

Beet and cane sugar for these tests was purchased through Iowa home demonstration agents from grocery store stocks and the identity of each sugar was carefully concealed until after the tests were completed.

The jellies and cakes were judged by a competent committee of experts and homemakers.

"The judges did not know what jellies were made from beet sugar and what from cane sugar until after they finished their work," the official report states. "They found no difference in any of the jellies. Though twenty lots of jellies were used they were proven all of like value for jelly making."

"Causes of failure in jelly making," the experts said, "are lack of enough natural or added pectin in the juice, wrong amount of acid or sugar, or wrong cooking—and never what sugar is used.

"Whether beet or cane, all are of like value for jelly making," so the judges found.

"Success in jelly making," they say, "lies in the study of the real causes for failure. To lay the trouble to the sugar used is wrong—because it blinds the woman who would be a good jelly maker to the real facts."

Twenty cakes were also submitted to the judges, half made from beet sugar and half from cane sugar. Slight differences were found but none due to what kind of sugar was used. For cake making, beet sugar was reported as equal to any cane sugar.

Professor Lowe says also that "the whiteness of any kind of sugar (whether beet or cane) is due to the sparkling of small crystals and to the clarifying methods used. The size of the grain depends upon the speed or slowness of crystalizing; the hardness of the crystals is a matter of temperature in the making of the sugar at the factory, this hardness affecting the quickness of the solution of the sugar when used. These differences in sugars are not at all, as so many suppose, due to the source of the sugar but to differences that may occur in both cane sugar refineries and beet sugar factories, with any lot of any kind of sugar."

NOTE: An interesting practical series of three recipe books on jelly making, canning and preserving, desserts and candies may be obtained free by addressing Household Department, 809½ Sugar Building, Denver, Colorado. These booklets were written by Mrs. Ida Bailey Allen, noted cookery expert.

Where Poultry Profits Begin

Your poultry profits begin right in your HEN HOUSE! If it isn't dry, warm, proof against rats, weasels, skunks and lice, easily cleaned and kept clean, you don't and never can get full profits from your hens. If it is, your hens have nothing to do but lay eggs and more eggs and your broilers have nothing to worry about but turning feed into flesh.

The best investment any man who raises hens can make is to provide them with clean, sunlit, sanitary quarters—that's where profits BEGIN!

MRS. EMMONS ROGERS DRIVES INTO DITCH

Mrs. Emmons Rogers and son were in an auto mishap Tuesday morning in which, fortunately, neither was hurt. Mrs. Rogers was going up town from the creamery when she lost control of the car and drove into the ditch on the east side of the highway. Her son was hurled thru the windshield, but was unhurt, except for a bad shaking-up, as he was wrapped in a heavy coat. The car was not damaged except for the broken windshield, and Mrs. Rogers considers herself as extremely fortunate in escaping with such little loss.

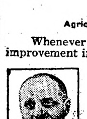
THE BANKER-EDUCATOR PLAN TO PROMOTE BETTER AGRICULTURE

By D. H. OTIS,
Agricultural Director, American Bankers Association



D. H. Otis

Whenever bankers desire to promote actively agricultural improvement in their communities, the state agricultural colleges stand ready to show them the way and to give expert assistance. The purpose of this article is to illustrate the way in which the colleges are getting in contact with the banks, and the kind of assistance they render.

As soon as the college has a list of the banks in the state desiring to adopt plans to aid agriculture as indicated by project blanks sent out to all the banks in the state, by the State Bankers Association Agricultural Committee, it gives practical suggestions to each banker on the list as to what he can do to stimulate, organize, and conduct the work in the particular project he has selected. Then either a department specialist from the college or the county agent gets in personal touch with the banker to assist him in an advisory capacity.

Samples of the project outlines are given below to illustrate the details of the procedure the college takes in accomplishing its plan.

College Provides Expert Advisors

In counties with no county agent a list of the banks desiring to carry on a project is sent to a specialist at the state college, according to the project listed. For instance, the banks desiring to carry on the farm accounts project are assigned to the farm management specialist, those desiring to carry on the legume project to the agronomy specialist, those interested in boys' and girls' club work to the junior extension specialist, and so forth.

In counties that do have a county agent a list of the banks and the projects in which each is interested is sent to him with a request that he get in touch with the bankers and help them in regard to the various projects.

The next step by the college is to write to each banker on the list sending him project outlines and informing him that the county agent or a specialist from the college will get in touch with him. If there is no agent in the county this letter reads as follows:

Union State Bank,
Bankville.

Gentlemen—You will find enclosed a brief outline of the farm accounts project in which you have indicated your interest to your State Agricultural Committee and to the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association.

I am sure that the specialist from the agricultural college will be pleased to assist you in carrying out the suggestions indicated. We have asked him to get in touch with you.

Director, Agricultural Extension.

The letter to bankers in counties that do have a county agent informs them that he will get in touch with them.

Suggests Things the Banker Can Do

The project outlines sent to each banker give specific suggestions as to the things he can do to organise the work in his project, and the part he can take in carrying out the work. The more simple and concrete these suggestions are the more valuable they are to the banker. Following are samples of such project outlines:

Farm Accounts Project

1. Banker can select group of farmers who can and should undertake the work of farm accounts.
2. Arrange with county agent or specialist from agricultural college for first meeting of the group and select an account book.
3. Assist individuals at their request with information relative to entering accounts and other data properly.
4. Act as or select leader for the group.
5. Assist in checking inventories as a means of securing individual financial statement at close of the year.

Boys' and Girls' Club Work

1. The banker can arrange with the county agent or the specialist of the agricultural college for organizing a club.
2. Plan to present various types of club work at the next meeting and perfect the organization of a local club.
3. Banker may act as local leader of the club.
4. Cooperate with county agent or specialist in annual "Achievement Day."
5. Banker may offer prizes for club work or otherwise assist in financing same.

Legume Project

1. The banker can get information from county agent or specialist from the agricultural college on the value of alfalfa, soy bean, or sweet clover crops to farmers of the community.
2. Arrange for meeting of interested farmers with county agent or specialist.
3. At this meeting county agents, specialists, or others will discuss:
   (a) Value of crop.
   (b) Seed supply and varieties.
   (c) Methods of handling the crop.
   (d) Use and disposition of crop.
4. Plan with county agent or specialist meetings and demonstrations on plots or fields.
5. Secure exhibits for community or county fair.

Cow Testing Associations

1. The banker can arrange with county agent or specialist from agricultural college for meeting of interested group of farmers in the community for the purpose of organizing a cow testing association.
2. Banker may act as leader, and with county agent or specialist plan to visit prospective farmers who may join the association.
3. Organize for work and assist in securing testing equipment and other materials whenever necessary.
4. Call meetings periodically to discuss association business and hold picnics or tours.
5. Banker with county agent or specialist may arrange for C. T. A. booth at community or county fair giving testing demonstrations and explaining work of association.

This constitutes the preliminary work by the college which paves the way for constructive work by the bankers in banker-farmer projects.

CAR OF MONTANA WHEAT SETS NEW WORLD'S RECORD FOR ITS PROTEIN CONTENT

Mother Nature Speaking Out of the Soil of Montana, Answers Widely Circulated Garet Garrett "Pain in the Northwest" Article by Producing the Greatest Concentrated Protein Grain Kernels Ever Harvested.

Dutton, Mont.—A car of wheat which is believed to have carried the world's record for protein content, harvested near here, was shipped over the Great Northern Railway to Minneapolis and there in the world's greatest wheat market created more interest in commercial circles than any single shipment of any kind that ever entered that city. If all wheat used in making flour in the United States carried the muscle building protein content that is in this single carload, the bakeries of the country could cut down their daily output of bread by several million loaves and the bodily energy of the army of working men would not be lowered in the least.

The wheat in this car graded No. 3 Dark Northern Spring, tested 56¾ pounds to the bushel, carried a protein content of 19 per cent and brought a premium of 65 cents a bushel over the July option. It is the millers specializing in producing high quality flour that pay premiums for high protein wheat. A considerable portion of this high protein wheat is purchased by eastern millers who mix it with low protein hard winter wheat from the Northwest to improve the quality of flour they make from the hard winter wheat. Montana is the second state in production of hard spring wheat and produces a larger percentage of No. 1 wheat than any other state.

Dutton, Mont., is in the triangle made infamous by Garet Garrett's libeling article entitled "Pain in the Northwest" written last year and calculated to show that the Nation's bread basket had gone to the bow wows. It is obvious that the writer did not go very carefully through this district of Montana, according to Alvin C. Hull of Collins, Mont., (the next station to Dutton) who has farmed there nine years and averaged more than 22 bushels to the acre every year. In only one season of the nine years did his land fail to produce a profitable crop. He has secured as high as 50 bushels to the acre. Hull takes the gamble out of his farming so far as is possible by carefully summer fallowing a portion of his land each season.

"All reports indicate the most promising crop prospects in the territory served by the Great Northern Railway, from the Red River Valley westward to the Rocky Mountains, probably the most promising there has been in several years," declared E. C. Leedy, General Agricultural Supervisor of the Great Northern Railway, in a statement today.

Hen Deserves Good Home

The efficiency of the hen depends a great deal on the house she lives in and the furnishings in the house. If she is comfortable and contented she will continue to lay the eggs that can be turned into gold. Poultry House Time, appointed by the agricultural extension service of the university for September 14 to October 3, is a good time to build the hen a new home or to repair and clean the old one.

DR. TWETE IN McLEOD COUNTY

Genial Thief River Veterinarian Is Testing Cattle And Is Highly Honored.

We received a letter from Dr. L. R. Twete of Thief River Falls this week, and find that he is down in McLeod county testing cattle. He and thirty-four other licensed "vets" of this state were appointed "on this 'caack squad'" as Dr. Twete writes.

As there are 350 licensed veterinarians in this state, it is quite an honor to be thus chosen. Dr. Twete is recognized as one of the best authorities on cattle disease.

"I have been here since Sept. 13," he writes, "and we will complete the work by the end of this week. I will be home at practice afain Sunday, this coming week."

Dr. Twete has had several cases in the vicinity of Holt this summer, and has had success with them all, we are pleased to say.

MINNESOTA WHEAT POOL IS GROWING

According to figures given out at Minneapolis, the Minnesota wheat pool has received 100 per cent more wheat this year than it had received at the same time last year. Up to September 15th last year there had only been delivered 155,000 bushels to the pool. On the same date this year storage tickets for 300,000 bushels had already been turned over to the Association. This does not include wheat delivered to the pool at interior elevators, where the storage ticket has not been issued, or where the member still has the storage ticket in his possession.

Mrs. Peter Hanson was a business caller in Thief River Falls Monday.

Leonard Peterson had some hard luck Saturday evening, but we hope things change soon.

Archie Blooflat, Herman Peterson and Geo. Johnson were to Thief River Falls Sunday night we wonder who were the lucky ones.

Mrs. Victor Johnson and Tillie Nyberg of Thief River Falls visited at the Mrs. T. Ellefson home on Friday.

Leo Horien made a trip to T. R. Falls Wednesday and hauled up a truck load of butter tubs for the Farmers Cooperative Creamery.

Lawrence Haglund made a trip to Winnepeg this he left on Monday with the intention of taking in some of the threshing up there but returned Wednesday as the threshing was pretty near all done in Canada.

WHY LEAVE MINNESOTA?

Immigration Bulletin Gives Some Good Arguments.

"Anybody who goes from Minnesota this year to live somewhere else is going the wrong way. Such a change is like quitting heaven for a term in purgatory, or farther down. Every part of Minnesota shares the impetus of reviving business and growth. Every phase of Minnesota life is throbbing with energy.

"The crops are all good.

"The towns are full of new business.

"The mines and factories are crowded with orders and with busy workmen.

"The farmers are happy.

"If we are buying more automobiles than we can afford, the harshest verdict that can be given is 'Justifiable Optimism.'

"There is no state so blessed in the present nor with such a gorgeous future.

"Why leave it?"

——Immigration Bulletin.

Minnesota State Fair Had Very Big Attendance

The biggest attendance since the peak year of 1920 was obtained by the 1925 Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Dairy Exposition, which closed September 12, according to official figurrs just announced. The attendance was 441, 232, compared with 413,-673 in 1924.

600,000 Cars Using Minnesota Highways

Marshall county autos and trucks probably number 2887 and represent an investment aggregating $2,021,200.00.

They will be driven altogether this year about 14,437,500 miles at an approximate running cost of $1,081,500.

They will yeild about $73,500 in auto and gas taxes toward the improvement and maintenance of state or main highways.

Better roads are credited in county agents' reports with an average reduction of 3 cents a mile in the cost of running cars in Minnesota, and at that rate are saving Marshall county car owners upwards of $435,800 this year for their taxes.

Where Poultry Profits Begin

Your poultry profits begin right in your HEN HOUSE! If it isn't dry, warm, proof against rats, weasels, skunks and lice, easily cleaned and kept clean, you don't and never can get full profits from your hens. If it is, your hens have nothing to do but lay eggs and more eggs and your broilers have nothing to worry about but turning feed into flesh.

The best investment any man who raises hens can make is to provide them with clean, sunlit, sanitary quarters—that's where profits BEGIN!

You'll find plans and specifications on just about what you want here at Building Headquarters. Drop in and look them over.

Does Sheep Raising Pay?

This is the story of Olaf Halvorson, who purchased 14 head of sheep from the Agricultural Credit Corporation last fall.

Mr. Halvorson paid $10 per head for these sheep with an investment of $140.00

From this investment he sold wool to the amount of $48.96. He sold nine lambs for $94.80. These added make a total of $142.76.

This left him a profit of $2.76 on his original investment and besides this he still has thirteen of the original sheep and also six ewe lambs.

This bank believes that the raising of sheep in this community does pay and is very anxious to help the cause along.

Should you have sheep to sell, or should you be interested in the buying of more sheep, we will be very glad to serve you.

Strandquist Editor Dies At Age Of 69

Irvin D Converse, the editor of the Strandquist Press, died at the age of 69, Wednesday, September 16.

The Warren Register says: "He was a widower, and his only child, a son, died sixteen years ago. He [Mr. Converse] was a New Yorker by birth and came to Minnesota when a young man. During most of his residence in this state he was engaged in the newspaper business, mostly in the northern part of the state. Among the places where at some time or other he published papers were: Grand Meadow, Lyle, Hazel, Thief River Falls, Snevlin, Cass Lake, St. Hilaire, Grygla, Goodridge and Strandquist. He served a term as postmaster at Grygla. He is survived by one sister, two brothers and a stepson." M. S. Nordine is now the editor of the Strandquist Press.

Ericson of Spooner Buys Brainerd Paper

George E. Ericson, who last spring sold the Spooner Northern News to W. T. Noonan, of Baudette, has purchased the Tribune, a weekly paper at Brainerd, according to a news dispatch in the Duluth Herald for Tuesday [Sept. 22]. Mr. Ericson also purchased a home in Brainerd, and will move his family to that city and take possession of the paper by the last of this month.

Mr. Ericson published the Spooner News for a number of years and is a past president of the Northern Minnesota Editorial Association. His many friends, especially among the newspaper folks, will wish him success in this new venture for which he is well-fitted.—Williams Northern Light.

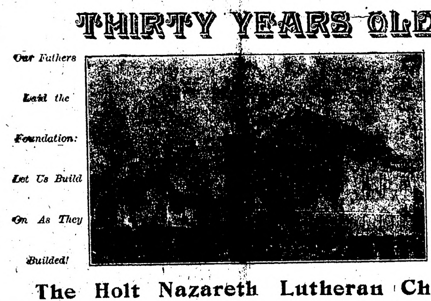
Bailey Makes Two Deals

W. C. Bailey of Minneapolis, who was up here last week taking care of his crop told us that he has rented out his farm in Mud Lake to Carl Surmo.

While here Mr. Bailey also closed a deal whereby he traded off a house and lot in Thief River Falls for a farm in Marshall county.

THIRTY YEARS OLD

Our Fathers Laid the Foundation: Let Us Build On As They Builded!



"The Church Calls You to Help Bring Victory To the Cross of Christ, and Salvation to Humanity."

The Holt Nazareth Lutheran Church
Holt, Minn. 1894-1925.

A Confirmant Reunion and Thirtieth Anniversary Celebration will be held in the Holt Nazareth Lutheran Church, Holt, Minnesota, on Sunday, October 18, 1925.

Services conducted by the home pastor will be held at 11 a. m. After this a picnic dinner will be held. At 2 p. m. a former pastor will conduct services, and speeches will be given by former pastors and others who are present.

Rev. Everson, who served the Synod congregation of a very extensive mission field, organized the Nazareth congregation in 1894. Rev. Hilman of Crookston had served occasionally as pastor before Rev. Everson came, but the history of our church dates from the date of its founding by Rev. Everson in 1894.

After Rev. Everson, the following pastors have served this church: Rev. I. T. Aastad (1895-1896); Mathias Flekke of Mendevi, Wisconsin (1896-1903); Th. L. Rosholt (1903-1905); Rev. S. T. Palm (1905-1908), and Rev. M. B. Ordahl (1908 to the present time).

The Ladies Aid and other members of the congregation worked many years raising money to build a church, which was built in 1906. The old parsonage on the Dovre farm was moved to Holt and rebuilt in 1910. Two extra lots were added and the church made larger. The basement was constructed in 1919.

We need an altar painting, a new roof, and the church building repainted. We ask all of the confirmants or others to donate a dollar or as much as you desire to give for this purpose, so we can begin at once to repair the church for our reunion convention of confirmants as well as for the circuit meeting.

You are all invited to attend. Be sure to come. Send your gifts to the church treasurer, Sivert Nohre, R. F. D. No. 2, Thief River Falls, Minn. We need your cooperation at once, as the time for reunion is near at hand.

Yours for the Kingdom of Heaven,

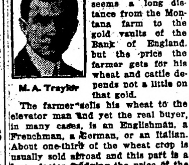
M. B. Ordahl, Pastor

FEDERAL RESERVE HELPS FARMERS

How Its Aid to England's Return to a Gold Standard Benefits American Agriculture.

By M. A. TRAYLOR
Second Vice President American Bankers Association.

There has been no more important event for the American farmer and stock man since the Armistice than the recent return of Great Britain to a gold standard. It seems a long distance from the Montana farm to the gold vaults of the Bank of England, but the price the farmer gets for his wheat and cattle depends not a little on that gold.



M. A. Traylor

The farmer sells his wheat to the elevator man and yet the real buyer, in many cases, is an Englishman, a Frenchman, a German, or an Italian. About one-third of the wheat crop is usually sold abroad and this part is a large factor in fixing the price of the entire crop. Between the farmer and the foreign buyer there are many steps. In recent years the most important step has been that at which the foreign buyer has to pay the American exporter, for the international mechanism of payment has been badly out of order because Europe was off the gold standard. It was just as though an English buyer drove up to your farm house, bargained for your wheat and drew up the contract. But when you discussed payment, he said: "I'm sorry I haven't any good United States money to pay you with; I'll have to pay you in my English paper money, which isn't worth its face value in gold. I don't know what it may be worth next week, but that is your risk."

A Deadly Foe of Trade

How many would be willing to sign contracts on this basis? Yet that is the way most of the world's trade has had to be carried on since the Armistice. In practically all countries except the United States the currencies have had no fixed value in gold, but have changed in value from day to day. Whenever one country sold anything to another country, somebody had to take the risk of loss because the value of the money might change before payment was made. Such uncertainty of payment is a deadly foe of trade, and people were afraid to do any larger international business than they had to.

Exports of food stuffs from the United States fell from two and a half billion dollars in 1919 to eight hundred millions in 1923, and the difficulties of European buyers in making satisfactory payment for American farm products was one of the large factors in the drop in the prices of farm products. But now the recent action of Great Britain in declaring that it will again redeem its paper money in gold means that British buyers of American products can pay for them with money which is accepted the world over at its face value in gold. With the return of Great Britain to the gold standard, a majority of the countries of Europe have paper currencies equal to gold.

How Reserve Banks Helped

American bankers have assisted in the British return to the gold standard by giving a $100,000,000 credit to the British government. But more important than this was the action of the Federal Reserve Banks in granting the Bank of England material co-operation. They placed $200,000,000 gold at the disposal of the Bank of England for two years, to be used by it, if necessary, in maintaining the gold standard. The readiness of the Reserve Banks thus to co-operate was an important influence in the willingness of the British to take this all important step.

This action of the Reserve Banks was a most constructive step in aid of American farmers and producers who will benefit greatly by the removal of this element of uncertainty from their export transactions. If all the sins of omission and commission charged againts the Federal Reserve System by banker, business man, live stock man or political blatherskite in the last five years were true, and practically none of them are, the service rendered commerce and industry by the System in connection with the restoration of the gold standard in so large a part of the world would far outweigh any mistakes that those in charge of the System may have made. No banker, business man or farmer should permit any self serving declaration by favor seeking demagogue to swerve him from a determination to see that the System is maintained for the future welfare of the country.

Fundamentally conditions are very sound and we are doing a very large volume of business, no little part of which is due to the equalizing and stabilizing effect exercised by the Federal Reserve System on the credits of the country. Throughout all the stress of the last five years there have been no times of either stringency or plethora of bank credit. Rates have run along on a rather level keel and in my judgment have had much to do with the stable volume of business which we have enjoyed, and which is quite contrary to the old experience of the aftermath of panics. With a credit structure such as only the Federal Reserve System can guarantee, I feel we need have no apprehension but on the contrary sound optimism for the future.

Land O' Lakes Butter Cans Win Sportsmen

Land O' Lakes butter, the choice sweet cream product of Minnesota's cooperative creameries, appears due to win popular favor from a new and unexpected clientele in addition to the already wide demand that it has won in both foreign and domestic markets.

The sportsmen and tourists of the country may soon be including a supply of this butter when leaving for hunting, fishing or outing trips as a result of the discovery that the packages in which this butter is being packed for export just fills their needs.

These packages are sealed cans of ½ lb., 1 lb. and 5 lbs. sizes which keep the butter sweet and fresh under all conditions until the can is opened.

Final Change Made in Date Of R. R. V. Sale

The Red River Valley donation livestock sale originally scheduled to be held at Crookston on October 8 will be held on Thursday, October 22, without fail or any further change in dates.

Delays in fall work and requests for additional time to secure donations prompt the association's officials to postpone the event to to the 22nd. J. Adam Bede, Dean W. C. Coffey, and other leading men will be a feature of the evening's program.

It is planned to make this dinner the largest "livestock dinner" ever held in Minnesota.

Farmers! Read This!

Every farmer who received a copy of the "Land O' Lakes News" for September will do himself a great favor by looking on page 3 of the paper. There you will find the evidence of what happens when you ship your cream away. We suggest that you deliver it to your local creamery where you get paid well for the cream you bring, as prices there do not fluctuate from day to day as they do with the centralizers.

Uses Lugs On Tractor; $10 Fine is Levied

C. F. Johnson's justice court saw the first prosecution involving misuse of local highways on Monday, when Peter Butzler was arraigned on a charge of driving a tractor upon Highway No. 6 without first removing its lugs, use of which is forbidden by law. The offense constitutes a misdemeanor punishable by a fine not to exceed $100.00, and after hearing the case, Justice Johnson levied the minimum fine of $10.00, together with the costs of prosecution which relieved the defendant's purse of a total of $14.50. The complaint was entered by patrolman John A. Black, who had previously advised the defendant of the illegality of his act, and service was made by constable Lundin.

Where Poultry Profits Begin

Your poultry profits begin right in your HEN HOUSE! If it isn't dry, warm, proof against rats, weasels, skunks and lice, easily cleaned and kept clean, you don't and never can get full profits from your hens. If it is, your hens have nothing to do but lay eggs and more eggs and your broilers have nothing to worry about but turning feed into flesh.

The best investment any man who raises hens can make is to provide them with clean, sunlit, sanitary quarters—that's where profits BEGIN!

Does Sheep Raising Pay?

This is the story of Olaf Halvorson, who purchased 14 head of sheep from the Agricultural Credit Corporation last fall.

Mr. Halvorson paid $10 per head for these sheep with an investment of $140.00

From this investment he sold wool to the amount of $48.96. He sold nine lambs for $94.80. These added make a total of $142.76.

This left him a profit of $2.76 on his original investment and besides this he still has thirteen of the original sheep and also six ewe lambs.

This bank believes that the raising of sheep in this community does pay and is very anxious to help the cause along.

Should you have sheep to sell, or should you be interested in the buying of more sheep, we will be very glad to serve you.

THE BRIGHT SIDE

THEY WILL HAVE THEIR FUN!

At the Ole P. Hanson home last Monday evening occurred the wedding of two of our threshing crew, when O. M. Sletten became the bride of Carl Evensvold. It is believed that they have been engaged since threshing commenced. John Farman officiated at the ceremony and tied the nuptial knot with twine from the strawstack. The bride was attired in a beautiful corduroy suit and carried an appropriate bouquet of pig weeds. The groom wore overalls, an oiled leather vest and a cap exquisitely perfumed with Mica axle grease, and with a large sun flower in his coat lapel. The couple was attended by O. P. Hanson as best man and G. G. Lee as bridesmaid. O. E. Olson and H. A. Cleven were the flower girls and each carried a bundle well filled with sow thistle and mustard flowers. After the ceremony a soprano solo, entitled "I Thot You Had Better Sense Than That," was rendered by a member of the crew. Following the solo a delicious supper was served which gave credit to the cooks, J. Nelson and H. E. Hanson. —Grygla Eagle.

ICED DRINKS IN THE SUMMER

On a warm and sultry summer day, there is nothing more refreshing to the mind and to the body than an iced drink. Of course, when such drinks are being used, moderation should be practiced, because if taken in excess or too rapidly, they are liable to be injurious to the stomach. However, when taken in a sensible manner, they are refreshing and beneficial to the fatigued. In the manufacture of these drinks, care should be taken to avoid any combination that may be indigestible or hard to assimilate. The drink should be consumed in a slow and leisurely manner.

The greatest danger present in the use of iced drinks is the one that involves the use of ingredients that are possibly impure or contaminated in any way. This is very liable to happen if the juices that are used are allowed to stand until they become soured and unfit for use, or if the milk or other ingredient used is not strictly fresh. The predisposition of milk to spoil quickly at summer temperatures makes it ofttimes necessary to use evaporated milk, which after all is just pure fresh milk with more than half the water taken away. It is sterile and, therefore, always safe. For use in iced drinks, it is ideal.

Following are several formulas used in the manufacture of iced beverages. If these formulas are followed religiously, the results will be found to be very satisfactory.

Chocolate Malted Milk.

1 cup evaporated milk
1 cup water
3 teaspoonfuls cocoa
3 teaspoonfuls malted milk

Mix cocoa with water until syrup is obtained. Put all ingredients in Mason jar and shake thoroughly and serve with chipped ice.

Milk Punch.

1 cup evaporated milk
Sugar to suit taste
1 cup tea
3 tbsp. lemon juice
3 tbsp. orange juice
½ cup water
Small stick cinnamon
½ cup fruit juice (currant or berry preferred)

Boil slowly the cinnamon, a lemon rind and orange rind in water for ten minutes. Strain and when cool add the other ingredients. Place in a Mason fruit jar and shake well. Serve in tall glasses with chopped ice.

Egg Nog.

1 egg
Pinch salt
½ cup cold evaporated milk
½ cup ice water
1½ tbsp. powdered sugar
3 tbsp. fruit juice
Nutmeg gratings

Add salt to egg white and beat to a stiff froth. Add the sugar, the well beaten yolk of the egg and the fruit juice and nutmeg. Fill glass with milk and cold water. Sprinkle top with chopped nuts.

Community And Market Days Were Success

Our Community and Market Days, held Friday and Saturday, October 2 and 3, went off admirably, with very few hitches. Fine weather, a big crowd, and a fine spirit did much to make a success of the event.

The market day sale was held as scheduled, Friday morning. It was such a success that many more like it are being planned on being held in the future. Following the sale the farmers and their families enjoyed a basket lunch.

Dr. Frank R. Weber, the speaker for the day, delivered two fine lectures on Friday—one to the school children before noon and the other to the people in the streets, immediately following the basket lunch. Dr. Weber proved that he is well-posted on community welfare. He insisted that no community can be built up successfully without the sincerd cooperation of the people. In order to cooperate we must abolish all our petty jealousies and quarrels. When we get to the point where we can work side by side with our neighbor and not criticise everything he does, we are on our way to a better community.

The program of sports, which followed the lecture, took up the rest of the afternoon. "Ye Olde Tyme Dance" held Friday evening drew an immense crowd of people, both old and young, and it went off quite smoothly.

On Saturday afternoon, Dr. Weber gave a one hour lecture to the village and the country women in the schoolhouse. Following this came a lunch and an exciting baseball game between the town women and the country women, in which the latter carried off all honors.

Saturday evening the Commercial Club held their annual smoker, at which Dr. Weber gave one of his inspiring speeches. Incidentally the following were also enjoyed: coffee, doughnuts, cigars, and free moving pictures. Needless to say, a good time was had.

MOVIE SHOW EVERY WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The Coloniel Theatres will give motion picture shows at the Community Hall regularly every Wednesday night. Comedy and feature with each show.

The second episode of the unique and thrilling new Pathe-serial, "Leatherstocking," is on the program Wednesday at the Community Hall. It is titled "The Scarlet Trail" and features Edna Murphy and Harold Miller. This episode shows the cunning of Chingachgook in trailing Briarthorn, who stole his sweetheart, Wah-ta-wah; and also sees the stealing by a Huron of Hutter's golden casket, the mysterious contents of which he prizes above life itself. Seeking vengeance for his loss, he and Hurry Harry March that night steal ashore and into the camp of the Hurons. What happens on that raid brings this esisode to a thrilling and dramatic climax.

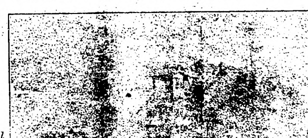
THIRTY YEARS OLD

Our Fathers Laid the Foundation: Let Us Build On As They Builded!



"The Church Calls You to Help Bring Victory To the Cross of Christ, and Salvation to Humanity."

The Holt Nazareth Lutheran Church
Holt, Minn. 1894-1925.

A Confirmant Reunion and Thirtieth Anniversary Celebration will be held in the Holt Nazareth Lutheran Church, Holt, Minnesota, on Sunday, October 18, 1925.

Services conducted by the home pastor will be held at 11 a. m. After this a picnic dinner will be held. At 2 p. m. a former pastor will conduct services, and speeches will be given by former pastors and others who are present.

Rev. Evenson, who served the Synod congregation of a very extensive mission field, organized the Nazareth congregation in 1894. Rev. Hilman of Crookston had served occasionally as pastor before Rev. Everson came, but the history of our church dates from the date of its founding by Rev. Evenson in 1894.

After Rev. Evenson, the following pastors have served this church: Rev. I. T. Aastad (1895-1896); Mathias Flekke of Mendevi. Wisconsin (1896-1903); Th. L. Rosholt (1903-1905); Rev. S. T. Palm (1905-1908), and Rev. M. B. Ordahl (1908 to the present time).

The Ladies Aid and other members of the congregation worked many years raising money to build a church, which was built in 1906. The old parsonage on the Dovre farm was moved to Holt and rebuilt in 1910. Two extra lots were added and the church made larger. The basement was constructed in 1919.

We need an altar painting, a new roof, and the church building repainted. We ask all of the confirmants or others to donate a dollar or as much as you desire to give for this purpose, so we can begin at once to repair the church for our reunion-convention of confirmants as well as for the circuit meeting.

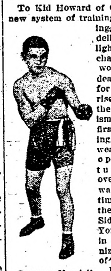
You are all invited to attend. Be sure to come. Send your gifts to the church treasurer, Sivert Nohre, R. F. D. No. 2, Thief River Falls, Minn. We need your cooperation at once, as the time for reunion is near at hand.

Yours for the Kingdom of Heaven,

M. B. Ordahl, Pastor

Trainer of Boxers Gives Diet Hints

To Kid Howard of Chicago and his new system of training and conditioning, Sammy Mandell, the present lightweight boxing champion of the world, gives a great deal of the credit for his meteoric rise to stardom in the world of pugilism. When Mandell first started fighting, he was small, weak and undeveloped, but after turning himself over to Howard it was only a short time before he took the decision from Sid Terris of New York that resulted in him being recognized as the boss of the lightweights.



Sammy Mandell.

Howard's system is unique in that it works no hardship on the athlete who is in training. Unlike the systems that have been used for years, this prominent and successful trainer of men makes conditioning more of a pleasure than a distasteful necessity. Instead of demanding that his men eat only certain things he advises them to eat what they want and when they want it as long as it is cooked in a proper manner. Mr. Howard, in a recent interview on the subject of diet and condition, said, in part: "Years ago it was a task, and an unpleasant one, for a boxer or a wrestler to train for a bout because he was forced to literally starve himself unless he wanted to eat steaks and chops at all times. I remember that when I was training for a match, I was so truly tired of steaks that I choked every time that I ate one but it was steak or nothing. I advise my men to diet at all times but it is perfectly possible for them to diet and, at the same time, to enjoy their food. My only 'don't' is the one regarding the eating of such combinations as fresh milk and cheese, and fruit with cream. In fact, I advocate the use of evaporated milk entirely. Vegetables are fine and the more that the athlete eats the better he will be for it. Pastry, of certain kinds, such as homemade pies, cakes and cookies, if made correctly, and with pure butter, evaporated milk and pure lard, are very beneficial. Stews and boils are ideal. Taken as a whole, any food, with a few exceptions, is all right if [illegible]

Washington As A Youth

Have you ever seen a motion picture in which George Washington was shown as a young soldier on his first expedition? You may see him now, for the patriot is one of the interesting characters who appears in the new ten-chapter Patheserial, "Leatherstocking," cofeaturing Edna Murphy and Harold Miller, which is showing on Wednesday of every week at the Community Hall.

George Washington is only one of the many interesting persons who is to be seen in this film version of James Fenimore Cooper's immortal Leatherstocking Tales. Whole tribes of Delaware and Huron Indians, now entirely extinct, are brought to life once again by many hundred redmen engaged for the picture from nearby Goverment reservations.

Canadian Wheat Pools Pay $1.66

The central selling agency for the western Canadian wheat pools have closed their books for the 1924-25 crop, and have made a final payment of 11c per bushel for No. 1 Northern, making a total payment for last year's crop of $1.66 per bushel for this class of wheat. The Canadian pools paid $1.00 upon delivery of the wheat, a second payment of 35c, a third payment of 20c and a final payment of 11c. This is net to the member, after paying all expenses, only freight being deducted from the $1.66.

There are 109,068 members in the three Canadian wheat pools and $1,000,000 bushels of wheat were marketed by their joint selling agency at Winnipeg, according to figures given out by the Agricultural Department at Washington.

The high price was secured because of the fact that at one time during selling season wheat at Oinnipeg was 33c a bushel above Minneapolis.

RUPTURE SHIELD EXPERT HERE

E. J. Meinhardi the well known Expert from Chicago, will personally be at the Evelyn Hotel, Thief River Falls, Minn., on Friday and Saturday only, Oct. 16th and 17th.

Mr. Meinhardi says "The Vacuum Rupture Shield" will not only hold the Rupture perfectly, but will contract the opening in ten days on the average case usually giving instantaneous relief withstanding all strain regardless of the size and location of the Rupture.

WARNING: Every ruptured person should be cautioned against wearing trusses with understraps. These trusses usually place the pad on the lump and not on the rupture opening. This often causes strangulation which usually necessitates an immediate surgical operation or results in sudden death. Therefore, do not expose yourself to the danger of wearing old-style trusses with understraps. "The Vacuum Rupture Shield" has no understraps, no straps around the body or legs. It is also perfectly sanitary and practically indestructible, and should be worn while bathing. Mr. Meinhardi will be pleased to demonstrate "The Vacuum Rupture Shield" to all gentlemen who call at this Hotel from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Only gentlemen are invited to call on the above date as a special visit will be [illegible] seen personally. If interested you must call at this hotel on the above date. This & That, and Something Else

Fire Prevention Week October 7 to 10

Since it is to his home that every man instinctively goes in quest of absolute safety there is a grim irony, more than a little, in the revelation that somebody's dwelling suffers attack by fire every three minutes, approximately—that the average yearly destruction to homes approaches $65,000,000. Plainly, the safety that he seeks is not to be found around the average American hearth.

It appears from the published record that four of the six leading causes of fire in the home—Defective Chimneys and Flues; Sparks on Roofs; Stoves, Furnaces, Boilers and their Pipes, and Matches and Smoking—indubitably are preventable by the exercise of proper care and common sense.

The August issue of Safegaurding America Against Fire presents complete plans for community observance of National Fire Prevention Week. The National Board of Fire Underwriters, New York, stands ready to do everything within its power to facilitate the Campaign and will welcome communications from fire chiefs, local agents, municipal officials, school authorities, the membership of business organizations and all others who will participate in the event.

Surely a people virile and farsighted enough to found a nation can muster sufficient intelligence and strength of will to preserve it from the wasting of fire starting with their homes.

COOLIDGE ORDERS AIRCRAFT QUIZ

Findings of Investigators Will Be Used as Guide by Executive and Congress.

Washington — President Coolidge moved to provide for an impartial settlement of the long standing aircraft dispute.

With a bold stroke the President answered criticism of the government's administration of aircraft defense by appointing a committee of nine citizens of national reputation to study the entire subject immediately, and make a report to guide the President and congress in developing an adequate national air force.

Mr. Coolidge's action followed the Shenandoah disaster in which 14 naval air officers and men lost their lives, and sweeping criticisms of the administration by Colonel William Mitchell, demoted assistant chief of army service.

The committee, appointed by President Coolidge at the joint request of Secretary of the Navy C. O. Wilbur and Acting Secretary of War Dwight Davis, has been asked to meet with the President at the White House.

J.—Plans and specifications for a new giant dirigible—the largest in the world, dwarfing the Shenandoah in size, capacity, strength speed and cost—are now ready at the naval aircraft factory at League Island navy yard, Philadelphia, it was disclosed at the naval air station here. The plans, drawn by naval air experts, call for a dirigible of 6,000,000 cubic feet capacity, at an approximate cost of $6,000,000. It is probable, however, that, in view of the Shenandoah wreck, material changes may be made before the design is finally approved and construction is begun.

Honolulu—Commander John Rogers, commander of the missing naval seaplane PN-9 No. 1, and his crew of four men, were found alive 15 miles east of Kauai, by the submarine R-4. The submarine was commanded by Lieut. D. R. Osborne who upon taking off Rogers and his crew immediately notified naval authorities, saying the plane was in tow and would arrive in Pearl Harbor. Lieutenant Osborne's message, other than saying the men were safe and well, did not give their condition, simply saying he had taken the plane in tow. Rogers and his crew left San Francisco in an attempted non-stop flight to Honolulu on August 31. The following afternoon, 24 hours after his seaplane, the PN-9 No. 1, hopped off, the plane and crew disappeared about 300 miles from its destination. Last messages from the PN-9 No. 1, stated that its gasoline supply was about exhausted and a forced landing was expected.

The naval vessels stationed along the course of the flight immediately took up the search for the plane but nothing of the missing men was seen.

PERSONNEL FOR AIR PROBE NAMED

Will Establish Blame For Shenandoah And Other Aircraft Disasters.

Washington.—A court of inquiry to investigate the Shenandoah disaster with Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, chief of the navy's general board, as its president, was appointed Monday by Secretary Wilbur.

At the time Mr. Wilbur was announcing the personnel of the Shenandoah board, the war department made plans to have Col. William Mitchell, chief figure in the whole controversy, available as an expert witness for the president's special board when the body begins its inquiry.

The work of this board will supplement that of the special board of nine men appointed by President Coolidge to delve thoroughly into the broad question of the nation's air policies, which has been the subject of bitter controversy since the Shenandoah disaster.

The announcement of the personnel of the board to investigate the Shenandoah crash came on the heels of a denouncement of navy critics by Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics.

Those who will serve with Admiral Jones in conducting the inquiry are Capt. Frank H. Clark, aid to the assistant secretary; Capt. Lewis B. McBride of the navy, construction corps; Com. John H. Towers, Lieut. Com. Ralph C. Pennoyer, Capt. Paul Foley, director of the experimental laboratory at Bellevue, D. C., and Lieut. Com. M. R. Pierce. Captain Foley will be judge advocate of the court and Lieutenant Commander Pierce will be his adviser.

It was explained at the war department that neither disciplinary proceedings which have been initiated against Colonel Mitchell nor his official duties as chief of air service in the Eighth corps area would be permitted to interfere with his appearance before the special board.

Upon leaving college, Frahm was employed by the engineering department of the Great Northern railroad at Minot but later entered the private engineering practice in Minot before coming to the highway department.

Replies With Vigor To Mitchell's Statements.

Washington.—With the broad question of the nation's air defense organization to be turned over to a special board of inquiry, the specific charges made by Colonel William Mitchell, former assistant army air chief, against the navy's air administration have drawn a verbal broadside from Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, the navy air chief.

Replying categorically to the charges of Colonel Mitchell respecting the Shenandoah and the flight of the PN-9 No. 1, which he quoted without mentioning the author's name, and of other critics of the navy administration, Rear Admiral Moffett denied them with such emphatic characterizations as "unequalifiedly false," "absolutely false," "unscrupulous self-seekers" and "vultures."

The three men in custody, who gave their names as John Burns of Boston, Eddie Mack of Butte, Mont., and Frank O'Neill, a transient, deny implication in the robbery, according to the authorities. The Kitchen Cabinet

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Blood is a juice of a very special kind.—Goethe.

Charms strike the sight, but merit wins the soul.

SOME GOOD COMMON DISHES

When it is hard to think of something for desert, try this one:

Blueberry Pudding.—Lay slices of (not too dry) bread after buttering well, into a deep dish. Pour over enough blueberries very hot, juice and all, to cover well. Set away to chill or bake in a quick oven and serve with cream and sugar.

Fried Apples and Onions.—Slice tart apples and half as many onions. Put the onions on to cook in a spoonful or two of fat; when nearly tender add the apples and a little water. Cook until all are well browned. Salt and sugar are added for seasoning.

Fruit Cocktail.—Scoop apples that have been peeled with a potato cutter into balls, cook in a sugar sirup until tender, cool and serve with melon balls, pineapple, pears, peaches and cherries. Any combination one's taste suggests will be good. Add lemon rind and juice to the sirup and pour over enough to flavor and sweeten each cocktail.

With the fields full of the delicious field mushroom in many places one has at hand a great delicacy. Stew them in butter, add cream and serve on toast.

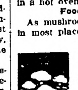
When putting up sweet cucumber pickles this fall peel, cut into half-inch rings, then with a small cutter cut out the center with the seeds. They are much more attractive to serve and are not much work to prepare.

Vanilla Ice Cream With Pears.—On a slice of brick ice cream lay half of a preserved pear. Pour over it a sauce which has been colored pink with cinnamon candies. Decorate the pear with browned almonds, serve at once.

Hot Beef Sandwich.—Heat the gravy from the roast and in this lay a slice or two of thinly sliced roast; when heated lay on a slice of buttered bread and cover with another slice. Pour the hot gravy over all and serve.

Fillets of Fish.—Wipe fillets and brush with butter, add salt and pepper and lay in a baking dish. Surround with boiled potatoes, cover with a white sauce and bake twenty minutes in a hot oven.

Food That Is Liked.



As mushrooms are usually plentiful in most places up to the frost-killing time, try a dish combining the mushrooms with sweetbreads. Saute the sweetbreads in a little butter until well cooked—five minutes will suffice; they should have been previously parboiled in slightly acidulated water. Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, mix with the same amount of flour and pour on gradually one cupful of chicken stock. Clean and saute the mushrooms in a little butter, add to the sweetbreads and the sauce, season well, add one-fourth of a cupful of whipped cream and one-half teaspoonful of beef extract. Add a dash of lemon juice and serve in ramekins covered with buttered crumbs. Brown in the oven.

Corn Toast.—Cook one-fourth of a tablespoonful of fairly chopped onion with one and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter two minutes, stirring constantly. Add one cupful of sweet corn cut from the cob and lightly cook for five minutes in just water to cook without burning; add salt and pepper, and one pint of thick cream; simmer for five minutes and pour over six slices of buttered toast cut into rounds. Garnish with toast points and parsley.

Pepper Relish.—Remove the seeds from six red and six green peppers; cut away all the white inner fiber; add six peeled onions and let stand five minutes. Drain, add one cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of salt and one and one-half cupfuls of vinegar. Bring to the boiling point and boil 20 minutes. Seal in glass jars.

Long Winter Night

The period of winter darkness in Spitzbergen, northern Norway, begins on October 26 and continues until February 17. The midnight sun rises above the horizon on April 19 and sinks below on August 24. During the summer the temperature varies from 37 degrees to 50 degrees F., and in winter it drops as low as 40 degrees below zero; the mean annual temperature is about 16 degrees F. Because of the dryness of the air the low temperatures do not cause the penetrating chill that they would in more humid regions.

Gives Credit for Restored Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. All Women Interested

MRS. OSCAR F. BORGELIN
FOREST CITY, IOWA

Forest City, Iowa.—"My first child lived only a short time and I was sick for a year after. When I bent over and raised myself up again I could almost scream with pain in my back. One day I was so bad that I had to leave my washing and get ready to go to the doctor. He gave me medicine, but it did no more good than if I drank just water. Once when we had been in town a little book telling about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was left in our car. I have taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound now and I do all my housework and help with the milking, and taking care of chickens and garden. Besides I have a fine baby girl eight months old, just the picture of health, and I am feeling fine myself. You may use this letter as a testimonial and I will answer any letters asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. OSCAR F. BORGELIN, Route No. 5, Forest City, Iowa.

A Bad Case of Nerves Relieved

Denver, Colorado. — "I was very despondent, blue and sad all the time, which is worse than real pain, and extremely nervous, with no appetite. I was this way for about two years and thought no one cared for me. My mother had had the same trouble and had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it. I tried everything else, then I began to take it. I soon had a better appetite and restored mental condition. I moved to a bright, sunny house, began calling on different people, and changed many other things. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash for my female weakness. With the aid of your medicines I am now a fairly healthy, happy and contented woman. I've used the Vegetable Compound at different times and will say it always helps me over the bad spells that come to every woman past 40 years."—Mrs. HELEN FINE, 35 South Washington Street, Denver, Colorado.

The first woman to enter the Baptist ministry in Great Britain is Miss Annie D. Lodwick, recently ordained pastor of Pisgah Baptist church, Cresswell Quay, Pembroke, Wales. Rev. Miss Lodwick is twenty-six years of age. Her church has six deacons and a membership of 130. Her call resulted from a ten days' mission conducted by her at the church, when she so impressed the church officials that they asked her to become the minister.

Big American Industry

The manufacture of boots and shoes is pre-eminently an American industry, due largely to the predominance of American inventions, methods and machinery. Since 1870 imports of footwear to the United States have been almost negligible. In 1924, 263,014,000 pairs of shoes were manufactured in this country.

High Finance

The Chinese find it difficult to understand the British point of view, as has been evidenced in recent events, and perhaps, illustrated by the experience of a gentleman visiting Canton a short time ago who saw same mah-jongg sets being sold at $5 each. He inquired what he would be charged if he ordered 250 sets, and was told $6 each. "You see," was the explanation, "it is so much more trouble to make 250 sets than it is to make one, so we have to charge more!"

Russia Gets Into Line

The telephone system throughout Russia is to be brought up to the American standard, according to plans completed by the Soviet government, which call for an ultimate expenditure of more than $100,000,000. Large American companies have been asked by the Soviet companies to co-operate in the project.

Huge Hydro-Electric Plant in Kentucky

The great Dix river hydroelectric dam near High Bridge, Ky., is nearing completion. Work was started in the fall of 1923, and a lake 34 miles long will soon be driving generators with a total capacity of 30,000 horse power—more than is developed by the famous Roosevelt dam in Arizona. This plant will supply electricity to Indiana, Virginia and the greater part of Kentucky. Nearly 1,000 men are pushing the job to completion at top speed. The dam is the largest rock-filled dam in the world. This picture was taken from its top and shows the power house and transformers.

Yank Shot While Fighting Chinese

Mother of Morgan Palmer Tells Story of Son's Fate.

Harbin, Manchuria.—Morgan Palmer, the American who was killed by Chinese bandits at his ranch on the Sungari river last month, met death while staging a warlike demonstration intended to frighten away the bandits.

This news was brought to Harbin by Palmer's mother and the son of Dr. Harvey J. Howard of the Rockefeller hospital in Pekin, who were at the ranch at the time. Doctor Howard, who also was visiting Palmer, was captured by the bandits and still is held for ransom.

Mrs. Palmer, relating the details of the fight, said that her son, rising early on the morning of July 20, declared his intention to take guns and go by automobile to show the bandits he was prepared for them if they should attack his ranch. Doctor Palmer had intended to take a river steamer for Harbin that day, but joined Palmer's party, with his son. The others were a Russian chauffeur, Palmer's Chinese servant and a Rusian boy.

Arriving at the village adjacent to the bandits' stronghold, the party got out and sent the car back for reinforcements but the Chinese guard in the village refused to accompany the party. Harold Baldwin, Palmer's ranch manager, returned with the chauffeur and tried to prevent further advance, knowing the bandits were well armed and mounted.

Dr. Howard Surrenders.

Palmer, however, insisted on going on. He led his party to a ruined temple four miles from his ranch and midway between two villages. Baldwin climbed to the top of the temple to reconnoiter. Palmer, Doctor Howard and the Chinese and Russian boys entered a nearby cornfield, while young Howard remained alone in the car. From the top of the temple Baldwin saw the bandits mount and prepare to make a sortie. He descended and started the car in pursuit of Palmer and his group and at the same time the bandits made a move to cut off their retreat, whereupon Baldwin swerved to pick up others of the party, who from the running board of the automobile carried on a running fight while making a dash for the ranch.

Meanwhile Palmer and those with him were encircled by another group of bandit horsemen. Doctor Howard and the Russian boy threw down their rifles and made signs of surrender, but Palmer and his Chinese servant continued firing.

Shot From Behind.

According to the Russian youth, the bandits dismounted and crept up behind Palmer, Indian fashion, shooting him through the head at close range and then killing the Chinese boy in a similar way.

Later the outlaws sent messengers to the Palmer ranch demanding money and ammunition. The defenders there who had gathered around Palmer's mother collected all the available funds and cartridges and went to make terms for the release of the prisoners who had surrendered, but found the bandits had decamped.

Bandits Flee From Troops.

Morgan Palmer's body was recovered and buried under a great oak near the ranch house, together with that of the Chinese boy, whom Palmer held in great affection. Howard Baldwin read the Episcopal service at the funeral.

Doctor Howard's captors crossed the Sungari river, foiling the efforts of Chinese troops to encircle them, and now are believed to be in the Kirin mountain district.

Samuel Sokobin, American consul at Mukden; Howard Baldwin and Roger Greene, business director of the Rockefeller hospital, are remaining at Funchin pending efforts to locate Doctor Howard and bring about his release. Funchin is 450 miles from Harbin and 20 miles from the Palmer ranch.

Make Hay by Hot Air Farmers' Joke on Sun

Madison, Wis.—Experimental engineers of the department of agriculture, University of Wisconsin, reported on a new method in hay-making recently demonstrated at Genessee depot experimental farms.

By means of a high-pressure hot air fan, new mown hay was ready for baling eight hours after raking. Besides obviating field drying, the artificial process eliminates the risk of moisture damage and pests.

Plan Memorial in Hills of Dakota

May Carve Washington-Lincoln Statue on "Needles."

Rapid City, S. D.—A national shrine, modeled from one of nature's vagaries, and situated in the beautiful Black hills of South Dakota, is the vision of Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, and a group of South Dakota residents who view the Black hills as the greatest undeveloped wonderland in the United States.

The shrine would be a monument of Washington and Lincoln, standing side by side, their figures carved from a huge needle-like piece of granite which towers 200 feet above its immediate base.

Borglum has long held this vision. He expects soon to visit South Dakota to discuss details for raising the $1,000,000 necessary to its completion.

Shaft Visible Many Miles.

In the Black hills there is a group of rocks that rise perpendicularly as high as a fifteen or more story office building. The rocks are known as the Needles. One of these has withstood the elements more than its neighbors and there remains a wide base from which there ascends a shaft tapering almost to a point.

This shaft rises to a height greater than any elevation east of the Rockies except Mount Harney, itself in the Black hills.

Situated among virtual mountains of red, purple and gold, their slopes dotted with towering pines, the proposed memorial rock may be seen for miles before the long, slowly ascending trail finally brings the visitor within its shadow.

Financial Backing in View.

With the advice of several South Dakota residents, Borglum chose as the characters for this memorial Washington and Lincoln, two outstanding figures in American history, whom he knew would appeal to the patriotism of every corner of the United States.

Information reaching supporters of the memorial in this state indicates that the financial problem will be met. Several wealthy persons have listened sympathetically to the plan, and it is understood one New York multimillionaire virtually has agreed to finance the project single-handed.

U. S. Tourists to Cuba to Get Tax Exemption

Havana.—Citizens of the United States will receive the same privileges given Cuban citizens by the immigration authorities, under a recent department ruling.

The treasury department has exempted tourists and other travelers from payment of the one-quarter of one per cent tax on money above $50 taken out of the country by travelers. Secretary of the Treasury Curtaya authorized steamship companies to issue identification cards to passengers, which, on their leaving the country, absolves them from either making a statement as to the amount of money they are carrying or payment of the tax.

Old Farmer Fumblegate Recalls Golden Days

"I've been reading in the paper about a good deal of regret being felt for the passing of Shanley's restaurant in New York," said Farmer Funter. "What do you s'pose there was about it that would make people so sorry that it was going to be torn down?"

"Well, I'll tell you, Adrian, if you won't let it go any farther," replied Farmer Fumblegate. "I guess it was something like a restaurant I used to drop into when I was up in Kay See. They had a plump little red-headed waitress that would come and set on the corner of your table, and—"

"After she had got well acquainted with you, o' course?"

"Yes, or before! and swing her feet and josh you till you gave her a good deal bigger tip than you had intended to."—Kansas City Star.

Finance in Afghanistan

An ingenious scheme has been devised for financing the Afghan embassies abroad. Every embassy in Kabul has to pay the same rent there for accommodation as the Afghan minister in the corresponding foreign capital. Colonel Humphrey's mud bungalow, for instance, costs his government as much as the house in Grosvenor gardens, London, where the Afghan envoy resides.—Lowell Thomas in Asia Magazine.

A dairy cattle judging team, made up of Calvin Anderson of Eden Valley Alice Landro of Hendrum, and Howard Johnson of Bemidji, will compete with teams from 22 other states. Myrtle Bemis and Anna Larson, both of Long Prairie, will encounter teams from 20 states in the dairy demonstration contest.

For the first time cattle judging teams picked from boys atending Smith-Hughes schools are taking part in the judging contest. Minnesota is represented b Charles and John Chambers and Wayne Jones all of Steele county. Harvey Kuchenbecker of Owatonna has entered his purebred Holstein calf, which placed first in the junior show at the state fair, in the club cattle exhibit at the national.

Protein Survey Of Wheat Crop Finished

In carrying on a survey of the 1925 wheat crop grown in Minnesota, to determine the crude portein content, the State Department of Agriculture collected 753 wheat samples from 58 counties and made an analysis of each sample. Six hundred eightythree samples of hard red spring wheat varied from 8.7 per cent to 15.7 per cent of crude protein. The average was 11.67 per cent, or a slight increase over the average of the 1924 survey. The best protein sections as indicated by the survey were found in the territory tadjacent to the Minnesota river, from the east central portion of the state to the west state line. All the facts are given in Bullein No. 45, which discusses the baking values of wheat and protein as an index for values and also as a basis for price. The bulletin is free and copies may be had by addressing its author, R. C. Sherwood, director of the State Testing Mill, 34 th street and Hiawatha avenue, Minneapolis.

Many Interested In Dairy School Courses

Information sent out from University Farm regarding the short course for ice cream makers, to be given November 12-21 by the university's dairy division, has prompted inquiries even from distant states and the outlook is for a larger enrollment than usual. The second course of the Dairy School, for advanced or experienced creamery operators, will be given November 30 to December 12. Study of the preparation and use of starters will be a feature of this course. The third and last course, a six week's term for beginners in creamery operation, will be given January 6 to February 17.

School Lunch Should Have One Hot Dish

Five requirements for the school child's lunch, now that school work has been resumed over the state, are specified by Inez Hobart, nutrition specialist of the agricultural extension service of the University. The lunch from home, she says, should consist of sandwiches, fruit, and a sweet, like a cookie, custard, or sauce, all neatly packed in a lunch box that may be scalded daily. One hot dish should be prepared at school by the pupils under the direction of the teachers or mothers. Othtr requirements are at least one glass of milk a generous supply of clean water for drinking purposes and sufficient for washing hands and a noon hour long enough to allow 30 minutes for the luncheon and time for play out of doors. "If your child lacks any of these requisites," says Miss Hobart, "a meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of your school should be called to arrange for providing them."

Beets Going To Market At Thief River Falls

Thief River Falls, Oct. 10. Every nice day this week has seen a steadily increasing number of loads of sugar beets being brought to the loading dump recently erected by the sugar beet company here on the Great Northern right of way.

County Agent J. J. McCann, the local field agent for the company, estimates that the entire crop will be harvested by the close of the month, 300 acres in immediate vicinity having been planted and cultivated this year. While the sugar content may not be as great as in former pears on account of excessive rainfall, yet the farmer will benefit by greater weight of the beets.

Dairy Cow Efficient Food Producer

Properly built stalls cut down work and bacteria.

© Underwood & Underwood Keep the utensils clean.

With increasing rentals and values of farm lands, dairy farming is rapidly replacing other types of live stock farming. A dairy cow producing 8.000 pounds of milk a year furnishes 1,000 pounds of dry matter, all of which is edible and digestible. A two year old steer weighing between 1,200 and 1,300 pounds furnishes about 550 pounds of dry matter, not all of which can be used for food. In other words a fairly good producing dairy cow furnishes twice as much edible dry matter in one year as a good two year old steer when he is killed for meat. A cow can be kept for additional years of service, while to replace the steer another animal must be fed for a period of two years.

The United States consumption of milk per capita has increased from 42 gallons of whole milk in 1918 to more than 54 gallons in 1925.

With growing acceptance of milk as a food has come an increasing knowledge of the proper care of milk on the farm. Because odors from foods and animals in the cow stable are easily taken up by milk, injuring its flavor, they must not come in contact with the milk. Removal of the milk from the stable as soon as possible reduces the amount of dust and dirt entering it and keeps down the bacterial growth in the milk.

Bacteria increase rapidly in warm milk causing it to sour quickly. Removal of the animal heat from freshly drawn milk by lowering the temperature to that of cold well water (approximately 60° F.), greatly aids in preventing bacterial growth. A well lighted, well ventilated milk house, not too close to the stable, is also very helpful.

Cleanliness in the stable is vitally necessary. The stall platform should be just long enough for the cow to stand comfortably without room to spare; otherwise, the cow will become dirty from droppings when she lies down. The gutter should be wide and deep. A good gutter is 16 inches to 18 inches in width and 9 or 10 inches below the platform. Bedding should be clean and plenteous.

Long hair on the flanks, udders and tail above the switch of the dairy cow should be removed at regular intervals. Removing this long hair removes the clinging places of dirt which otherwise will fall into the milk pail in quantities. Keeping the hair short on these parts of the cow permits cleaning in much less time and more thoroughly. Brushing should never be neglected. It removes loose particles sticking to the body. When the hair is short, wiping the udders with a damp cloth just before milking, is an easy and important aid in securing clean milk.

It is generally recognized that most of the bacteria found in milk finds its source in dirt clinging to the cow and dropping into the pail during milking time. Simple precautions will practically eliminate this source of bacterial growth and dairymen find themselves well repaid for the little time necessary in taking such precautions.

Gives Full Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for Remarkable Recovery

Wellston, O.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make me strong. I was troubled with my back and sides hurting me till I could not do my work, and whenever I caught cold it made me irregular. Since I have taken the Vegetable Compound my side and back don't bother me and I can do my housework and care for my children now, where before I did not feel like doing anything or going around. After my first child was born about four years ago I saw an advertisement in the paper about the Vegetable Compound. I knew it would help me, but I was afraid to try it because people said it would help you to have children and I knew I was having children fast enough. But I thought if it would help me it would be better to have a whole house full of children and have good health. I became stronger from taking it and my husband says I look like a live woman instead of a dead one. When Spring comes I am going to take your Blood Medicine as I am very thin. I will answer letters from any woman who wishes to ask about your medicine."—Mrs. WILLIAM BUTTS, Wellston, Ohio.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

KNOCK AT THE DOOR

YOU cannot hope to gain entrance to friendship except by knocking at her door with the courage and courtesy which invariably insure admittance.

And this is equally true of everything of worth in life, quite regardless of the opinions of those who are prone to think otherwise.

If you would be on intimate terms with Wisdom, you must knock at her golden door every day.

You may rail at the idea, but if you miss a day or two a week you will find when you go to call again that some one more persistent has been ahead of you, and picked the choicest flowers in the front garden.

In all that concerns life, especially the vital things, if you would sit with those who occupy the front pews, wear the best clothes, lock arms with high society, know how to entertain a prince or a pauper without lofty affectation or mongrel condescension, you must first knock at the door and gain proficiency by frequent knockings and regular visits.

You may daub a canvas with color, sail a boat on an unruffled stream, sing a commonplace song which the boys of the street whistle without missing a note, play the piano, do exquisite embroidery work in imitation of the piece before you, but if you wish to excel beyond the mere copyist and become a master in every sense of the word, you must keep knocking.

In matters of art and intellect, there is no other way to improve or advance except by going often to the door of Wisdom and picking up knowledge first hand.

You may be tempted to hint that this requires too much work, too many long hours of studious application to things with which you feel you are already intimately acquainted, but if you will march out your productions on dress parade and line them up side by side with others, you will not be long in discovering defects which may sicken your heart.

But if you are made of the right material, and have within your breast an inflexible determination to go to the top, such comparisons will not be odious.

It is only by hearing superior music, or by seeing a masterpiece in painting or sculpture, that we learn to know the inferior and thus gain an eminence where we find an inexpressible pleasure in imparting our hard-earned knowledge to others.

YOUR Last Name

IS IT THATCHER?

THERE are several names beginning in Thack and Thatch that recall to mind a trade that was once usual but which today has practically passed out of existence. This is the trade of making thatch roofs or thatching. Thackeray and Thackwray probably meant thatched-way. Thackwell meant thatch-well and was probably applied to one who was reputed to be a good thatcher. Thake and Theak mean simply thatch while Thacker, Theaker and Thackster, are variations of Thatcher.

The first of the name here was Thomas Thatcher, first minister of Old South church in Boston. His father was Peter Thatcher, who was rector of St. Edmund's parish in Salisbury, England. Thomas came in 1635, went first to Weymouth and then to Boston.

ROSE—There are many possible derivations for this name. In fact there are many different Rose families, which may have gained the name in many different ways. In this country of late years Rose has been taken as a shortened form of many German names beginning with Rosen, such as Rosenburg, Rosenbaum, names usually possessed by Hebrews. However Rose is a good old English name. It is sometimes akin with Row, when it is a discriptive local name. Again it may have been derived from a first name Rose or Rosamond. Often it was a sign name. John at the Rose, for instance, would have been a tradesman who did business in a shop at the sign of the rose.

WHO SAID

"All Is Lost Save Honor"

THESE words are attributed to Francis I, King of France, when he learned that his armies had been defeated by those of Emperor Charles of Austria, and that he would be forced to forfeit a large part of his dominions.

Francis I was born in 1494 and died in 1547. He ascended the French throne in 1515, having succeeded his uncle, Louis XII. He laid claim to the city of Milan, and in enforcing his claim, defeated the Swiss on the plains of Marignano and forced the reigning duke, Maximilian Sforza, to acknowledge his claims.

In the year 1519, Francis became one of the competitors for the empire of Maximilian but the choice fell on Charles of Austria, the grandson of Maximilian, and from that time on the two monarchs were bitter rivals. Charles assumed the title of Charles V, and his armies and those of Francis I were continually warring. Both sought the aid of England and the support of the English government was, at different times, with Francis and then with Charles.

It was with the idea of cementing the friendship existing between him and the king of England that Francis I invited the English monarch, Henry VIII, to an interview which took place near Calais.

In the year 1521, war broke out between Francis and Charles and Francis was finally taken prisoner. He was granted his release only on condition that he renounce his claim to some of his greatest possessions. A later war in which England sided with Francis prevented the carrying out of these demands of Charles, but soon after this Francis found himself engaged in another war in which the fickle king of England sided with Charles. Peace was concluded at Crespy, very fortunately for the worn-out armies of the French monarch.

THE ONLY THING

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

MAN need not with his mind dispute
Nor with his heart debate;
The Lord has laid him out his route,
And laid it pretty straight.
It's oftener rather hard to see
Which road the pleasantest will be,
But ev'ry fellow knows at sight
Which road, of all life's roads, is right.

What else need anybody know?
And what is there to talk?
We know the road we ought to go,
The path we ought to walk;
And though we hem and though we haw,
And wisely talk about "the law,"
Man needs no lawyer to decide,
With his own conscience for his guide.

We may not know which path will pay
The largest pay in gold;
Not always it's the narrow way,
Or so I have been told.
But what has that to do with it?—
Although we hesitate a bit,
In our own hearts, and all along,
We know the right road from the wrong.

One road has pleasure all the way,
And some are rock and fire,
And some a recompense will pay
A Midas might desire.
But, though we sometimes hesitate,
And with our conscience would debate,
We know the right, both I and you—
And that's the only thing to do.

Failure is often the turning point, the pivot of circumstance that swings us to a higher level. Life is not really what comes to us, but what we get out of it.—Jordan.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

WHEN you have exhausted all ways of cooking the delicious hubbard squash try:

Souffled Squash.

Take a medium-sized squash, remove the seeds and stringy portion, then peel off the rind. Place in a steamer and cook over boiling water until tender, then mash and season to taste with salt, pepper and butter. To two cupfuls of mashed squash add gradually one cupful of cream and when well mixed, the yolks of two well beaten eggs. Mix well, then fold in the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven until firm. Serve at once.

Bread Sponge Cake.

Take one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, three-fourths of a cupful of lard and butter mixed, two well beaten eggs, one-fourth of a cupful of sweet milk, two cupfuls of bread sponge, three cupfuls of flour and one teaspoonful of soda. Add spices, raisins, and a few nuts, mix well and let rise then bake.

Stuffed Onions.

Parboil large-sized onions, take out the centers, leaving a cavity to hold the filling. Chop the onion removed from the center, mix with cold sausage meat or bacon and crumbs with seasoning. Fill the centers, pour around good beef broth or add butter and water. Bake until the onions are tender, basting occasionally. Cover each with a spoonful of buttered crumbs and brown before serving.

Golden Fleece.

To one cupful of cream in a frying pan add one-half pound of cheese broken up into bits, adding a dash of cayenne. When smooth break over this mixture five or six eggs, cover two minutes; when the white is set, remove the cover, add salt and beat the mass briskly for a few minutes. Serve on buttered crackers.

Melon Basket.

For a child's party a pretty basket made of a melon and filled with the pretty juicy melon balls is most attractive.

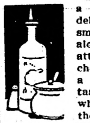
SOMETHING ABOUT SAUCE



A French sauce is a thing of supreme moment; the fish or meat with which it is served makes a dish of surpassing delicacy. No chef who smokes or indulges in alcoholic drinks can ever attain a high position as chef, for one must keep a sensitive sense of taste. There are few who equal the French in the making of sauces. The preparation of sauces is an art and the science of flavor combination is only discovered by the cook who has a proper respect for the importance of good cooking. A simple sauce is often like a simple gown—most expensive. It takes time to collect ingredients, blend and prepare a sauce.

A sauce is a fluid, thick or thin, flavored or seasoned in various ways with all sorts of herbs, aromatics and extracts. The thickening usually consists of starch in some form, either flour, cornstarch, arrow root, prepared as a roux, which may be cooked in butter. For a brown roux the flour is browned. Egg yolks are used for thickening.

The liquid for sauce may be stock, milk, cream or butter; or, in cold sauce, oil. The vegetable flavors are onions, leeks, garlic, peppers, green, red and hot; carrots, turnip, celery and mushrooms. Zest is often added from the grated rind of oranges or lemons.

The herbs and aromatics commonly used are thyme, marjoram, bay leaves, parsley, mint and chervil. The bones for stock are preferably veal bones, crushed and roasted. Fish bones and heads are used for stock for fish sauces.

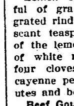
The basic sauce prepared with flour or starch, buttermilk or stock is called the white sauce. The brown sauce is prepared by browning the flour. There are various preparations which are an aid in seasoning and also add color—kitchen bouquet, worcestershire, and tabasco, choy sauces and various powders such as chili and curry are commonly found in most cuisines.

Tomato sauce is one of the most used vegetable sauces. It is prepared much like sirup. In these days of elimination a few cans of clear and cream tomato soup will be an addition to any supply shelf. One may add various seasonings to give variety and by simply heating the sauce it will be ready to serve.

The object of all sauces is to serve a savory fluid which will enhance the appearance and savor of the dish with which it is to be eaten.

Everyday Good Things.

A nice pudding, which may be quickly prepared if one has any cake, is:



Bordeaux Pudding.—Cut sponge cake into layers, spread with jam, put together again and cover with sweetened whipped cream; flavor to taste and sprinkle with chopped nuts.

A delicious sauce to serve with fish is prepared as follows:

Lemon Catsup.—Mix a tablespoonful of grated horseradish with the grated rind of four lemons, add three scant teaspoonfuls of salt, the juice of the lemons, three dessertspoonfuls of white mustard, and celery seed, four cloves and a few dashes of cayenne pepper. Boil thirty-five minutes and bottle.

Beef Goulash.—Take two pounds of lean beef cut into two-inch squares, three large onions sliced, two tablespoonfuls of fat, one cupful of chopped cabbage, eight small potatoes, two tablespoonfuls of salt, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, one cupful of boiling water and one-half cupful of milk. Brown the meat in the fat, remove and add the vegetables, fry for five minutes, then add the water and seasoning with the meat. The potatoes are better added after the cabbage, as they require less time for cooking. When all are tender add the milk.

Potato Soup.—Cook and mash three good-sized potatoes. To a quart of milk (skim milk may be used) add a slice of onion and a stalk of celery; scald and remove the vegetables and pour over the mashed potato. In a saucepan put two tablespoonfuls of butter—four if skimmed milk is used—and two tablespoonfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, and cook until well blended; add to the soup and when smooth serve with toasted crackers.

Chestnut Cakes.—Cook a pound of chestnuts fifteen minutes, shell and skin them, then cook in boiling water until tender. Rub through a sieve and to every cupful of chestnut puree add one egg yolk; season with salt and pepper, dip into egg and fry in butter. Serve with broiled steak.

With a cupful of nice-flavored grated cheese and a half cupful of hot cream, one may have a jar of good cream cheese. Heat the cream, stir in the cheese and when melted pour into jars.

Jefferson's Old "Desk" Prize for Collectors

Thomas Jefferson had a far-sighted appreciation of the historical value of articles which were commonplace enough but which, because they were associated with the genesis of the United States were certain to create in future generations a reverential attitude of mind. For instance, he wrote to his granddaughter, Ellen W. Coolidge, from Monticello, November 14, 1825, that he still had the "writing box" on which the "great Charter of our Independence" was written, says the Antiquarian.

"It was made," he told her, "from a drawing of my own by Ben Randall, a cabinet-maker of Philadelphia, in whose house I took my first lodgings on my arrival in Philadelphia in May, 1777; and I have used it ever since. It claims no merit of particular beauty. It is plain, neat, convenient, and taking no more room on the writing table than a moderate 4to volume. Its imaginary value will increase with the years."

Ancients Were Advertisers

In ancient Greece certain spaces on the outer walls of homes were used for advertising purposes, either to offer real estate or homemade articles for sale or to designate a place of residence or barter. In Pompeii, when it was uncovered, many such walls were found and Roman ruins revealed that real estate especially was offered in that way. The first newspaper advertisement did not actually appear until about 1647, it is said. The cost was about $1 for 2 inches per person reached. In big dailies now the cost is about 1 cent per page per home reached.

Element of Pure Value

Doubtless there is in every art an element of mere knowledge . . . and that element is progressive. But there is another element, too, which does not depend on knowledge, and which does not progress, but has a kind of stationary and eternal value, like the beauty of the dawn, or the love of a mother for a child, or the joy of a young animal in being alive, or the courage of a martyr facing torment. We cannot for all our progress get beyond these things; there they stand, like light upon the mountains. The only question is whether we can rise to them.—Sir Gilbert Murray, in "The Legacy of Greece."

To err is human; also to lie out of it.

New Idea in Night Clubs

In the large cities where they have "night clubs," which are in reality only exclusive or semi-exclusive cafes for dancing and entertainment, a tiny baby grand piano has been placed on rollers and the player rolls it around the floor, playing particular pieces of music for the guests as they may request. The piano is small enough to be rolled in between the tables and its tones are eminently satisfactory, it is said.

CHAMBER FIXES PRICE RANGE

Emergency Measure Provides Limit in Day's Change in Values.

Minneapolis—The Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce, in one of the most important changes to its regulation in its 40 years of existence, took voluntary action to limit the fluctuations of the prices of grain for future delivery.

By virtually unanimous vote, the members of the chamber empowered their board of directors, at any time upon 10 hours' advanse notice, to declare that an emergency exists. During the emergency the directors may provide that there shall be no trading in futures of any specified grain at prices five per cent, or some higher percentage, above or below the average closing price of the day before. A similar rule was put into effect by the Chicago board of trade.

Is Important Development.

The new rule marks one of the most important developments in the history of the grain market. It provides effective means for checking "runaway" markets and violent swing in prices. The grain trade united in hailing the new departure as certain to prove a mighty factor in stabilizing the grain market of the country through its instruments for doing away with fluctuations so wide as to cause damage to producers of, or dealers in grain.

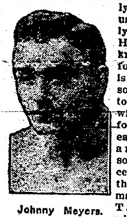
Aggie School Plans Two Special Days

Football Game Will Be Feature Of Each Day

The Northwest Shool at Crookston is planning two special days for this fall which will be of interest to a large number in this vicinity. Saturday, October 24 will be Home Coming day and November 7 will be Parents Day. Appropriate programs have been arranged for each event.

Home Coming day will be a pleasant occasion when former students and alumni may return for a get-to-gether and renewal of aquaintances. The feature of the day will be the football game in the afternoon with East Grand Forks. Parents day will be the time when classes may be visited and the nature of the school work inspected. A special assembly program that will be very interesting will be given. Part of the day will be given over to recreation and the Aggies will conclude their football season by a game with the Crookston High School. A cordial invitation has been extended by Supt. C. G. Selvig for parents, former students and friends to be present for these special days.

Champion Wrestler Tells What to Eat



Johnny Meyers.

Johnny Meyers, middleweight wrestling champion of the world, is strongly in favor of the use of scientifically prepared foods. He prefers to know that the food he is eating is pure and wholesome rather than to take a chance with any kind of food poisoning by eating food from an unknown source. In a recent interview on the eve of his match with Lou Talaber, from whom he won his crown, he said: "I expect to win the crown from Talaber. He is a fine wrestler and uses more science than any man of the mat today. However, I feel sure that my superior physical condition will prevail and that I will emerge victorious and the champion of my division. Diet is a very important part of my program in training for a match. The system that I use is really very simple, involving only good judgment and caution in the selection of food. I prefer to eat scientifically prepared foods whenever possible and I never eat anything to which is attached the slightest doubt of its purity. I eat a great deal of canned foods because I am sure that they are pure and will have no ill effects on my digestive system. Take, just as an example of what food can do for the body—milk. It is the greatest of body builders and a very important part of any man's diet. But is sometimes impure or contaminated and may be the source of illness if used. Because of this fact, I use evaporated milk entirely and find it very satisfactory. I know that it is pure and that I will not suffer from its use. I know that it is a great body builder because the concentration of it gives it such food value. I know that it is easily digested, more so than market milk, in fact, because I drink it before going to bed and feel no effects of it in the morning. This is usually hard to do with ordinary market milk. This plan, in substance, is the same one that I use regarding other foods. If there is any chance or suspicion of impurity or low food value, I use something else.

"And if a man is so situated that it is impossible for him to get the proper amount of exercise, he must be doubly cautious not to partake of any but the purest food. On the whole, if a man eats with wisdom and observes the fundamental rules for good health, there is no reason why he should ever have a sick or uncomfortable day."

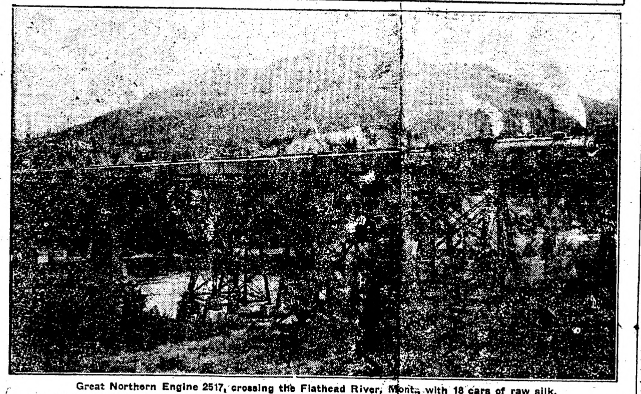
Great Northern Hangs Up New Record For Continuous Engine Run



Great Northern Engine 2517, crossing the Flathead River, Mont., with 18 cars of raw silk.

One of the most remarkable engine performances ever accomplished by any railroad has just been reported by the Great Northern Railway. On Friday, Sept. 25th, Great Northern passenger locomotive No. 2517 left Seattle at 4:30 in the afternoon hauling 18 cars raw silk and one passenger coach and made the run through to St. Paul without stops other than operating stops in 52 hours and 35 minutes arriving St. Paul at 11:05 P. M., Sunday, Sept. 27th. This special train of 18 cars silk is the largest individual silk shipment ever transported in the Northwest. Next Morning, Monday, Sept. 28th, this engine was coupled onto Train No. 27, the fastest long distance mail train in the world, and left St. Paul at 9:05 A. M. after being held twenty minutes after usual leaving time of No. 27 account delay in connecting mail train, and again made the through run from St. Paul to Seattle, 1789 miles, in 47 hours 10 minutes, arriving Seattle on time at 6:15 A. M., Wednesday, Sept. 30th, her average running time being approximately 38 miles per hour. Engine 2517 bettered the regular schedule of Number 27 by 20 minutes. The round trip performance of this remarkable engine from Seattle to St. Paul and return, a total distance of 3,571 miles, was 99 hours and 45 minutes, which is a feat never before accomplished by any American railway. The average distance traveled by one locomotive is between division points of from 150 to 200 miles each. This record is all the more exceptional when the time consumed for fueling and watering the engine is taken out. In ordinary cases the replacing engine is already fueled and watered. Another remarkable fact in connection with this record is that this is a stock engine, one of the fleet of oil-burning passenger locomotives which haul the Oriental Limited, and was not especially prepared in any way.

Tinus Nybo shipped his household goods, stock and machinery to Sago, Montana., Saturday, where he has rented a farm. Mr. Nybo came here from Montana about six years ago and has been engaged in farming west of town since then.

Farmers Can Have Real Quality Meat

The best season for sausage making, and the dressing, curing, and canning of meats on the farm is here again. Three illustrated bulletins issued by the agricultural extension service of the university show how the producer can supply his family, and perhaps some of his neighbors, with quality meat that commands the highest price in the market. D., was in town Monday attending to distribution and will be sent to any address when request is made to the Office of Publications, University Farm, St. Paul, Minnesota. Write for the set of three.

Biddy Won't Lay Well in Ramshackle Home

Mrs. S. S. Rood of Aitkin, whose poultry flock usually nets about $2.50 per hen above feed cost annually, writes extension division people at Universary Farm that "there is no such thing as success without good quarters for the poultry." The poultry house campaign of the University specialists therefore appeals to her as one of the best moves made in resent years for helping the poultry grower. Her own house is a well insulated shed roof house, 16x90 feet, costing only $225. She tells of a neighbor who successfully remodeled an old log building at small cost.

Pittsburgh Captures World Baseball Championship

Wins Final Game Of Series 9 to 7 In A Free Slugging Match

Washington, Oct. 15.—Washington fandom took to heart the Senators, defeat by Pittsburg today, its regret heightened by the failure of "Old Barney" Johnson to carve more deeply his niche in baseball's hall of fame by winning three games in a world's series.

Thousands standing in the srteets before play boards cheered the old warrior after each pitch in the early innings while Washington held a lead but they gave way to expression of sympathy and dismay as the Pirates battered down the margin.

The home gaurd fans were pulling for a Washington victory with Walter Johnson in the pitching box but as succeeding innings added to Pittsburg's attack even his staunchest supporters were calling for Manager Harris to relieve Barney of his burden. The eight inning, when the Pirates took the winning lead, was hard for the loyalists crowding about the scoreboards to watch, and many of them left for home.

A mighty groan went up as "Goose" Goslin fanned the air for Washington's final out in the ninth. It meant more than the loss of the world's championship for the Senators; it signified that Walter Johnson had been baffled in his desire to join that small group of basaball's immortals who have fought and won three games in a title contest.

UNEARNED CRITICISM

By FRANCIS H. SISSON

Chairman, Public Relations Commission American Bankers Association

Francis H. Sisson

There has been some disposition to criticize the administration of the country's banking system for the sudden collapse of prices and curtailment of credits in 1920 and 1921, and the subsequent financial difficulties of the farmers. As a matter of fact, whatever blame may attach to bankers must be for the too generous financing, in many cases, of speculative investment in farm property during the period of inflation. If any just criticism could be directed at the manner in which the Federal Reserve System functioned in this situation it is the opinion of many it would be that the Reserve banks delayed too long in raising the rediscount rates. An earlier effort might have stayed the process of inflation.

The collapse of 1920 was by no means confined to agriculture, and was the inevitable sequel to the inflation period. All branches of business suffered in this period of reaction and perhaps none more than banking, against which this criticism has been levelled. The financial situation of the farmers was greatly aggravated by the fact that the high land values and high prices of agricultural products had led many farmers to incur obligations based on the inflated values. If the farmer was victimized at all, indeed, he was the victim of too much rather than too little consideration. The real progress which has been achieved in agricultural finance in recent years lies more in the intelligent distribution of farm credit than in volume.

With agencies now functioning for the provision of ample credits for the American farmer, his enduring success depends upon the wisdom and foresight with which he meets the problems of production and marketing. More than ever before, his activities must be regulated with reference to world conditions, and his profits, like those of the manufacturer or merchant, will reflect the measure of his success in adjusting his activities to these conditions.

Placability.

Nothing is more praiseworthy, nothing more suited to a great and illustrious man than placability and a merciful disposition.

Sassafras in Medicine

The roots of sassafras very early in American history became an important article of medicine. It is sometimes called the "ague tree" as a decoction of its bark was supposed to cure that disease. Sassafras tea, an infusion of the young shoots and roots, has long been a favorite remedy for colds and a tonic, being a sudorific and a stimulant.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

VALUE OF MEDITATION

WHETHER among the captains, or in the lowly ranks of the struggling masses, set apart a little bit of time every day for your private use and give every moment of it to serious reflection.

Consider what you are, toward where you are heading and just what part you are playing in the great drama of life.

Be not afraid to grope in the dark, nor ashamed to face the light, for it is only by courage, by repeated reproval of self, that you can hope to improve and fit your hand and brain for greater usefulness.

To decide that such a course is of no avail is to admit defeat before you test your prowess in making an effort.

The great men and women of America, whose memories and names are everywhere revered, found their way to the glorious heights through trials, temptations and opposing currents by serious contemplation of their failings and human frailties, the common heritage of mankind.

They found in their silent hours of meditation the ever-blazing lamp of hope. After weary months and years they learned how to hold this light above their heads and follow its kindly rays to pleasant places, stumbling now and then, but always regaining their foothold and making sure of their path.

The fault with most people is that they will not take time for searching deliberation of their own condition. They prefer fickle amusement and harmful companionship rather than the substantial essence which builds good character and ennobles the soul.

They unconsciously become so entangled in emotions, and in emotional thoughts, that they gradually stray from the common sod and soar aimlessly among the clouds, dreaming of wealth and influence which they imagine are waiting for them at every turn of the road, over which they go sailing like butterflies, thoughtless of the approaching winter.

In short, they are quite sure that they are going upward, when in truth they are drifting downward to failure, disappointment and tears, all depicted in the final chapter of the book of their inconsiderate lives.

There is nothing wholly impossible to the man or woman who will deliberately penetrate his or her own heart-sanctuary and wrest from it the poisonous thoughts and wanton habits which are ever seeking to incapacitate and destroy.

WHO SAID

"If grief is to be mitigated, it must either wear itself out or be shared."

THESE words are attributed to Madame Anne Sophie Soymanov Swetchine, the authoress whose works are claimed by both France and Russia.

Madame Swetchine came naturally by her literary ability. Her father was a Soymanov, the founder of the famous academy at Moscow, and it was in such an atmosphere that Madame Swetchine was reared.

In the year 1790 this talented woman married General Swetchine. After her marriage she took up her residence in St. Petersburg and established a salon there which soon became famous for the celebrated personages which visited it. This was about the time of the French Revolution and there were great numbers of the French nobility pouring out of France in order to escape the fury of the mob. Many of these people found their way into Russia, and because of this Madame Swetchine's salon was frequented by some of the best French people.

It was to here that Joseph de Maistre looked for an asylum during the Revolutionary period in France, when any person to whom even the faintest suspicion of royal sympathies attached was in danger. Joseph de Maistre was well known in his own country as a writer on philosophy and religion and he was a statesman as well. He was a devout Roman Catholic and finally persuaded Madame Swetchine to renounce her allegiance to the Greek church and become a communicant of the Roman church.

Madame Swetchine's conversion took place in the year 1815. The year following she moved to Paris where she opened another salon and soon attracted to herself a group of students and literary men and women such as had been her intimates in Russia. There was one difference, however. Since her conversion madame had become very devoutly religious and her Paris salon partook of an extremely religious atmosphere.

EAT MORE VEGETABLES

IF WE ate less rich food such as pies, puddings and meats and served daily a green salad, at at least two meals, the health of the family would be greatly benefited. Fresh fruit is another essential. Apples are plentiful and are in most places very reasonable in price.

Spinach may be had the year round—the canned variety is not as good as the fresh, but it has the advantage of being ready to serve.

Carrots should be served in various ways. Creamed, served in butter with lemon juice; fresh-grated and added to chopped cabbage and celery, we have a most wholesome salad; a few nuts may be added for a change; a bit of onion will also add variety in flavor.

Even-sized onions, roasted on coals and served with butter, are delicious. Fresh ones chopped, mixed with salad dressing and served as sandwich filling, make a nice Sunday night lunch, after church.

Baked beets, served with butter, are hard to equal as a vegetable. One can have canned corn, beans—string and otherwise—any time of the year, while celery, that delectable nutty vegetable, is nearly always in the market.

With the root vegetables which we can store in our cellars, and squashes with cabbage and onions, there need be no lack of variety.

Such green leaves as lettuce, chinese cabbage and endive, with a bit of salad dressing, a salad is a quick dish [illegible].

RIDING ON A RAILROAD TRAIN

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

RIDING on a railroad train,
Through the sunshine, through the rain,
Has so much of pleasure in it,
Something lovely every minute!—
Always crossing little brooks,
Always passing shady nooks,
Shallows made for folks to wade in,
Meadows that the children played in,
Far-off forests, fences, fields,
Every moment something yields,
God's great sky forever o'er you,
All of earth spread out before you.

Riding on a railroad train
How can anyone complain,
Ever worry, ever weary,
Say it's long, or slow, or dreary,
With so many things to see:
Snowy fields or leafy tree?—
Passing mansion, cottage, dwelling,
Every house of something telling,
Stopping at some little town
Quaint and queer and tumble-down,
Touched a little with God's glory,
Just unwinding like a story.

Riding on a railroad train,
Through the mountain, o'er the plain,
Where you journey doesn't matter—
There is music in the clatter,
For you always find a friend
And a haven at the end.
So it is, and so our life is—
What the joy is, what the strife is,
Life is like a railroad train,
Bearing us through sun and rain
On some way that we have found us,
With God's beauty all around us.

Your Last Name

IS IT SCHAEFFER?

SCHAEFFER always appears to be a name of German origin, though most of those who bear it in this country now are 100 per cent Americans. The first of the name to come here was Alexander Schaeffer, a native of the Palatine. He went to England and then settled in this country in 1728.

Possibly the largest family of Schaeffers is descended from David Schaeffer, who came from Frankfort in 1776 and settled in Pennsylvania. He was a learned Hebrew and a stanch Lutheran. Charles Ashmead Schaeffer, a noted educator, was one of his descendants. George Schaeffer, a pioneer in Pennsylvania, is also to be mentioned, as is Nathan C. Schaeffer, well-known educator and writer.

MORRIS: There are many theories as to the origin of this name. It is sometimes said to be derived from the first name Maurice. Again it is claimed by one branch of the family that they are descended from Maur Rhys. The one who first bore this name was a companion of Richard de Clare, known as Strongbow. He took part in the Anglo-Norman conquest of Ireland in 1171. His name was Rgyrs at first, but as indication of his [illegible]alor, he was subsequently known as Maur Rhys. The American branch of the family making this claim was founded here by Richard Morris, who arrived in New York in 1668. He purchased 2,000 acres of land in what is now the borough of the Bronx in New York.

A more usual and possibly more likely theory is that Morris has the meaning of Moor, and dates from the days when Christian Europe was at war with Moors and Saracens. It is quite likely that the one who first was given the name Morris took the part of a Moor in a pageant or old morality play.

Continental Currency

The Treasury department says that the various issues of Continental currency were never redeemable by the United States as reorganized under the Constitution. By act of August 4, 1790, it was receivable at the treasury in subscriptions to a loan at the rate of $100 in Continental money for $1 in specie. By the act of March 3, 1797, it was declared that said money should be receivable as above until December 31, 1797, and no longer.

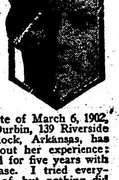
The Test of Time Proves the Value of PE-RU-NA



Under the date of March 6, 1902, Mrs. Maggie Durbin, 139 Riverside Ave., Little Rock, Arkansas, has this to say about her experience: "I was troubled for five years with a chronic disease. I tried everything I heard of, but nothing did me any good. Some doctors said my trouble was catarrh of the bowels, others consumption of the bowels. The medicine I took did no good. A friend advised me to try PE-RU-NA. I did. After taking two bottles I found it was helping me and continued. Am now sound and well."

A letter from Mrs. Durbin, dated December 12, 1923, shows that, even after twenty-two years, she is in the best of health: "I still recommend PE-RU-NA to my friends who need a good medicine and everybody is pleased. I thank you many times for what PE-RU-NA has done for me."

There is nothing strange in this experience of Mrs. Durbin. It has been repeated thousands of times by sufferers from catarrh and catarrhal diseases.

BROUGHT RELIEF AFTER 2 YEARS SUFFERING

"The makers of Tanlac will always have my warmest thanks, for I don't consider it any exaggeration to say I owe my life and present good health to Tanlac," is the striking statement of Andrew Groeschner, fireman.

"Words simply can't express the misery I endured for 2 years from indigestion. At times gas pains would catch me around the heart and almost cut off my breath. These awful pains would last two and three hours. My nerves were all unstrung. I slept poorly and got in such a bad way that my days seemed to be shortening rapidly.

"I tried everything, but disappointment was my only reward until I began taking Tanlac. I have been taking Tanlac off and on for a year now and feel so different that there's no room for comparison. I eat good and sleep good and feel that Tanlac has given me a new lease on life."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute.

A COVINGTON, KY., WOMAN

Makes Remarkable Recovery

Mrs. Harry Ashcroft Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Her of Severe Illness and Pain

MRS. HARRY ASHCROFT
632 BEECH AVENUE, COVINGTON, KY.

Covington, Ky.—"I was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my housework as I could not stand because of the bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen. I sat down most of the time and did what I could do in that way—as washing dishes, etc. One day a book describing Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines was put in my mail box. I saw how the Vegetable Compound had helped others so I gave it a trial. I had to take about a dozen bottles before I gained my strength, but I certainly praise this medicine. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine for poor blood. I was cold all the time. I would be so cold I could hardly sit still and in the palms of my hands there would be drops of sweat. I also used the Sanative Wash and I recommend it also. You may publish this letter and I will gladly answer letters from women and advise my neighbors about these medicines."—Mrs. HARRY ASHCROFT, 632 Beech Avenue, Covington, Kentucky.

Mrs. Boyer Also Found Help

Gilman City, Missouri.—"I was in such a condition that I could not eat nor sleep to do me any good and I felt draggy all the time. My head ached, my right side and back would almost kill me at times, and I could be on my feet only a short while at a time. I was irregular and so nervous, irritable and despondent that I thought I could not stand the strain much longer. I had been this way more or less for ten years, but the last two years was just terrible. I took medicines, but got little relief until I began to take the Vegetable Compound. I took three bottles before I could see any change at all. I have taken seven in all and am improving right along. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and take the Liver Pills. I can do most of my work now, and I live on a farm and there is lots of it to do. I wash, iron, hoe the garden, raise chickens and tend to the milk."—Mrs. T. M. BOYER, Gilman City, Missouri.

Mamma's Little Helper

When unexpected company came to dinner little Betty was told privately that she and mother would have to have oyster soup without the oysters. The young lady was much flattered at her share in this sacrifice for hospitality and apparently disappointed when she found one small oyster in her plate. Holding it up on the spoon she inquired in a stage whisper: "Mother, shouldn't Mrs. Smith have this oyster, too?"—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

It is astonishingly easy to smile when things are going our way—but to smile when the other person is insulting, speak in a low tone when someone else is shouting, and then go home and make no complaint about his dinner, marks a really remarkable man.—Lloyd.

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY

A most attractive salad may be prepared with a grapefruit, an orange and a red skinned apple. Peel the orange and grapefruit and separate into sections, removing all the tough stringy fiber of the fruit. Cut the apple without peeling into eighths, removing the section of core. Arrange a section of grapefruit, then pieces of the red apple, a section of orange, another of grapefruit and apple, making a small hemisphere. Place on lettuce and serve with a spoonful of rich mayonnaise at the side of the salad.

Chili Con Carni.—Take one-half pound of fresh pork, lean and fat; one and one-half pounds of round steak, three good-sized onions, two cans of kidney beans, one chili pepper, two quarts of tomato, salt, pepper and chili powder—two or three tablespoonfuls of the powder will be needed. Chop or grind the meat (it is much nicer chopped) brown with the chopped onions, then add all of the other ingredients except the beans, which will be added just long enough to heat through well. Cook slowly for three hours, stirring often. Remove the chili pepper after the dish is well-seasoned with it, or it may be too hot for some tastes.

Sweet Potatoes, Southern Style.—Boil or steam three medium-sized sweet potatoes. Pare, slice and place in overlapping rows in a shallow baking dish. Add to one-half cupful of water, one cupful of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter, mixed with one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon. Cook these for ten minutes until sirupy. Add one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and pour over the sliced potatoes. Bake covered for fifteen minutes, then brown.

Prune Whip.—Stew half a dozen prunes with a little sugar in the same water in which they were soaked overnight. Put them through a sieve, add the beaten white of an egg and serve heaped in a glass with a spoonful of whipped cream.

Food for the Family.

A white-meated fish makes a most delicious dinner dish when boiled. Wrap in a cheesecloth and simmer until tender in boiling water salted lightly. Serve with a drawn butter sauce or parsley butter, or with:

Venetian Sauce.—Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add four tablespoonfuls of flour and stir until well-blended; then add two cupfuls of water, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point, add the juice of half a lemon, one-fourth of a cupful of capers chopped, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley and two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped pickles. Again bring to the boiling point, season with salt and two tablespoonfuls of butter added bit by bit.

Cream Delights.—Mix and sift one and one-half cupfuls of pastry flour with one teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of baking powder. Add very slowly enough thick cream to make a soft dough, roll out as thin as possible. Shape with a cooky-cutter, prick with a fork and bake in a moderate oven. Serve with salad.

Currant Nut Muffins.—Mix two tablespoonfuls of sugar with three tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one well-beaten egg, two cupfuls of sifted flour and three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add one-fourth cupful of dried currants and nut meats, one cupful of milk, and beat well. Drop into greased muffin pans and bake one-half hour in a moderate oven.

Chicken Souffle.—Make a sauce of two cupfuls of scalded milk, one-third of a cupful each of butter and flour, one teaspoonful of salt. Melt the butter, add the flour and when well blended add the milk and the seasonings with a dash of cayenne. Remove from the heat, add two cupfuls of finely-chopped chicken, the yolks of three eggs well-beaten, then fold in the stiffly-beaten whites of three eggs and a tablespoonful of minced parsley with one-half cupful of soft bread crumbs. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake thirty-five minutes in a slow oven. Serve with mushroom sauce.

Brown Stew of Carrots.—Wash and scrape a dozen large carrots. Drop them into boiling water and cook until tender. Cut into balls with a potato cutter; add to a pint of rich brown sauce, prepared from stock, with seasoning of catsup, cayenne and onion juice. Simmer twenty minutes; thicken the sauce after removing the carrots; return to the sauce and serve.

Molded Salad.—Add gelatin to tomatoes that have been put through a sieve, season and mold in small egg cups. Serve on lettuce with small spoonfuls of minced pineapple heaped around the tomato. Add a spoonful of mayonnaise at the side of each and serve.

The Test of Character

There is something finer than to do right against our inclinations, and that is to have an inclination to do right. There is something nobler than reluctant obedience, and that is joyful obedience. The rank of virtue is not measured by its disagreeableness, but by its sweetness to the heart that loves it. The real test of character is joy. For what you rejoice in, that you love. For what you love, that you are like.—Henry Van Dyke.

The Only Reason We Can Give

You will surely want some explanation why the news is so scarce in this weeks issue. So we may as well give you a few reasons first as last. One of them is that linotype department has been snowed under, and as a matter of fact is not yet quite out of the flurry of flying copy, and a lot of other birds that took flight when the snow came.

The fire bell had the dust shaken off from it on Tuesday, when it was called upon to give the general fire alarm. A chimney fire had gotten uncontrolable at the home of Brita Johnson. Upon hearing the alarm, a number of men ran down to her residence and put out the fire.

Upon inspecting the chimney, after the fire was put out, Mr. Sovde, who is fire chief, found that it had cracked open from the intense heat.

Mr. Young has enlarged the work room of the post office this week, so that the Holiday business may be taken care of more conveniently.

Bible in English

The first English version of the Bible, based on a translation from the original Greek and Hebrew in which the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments were written, is ascribed to William Tyndale (1490-1536). Wycliffe, before him, had put the Bible into English, but translated from the Latin versions. Tyndale began to publish his New Testament in 1536. Then he turned to the Old Testament, and by the time of his death had gotten as far as the Books of Chronicles.

Seventh Day Adventists

A few persons in New England, formerly of the First Day Adventists, began to observe, in 1844, the seventh day of the week as the Sabbath and to preach the doctrines which now constitute the distinctive tenets of the Seventh Day Adventists. At a conference held at Battle Creek, Mich., in 1860 these were organized under the name "Seventh Day Adventist Denomination" and three years later a general conference was organized.

College Boat Races.

The first college boat races held were between boats owned by Yale students in Boston harbor in 1844, the contestants being an eight-oared gig and a dugout canoe. The first intercollegiate race was rowed by Yale and Harvard crews in eight-oared barges over a two-mile course on Lake Winnipesaukee in 1852.

Fighting Fishes.

Prize-fighting fishes are very common on the coast of Japan and Siam. Their pugilistic tendencies are most pronounced, so much so that the natives make them take the place of boxers in Siam, and arrange matches in glass bowls between two of the species, heavy bets being laid on the result.

Health and Home

THE WOMAN WHO WORKS

In this new order of things, with women, both married and single, broadening their business activities, a very serious problem arises. It is the problem of What, When, and where to eat.

Breakfast is always a hurry-up meal for the men but much more so for the woman who goes to business. Luncheons, of course, are taken in the lunchrooms and restaurants in the business districts and are no problem. But how about dinners? Shall they, too, be restaurant meals or can they be so planned that business women may enjoy the home cooking of which they are so fond? Take away the element of haste and anxiety and in its place put carefully thought-out menus, well planned and easily prepared, and home dinners will again regain their high favor with the working housewife.

One of the big worries is frequently with the milk. Did it come? Is it fresh? Is it frozen? Has the milkman been paid? Are the bottles washed and set out? However, there is no cause for worry about milk. Why not keep a dozen cans of evaporated milk in your pantry? There are large cans, equal to a quart of milk and smaller cans that will meet the lesser needs.

For evaporated milk is just pure, fresh milk with more than half the water missing. This water can be replaced in a jiffy, if you so desire or you can use it as cream if rich and creamy foods are desired.

Here are a few recipes that may be used by "The Woman Who Works" for forming her plans for self help and good home cooking.

Scalloped Ham and Potatoes.

1 pound smoked ham	1⅓ cups water
6 medium potatoes	1 green pepper (may be omitted)
1⅓ cups evaporated milk diluted with	Flour

Cover the bottom of an oiled baking dish with sliced, raw potatoes. Sprinkle with flour and pieces of ham ½ inch square. Repeat until dish is full. Fill dish ¾ full of diluted milk. Bake until potatoes are tender.

Eggs en Casserole.

6 hard-boiled eggs	¾ cup evaporated milk
3 tomatoes	¾ cup water
3 tbsp. butter	½ cup grated cheese
3 tbsp. flour	Buttered crumbs
2 tsp. salt

Cut hard-boiled eggs in half and arrange around the edge of a greased casserole. Slice tomatoes in center of dish. Make a white sauce of the milk, water, fat and flour. Add cheese and stir over a low fire until cheese is well mixed and smooth. Pour over tomatoes and eggs. Cover with crumbs and bake twenty minutes in a moderate oven.

Warns of Gas Poison

Warning has been given by the bureau of mines that gas heaters for domestic use must be regulated with regard to the proportion of air and gas used to avoid giving off poisonous carbon monoxide gas. Calling attention to "numerous deaths and asphyxiations that have occurred in many cities due to carbon monoxide" from gas heaters, the bureau gave reasons for incomplete gas combustion which might result in formation of carbon monoxide gas.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

INDOMITABLE INDUSTRY

THE smiling bow-boy who thrills the hearts of young lads and lasses and warms the souls of sentimental mankind, from the budding sapling to the withered tree of old age, never misses an hour in pulling his bowstring and shooting his fatal arrows.

His work is so delightful, so exceedingly full of exquisite variation and change that the mere suggestion to him of a vacation would instantly sadden his cheerful countenance.

He finds his greatest happiness in indomitable industry.

He is constantly drawing his bow and twanging his string.

As fast as he flings his arrows the game dissolves into an eternity of bliss. Then other game comes over the hill and that, too, is hurried off to meet its joyous fate.

Since the day when Eve gave Adam the apple, and bade him eat, the bow-boy has kept steadily at his work. Neither the tide nor the wind is more regular in its performance.

He made his advent before the unions were dreamed of, yet he is directly responsible for more unions than any other agent on earth.

He works because of his love of work. He sticks to it for the all-sufficient reason that in employment he finds his own greatest delight.

The truth is that if he were to discontinue his occupation the world would soon lose its prized romance, its dreams of conquest, its visions of home, its tenderness, its stirring emotions and the immortality of love.

Remove the bow-boy from the stage of life and in a little while the whole human family would be at war and in tatters; a few years more and humans would become extinct.

Just as industry keeps the bow-boy always happy, so does it give happiness to others.

Why is it then that, while the world is calling for workers there are so many apostles of laxity, afraid to soil their hands or tire their brains?

By work we rise to eminence. By idleness we sink to despair.

If we should look through the mazes in quest for truth we would find that well-directed effort, whether of hand or brain, is most honorable, made so by a higher power to bring about our earthly joys to develop our latent abilities, our self-respect, and to fit us for the more beautiful life to come, which even the idler, if pushed hard in argument, will shamefacedly admit.

WHO SAID

"Resignation is a daily suicide."

WHEN one gives up fighting and resigns himself to his fate, he has, to all intents and purposes, committed suicide. That is the sum and substance of the words quoted above, which came from the pen of the great French writer, Honore de Balzac.

Balzac, who is famous as the author of many novels which rank as classics, was born at Tours, France, in the year 1799. Before completing his twenty-fourth year he had published a number of novels under various noms de plume but none were attended by any great success. In the year 1829, he published his novel, "Le Dernier Chouan, a Tale of La Vendee." This was the first work to which he attached his name and the sensation which is aroused brought him fame.

A much greater degree of success attended the publication of Balzac's next work, "Physiologie de Mariage," which is noted for its piquant and caustic observations on human nature. All the works of Balzac are characterized by the close observation of human nature which is to be noted in this work. The genius of Balzac is marked by his distinct, although sometimes exaggerated, delineation of character.

Among the best-known works of this writer are, "Scenes de la Vie Parisienne," "Scenes de la Vie de Province," "Le Pere Goriot" and "Le Medicin de Campagne."

The last named work translated is "The Country Doctor," the publication of which brought Balzac into correspondence with the Countess Eveline de Hanska. This woman is the "Polish Lady" to whom Balzac dedicated his "Modeste Mignon," written in 1844. Fifteen years later he was united in marriage with this same heroine of his literary work.

Balzac's death occurred in the year 1850.

A FEW PIES

PIE has been called the Great American Dessert for it is one of the most popular of all desserts.

There are any number of fillings which one may serve in a baked shell, cover with a meringue or whipped cream and serve. Such pastry, as it has but one crust, is better for anybody, as rich pastry is hard to digest.

Banana Pie.

Line a pie plate with pastry and bake for twelve minutes. Cream together one tablespoonful of butter and three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, add two egg yolks beaten slightly, one-third of a cupful of flour, three-fourths of a cupful of boiling water and cook in a double boiler until thickened. Cool and add a few drops of vanilla. Peel and slice three large bananas, putting a layer in the bottom of the pastry shell and covering with cream filling; spread another layer of the bananas and finish the top with cream. Cover with a meringue made of the two egg whites with four tablespoonfuls of sugar. Place in the oven until a delicate brown.

Apple Pie.

Some of the very best cooks prepare an apple pie with nothing but the apple as filling. The top crust is put on but not fluted. When baked the top crust is removed by cutting around the edges—lift it off and add sugar, nutmeg, butter, mix well and replace the top. Do this while the pie is still hot. The advantage of this method is that it saves all the juices—nothing boils out. Another way to insure the juices in a juicy pie is to add sugar, a bit of butter and seasoning, then when the under crust is dampened all around, place the top crust. Press down all around and wrap with a two or three-inch strip of muslin wrung from cold water. When the pie is removed from the oven peel off the cloth at once.

Breakfast Tomatoes.

Stew, season with salt, pepper and plenty of butter and pour piping hot over bread which has been heated in the oven and buttered. Toast well buttered may be served this way also.

THINGS DESIRED

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WITH all things unattainable, I used to dream the maddest things:
I, too, would have a citadel amid the company of kings.
When not a thing a man may own
Why dream of thatch? Nay, dream of stone!—
And build your castles all a-gleam,
For, after all, it's all a dream.

Yet, for the merry and the bold, the poorest fortunes often mend:
One day I found a pot of gold awaiting at the rainbow's end.
When I might dream a thing or two,
Yes, almost anything come true,
When one so poor was rich again,
What think you that I dreamed of then?

With all things unattainable, I used to dream of castled kings;
But now, it's rather strange to tell, I dream of very simple things:
When anything I well might own
I do not dream of walls of stone,
For now I want a roof of thatch,
A humble home, and friends to match.

IS IT POLK?

SIX of the Presidents of the United States have been of Scotch-Irish origin. There have been three pure Scotch, one Welsh and two Dutch. The rest as far as paternal ancestry goes have been English.

James K. Polk was one of the six Scotch-Irish. He was born in Mecklenburg county, North Carolina, one of the ten children of a farmer whose ancestors had come to this country in the Eighteenth century. It is no wonder that we look in books of the surnames of the British Isles for Polk. The fact is that the ancestral name of the eleventh President of the United States was not Polk at all, but Pollok.

Pollok and Pollock are said to have been given first to a native of Poland and to prove this authorities cite the fact that Shakespeare, in the opening scene of the first act of Hamlet, uses the word in this way.

MANN—This may be a surname of the nickname class. Mann was used very frequently in the sense of servant or retainer. Thus we speak of master and man. If there were two men named John, one retained by the other, they would have been spoken of as John Master and John Man. This is one explanation of the name Mann. In other cases it may be a local name derived from Le Mans, in France.

AYRE—This name is said to have had derivation from a word meaning heir.

LEWIS—This is one of the most usual of surnames derived from first names, and it is said that the frequency of it in Wales is due to the fact that it was used as an equivalent of the very popular Llewellyn.

SEASONABLE FOODS

As beef loaf is still a very popular and economical meat to serve, as there is no waste, it will probably continue to be served on our tables, at church suppers and at outings. The following is a good one to try:

Beef Loaf.—Take one pound of the round of beef and one pound of fresh pork—both well mixed after chopping—add two beaten eggs, one cupful of bread crumbs, one cupful of tomatoes strained to remove seeds, salt and pepper to taste, with a teaspoonful of finely minced parsley and a few dashes of cayenne. Roll into a loaf, place in a one-loaf bread pan and bake one hour, basting occasionally.

Rice Pudding.—Take one-fourth of a cupful of rice, wash and put into a baking dish with one-third cupful of sugar, a handful of raisins, a pinch of salt and a grating of nutmeg and a quart of milk. Bake in a slow oven, stirring at first, then brown. Serve with a hard sauce using nutmeg as flavoring. If the milk is skimmed or not rich add a tablespoonful or two of butter, for richness.

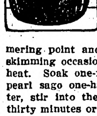
If you are fond of codfish be sure to serve:

Codfish Chowder.—Shred half a pound of soaked salt fish and parboil for a few minutes to remove the salt. Dice one-fourth of a pound of fat salt pork into half inch dice, fry until brown in the chowder kettle, add three sliced onions, six sliced potatoes and cover with boiling water. Cook until the vegetables are tender then add the codfish and one quart of scalding milk, six milk crackers and such seasoning as one's taste desires. Serve hot, a cracker to a bowl. This dish is especially good served for luncheon or supper on a chilly night.

Banana Lemon Whip.—Boil together two cupfuls of sugar, two cupfuls of water and the grated yellow rind of a lemon until it hairs. Soften one-half of a package of gelatin in cold water and add to the hot sirup. Stir until dissolved, then add the sifted pulp of four ripe bananas, mixed with the juice of two lemons. Pour all into a large bowl to cool, and when the edges begin to harden beat the mixture with a large sized Dover egg beater, continuing to beat until the whole is creamy. Pour into a mold and chill, or serve piled into sherbet glasses.

Lobster Chowder.—Remove the meat from a two-pound lobster and cut into small dice. Cream two tablespoonfuls of butter, add the liver (the green part), and two milk crackers; scald a quart of milk with a slice of onion and add milk to the lobster. Cook the body bones ten minutes in water to cover, strain and add to the chowder. Season with salt and pepper and serve at once.

Autumn Dishes.



A delicious and nourishing soup to serve for luncheon, dinner or supper on a chilly day is:

Veal and Sago Soup.—Chop fine two and one-half pounds of lean veal. Cover with three quarts of water and bring slowly to the simmering point and simmer two hours, skimming occasionally; strain and reheat. Soak one-fourth of a pound of pearl sago one-half hour in cold water, stir into the hot stock and cook thirty minutes or until the sago is perfectly clear; now add two cupfuls of scalded milk and pour slowly on four egg yolks slightly beaten. Season with salt.

Salmon Supper Dish.—Heat a can of salmon, turn out on a hot platter, removing the skin and bones and tossing slightly with a fork. Around the salmon heap riced, well-seasoned mashed potatoes, and around the potatoes pour a rich white sauce, using two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour to a cupful of rich milk; cook until thick and season well with salt and cayenne. Serve at once.

Lamb Chops With Pork.—Remove the fat from six chops cut two inches thick. Wrap round each a thin slice of fat salt pork—fresh will do—overlapping and fastening well with a wooden toothpick. Place on a greased broiler and cook until the meat is well done. Season with salt and pepper, spread with butter and let stand in the oven for three minutes. Remove to a hot platter and garnish with parsley.

Bread and Butter Pudding.—Spread slices of bread with butter and arrange them butter-side down in a buttered baking dish. Beat three eggs slightly, add one-half cupful of sugar, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, and one quart of milk; strain and pour over the bread. Let stand thirty minutes. Bake one hour in a slow oven, covering the first half of the baking. Serve with hard sauce. Cream four tablespoonfuls of softened butter with a cupful of powdered sugar added gradually; add a tablespoonful of cream and enough grated nutmeg to flavor.

Bull No Match for Truck

Frantic with fear and rage, an Aberdeen-Angus bull which escaped the other day on the farm of Charles McDougall, Guelph township, Ontario, while being led to water ran amuck in the west end of the city, forcing all pedestrians in the vicinity to take to cover and endangering lives of children, says the Toronto Globe. The huge beast rushed about, defying half a dozen drovers who attempted its capture. It weighed 2,000 pounds, and was not subdued until it was knocked down by a five-ton truck requisitioned by the authorities for that purpose. Then it was quickly roped and brought into safety.

MITCHELL TRIAL ORDERED HELD

Court to Be of Highest Rank Assembled for a Colonel's Hearing.

Washington—What is believed to be the highest ranking court-martial ever assembled for trial of an army officer in the grade of colonel was ordered by direction of President Coolidge to convene in Washington, October 28.

On that date or as soon after as possible, Colonel William Mitchell, storm center of the air service controversy, will be brought before the court on charges specifying violations of the ninety-sixth article of war.

Under the provisions of this article, conviction could, in the discretion of the court, be made punishable by dismissal from the army. Presidential approval, however, would be required before such a verdict could be put into effect.

Secretary Dwight Davis is credited with having picked the members of the court himself. All of them are senior in point of service and rank to Colonel Mitchell, and all hold medals of honor, or distinguished service crosses or medals.

Garner Seeks $500,000,000 Income Tax Reduction

Washington—A tax revision plan under which 3,000,000 persons would be relieved of all federal income taxes was discussed informally with Secretary Mellon by Representatives' Garner of Texas, the ranking Democrat on the public committee which drafts tax legislation. After the conference Representative Garner said the secretary's plan provided only for the reduction of surtaxes and inheritance taxes. He made no statement as to his counter proposal which was received at the treasury. The Garner plan contemplates a tax reduction of from $450,000,000 to $500,000,000, or approximately twice the total which the treasury is expected to recommend.

Mexican Police Kill Fifty Robbers; 200 Others Exiled

Mexico City—The government of the federal district in which Mexico City is situated has warned thieves and law breakers that strict enforcement of the law and firm punishment will be their lot in the future.

The secret police service established by General Roberto Cruz, whom President Calles appointed chief of police two months ago, has discovered the plots of notorious law breakers and has forestalled big robbery schemes. The police lately have shot more than 50 persons engaged in robberies or holdups.

Stands Collapse; 62 Injured.

Washington — Sixty-two spectators were injured, several seriously, when the east bleachers at College field collapsed during the Washington and Jefferson-Carnegie Teach. football game. Fifteen hundred spectators, enthused by the scoreless tie, stamped their as the third period opened. The vibration was too much for the bleachers. With a rending crash it collapsed, precipitating men, women and children into Catfish creek, over which the stands had been erected.

Bank Robbers Get $14,000.

Excelsior, Minn.—Four bandits robbed the Minnetonka State bank at Excelsior of $14,000 in a spectacular daylight holdup. They forced I. O. Kragness, cashier, to face a wall and hold his hands high over his head and, while holding two customers at bay, scooped up all the cash and currency in the cashier's cage and robbed the vault of the currency. The bandits rushed out the front door, jumped into a waiting touring car, and sped away down Excelsior's main street.

Security Terms Are Settled.

Locarno, Switzerland—Treaties were adopted at Locarno, designed to make impossible any re-opening of that great war. Germany and the allied powers approved the text of the Rhine pact of security.

This pact pledges its signatories, France, Germany and Belgium not to attack or invade one another's territory and to abstain from war. Great Britain and Italy stand as guarantors of this engagement and promise to throw their forces against any of the three parties which violates its terms.

MINNESOTA NEWS

St. Paul—Arrangements are nearing completion for the sessions of the Minnesota Education association which opens November 5 in St. Paul.

Winnebago—Farmers in this vicinity have organized and incorporated the Winnebago Rural Co-operative Fire association for protection of its membership.

Albert Lea—Southern Minnesota's "prosperity special," a solid train load of 40 cars of potatoes raised at Hollandale left Clarks Grove near here for Missouri points.

Rochester—Rochester is to have a canning factory ready for the 1926 crop, through action of a dozen interested business men and farmers. The company is to have a capital of $100,000.

Minneapolis — Although 14,000,000 more bushels of grain were poured into the Twin Cities and the head of the lakes in two months this fall than in the same time last year, the peak of the grain movement was passed "without embargo or a major complaint on car service," the Northwest Regional Advisory Board announced.

Minneapolis — Northwest Holstein cattle enthusiasts are rejoicing at the "cleanup" of high show ring honors that were carried back to Minnesota by the herds of the Minnesota Holstein Co. of Austin and by Dr. Christopher Graham of Rochester from the National Dairy Exposition at Indianapolis.

Hibbing—Ore shipments from iron mines this year were up to normal and may exceed those of former years, it is shown in tonnage estimates compiled by the state department of mines. The total output this year may attain 38,000,000 tons, one of the six greatest totals in the history of mining in the state. The value of the crop is expected to reach $114,000,000.

Winona — Winona celebrated its achievement of conquering the natural barrier thrown up by the Mississippi, which for 60 years has stood as an impassable wall between Minnesota and Wisconsin, in a pageant and Mardi Gras. The celebration marked the opening of the new concrete roadway which replaces the formerly dangerous road known as "Death's Pike."

St. Paul—Henry Rines, state comptroller, announced that savings of $51,000 had been made in the second pre-audit budget of the various state departments, bringing the total of economics effected by the department of administration and finance, of which he is a member, since it began functioning six months ago, to approximately $150,000.

Henderson—Forty barrels of beer resurrected from an abandoned brewery where they had mellowed for 60 years may, instead of foaming in goblet or stein, become Exhibit A in endless litigation. Andrew J. Volstead, father of the prohibition law and now legal adviser to the Minnesota prohibition forces, will be asked to render an opinion on the legal status of the beer.

Albert Lea—Ducks and gees swooped down on a barrel of mash and drank of it to their heart's content. After drinking their fill they became so hilarious that they could be heard for half a mile. However, county authorities weren't interested in the violation of the Volstead act by the birds. Instead they turned their attention to the farm home in Freeman township and arrested the farmer and his wife.

St. Paul—Prizes for the finest Minneosta butter and for skill in judging butter were announced at the dinner of the Minnesota Creamery Operators' and Managers' association. State prize winners in scoring butter were: George D. Roufs, Winsted, first prize given by the state dairy and food depatemnt, and A. W. Dahlsgaard, Clarissa, second; M. A. Nielson, Harris, third; Max Renner, Springfield, and O. O. Vaughn, Brownton, tied for fourth and fifth prizes.

Minneapolis—Diversified farming is the reason for an increase of 9,782 farms in Minnesota during the past five years, Dean W. C. Coffey of the University of Minnesota college of agriculture, said. The increase, which amounts to 5½ per cent, is shown in the United States census bureau's preliminary figures on farms for 1925 and the gain by Minnesota was made during a period in which the total number of farms in the entire country dwindled from 6,448,343 to 6,372,608. The total number of farms in Minnesota at present is 188,260.

Minneapolis—Dr. Hilding Berglund, a native of Sweden and a doctor of science from the University of Stockholm was chosen head of the department of medicine in the University of Minnesota medical school at the October meeting of the board of regents on Oct. 19. Dr. Berglund came to the United States in 1920 and studied at Harvard, later returning to Stockholm to receive his degree. Since 1923 he has been assistant professor of medicine in the Harvard Medical School and an associate in one of the large Boston hospitals. He will take up his work at Minnesota about November 1.

St. Paul—Extension of the Minnesota Western railroad, formerly the Luce line or Electric Short line, from the present terminus at Lake Lillian through Clara City to Dawson, a distance of 57 miles, is contemplated in an application presented to the interstate commerce commission.

Minneapolis—Launching an offensive which would not be denied, the hard driving Gophers fairly swept the Little Giants from Wabash college off their feet and registered a 32 to 6 victory for the Maroon and Gold before 15,000 rooters in the Memorial stadium.

Sunday Schools

There are more than a quarter of a million Sunday schools in active operation in the world, attracting an attendance of more than 30,000,000 pupils. North America is ahead of other continents in this census, with some 150,000 schools and 20,000,000 pupils. Europe has fewer than 70,000 schools and about 8,000,000 pupils. Asia ranks next with 30,000 schools and 1,300,000 pupils.

Had Him Coming and Going

The rather ferocious-looking husband who had taken his wife to the seaside scowled at an amateur photographer and rumbled in a threatening bass voice:

"What d'ye mean, photographin' my wife? I saw ye when ye done it."

The man replied gently:

"You're mistaken, really! I wouldn't think of doing such a thing.'

"Ye wouldn't, eh?" said the husband, still savagely. "And why not? She's the handsomest woman on the beach."

Deer Still Plentiful

From time to time there is some agitation for the further protection of deer, but a recent survey shows that there are at least 1,000,000 wild deer in the United States. Each year about 75,000 are killed in the eastern and central western states alone. Minnesota kills about 20,000 deer each season and 8,000 were slain in New York in 1924.

Cities are full of eminent lawyers, but there is still plenty of room in the pre-eminent class.

Thru an oversight on my part Ed Horien's name was omitted in our previous report. His number of pounds of butterfat for August was 155. In case your name is not on the list when you know it should be there, tell us about it, as we want to publish the name of every patron who is entitled to it and does not object to it.

We are sorry to have to discontinue taking in cream on Wednesday, as this will make it inconvenient for those who have the most cream and are anxious to get as much Land O' Lakes cream as possible.

If you save your cream (2 days old and less) in a separate can, you can thus get Land O' Lakes grade for most of the cream you bring in, even tho we receive cream only twice a week.

Since we started our Land O' Lakes grading the quality of our cream has improved very much. Our best proof is that we won first prize in our district at the State Buttermakers' convention held at St. Paul last week. Our score was 93¾.

In conclusion let me not forget to mention the benefit you will receive by bringing cream two times a week. Your cream might be five six or seven days old and still be sweet. We might give you No. 1 grade for it, but in spite of it, don't forget that butter made from such cream brings 2c less per pound. This does not seem to be such a big amount, but in an ordinary churning of, say, 750 pounds, it would mean a difference of $15. We hope this illustration will make clear the importance of delivering your cream often in the winter as well as in the summer.

News Item

Arno Steinhauer recently purchased a full-blooded Holstein sire from F. D. Voth. Arno is getting into dairying like a professional and, take it from me, some day he won't have to work as hard as he is working now.

Submitted by P. L. Anderson.

By Heck! I'm Ready For a Full Day's Work!

Down on the farm, 'bout half past four,
I slip on my pants and sneak out the door.
Out to the yard I run like the dickens
To milk 10 cows and feed the chickens,
Clean out the barn, curry Nance and Jiggs,
Separate the cream and slop all the pigs,
Work two hours, then eat like a Turk,
And, by heck, I'm ready for a full day's work.

Then I grease the wagon and put on the rack,
Throw a jug of water in an old grain sack,
Hitch up the horses, hustle down the lane.
Must get the hay in, for it looks like rain.
Look over yonder, sure as I am born,
Cattle's on the rampage and cows in the corn.
Start across the medder, run a mile or two,
Heaving like I'm windbroke, get wet clean through.
Get back to the horses, then for recompense
Nance got straddle our barbed wire fence.
Joints all a-aching and muscles in a jerk;
I'm as fit as a fiddle for a full day's work.

Work all summer till winter is nigh,
Then figure up the books and heave a big sigh.
Worked all year, didn't make a thing,
Got less cash now than I had last spring.
Now, some people say that there ain't no hell,
But they never farmed, so they can't tell.
When spring rolls 'round I take another chance,
While the fringe grows longer on my pants.
Give my 'spenders a hitch, my belt another jerk,
And, by heck, I'm ready for a full year's work.

PARENTS' DAY AT AGGIE SCHOOL

Aggies To Clash With Crookston H. S. Football Team

Saturday, November 7 is Parents' Day at the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston. Invitations have been sent out and from the list of replies received by Supt. C. G. Selvig, a large number of mothers and fathers will be present for the exercises. During the forenoon guides will conduct the visitors thru the buildings and class rooms so the work of the school may be seen at first hand. Following the dinner a special program of demonstration has been arranged. This will be followed in turn with a recreation program in the form of the annual football clash with the Crookston high school. Later in the afternoon it will be possible for parents to take their children home with them until the following Tuesday evening if they so wish. While the day has been set aside for Parents, all others who wish to join in the events of the day are invited to come and visit the school.

As we go to press (Thursday afternoon) we have finally discovered the definition for our weather. It was suggested to us after we had listened to a man trying to change tires on his car. However, we will not print it here. There's a miniature blizzard outside that makes us think of winter. This time the Lions and Lambs won't be cheated.

Buttermilk Has No Place In Cream Can

"Cream cans should be used only for carrying cream," says Harold Macy of the dairy division at University Farm. "Until creamery patrons quit using cream cans to haul buttermilk back to their farms, so long will there be foul, mouldy, and off-flavor cream. By eliminating this practice of placing buttermilk in cream cans we can take one more long step nearer the standard we wish to reach—all first grade cream."

Minnesota Potatoes Feted By Missourians

When a trainload of 35 cars of Minnesota certified seed potatoes reached its destination in Missouri, October 20, potato growers of three Missouri counties, who had ordered the shipment, met at a common point to celebrate the occasion. The potatoes were shipped from the Hollendale district near Albert Lea. Each car contained from 600 to 700 bushels. Thirty-five demonstrations conducted in 14 Missouri counties in 1924 showed an average increase from northern certified seed of 59.8 bushels per acre. A carload of seed potatoes will plant 50 acres.

FIVE INDICTED IN $7,000,000 PLOT

Thomas W. Miller, Former Custodian of Alien Property Is Accused With Foreigners.

New York—Colonel Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, four German and Swiss citizens and three German and Swiss corporations were indicted by a special federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy to defraud the United States government.

The indictments involve the release by the custodian of about $7,000,000 of sequestered assets of the American Metal company—representing the sale of a 49 per cent alleged enemy interest—to pretented Swiss owners.

In its report the grand jury declared that Miller, John T. King, former Republican national committee man from Connecticut, and the late Jesse Smith, confidant of former Attorney General Daugherty, arranged the transfer with the foreign defendants in consideration of payment to them of $391,000 of the recovered assets.

King appeared before the jury and waived immunity, the statement said. Althouih named as a conspirator, he was not indicted.

Greco-Bulgar War To Be Investigated By League

Paris—The council of the League of Nations will send a commission to the Balkans to investigate the causes of the Greco-Bulgar conflict. This decision was reached at a secret session of the council, but the program, as outlined, is contingent upon compliance by Greece and Bulgaria with the conditions of evacuation and cessation of hostilities laid down by the council.

The duty of the commission will be, first, to determine the facts; second, determine the responsibility; third, decide the question of indemnity, and, fourth, study means to prevent a recurrence of similar outbreaks in the future. A report of the findings will be submitted at the next session of Mitchell Enters Plea of Not Guilty.

Washington—Colonel William Mitchell began his defense at his court-martial here by driving from the bench three members of the court, including the president, Major General Charles P. Summerall. General Summerall withdrew on his own motion after he had been charged with prejudice against the defendant, and Brigadier General A. J. Bowley was disqualified by his colleagues on the court after a defense challenge had been lodged against him on similar grounds.

Mitchell entered a plea of not guilty after being denied a "bill of particulars" by the trial judges.

French military, and firemen succeeded in checking most of the flames of the three day conflagration in the Musselman section of Damascus. One thousand persons are known to be dead—unofficial figures put the number at 1,000 and 1,000 more are missing. Many [illegible].

Greek Troops Leave Bulgar Soil—Apprehension Relieved

Athens—Greek troops are again on their home soil. Following out both the agreement made with Rumania as mediator and the orders of the League of Nations council, Greece has completed the withdrawal of its forces from Bulgaria. The withdrawal was completed well within the time limit set by the council at Paris, when it required that Greece and Bulgaria should notify the council that invasion of foreign territory by either or both parties had ended definitely. With completing of the evacuation, the threat of real hostilities in the Balkans seemed past. There still remains the fixing of responsibility for the border trouble by the League of Nations council, but all advices coming out of Europe tend to indicate that the council's intervention has proven efficient and that the war danger has been curbed.

20 Die, 30 Hurt As Train Plunges in Tennessee Gorge

Memphis, Tenn.—Twenty persons were killed and at least 30 injured, many seriously when 11 cars of the Sunnyland, crack Frisco railroad train, from Kansas went into a 40 foot gorge. All ambulance companies in Memphis have rushed medical aid to the scene. Victoria is 32 miles south of Memphis. The train was described as plunging over a 40 foot embankment. It consisted of 11 cars, including two baggage cars, chair cars and Pullmans. All but the rear Pullman and the engine rolled down the embankmand. Most of the passengers were said to have been from Birmingham and Memphis.

U. S. Makes Protest To France.

Washington—Failure of French authorities in Damascus to give warning to American residents prior to the punitive bombardment of certain sections of the city has prompted the Washington government to made representations through Ambassador Herrick to the foreign office in Paris. No American lives were lost nor was any American injured, so far as official advices have reported, but some damage was caused to property owned by Americans and suitable claims will be filed with the French government.

Last G. O P. Founder Dead.

Minneapolis, Minn.—A. N. Barney, last survivor of the little meeting in Ripon, Wis., where the republican party was born, is dead. He was 96, and had lived in Minneapolis 30 years. Mr. Barney was one of the little group of 40 men who met in a schoolhouse at Ripon, Feb. 28, 1854, and started the movement for a new political party. It crystallized rapidly and took over the remnants of the Whig party and the free soil democracy in the congressional elections that year.

CALLIAUX WRECKS FRENCH CABINET

Forces Colleagues To Resign Posts After Failure To Agree on U. S. Debt.

Paris—M. Painleve succeeded in completing a cabinet combination which he submitted to President Doumergue of the republic for ratification. Painleve will be minister of finance in place of Joseph Caillaux, and also continue as premier.

Paris—The French cabinet has resigned. Thus Premier Painleve and his associates brought to a climax a dramatic fight of several days which centered in removing Finance Minister Joseph Caillaux from power. Painleve went alone to President Domergue and presented the joint resignation, which was accepted. The cabinet issued a statement saying its resignation followed the conviction that it was impossible to carry out its program without the certainty of a stable majority. This was manifestly a suggestion that Caillaux's financial measures would be unacceptable to the chamber majority.

Caillaux refused to be forced out alone. Instead, he told Premier Painleve and Foreign Secretary Briand that if he were to fall, then the whole cabinet must go, too. It was virtually a defi to them to proceed with driving him from public life, for he warned them that unless the whole regime retired, it would fall before the French chamber later.

Twenty-one Killed as East Coast is Hit by Storm

Troy, Ala.—Two devastating windstorms struck the Atlantic coast states, resulting in at least 21 deaths and heavy damage to homes and shipping. In Pike and Barbour counties, Alabama, a tornado, sweeping in from the Texas coast, killed 16 persons, injured more than a score and leveled dozen of homes. In the Good Hope section, seven miles west of Troy, four members of one family were killed instantly and the parents are not expected to live. In one neighborhood, Good Hope, five people were killed, and a family of nine almost wiped out. Fourteen houses were completely destroyed.

The second storm, roaring in from the Atlantic, passed from the Maryland and Delaware coasts through New York and into New England. Off Rockaway Point, N. Y., two fishermen were drowned and another fatality was reported from Woburn, Mass., where 500 houses were damaged and the town was thrown into darkness.

U. S. Wins Seaplane Race.

Bay Shore Park, Baltimore—Lieutenant James H. Doolittle, United States army racing pilot, kept the Jacques Schneider trophy in America in the world's premier seaplane classic. Displaying marvelous skill on the turns of the 50 kilometers triangular course, and racing down the straightaway legs like a black bird of prey, Lieutenant Doolittle flung his somber little ship through the seven laps for a new Schneider time of 232,573 miles per hour for the 350 kilometers, and set up a claim for new world's record.

CARILLON MUSIC OF RARE BEAUTY

Expresses by Melodies True Spirit of Country.

Four hundred years ago Charles V, Roman emperor and (as Charles I) king of Spain, inherited the territory now within the boundaries of Holland and Belgium.

Within this territory a civic music of rare beauty came into being—a music which, while continuing ever since and increasingly holding a place in the love of its people, has been until lately almost unknown outside the boundaries of its origin.

Gradually since the time when Charles V reigned, this music has been wonderfully developed. Today it is widely commanding artistic consideration and, with its noble architectural setting, it is coming to be recognized as peculiarly fitted to adorn and stimulate civic and community life everywhere.

The region of which this article treats extends from the North sea shores inward for fifty miles or more in plains which are largely just above high tide.

On every side one sees scores of cities, towns and villages. In the foreground these are clearly defined, but in the middle distance they become less distinct, and on the horizon in soft and misty outline they almost disappear.

In every such extended view, above town hall and city gate and ancient church, rises dominant here a rugged tower, there a tall belfry or a graceful, slender spire. And each of these skyward-soaring structures becomes for the traveler a singing tower if, on nearer approach, he finds it crowned with that majestic instrument of music called a carillon.

The word "carillon"—pronounced "car-i-lon," with the "o" as in "atom"—and the derivative, "carilloneur," are French in origin, but now generally accepted in English.

After crossing the Atlantic we touched at Plymouth and at Boulogne, and then on a Friday night came in sight of the shores of the Netherlands. At the mouth of the river Maas (Meuse) we waited for the high tide at two in the morning, to make it possible for our great ship to steam slowly up to Rotterdam.

Here we found the tower of St. Lawrence's church, whose old bells make not merely a great musical instrument, but by their melodies express the spirit of the country over which they sound.

De Amicis, the Itilian traveler, after climbing the tower of St. Lawrence, said that the indefinable sentiments inspired by the Dutch landscape held him silent for a long time. Then he was startled by strange music coming from he knew not where—the silvery notes now falling slowly one by one, now coming in groups, in trills, in sonorous chords, a quaint dancing strain somewhat primitive, an echo of the ancient life of her people, making one smile and sigh at the same moment.

Papers Run at Loss

Figures recently published show that about 80 per cent of the newspapers in Rumania operate at a loss. That print paper is dear, that the prices of the publications have not been sufficiently increased since the World war, and that advertisements are scarce are leading arguments advanced as reasons for this state of affairs. But some trained observers believe that the real reason is that, like the press of other continental countries, that of Rumania is too political and not sufficiently informative. Every political party has its newspaper, but the circulation is necessarily small because there are so many parties. Those newspapers that have set themselves to print news in the real sense of the word pay their way, although they cannot afford to reward their staffs with high or even living wages.

Record Short Trial

The suggestion recently made at the British prison congress for double trials, in order to expedite the work of the law courts, has recalled the dispatch with which cases were handled in the Eighteenth century at the Old Bailey. The shortest trial on record is supposed to have been one in which a man was sentenced to seven years' transportation for picking a pocket of a handkerchief on Ludgate hill. The summing up was: "Gentlemen, I suppose you have no doubt? I have none." The passing of the sentence was: "Jones, we have met before; we shall not meet again for some time." The whole proceedings occupied two minutes fifty-three seconds.

Mr. Grimm's Wisdom

"We are often warned, with uplifted hands and rolling eyes, against the temptations of the city," said old Gaunton Grimm, addressing his pinfeathery nephew who was about to pay the big burg a visit. "But I have noticed that the temptations that beset us are more in the man than in the place. If a feller is determined to be ornery he can get into trouble right here at home, while if he is set upon minding his own business he can go pretty nearly anywhere without having the gent with the horns run out and grab him. A man who isn't hunting for temptation rarely has it thrust upon him, while if you are seeking it you can find it even if you are glued down to a flat rock in the midst of a great desert."—Kansas City Star.

SICK WOMEN ATTENTION!

Read this Remarkable Testimony Regarding Results from Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Norfolk, Virginia. — "If you only knew how many women and girls have taken your medicine by hearing my testimony, it would seem wonderful to you. Every day and every chance I have I advise some one to try it. It was in June, 1904, when I had given up to never get well, that I wrote to you. My husband went to the drug-store and brought the Vegetable Compound home to me. In a few days I began to improve and I have often taken it since. I am now passing through the Change of Life and still stick by it and am enjoying wonderful health. When I first started with your medicines I was a mere shadow. My health seemed to be gone. The last doctor I had said he would give me no more local treatments unless I went to the Hospital and was operated on. That was when I gave the doctors up. Now I am a healthy robust woman. I wish I could tell the world what a wonderful medicine Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is. I will be only too glad to answer letters from anywhere. I wish all sick women would take it."—Mrs. J. A. JONES, 317 Colley Avenue, Norfolk, Virginia.

Omaha, Nebr.—"My blood was impoverished, my stomach was giving me trouble, and I was bothered with constipation. Finally I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. "THE FOUNDATION OF HIS HEALTH"

Among the thousands who have publicly expressed indebtedness to Tanlac for normal weight, health and strength, is A. R. White, who recently said:

"The foundation for my present excellent health was laid by Tanlac. For months I had been run-down. I had lost all enjoyment for food and suffered great discomfort from indigestion. My liver was sluggish and that tired feeling was on me all the time.

"Three bottles of Tanlac relieved my troubles and started me off with a system so thoroughly toned up and renewed that I soon found myself feeling like a new man."

Still Working at 57 Years

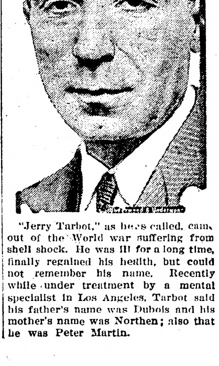
INTERNATIONAL

This is "Old Bill," considered, because of his fifty-seven years of age, to be the oldest horse in the world. Old Bill has records to prove his age. His master, John Doudees of Harmony, N. J., has been offered fabulous prices by circus men to part with the horse. Bill is still a willing worker.

DISOWNED BY ALL.

"Frederick Webster," formerly of Canada, is a man without a country. The United States wants to deport him, Canada classifies him as an undesirable. Webster, thirty-one, has been an inmate of the Chicago jails for seven months. He claims he assumed the name of a cousin, who is wanted on a charge of bigamy and served seven years in a Canada penitentiary for his cousin's crime.

WHO IS JERRY?



"Jerry Tarbot," as he is called, came out of the World war suffering from shell shock. He was ill for a long time, finally regained his health, but could not remember his name. Recently while under treatment by a mental specialist in Los Angeles, Tarbot said his father's name was Dubois and his mother's name was Northen; also that he was Peter Martin.

WHO SAID

"I am not a Virginian but an American."

HAD Patrick Henry lived 50 years later than he did, would we have clung to his assertion that he was a citizen of the United States, rather than of Virginia?

It was on this question of whether the citizens of the United States were citizens of the nation or of the state in which they lived that the Civil war was fought and finally decided in favor of those holding to the theory here enunciated by Patrick Henry.

Of course, Patrick Henry lived before the real development of the nation into states. They were but loosely organized colonies before the Revolutionary war and their structure had not changed greatly before death claimed the renowned orator. Had Patrick Henry lived later in the history of his country it is quite likely that his intense love for Virginia would have caused him to alter the declaration quoted above.

Patrick Henry was born in Virginia in 1736. He was given a good education and in 1760 he was admitted to the bar of his native state. Henry's ability soon became evident. No other public speaker of his time could surpass him in his hold upon his audience and his impassioned addresses played a prominent part in lining up the colonists against the British. He was one of the most bitter opponents of the Stamp Act and it was his repeated speeches against it that made its enforcement practically impossible.

The one declaration best remembered of this orator is the famous one: "I know not what course others may take; but as for me give me liberty or give me death."

Patrick Henry died in 1799.—Wayne D. McMurray.

Siga for Manuscript

MS means manuscript. MSS is simply the plural, meaning more than one, M.M. means Maelzel's Metronome. It is wrong to suppose that it stands for Metronome Mark, although of course the letters may be so interpreted, but then they stand for a number of other words also.

AN ABBREVIATED STORY

THE LEAD PENCIL

TWO days ago I was a beautiful, brown pencil, hale and hearty and of full stature, with my name, "Writeeasy, No. 6," printed on my sleek side in letters of purest gold. I hadn't a single care in the world, and my heart was full of love for all human beings—for was it not to humans that I owed my lovely shape, my long sturdy bar of unbroken lead and my soft, firm wood?

Today I am a miserable abandoned stump without even a point. My gold name has been cruelly hacked off, even to the capital W.

For a woman tried to sharpen me. If I had been wise I would have struggled out of her hands as soon as she borrowed her husband's penknife—struggled out of her hands and slipped down a crack to an eternal dark oblivion that at least would not have robbed me of my shape.

At the first inch of wood and lead that she hacked off, she said: "Something must be the matter with the wood."

At the second inch she said: "Something must be the matter with the lead."

At the third inch she said: "Something must be the matter with the knife."

At that I fainted from pain and humiliation, and awoke a scraggy cast-off stump of my former self.

And a confirmed woman hater.

MOST WELCOME

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

FAME, pass me by, and, wealth, elude
My eager grasp, and what's all that?
The stare is often only rude,
And greatness only wondered at.
I would be great another way,
So great that other men would say,
"I never knew a man so kind,
For such a friend you seldom find."

Yes, wealth, elude my eager hand,
And will it matter, after all?
Who builds upon the golden sand
May only build a house to fall,
I would be rich another way,
So rich that other men would say,
"Though little is the wealth he spends,
No mortal has so many friends."

Yes, wealth, elude, fame, pass me by,
Though both a man may well desire,
But let me know that always I
Am welcome at another's fire.
I would be famous in a way,
So famous other men would say,
"Though Croesus come, a king be host,
He is the one they welcome most."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

MENTAL ATMOSPHERE

WHATEVER it may be with regard to your idea of peace of mind, quite apart from wealth and position, you will soon or late discover that the mental atmosphere in which you move from day to day has a great deal to do with your happiness.

You cannot experience those delightful seasons of peace, joy and harmony which come frequently to the souls who habitually indulge in right thinking, unless you, too, live and work in a spiritual and mental sunshine, attuned to the glorious harmonies which are all about you, waiting for you to clasp them in your hands, press them to your heart and accept them as your own.

You may grope for a solution of life's problems year after year, but you will not find it until you climb to the hilltops and get in a cleaner atmosphere which has a mystic way of its own in clearing the vision and lightening the heart, even when the skies all around you are hung with sombrous gray curtains.

All that is good and glorious in life comes from right thinking.

Superb paintings for which fabulous prices are paid; masterful music which stirs the soul and carries it away into the land of bright dreams; beautiful buildings with exquisitely blended proportions and pleasing lines, and even the human face with its beaming eyes and cheerful countenance come into being through right thinking—through living in a higher mental atmosphere, where mind substance is purified and molded into unusual forms, which in their simple grace and beauty arouse the admiration of the world.

You may have priceless talents, but they cannot long survive in a tainted atmosphere, for like the peach and the rose, they must have the helpful sunshine, the pure rain and dew, to develop their full sweetness; they require an atmosphere suitable to their proper growth and development.

You may have a wonderful mind, but unless you live in the right atmosphere, keep it in touch with other minds and burnish it by constant use and rubbing, it will sicken, mildew and perish among the vanities on which life turns from exaltation to despair.

If you would have understanding, a frank interest in accomplishment, two or three good friends and success in heaping measure, you must live and work continuously in an uncorrupted mental atmosphere, otherwise your little journey through this world will terminate in disappointment.

Mother's Cook Book

Is life worth living? I think that question has been answered for good and all. The cost has been more than doubled, and we still hang on.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

SAVORY FOODS

A FLANK steak, when carefully prepared, makes a most appetizing dish. Pound the meat until the fibers are well broken, rub with three tablespoonfuls of butter or cooking oil; when the oil is absorbed fry in a hot iron frying pan. Place the browned meat in a casserole, rinse out the pan with two tablespoonfuls of boiling water and pour it over the meat. Add one bayleaf, one clove of garlic, two teaspoonfuls of salt, two tablespoonfuls each of minced celery, green pepper and carrot. Add two cupfuls of boiling water and in the last half hour of cooking six medium-sized potatoes. Cook two and one-half hours. Thicken with a tablespoonful of flour mixed with a little cold water.

Savory Casserole of Mutton.

Cut a slice of mutton from the middle part of the leg of a yearling—have the slice two inches thick. Remove the bone and fill the cavity with minced onion or celery. Dredge with flour and salt and pepper. Prepare in the bottom of casserole a rich gravy of one cupful of brown stock, one-half cupful of currant jelly, a dozen chopped olives, six peppercorns, three whole cloves, one tablespoonful of lemon juice. Thicken when boiling with one tablespoonful of flour mixed with a little water, to a paste. Lay into this the round of mutton, spread the top with beef marrow, cover the casserole and bake for an hour and a half in a moderate oven.

Fowl Supreme.

Clean and cut up a six-pound fowl, leaving the breast in one piece. Add salt and steam one and one-half hours. Remove the breast, leaving the remainder of the meat to cook. Place the breast skin-side up in a casserole without water. Put on the cover and cook one hour. Do not remove the cover while cooking, as the steam escapes and also the flavor and the meat will be toughened. Cut the dark meat into cubes and add to a pint of white sauce. Place the breast on a serving dish with a head of cooked cauliflower; surround with sauce and garnish with toast points.

Chicken and Spinach Soup.

Wash and pick over two pounds of spinach and cook in one-half cupful of butter until tender. Add one-half cupful of flour, mixed with salt and pepper to season. When thick rub through a colander and add two quarts of chicken stock. When it comes to a boil serve in cups garnished with whipped cream.

Blushing Apples.

Cook after washing and coring good flavored apples. Fill the centers with cinnamon candies, basting during the baking.

Gloom Finds Favor With Grid Coaches

These football coaches are cagey birds.

None of them will admit that he has high-class material. There is a method in their attitude. By telling the natives his material is bad, a coach has an out in case of a disastrous season.

On the other hand, if his team turns out to be a winner, praise will be heaped upon the gridiron mentor for developing a great team with little to work on.

A. A. Stagg was the father of this thought and got away with it for years in Chicago. Other coaches copped the idea and now this gloomy stuff has become chronic among our best-known coaches.

Jim Crowley as Coach

Jim Crowley, one of the famous "four horsemen" of the great Notre Dame football team of last year, who is now backfield coach of the University of Georgia. His greatest task is training his men to meet the team of Georgia Tech which Don Miller, another of the horsemen, is coaching. The teams are bitter rivals.

Captain Harold Griffin of Iowa Football Team

Harold Griffin is captain of the Iowa football team and is the biggest man on the squad. For a player weighing 235 pounds he is very active and fairly speedy. Griffin is twenty-one years old and is a graduate of the Sioux City high school. He is noted for being an accurate snapper back of the ball. His weight gives Ingwerson, the Iowa coach, much bother. When the mentor attempts to prove that his line is light and not a huge "corn-fed" aggregation, Griffin piles up the average so that the Iowa forward wall seems composed of giants.

The Iowa leader is a good student in the law school. His activities outside of the curriculum are many. To run a dance hall would keep the average man busy, but Griffin does that and finds it easy to keep order. Last year he did not dance well, as he had a broken foot. His team gives promise of being one of the leaders in big ten this year, and he is a valuable aid to Coach Ingwerson in drilling the candidates.

Saw Glory Slip Away

Ted Lyons, White Sox pitcher, saw a no-hit game slip out of his grasp after two men had been retired in the ninth inning of the second game of a double-header in Washington. After he had retired 26 men without a bingle being made off him, Bob Veach cracked out a single to spoil the beautiful performance. Lyons struck out five. An unusual feature about the pitching stunt was that Lyons hurled against 18 Washington players, Manager Harris sending in a number of youngsters when it was a foregone conclusion the game was lost.

MANY PENN STARS ARE NOW COACHING

At Least 24 Football Players Are Mentors at Various Colleges.

At least two dozen former University of Pennsylvania football stars are in coaching roles this season. Linemen lead by 14 to 10. The list covers a span of at least 34 years starting with John W. Heisman, who is starting his third year at Rice institute, Houston, Texas; and winding up with five members of last year's undefeated eleven.

Andy Smith, full-back on the undefeated 1904 team, has been in the coaching limelight for a number of years. His University of California teams have not been beaten in the last five years. Dr. Le Roy Mercer, Penn's All-American full-back in 1910 and 1912, continues at Swarthmore, where he has done very well in recent years.

The two Millers—Allie and Heinie—have coaching jobs in extreme ends of the Keystone state. Allie, a former red and blue captain, has charge of the Washington and Jefferson backs again and Heinie, the flashy end of six years ago, after serving a few years as coach at St. Joseph's college, took up his new duties at Temple university this fall.

Lou Little, who rounded out his career as tackle at the university on the same 1919 team as Heine Miller, returned to Georgetown university where he is head coach and also director of athletics.

Dr. M. S. (Mike) Bennett returned to the University of the South. Chuck Adams, center of two seasons ago, coached the Conzago college line on the Pacific coast last season and renewed his contract. Vincent S. Welch, a backfield man, is a successful coach at Hobart college.

Capt. Rae McGraw, Ted Fairchild, Ed McGinley, All-American tackle; Clark Craig and Frank Dewhirst of last year's undefeated team, have made coaching debuts this season.

Pitcher Coveleskie Is Topic for Baseball Talk

The most talked about pitcher in the American league is Coveleskie, a discard from Cleveland, saved from a drop to the minors by Washington, which has a penchant for taking on old-timers who can't be "seen" by other managers. Tris Speaker won't hear the last of letting Coveleskie go for many a day, and isn't Miller Huggins reminded every so often that he had Al Wingo and cast him out? And didn't John McGraw have Ed Rommel in his training camp a few years back, thinking so little of him he returned him to Newark?

The bulk of players who are doing the best work today are men who have been shifted from one club to another, or to the minors, to be called up again. That goes for all positions, as well as for pitching talent.

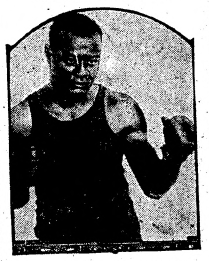
"Dateless Nights" Favored by Coach

Charging that football teams cannot be built in an atmosphere where seniors and co-eds have the upper hand, Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite in a talk at a mass meeting of Northwestern university students advocated the return of "lateless night."

"There must be less dating among football men.

"We have the smallest squad in years, and men are still continuing to drop off," said Coach Thistlethwaite, "and you cannot blame them. They work hard all afternoon and then come back to their fraternity house to see their brothers getting dressed up for a date."

Wills in Exhibition



Harry Wills, who has signed articles to fight Jack Dempsey for the heavyweight championship, recently boxed a four-round exhibition bout for the American Legion, at Chicago.

Sporting Squibs

Nick Allen, manager of the St. Paul American association ball club for the past two years, has been engaged to pilot the Saints next year.

* * *

Stuart Holen, southpaw of the Tulsa Western league team, has been sold to the St. Louis Americans.

* * *

Nebraska's football team evidently had heard of "Red" Grange and studied him. That perhaps is what comes of concentrated adulation. Football is for eleven men on a side.

* * *

American colleges have contributed a good deal more than football to the advancement of the world, but it is the football hero who gets most of the public attention.

* * *

Princeton has uncovered a punter capable of averaging close to 50 yards in Frank Lea '28. The Tigers, like Harvard, are having a scarcity of real punters. A converted lineman is the best the Crimson can produce.

* * *

E. M. Norris, Columbia university sophomore, is looked to be the successor to W. F. Koppisch, captain and star last year. Norris is having his first season with the varsity, but is a triple-threat in the backfield and a natural athlete.

* * *

London has sold Third Baseman Walter Sandquist to the St. Louis National league club. He has been doing fine work for the Tecumsehs.

* * *

Georgia School of Technology has a substitute tackle who stands six feet eight inches in his stocking feet and weighs just 238 pounds. As a rule, such big players do not make good in football.

* * *

C. O. Gill, Yale '89, captain and end of the varsity team that year, has a son on the Yale varsity squad, and one Phillips Andover academy squad this fall.

* * *

Jack Dempsey has become an amusement promoter. His next fight may not come under that head.

* * *

Manager George Sisler denied a report that he had admitted his eyes were giving him trouble again.

* * *

The highest run ever made in stright-rail billiards was the 3,001 made by Wallace Phares in 1915.

* * *

Chrysanthemum hair on the football player is at least pleasanter to look at than the cauliflower ear on the practitioner of the so-called manly art.

* * *

And one of the greatest traffic problems is the stymie.

* * *

There is a generation growing up in this country which regards any assertion that Mr. Dempsey is a boxer as hearsay.

Once Gave Promise of Being Metropolis.

Washington.—Tai-o-Hai, island port of call of the homeward-bound United States fleet which has been visiting in the Pacific, is described as a "port of tragedy" in a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Situated at the innermost point of a horseshoe bay which furnishes a reasonably well protected harbor," says the bulletin, "Tai-o-Hai, once gave promise of being a Pacific metropolis, a rival, perhaps, to Papeete, Tahiti, 750 miles to the southwest. The town on Nukahiva, largest of the Marquesas islands, is listed as the administrative seat of the French government of the Marquesas; but the honor is a hollow one, for the Marquesans are rapidly dying off. The hundred thousand or more who peopled the eleven islands a century ago have dwindled to three thousand or four thousand.

Rosy Future Seemed Assured.

"When France took the islands over in 1842 the future seemed rosy to the white settlers who went there. The islands teemed with superlatively healthy, brawny natives. The rainfall was abundant and vegetation grew rankly. Dreams of exceedingly productive coconut, cotton and vanilla plantations filled the heads of French adventurers. Tai-o-Hai was built with these dreams in mind, and stores, inns, churches, schools, and another accompaniment of civilization—a jail—sprang up.

"But things did not work out as had been expected. The Marquesans did not care to become plantation laborers. They had led lives of ease, spending their time in idleness, in gathering nature's fruits, and in war among themselves. Some unscrupulous planters tried rum and opium as inducements to labor. They brought a certain temporary success, but they helped to bring a speedy end to all hope for the survival of the Marquesan people. To drunkenness and soddenness were soon added the white man's diseases—diseases which meant little to the civilizations of America and Europe that had become largely immune to them, but which carried off the islanders like flies.

"Tai-o-Hai, which had waxed, as quickly waned. Today less than 150 people live in the village, and there is only a handful of whites. Abandoned buildings are on every hand: traders' shops, dwellings, an inn, a leper house. The once populous valleys back in Nukahiva have been abandoned to the rank growth; only the half-smothered platforms on which dwellings stood tell of their past use by man. In the valleys not wholly abandoned, the few survivors have moved near the sea for neighborliness.

"The Marquesas are in two groups. Nukahiva lies in the northern group. Seventy miles of ocean separate it from the group to the south. It was the southern group, discovered in 1595 by Mendana that was named Marquesas.

Claimed for America.

"The northern islands remained unknown to the outside world for 200 years and were then discovered by an American, Captain Ingraham, a skipper from Boston. He named them the 'Washington Islands,' and they almost became American possessions. Capt. David Porter of the United States navy took possession of Tai-o-Hai bay in 1813 while harrying British ships in the Pacific; subdued the Nukahivian natives; and proclaimed the Washington islands territory of the United States. But a mutiny of the ships he left in the harbor put an end to his plan, and the United States never reasserted its claim.

"The Marquesas are of volcanic origin. They are extremely rugged, and, except the valley floors, there is no level land in them, the observer from shipboard who sails among them their sharp peaks, line behind line, cut the sky like the bizarre mountains of stage scenery.

"A number of the smaller islands are now entirely uninhabited. Unless some hardy race be brought to them, it will not be long before the Marquesas will be left virtually as they were millenniums ago, before the Vikings of the Pacific, in their huge canoes, came to claim them for mankind."

Scorned Sheik Takes Clothes to New Mamma

Oakland, Cal.—A youth for whom police are searching demonstrated a unique method of squaring accounts, after a girl had rejected his advances.

Jeannie Yvonne told the young man, whose name the police are withholding, that she was "off him like a wet bathing suit," so when she was absent from her room a short time later, the youth loaded a suitcase with her clothes and left a message which read:

"This is a dose of your own medicine. I have a new mamma, who can use the clothes nicely."

Corsica Off Base, Sardinia Shifts

Both Islands Have Moved, Says Cartographer.

Paris.—Following stories that a new island was about to appear at any moment in the Gulf of Biscay, it is now reported in the French press that the islands of Sardinia and Corsica have apparently shifted some ten meters toward the east. Scientific investigation of this strange fact has been going on for some time, with Paul Helbronner, cartographer, who started his career as an Alpine climber, playing the role of island locater. Writing in Le Quotidien, Jean Cabrerets gives this account of the wanderings of the two islands:

"Helbronner first started by scaling the mountain peaks of France, Italy and Switzerland, and was not long in discovering that the official map of the French Alps was far from being exact as compared with foreign maps, which were more precise. In July last he embarked for Corsica, in order to see if the isle of Cyrnos was still in the same place that had been assigned it by the scientific geographers of the last century. There are even some doubts about the immobility of Corsica!

Accurate Tests Made.

"Some time ago, following investigations by the Italian government, it was announced that the two islands—Sardinia and Corsica—appeared to have moved the appreciable distance of ten meters toward the east. M. Helbronner is now about to verify this. The difficulty has been the uniting of Toulon, or the island of Porquerolle, by a direct imaginary line to the island of Corsica. This line of view is no longer impossible today, as it would have been in the past. From Cape Corsica M. Helbronner succeeded recently, when the night was exceptionally clear, in distinguishing the powerful projector which the admiralty had installed on the hilltop of Le Faron in France.

"One may count on the ingenuity of this man, who, during many consecutive months kept watch on the mountain peaks for the favorable moment when the light permitted him to fix in a direct line of view the two highest summits of the Alpine range. His observations were carried out on 73 different peaks and were verified several times by photographic and scientific appliances. Monsieur Helbronner has all the necessary equipment with him in Corsica, and it is now a matter of awaiting the results of the tests he is about to carry out. His calculations may prove of invaluable interest to science. A triangulation of extreme precision may be able to determine if certain geologists are right in their assertion that Corsica, like other lands, moves across the surface of the globe somewhat like islets of foam on a cup of coffee.

Similar Claims Made.

"The German professor Wagner brought forth a similar hypothesis within recent years. He affirmed that the superficial crust constituting the continents float above the central magna of our globe. Continents and oceans would therefore appear to be but a floating drapery thrown upon the body of the earth. And this clothing seemingly becomes torn at times. Thus, still according to Professor Wegener, the edges of the continents America, Africa and Europe should fit together, if it were possible to join them.

"It is obvious that it will be less difficult to observe the drifting of an island like Corsica—if there is a drift—when its actual position has been recorded in relation to the continent. However, it is hardly probable that the verification will be fulfilled in our time. Today it is difficult to say if Corsica has moved within the last half century or whether it has been wrongly recorded on the map by the early geographers.

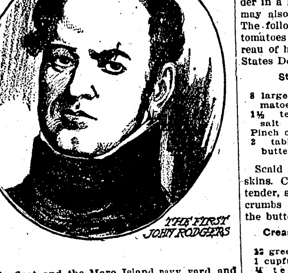
PN-9 No. 1



THE FIRST JOHN RODGERS

1925 Naval History Recalls Early Days and Deeds

By JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN

JOHN RODGERS and Lexington are names to conjure with in these latter days of the United States navy. Commander John Rodgers is the hero of the latest epic of the sea, the air and sea cruise of the PN-9, No. 1, who has told the President's air board what is wrong with the navy and has been made assistant chief of the navy's bureau of aeronautics under Rear Admiral William A. Moffett. The Lexington is the new airplane-carrier just launched, is the last word in naval construction and marks the acceptance of the airplane as a factor in the future development of the "first line of defense."

Both names—John Rodgers and Lexington—have an added significance in that they recall a vast amount of naval history that is of great interest to all good Americans.

"Since the days of John Paul Jones," says the New Haven Journal-Courier, "there has always been a John Rodgers in the navy." The New Haven editor is more enthusiastic than well informed, since the first John Rodgers in the navy was not born until 1771. But it is a fact that since the War of 1812 there have been so many Rodgerses in the navy that it would require a Philadelphia lawyer to keep track of them and of their relationship.

The multitudinous Rodgerses are all descended from Commodore John Rodgers and his brother, Commodore George Washington Rodgers—who didn't rise higher because there wasn't any higher rank in the navy in their day. But the second John Rodgers was a rear admiral and since 1900 no less than five active rear admirals have been of the Rodgers family. How many lesser Rodgerses there are in the navy today nobody seems to know, but they are many.

Commander John Rodgers of this story is the fourth of his name. His father, third of the name, is living—and is a rear admiral.

The Lexington is also the fourth of her name. The first fought in the Revolution; the second in the Mexican War, the third in the Civil War. The fourth Lexington was begun in 1917 as a battleship. Under the treaty for the limitation of naval armament she was converted to an airplane-carrier.

Commander John Rodgers' recent exploit was probably as thrilling an adventure as any one of his tribe ever had. His airplane left San Francisco on a nonstop flight of 2,100 miles to Honolulu. Various naval vessels were stationed on the course, 200 miles apart. Exhaustion of gasoline forced down Rodgers and his four companions after about 1,800 miles had been flown. They missed the next to the last station-ship. They put the plane under a rigged-up sail and sailed and drifted 450 miles due west. This took nine days, during which the five aviator-sailors suffered hunger and thirst. During those nine days all the resources of the navy were put forth in the search. Finally a submarine found them. And when found they were within fifteen miles of Kauai, cheerful and courageous, under sail and going strong. In a few hours they would have made a landing unaided.

The photograph shows Commander Rodgers (indicated by arrow) on board ship, after their rescue. His companions are Lieut. Byron J. Connell of Pittsburgh, assistant pilot; Skiles N. Pope of Jackson, Tenn., aviation pilot; William H. Bowlin of Richmond, Ind., aviation chief machinist's mate, and Otis G. Stantz of Terre Haute, chief radio operator.

There wasn't a John Rodgers in the Colonial navy of the Revolution. Probably that was because the Colonies had no navy when the Revolution began and the first American John Rodgers chose to fight on land as a colonel of militia.

John Rodgers (1771-1838), the militia colonel's son, was the one to start the Rodgers tradition in the navy. He was born at Havre de Grace. At fourteen he ran away to Baltimore and tried to go to sea as a cabin boy. His father caught him, indentured him to a responsible merchant captain and made him promise never to touch liquor—a promise which was kept in that age of hard drinking. John was a merchant captain at eighteen and joined the navy as a lieutenant March 9, 1789. He was on the frigate Constellation when she captured the French frigate L'Insurgente February 9, 1799 off Nevis, W. I. He was put aboard the prize to superintend the transfer of prisoners. A storm separated the vessels. Lieutenant Rodgers, with Midshipman Porter and 11 men thereupon found himself in charge of 173 prisoners, with the hatches gone and never a handcuff on board. The Colonials trained guns on the prisoners and stood guard over them for three nights and two days, in the meantime sailing L'Insurgente through a severe storm to St. Kitts, where they joined the Constellation.

This first John Rodgers in 1804-5 brought the pirates of Tripoli and Tunis to time and secured a treaty by which the payment of tribute and the slavery of Christian captives was abolished. May 16, 1811, while cruising in the frigate President to prevent the impressment of American seamen by the British warships, he had a night encounter near New York with a warship which returned his hail with a shot. Rodgers thereupon gave the stranger a plenty. Morning revealed the crippled British warship Little Belt. This encounter undoubtedly hastened the War of 1812.

June 23, 1812, right after the declaration of war, Rodgers in the President met the British frigate Belvidera. He himself sighted and fired the first gun at the British—and thus fired the first shot of the War of 1812. Rodgers made four cruises in the President. In the third he visited the Irish channel and captured prizes galore.

In June of 1813 Rodgers went to Baltimore and rendered valuable services in command of the sailors and marines who helped defeat the British army and fleet in the battles of North Point and Fort McHenry. It was during the British fleet's attack on Fort McHenry that Francis Scott Key wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner."

After the War of 1812 Rodgers declined appointment as secretary of the navy, but served as chairman of the naval commission, except for the years 1824-27 when he commanded the Mediterranean squadron, from 1815 till his death in 1838. That's the kind of a naval officer the first John Rogers was.

The second John Rodgers (1812-82) was the son of the first John Rodgers and got into the navy as a midshipman in 1828 and served on the frigate Constellation. After various leaves of absence to complete his education, he served on the Brazil station, did a vast amount of surveying and charting along the Florida coast and in 1855 took the Vincennes into the Arctic on an exploring expedition.

When the Civil War opened the Confederates had control of the Ohio and of the Mississippi south of Cairo. By both sides the vital importance of the Mississippi was recognized. The Confederates fortified the river till they thought it was impregnable from either end.

Commander John Rodgers was sent in the spring of 1861 to Cairo to begin the work of creating an inland navy for operations on the Mississippi and its tributaries. One of his first acts was to buy the third Lexington and other river steamers. Then followed the construction of a fleet of iron-clad gunboats which was eventually largely instrumental in giving the Union forces possession of the river.

We find this second John Rodgers in command of the Galena, an iron-clad steamer, in the James river expedition of 1862; she was hit 129 times by the shore batteries and two-thirds of her crew were killed and wounded. In the Port Royal expedition he was the executive on Dupont's flagship Wabash and it was he who hoisted the Flag on Fort Walker. In 1863 he commanded the monitor Weehawken when she captured the monitor Atlanta in Wassaw sound, Georgia. For this he was given the thanks of congress and made commander. He was made rear admiral in 1869, commanded the Asiatic fleet and the Mare Island navy yard and May 1, 1877, became superintendent of the naval observatory. His scientific improvements there were many and he served there until his death.

The four Lexingtons set forth the development of the United States navy from its earliest beginning to the latest word in modern naval construction—from the sailing wooden ship of a few hundred tons to the oil-burning, electrically driven steel leviathan whose principal mission is to take care of the airplanes of a battle fleet. The principal fact about each of the four Lexingtons follow:

First Lexington—Merchant vessel, purchased in 1775 by order of Second Continental Congress; altered into 16-gun brig; April 7, 1776, captured British sloop Edward; in October, 1776, captured by British 32-gun frigate Pearl, but Colonials overpowered prize crew and took Lexington into Baltimore; in June, 1777, with Reprisal and Dolphin, made two circuits of Ireland, capturing 15 prizes; September 20, 1777, captured by British Alert, after ammunition ran out.

Second Lexington—Sloop of war of 18 guns and 681 tons; built in 1825 at New York navy yard; cruised on special duty on Atlantic coast; in 1844 converted to storeship with 8 guns; used in transporting troops and in blockade duty in Mexican War; in 1852 formed one vessel of the fleet of Commodore M. C. Perry when he opened up ports of Japan, the "Hermit Nation."

Third Lexington—Side-wheel steamer of 500 tons bought for $20,000 by Commander John Rodgers in Cincinnati in 1861 and converted into a gunboat with 7 guns for use on Mississippi; in active service all through Civil War; sold at auction for $6,000 July 5, 1865, at Mound City, Ill.

Fourth Lexington—Aircraft-carrier, just launched and to be ready for service next year; length, 888 feet; breadth, 106; displacement, 33,000 tons; cost, $32,000,000; oil burning and electrically driven; horse power, 180,000; four propellers give speed of nearly 40 miles an hour; deck space, about 5 acres; carries more than 70 airplanes; armament, 32 8-inch guns and 12 antiaircraft guns.

The illuminating diagram of the superimposed vessels shows these facts: The fourth Lexington is more than three times as large as the famous Oregon, our crack battleship in the Spanish-American War; the Lexington having 33,000 tons displacement and the Oregon 10,600.

The Oregon, a steam-driven, steel-armored battleship, was the equal of anything afloat in her day and was a model of efficiency. She made a record run from the Pacific to the Atlantic and arrived off Santiago, Cuba, in perfect order and ready to play the principal role in the destruction of Cervera's fleet. She, in turn, was more than twenty times the size of the third Lexington. This third Lexington did brilliant service on the Mississippi in the Civil War and was efficient after her kind.

The third Lexington was of 191 tons more displacement than the second Lexington, but was a wooden sailing vessel of no radical improvement over the first Lexington. She was, however, almost twice the size of the first Lexington, which was no more than a merchant vessel of the Revolution period, converted into a 16-gun brig.

The fourth Lexington is therefore all of 100 times the size of the first Lexington. No comparison between them, except in the matter of size, is possible. About the only thing that they have in common is that they travel on the surface of the water.

"Look today from the aircraft landing deck of this ship, with its 180,000-horse-power turbine engine, its electric drive, its 33,000 tons of metal, to the wooden, wind-driven Constitution, docked in yonder harbor at Boston," said Secretary of the Navy Wilbur at the launching of the fourth Lexington.

"With all the changes from wood to iron, from wind power to steam and to electricity, from cast-iron smooth-bore cannon to the modern high-power gun, there is a thread which binds us irrevocably to the past, and God grant that it may never be severed."

SUNDRY GOOD USES FOR GREEN TOMATOES

Making Green Tomato Pickle.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When the first hard frost leaves a large supply of green tomatoes on hand, some of them will undoubtedly be made into pickles, but they are also good to use in many other ways. Green tomatoes cut into half-inch slices, sprinkled with salt, dipped in flour or fine bread crumbs, and fried till tender in a little fat, are excellent. They may also be fried with sliced onions. The following recipes for using green tomatoes have been tested by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture:

Stewed Green Tomatoes.

8 large green tomatoes
1½ teaspoonfuls salt
Pinch of pepper
2 tablespoonfuls butter
4 tablespoonfuls sugar
4 tablespoonfuls bread crumbs
Scraped onion for seasoning

Scald the tomatoes and remove the skins. Cut into small pieces, boil until tender, season, and thicken with bread crumbs which have been browned in the butter.

Cream of Green Tomato Soup.

12 green tomatoes
1 cupful water
¼ teaspoonful soda
4 tablespoonfuls butter
2 cupfuls milk
1½ teaspoonfuls salt
2 tablespoonfuls flour
1 small onion, cut fine
Pinch of pepper and curry powder

Boil the tomatoes with the water until tender, and put through a strainer. Saute onion, pepper, and curry powder in butter, remove the pieces of onion, then add the flour, and later the milk, to make a white sauce. Add the soda to the hot tomato pulp. When the white sauce is thoroughly cooked, blend the two mixtures and serve at once.

Green Tomato Pie.

4 or 5 medium-sized green tomatoes
½ lemon, sliced very thin
¼ teaspoonful cinnamon
⅛ teaspoonful salt
1½ tablespoonfuls cornstarch
¾ cupful sugar
1 tablespoonful butter

Slice the tomatoes and heat slowly in a saucepan with the sugar, lemon, salt and spice until the tomatoes are tender. Add the cornstarch and cook until the cornstarch does not taste raw. Take from the fire and add the butter. Line a pie tin with pastry and bake the lower crust for 12 minutes in a moderately hot oven until a delicate color begins to appear. Put the tomato filling in this prebaked crust, cover with an upper crust, and bake about 12 minutes in a hot oven, or until the upper crust is done.

If there is insufficient liquid in the tomatoes to cook them, a small amount of water may be added when stewing them. It may be necessary to use more or less cornstarch, according to the amount of tomato juice present.

Green Tomato Marmalade.

6 pounds green tomatoes
6 lemons
1½ teaspoonfuls salt
6 cupfuls sugar

Wash and trim the tomatoes and cut them into small pieces and add the sugar. Cut the lemons into very thin slices and boil for about five minutes in one cupful of water to which the salt has been added, and add this to the tomato and sugar. Heat this mixture slowly, then cook rapidly, stirring constantly, for about one-half hour or until the marmalade has the consistency of thick, heavy jam. These proportions will make about three quarts of marmalade.

Green Tomato Mincemeat.

4 quarts sliced green tomatoes
2 quarts pared and sliced tart apples
½ pound seeded raisins
½ pound currants
4 tablespoonfuls minced citron
4 tablespoonfuls cinnamon
¼ teaspoonful allspice
¼ teaspoonful cloves
5 cupfuls brown sugar
2 cupfuls vinegar
2 cupfuls water, or more water and less vinegar if the latter is very acid

Chop the tomatoes and the apples fine. Add the other ingredients and boil the mixture slowly until the tomatoes are tender and the mincemeat is thick and not watery. Stir it occasionally to prevent burning. If desired this may be sealed in scalded jars for later use. The quantities given in this recipe should make about three quarts of mincemeat.

When a large number of green tomatoes must be handled they may be brined. Directions for brining vegetables may be obtained from the bureau of chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture. The brined tomatoes, when freshened, can be used for pickles and relishes of various kinds and also for mock mincemeat.

"A WELL-BALANCED DIET" IS DEFINED

Provides Fuel Needed to Maintain Best Body Weight.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A good many people like to talk about "a well-balanced diet," but very often are quite vague as to what they really mean by the phrase. The bureau of home economics in the United States Department of Agriculture has an important division devoted to foods and nutrition, and has made a study of the relation of foods to health.

The well-balanced diet, say the scientists in this division, provides within the limits of the fuel, or calories, needed to maintain the best body weight for age and height: protein, right in kind and amount; iron; calcium; phosphorus, and vitamins A, B and C. The diet should be either bulky or potentially bulky, that is, capable of increasing in volume as it passes through the body.

The right kind of protein may be obtained from milk or cheese, eggs, meat, fish or other flesh foods; soy beans or peanuts. One of these should be supplemented by vegetables and by refined or whole-grain cereals. Vegetables should predominate when garden and market conditions permit.

Iron is insured by the use of eggs, meat, fish, or other flesh foods; whole-grain cereals; green leaves; fruits, fresh, dried, or carefully canned. All four kinds should be included if possible, and when one or more is lacking the others take on added importance.

Phosphorus and vitamin B are so widely distributed that it is easier to list the foods that lack them than those that supply them. Fats lack them; so do the sugars and refined cereals. The "balance" in this case is best obtained, therefore, by limiting these foods in general to the amounts needed for richness, sweetness and palatability.

Vitamin A comes from certain protein foods, such as milk and eggs; from certain fats, such as butter and cream, and from certain vegetables, such as spinach and other green leaves. A generous supply from one source makes it unnecessary to take others. Green leaves can serve as the sole source only if reduced in volume by cooking.

Practicaly all fresh fruits supply vitamin C, and oranges, grapefruit, lemons, raspberries and tomatoes are particularly rich sources. Green-leaf vegetables, such as lettuce and cabbage, which can be eaten raw, are also valuable.

Cabbage Scalloped With Spaghetti and Cheese

For children who need a good hot dish at noon, quickly and easily made, or for a "one-piece" supper dish which if supplemented by some fruit or a simple dessert, will be a completely balanced meal, try cabbage scalloped with spaghetti and cheese. Foods cooked together in a baking dish which can be brought to the table help to reduce the number of sauce pans and serving dishes to be washed, and in this case the combination is particularly delicious. The amounts given have been found by the United States Department of Agriculture sufficient to serve eight persons.

Cabbage Scalloped With Spaghetti and Cheese.

2 quarts of shredded raw cabbage
2 cupfuls cooked spaghetti
1 quart milk
⅓ cupful butter
½ cupful flour
½ pound grated cheese (or more)
Buttered crumbs
Salt and pepper

Make a white sauce of milk, flour, and butter; add grated cheese and seasonings. Place layer of shredded cabbage in baking dish, cover with cheese sauce, then a layer of spaghetti with cheese sauce and arrange a layer of buttered crumbs over the top. Bake for 20 minutes in covered dish, uncover, and bake 10 minutes to brown.

It's often unwise for a man to be as funny as he can.

Shave With Cuticura Soap

And double your razor efficiency as well as promote skin purity, skin comfort and skin health. No mug, no slimy soap, no germs, no waste, no irritation even when shaved twice daily. One soap for all uses—shaving, bathing and shampooing.—Advertisement.

It is the guilt, not the scaffold, which constitutes the shame.

The Real Question

"Just this way, sir," said the courteous clerk in the railway ticket office. "Let me show you some summer guides entitled, 'Where to Go' and 'When to Go.'"

The man with the modest income shook his head.

"They don't interest me," he sighed. "What I want to know is 'How to Go.'"

C. A. DUNNING—Premier of Saskatchewan

The Living Proof That Canada Makes Good

CANADA is the Land of Promise to-day. Canada promises prosperity, health and happiness to those who come prepared and determined to work. And, on her promises, Canada makes good. If you are strong and willing, you can make yourself independent in Canada, no matter if your cash capital is small.

Take the Case of C. A. Dunning

C. A. Dunning came to the Province of Saskatchewan in 1903. He was an immigrant boy from England, only seventeen years old, not over strong, no money, no knowledge of agriculture. But he wanted to work and he was looking for a job in Saskatchewan, as a start. He was determined to make good.

He got the job. It was on a new farm in Saskatchewan, thirty miles from the end of the railway. His pay was $10.00 per month and board. He lived in a sod shack and slept on the floor. To-day, Charles A Dunning is Premier of Saskatchewan, Chief Executive and Leader of the Provincial Government, and one of the most successful farmers in Canada.

A Great Country

Canada is a great, rich, varied country with the glorious power and vitality of youth. She is already the greatest exporter of wheat in the world, although only about one-fifth of her good farm land has as yet been brought under cultivation. Canada's wheat crop in 1924 was 262,000,000 bushels; in 1925 it is officially estimated at 391,000,000 bushels—an increase of 129,000,000 bushels. Other branches of farming—dairying, stock-raising, etc.,—are increasing proportionately. Canada is increasingly rich in beef and dairy cattle, in horses and sheep, and in poultry. C. A. Dunning has shared in this development and prospered accordingly.

C. A. Dunning's story of success on the farm can be multiplied thousands of times in the different Provinces of Canada. Do YOU want to get ahead? Do YOU want to succeed and make a home for yourself on a low-cost farm where you can prosper and be independent? Come to Canada, the land of bigger crops and cheaper, richer land. Officers of the Canadian Government will help you, free of charge, to get suitably located; if desired they will supervise your start and give you all the help and counsel you may ask. Good land near the railroads sells at from $15.00 to $20.00 per acre. Free homesteads farther back. Full particulars will be found in the Canada Books issued by the Government. Send for one today. SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS

As the wild duck season is upon us the inexperienced housewife who is presented with a brace of ducks to cook will welcome a few suggestions. If the feathers are to be removed, take off as much of the down as is possible without leaving the skin too much exposed. Cut off the wings and dip the whole birds, feathers and all, into a deep pan of melted paraffin. When well covered hang them up in a cold place to chill. When thoroughly hardened the paraffin can be taken off, peeling the feathers and down, leaving the clean, delicate flesh free from feathers. Now wash and draw, scrubbing the ducks well with soda water. Drain and they are ready for roasting or broiling. Those who enjoy the gamy flavor of the duck will not care to have it removed by parboiling. Stuff or put a small bunch of celery in the cavity of the bird and roast. Those who like the ducks stuffed will enjoy the following:

Apple and Bread Stuffing.—To three cupfuls of bread broken into bits, add three apples pared and cut into small pieces, two and one-half tablespoonfuls of onion chopped, one teaspoonful of sage, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper; mix all together and stuff the ducks. Cover the legs and breast with fat pork and cook in a very hot oven, basting every five minutes with the drippings in the pan. Bake thirty minutes. Tame duck requires twice the time for cooking. Those who wish to remove the fish or wild flavor will parboil the ducks in water with a spoonful of vinegar.

Salads which are best to serve with duck are orange, apple or any mildly acid combination. Wild plum, currant or green grape are jellies well liked with game.

Baked Potatoes.—Select large, well-shaped potatoes, remove the center with an apple corer and fill with rolls of bacon or small sausages. Place on a rack in a dripping pan and bake in a moderate oven. Serve with the gravy in the pan, adding water or milk and seasoning with flour to thicken.

Such Good Things.

Most cooks find the breakfast menu the most difficult to escape monotony. The following tasty dish will be appreciated:

Cuban Eggs.—Cook together five minutes, one-fourth of a cupful of sausage meat, and one teaspoonful of grated onion. Add to the pan six eggs beaten lightly, one-fourth o a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and stir until the eggs are creamy. Pour over slices or rounds of buttered toast on a platter and garnish with slices of fresh tomato sprinkled with chopped green pepper.

Oatmeal Bread.—Boil enough potatoes to make two cupfuls when mashed—save the water in which they were cooked—adding enough water to make a quart. Pour this over the potatoes, add two tablespoonfuls of shortening, one tablespoonful of sugar and one of salt. Put over the fire and when boiling add two cupfuls of rolled oats; let boil five minutes, then remove and cool. When lukewarm, add one and one-half yeast cakes dissolved in one-fourth of a cupful of warm milk, a teaspoonful of soda and two quarts of flour. Mix until smooth and let rise over night. In the morning mold into three loaves and bake one and one-quarter hours in a moderate oven.

Terrapin Chicken.—Chop together two chicken livers cooked, two cooked eggs and mix with two cupfuls of chopped cooked chicken. Season with salt, pepper, nutmeg. Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, one cupful of chicken stock or cream. Cook until smooth, add the chopped mixture, cover and simmer for ten minutes. Before serving add a yolk of egg beaten with two tablespoonfuls of cream and one teaspoonful of lemon juice; stir this into the hot mixture and pour into timbale cases or croustades. Garnish with parsley.

Lightning Cake.—Break the whites of two eggs into a half-pint measuring cup, add softened butter to make half a cupful, then fill the cup with milk and water. Add to a bowl with flavoring and beat with an egg beater for seven minutes, after adding one and one-half cupfuls of flour, one cupful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder sifted three times. Bake in layer or sheet pan.

Orange Icing.—Mix the grated rind of an orange with one teaspoonful of lemon juice, one tablespoonful of orange juice and the yolk of an egg. Beat the mixture until stiff enough with confectioner's sugar. It will take about one and one-half cupfuls.

Serve a cottage pudding or plain cornstarch pudding with a butterscotch sauce made of browned flour, butter, brown sugar, a little molasses and vinegar with water. Good with ice cream.

DELAWARE LEGION ELECTS SYLVESTER

Delaware is nautical by the necessity of things. With its river and its bay and the ocean, one can easily imagine the entirety of its narrow strip of territory as being thoroughly saturated with the influence of the sea.

Neptune, should he be met walking upon the beach, would probably be recognized there as quickly as Uncle Sam. Or perhaps Uncle Sam, to the Delawarean's mind, is a sort of trident-bearing sea-god himself.

It is the most natural thing in the world, then, that American Legionnaires of this sea-dominated state should turn to the navy and select a gob for their head for 1925-1926. Earl Sylvester of Harrington is the man upon whom their choice fell.

Mr. Sylvester enlisted in the United States navy on November 14, 1917, as an apprentice seaman. He was discharged on January 29, 1919, as an electrician, first class.

Earl Sylvester.

A charter member of Harrington post, No. 7, of the Legion in his home town, Commander Sylvester had been its adjutant since its organization in 1919. He was also its service officer.

He served as a delegate to the national convention at Kansas City in 1921; he was a member of the state executive committee in 1922, and a department vice commander in 1924. He was also local chairman of the campaign for the Legion's $5,000,000 endowment fund for disabled veterans and orphans of the World war.

Mr. Sylvester is a chief clerk in the office of the supervisor of telegraph and signals of the Delaware division of the Pennsylvania Railroad company. He entered the service of the Pennsylvania in 1911.

Activities of Fidac During the Past Year

During the past year considerable progress has been made in assuring the former service men of the World war a voice in deciding questions of peace and war, according to a report from international headquarters of Fidac at Paris which has been received by national headquarters of the American Legion.

Representation at the fifth arms conference at Geneva, closer co-operation with the League of Nations, addition of a woman's auxiliary and of a number of new member associations and work in ascertaining public opinion in allied and former enemy countries, especially following the election of Von Hindenburg as president of Germany, are among the accomplishments set forth.

Fidac advocated the calling of a fifth arms conference. The conference was held at Geneva last May. Fidac was by invitation officially represented at the conference.

The organization was asked by the League of Nations to assist in selecting a veteran to represent former service men in the information section of the league.

When Field Marshal von Hindenburg was elected president of the German republic, the permanent committee on propaganda of Fidac took up an investigation as to the public reaction to his election in both allied and former enemy countries. Their report contributed to lessen anxiety felt in certain places as to the possible effects of the election.

Two French and four Polish veterans' associations, with a combined membership of 580,000, were admitted to membership. Plans for the formation of a woman's auxiliary to Fidac occupied much thought during the year.

Deeds 160-Acre Farm to American Legionnaires

A freak use of the law to prevent mortgaged property from falling into the hands of creditors was resorted to by a resident of Iowa, who deeded a 160-acre farm to the 700,000 American Legionnaires in the country.

The moiety conveyed to each member of the Legion was infinitesimal while the expense to each of them in executing, acknowledging and recording instruments of conveyance would several times exceed the value of the property. The court held the deed void but not criminal.

The outside of the package only has been altered. To facilitate packing and reduce breakage in shipping, the paper wrapper which has identified the Pe-ru-na bottle for many years has been displaced by a substantial pasteboard carton.

Pe-ru-na cannot be made any better. Three generations of users testify that Pe-ru-na is the best remedy in the world for catarrh and diseases of catarrhal origin.

Lame, Tired, Achy?

Are you tired, lame, achy—worried with backache? Do you suffer sharp pains, headaches, dizziness and disturbing bladder irregularities? Perhaps your kidneys need attention. THE DAIRY

GREEN FEEDS FOR DAIRY-COW RATION

Green rye and green cowpeas may be fed to dairy cows immediately after milking without unfavorably affecting either the flavor or odor of the milk. This fact was developed by a series of feeding experiments carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture to determine whether feeding green rye or green cowpeas affects the flavor and odor of milk, and to ascertain how these feeds may be fed and the milk handled so as to minimize any objectionable effects on the quality of the product.

The investigation relative to the feeding of green rye was conducted with ten Holstein and ten Jersey cows representative of their respective breeds, and giving milk relatively free from abnormal flavors and odors. The average weight of the Jersey cows was 976 pounds, and that of the Holsteins 1,271 pounds. The stage of lactation varied from fresh cows to those nearing the end of their lactation period.

The cutting of the rye used in the experiments was begun when it was about 15 inches in height, before it had headed. In addition to the green rye, the cows were fed, in proportion to their milk production, varying quantities of a grain mixture containing two pounds each of hominy feed, bran, and oats, and one pound each of cottonseed meal and linseed meal. In addition to the grain mixture, the cows were fed as much alfalfa hay as they would readily consume, the average quantity of hay consumed daily per cow being 12.3 pounds.

The cows were separated into groups of five. One group received only the hay and grain ration and were known as checks. The other three groups received, respectively, in addition to the hay and grain ration the following quantities of green rye

15 pounds one hour before milking
30 pounds one hour before milking
30 pounds immediately after milking

This plan of feeding was followed for four consecutive days, but on the fifth day the rye was omitted from the ration. The cows were then interchanged in order to equalize any abnormal results caused by the milk of an individual animal, and the feeding of green rye was resumed.

Samples were taken from the milk of each cow at the time of milking and cooled, but not aerated. The samples were examined for flavor and odor by experienced judges, who had no knowledge as to which cow produced a particular sample.

These exhaustive experiments disclosed the fact that as much as 30 pounds of green rye may be fed to dairy cows immediately after milking without producing noticeable effect on either the flavor or odor of the milk.

In similar feeding experiments with green cowpeas, 30 pounds of this feed was consumed by dairy cows immediately after milking without producing any pronounced objectionable flavor or odor in the milk. Green cowpeas tend to affect more unfavorably the flavor and odor of the milk than does green rye.

Cow's Individuality Limits Amount of Feed

Wheat has about the same value as corn as a dairy feed, while oats has a value of 10 per cent less than corn pound for pound. The amount of feed which should be fed a cow depends in the first place upon individuality. Size of the animal, amount of milk produced and butter-fat content of the milk also bear important relationships to the amount of feed necessary. A grain mixture should be fed in the proportion of one pound to each three pints of milk produced daily by the cow. If the cow produces more than five gallons of milk a day, however, feed at the rate of one pound of grain mixture to each four pints of milk. Under most circumstances feed all the roughage she will eat up clean. Only if she tends to become overfat should the quantity of roughage be restricted. Feed all she will respond to in milk production. When she begins to put on flesh cut down the grain.

Bloody Milk Is Due to Ruptured Blood Vessel

When a cow gives bloody milk, it is due to a rupture of a small blood vessel in the udder. When a cow is fresh, it usually is due to the swelling in the udder, but when it occurs later in the lactation it usually is due to an injury to the udder. When it is due to an inflammation, the trouble is over as soon as the inflammation leaves the udder, but when it is caused by injury, the cause must first be removed before a cure can be effected.

When the blood comes away in lumps, there is an infection in the quarter and the quarter will usually be lost.

When Bull Is Impotent

There is no particular age at which a bull becomes impotent. This factor is governed much by the amount of service he is called upon to render and also upon the way he is fed. Pampered, fat animals sometimes become impotent earlier than seven years and some remain serviceable much later. Not too fat, plenty of exercise, and regulation of the service to one and not permitted too many cows at one time, many bulls will last much longer than this

Farm Gardens Inadequate

Although 95 per cent of the 1,043 farms canvassed in North Dakota have a vegetable garden of some sort, only 60 per cent of these farmers provide enough vegetables for themselves from their individual gardens. Some interesting facts disclosed were that one farm in four raised no beef cattle, one in eight had no poultry, one in four no hogs, one in seven no dairy cows and one in twenty no garden at all.

GOLDEN RULE DAY TO BE OBSERVED HERE ON DEC. 6

Geo. Fricker Commissioned By Gov. Christianson To Be Chairman For This Village

SEVEN OTHERS ARE VICE-CHAIRMEN

International Application Of Golden Rule Is Hoped For

Mr. Geo. Fricker, recently commissioned by Governor Theodore Christianson as Chairman to direct the observance of Golden Rule Day, Sunday December 6, in this community, to-day announced the appointment of the following vice-chairmen who will assist in promoting the activities in connection with the state-wide observance: the Rev. M. B. Ordahl, the Rev. O. I. Raaum, P. L. Anderson, Arthur R. Hudson, Mrs. Racine Olson, Mrs. A. L. Carlson and Mrs. John Swan.

Governor Chritianson who has accepted the Chairmanship of the State Committee stated in his letter to Mr. Fricker that "The observance of Golden Rule Sunday is an effort unanimously endorsed by the outstanding leaders of 50 nations without regard to religious, sectarial, or racial contacts.

"It is the hope," the Governor continued, "that on this day millions of citizens in all the participating nations will be seated, figuratively, at the same table, partaking of the same food, thinking the same thoughts, thus entering into a new realization of the brotherhood of mankind, with the single idea of emphasizing the benefit accruing to mankind by the unanimous adoption of the Golden Rule principle in all of our relations, not alone individually but nationally and internationally."

The action of Governor Christianson in urging universal observance of the day in all communities in Minnesota is in harmony with the recent appeal of President Coolidge in which he said, "The consistent observance of Golden Rule Sunday cannot but help to bring about the application of the Golden Rule itself to the misunderstandings of nations and of individuals."

The International Committee in charge of the observance this year includes Viscount Cecil of England, Dr. Fridjof Nansen of Norway, E. K. Venizelos of Greece, Prince Carl of Sweden, Georges Clemenceau of France and Paul Hymans of Belgium.

BURGLARS INVITED TO RETURN LOOT FOUND "NOT SATISFACTORY"

(By Associated Press)

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—A Philadelphia store that was robbed invited the burglars to bring back the goods they took if not found satisfactory.

Realizing the power of advertising, the store inserted a display ad in local papers headed "Notice! To the Burglars Who Robbed Our Store."

"You boys are not using your powers of observation. (An unpardonable trait of any burglar) If you had read our advertisements and noticed our very low prices you could have saved your self the trouble of 'breaking in' to get the things you wanted. We are glad to know, however, that you preferred our merchandise. Every article in our store is absolutely guaranteed by us: whether you buy it or steal it makes no difference. If what you fellows took does not give you good service, bring it back and we will make it good—with the assistance of General Butler."

"P. S.—Special reception for burglars calling after our store is closed. Bring your friends along."

THE PRINTER'S NIGHT OUT

A sale bill bearing the signature of "Will Quit Work" has been going the rounds of the press and purports to be a Missouri auction sale, giving evidence of what queer combinations can be made by a printer who is suffering from a night out and badly mixes his type. The bill announcing the sale includes the following list:

Twenty-five good cows, broke to work; 41 head of cultivators, coming in soon; 10 head shoveling boars, with scoop by side; 9 piano mares; 20 red canvas belting, better than new; DeLaval cow with ice-cream attachment; McCormick binder in foal; Poland China bobsled due to farrow in April; 14 head of chickens with grass seed attachment, in good working order; 2 J. I. C. riding heifers, good as new; spraying outfit can be ridden or driven by the children; 5 billy goats, 70 bushels capacity, with spraying nozzle and other articles too numerous to mention which I expect to get at night between now and the date of sale.—Ex.

Is It Eczema ?

Roscoe, S. Dak.—"I was advised to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for relief of eczema. I took the advice and ordered one bottle. That seemed to help me somewhat, and I was encouraged to get another. I had used only two bottles when I found this trouble was completely overcome. I had taken treatment from doctors, but nothing had helped me until I used this wonderful 'Discovery.' I never realized what it was to have smooth and healed hands. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery every time for a blood enricher and health restorer."—Erna Jeschke. All druggists. Write Dr. Pierce, president Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. HOW TWO WOMEN AVOIDED OPERATIONS

The Following Letters of Mrs. Thurston and Mrs. Beard Carry an Encouraging Message to Other Sick Women

MRS. ETHEL THURSTON
324 N. PINE STREET, LIMA, OHIO

Lima, Ohio.—"I want to tell you how your medicine has helped me. For weeks I suffered with awful pains from inflammation and I was in such misery that I had to bend double to get relief. I could not be touched or jarred, had awful pain all over my abdomen and could not touch my feet to the floor. It was impossible for me to straighten up and the pains never ceased. I took treatments for some time and finally was told I would have to have an operation. I do not believe in operations, and I had read so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I told my husband I would try it before I gave up. I soon began to feel that it was doing me good. The awful misery began to leave me, also the backache. I have a good appetite and am gaining in weight. Taking the medicine was the best thing I ever did. I feel like it has saved my life and I do not hesitate to say so to my friends. At least it saved me from a dreaded operation and I am still taking it. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about the medicine."—Mrs. ETHEL THURSTON, 324 North Pine Street, Lima, Ohio.

Mrs. Beard's Letter

Eddy, Texas.—"I will write you a few words, thinking it will do some one else good. Two doctors said I would have to be operated on because for nearly twelve months I suffered from a weakness from which I could get no relief. I was restless and nervous and was not able to walk across the house. They said it was the Change of Life. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the newspapers, and as I could not get any help from doctors I thought I would give that a trial. I began with the liquid and it helped me some, then you advised me to take the tablet form and I began to improve rapidly. I have gained in weight from 105 to 170 pounds. I recommend it to all women with this trouble."—Mrs. M. E. BEARD, R. No. 1, Box 143, Eddy, Texas.

Ireland After Bettors

Irish Free State authorities are strictly enforcing the laws against gambling. A man in Fermoy who had been running a roulette wheel for 18 years was prosecuted as "a rogue and a vagabond" under an act of George IV. His defense was that he had done it on his own property which, as he could exclude anybody from it, was not a public place. The justice, confirming this view of the law, dismissed the charge against him.

Novelist on His Lot

Gilbert Frankau, the English author, deplored on his last visit to New York the privations of novelists.

"The novelist and the hen," Mr. Frankau said quaintly, "both scratch for their living. The only difference is that the hen gets hers."

Evidently Knew Cabmen

I was right behind two flappers who emerged from the Hotel Roosevelt recently.

"Have you plenty of change?" asked one of them as a taxi driver pulled up to the curb.

"Sure," said the driver.

"Let me see," said the girl.

The driver dug down in his pocket and came up with a handful of dimes and quarters.

"All right," said the flapper, giving this loose change the once over, "we'll take you."

And a moment later after she had given him the address, they were off.—Karl K. Kitchen in New York Evening World.

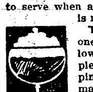
NICE FOODS

A pretty dessert which will be good to serve when a light and dainty dish is needed is:



Trilby Cream.—Take one pound of marshmallows, one can of pineapple, one cupful of whipping cream. Cut the marshmallows into quarters, using shears dipped into cold water occasionally to keep them from sticking. Put the cut-up marshmallows in soak in some of the pineapple juice. Cut the pineapple into small bits and drain. Beat the cream and when stiff add the drained marshmallows, and pineapple, a few chopped walnut meats or blanched almonds and candied cherries. Serve in sherbet cups with a cherry on top.

Casserole of Ham.—Take a slice of ham cut rather thick. Place in the bottom of a casserole and cover with sliced potatoes, season with salt and pepper—salt will not be needed if the ham is not freshened—place in the oven and bake well covered one hour.

Spaghetti de Luxe.—Take a small package or less of spaghetti, one can of chicken soup, one can of mushrooms, one shredded green pepper and one-fourth of a cupful of buttered crumbs. Cook the spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender, drain and blanch with cold water. Butter a baking dish, place in it a layer of spaghetti, half of the mushrooms, and pepper; repeat until all are used. Cover with the can of chicken soup and sprinkle with the buttered crumbs.

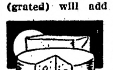
Prune Almond Jelly.—Soak one cupful of prunes in one quart of cold water over night. Cook the prunes in the same water until soft; remove the stones and cut into small pieces. Soak one envelope of gelatin in cold water, pour the prune liquor boiling hot over the soaked gelatin, add three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and stir until all is dissolved. Put the prunes and blanched halves of almonds in a mold, setting them with a little gelatin around the mold. When hardened, fill the mold and set away to chill. Serve with whipped cream.

Bread Fritters.—Cut stale bread into thin slices, shape with a biscuit cutter, spread with jam, and dip in the following batter: Sift one cupful of flour, one tablespoonful of powdered sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, add two-thirds of a cupful of milk gradually and two well-beaten egg yolks. Beat well, add one tablespoonful of olive oil and the whites of the eggs, beaten stiff. Dip the bread and fry in deep fat.

Baked Cheese Sandwiches.—Stir a little finely grated cheese into rich white sauce. Cut bread into rounds, butter and spread with the white sauce, heaping it well up in the center. Place the bread in a hot oven to toast. Ham may be used in place of cheese.

Tasty Tidbits.

A few pieces of good-flavored cheese (grated) will add a zest to many dishes. When preparing escalloped potatoes, add a bit of grated cheese. To scrambled eggs, to macaroni with white sauce, on crackers, grated over pumpkin pie, in fact numberless ways will occur to the cook who likes to prepare tasty food.



Homemade Cream Cheese.—When cheese has become dry or is in unattractive pieces, grate it and stir it into a half cupful or more of boiling hot cream. Add enough cheese to thicken, stir and beat well, add cayenne pepper, a bit of chopped pimento or any seasoning liked. Pour into a jar and set away in the ice chest. Serve as any cream cheese.

Cottage Cheese Salad.—Arrange well-seasoned cottage cheese in shapely spoonfuls on head lettuce, sprinkle with chopped nutmeats and at the side place a spoonful of good salad dressing. A bit of colored jelly may be used as a garnish to the cheese, if preferred to the nuts.

Cheese Savory.—To one cream cheese add a tablespoonful of softened butter, one teaspoonful of minced chives, one-half teaspoonful of minced parsley, one-third of a teaspoonful of worcestershire sauce and anchovy essence, with salt and paprika to taste. Press into a glass and serve with salted wafers.

Cream cheese mixed with a tablespoonful or two of chopped green and red pepper, made into balls and served with salad dressing on lettuce, makes a pretty as well as a nourishing salad.

Cheese Supper Dish.—This has appeared before, but will never grow old, as it is so well liked: Spread bread with butter, sprinkle with chopped cheese, making as many layers as needed in a baking pan. Pour over a custard, using a pint of milk to two eggs, and salt to taste. Bake in a moderate oven until the custard is set. Serve hot.

RELIEVE MILLION OF FEDERAL TAX

Congressional Committee Reduces Levies by $200,000,000—Rates Lowered.

Washington—Removal of more than 1,000,000 individuals from the federal income tax roll by increasing exemptions, and widespread reductions in these levies were voted by the house ways and means committee as the first actual step in its preparation of a new revenue bill.

The income tax exemption figures agreed upon were $1,500 for single persons and $3,500 for heads of families, compared with $1,000 and $2,500, respectively in the present law.

Other changes decided upon included:

Reduction of the maximum surtax rate from 40 to 20 per cent. Reduction of the normal rates 2 to 1½ per cent on the first $1,000 of taxable income from 4 to 3 per cent on the next $4,000 and from 6 to 5 per cent on the remainder.

Increase in the age limit for the $400 exemption allowance for dependents from 18 to 21 years in cases where children are in school.

Retention of the present 25 per cent reduction in the tax when applied to earned income of $10,000 or less also was decided upon by the committee.

Giant Wave Hits Atlantic Liner; Seventy-five People Injured

Cherbourg, France—Thrown to the deck by the plunge of the liner Berengaria into a gigantic wave, more than 75 passengers and members of the crew of the liner were injured. The Berengaria, which left New York October 28 for Cherbourg and Southampton, met with a succession of storms throughout the voyage, culminating in a tempest which the commander declared was the worst he ever had encountered in his 32 years of seafaring.

Butler Must Join Marines.

Washington—President Coolidge declined to extend the leave of Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler, of the marine corps, to permit him to continue to serve after December 31 as head of Philadelphia's police department. In making his decision, the President turned down requests for an extension made by Mayor Kendrick, Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania, and others, who insisted the picturesque marine was needed to direct warfare against lawlessness in Philadelphia.

Tammany Wins in New York.

New York—Tammany scored an overwhelming victory over the Republicans in the city election, electing a mayor, all five borough presidents, a president of the board of aldermen, comptroller, all four district attorneys and a long list of minor officers. Senator James J. Walker defeated Frank W. Waterman for mayor by more than 378,000 votes.

Ford Sets Production Record.

Detroit—The Ford Motor Company reached the highest production peak in the records of the company, when 8,165 cars and trucks went off the assembly lines of domestic branches in one day. This record is expected to be shortlived, for production will reach 8,500 daily before the end of the month, according to reports, making possible a total output of approximately 200,000 for November, the greatest in Ford history.

Abolish Saturday Wedding.

Muenster, Germany — Protestant ministers are forbidden to perform marriages on Saturdays, by a decree of the Westphalian provincial synod. The reason given for the order is that wedding guests, especially in villages where the festivities usually take place in saloons, drink so heavily and so long that Sunday morning often is well advanced before they begin to stagger home.

Signs for Airmen in West.

San Francisco—The Standard Oil Company announced that it will establish a widespread system to guide signs for aviators along the airways of the Pacific coast states, thus giving the country its first routes of marked air lanes. The signs will take the form of names of towns painted on the roofs of company buildings.

Potatoes Sell at $5 Per Hundred.

Fresno, Calif.—Selling at $5 per hundred-weight retail, Irish potatoes have reached the highest price in local markets in 20 years. Freezing conditions in Washington and Idaho last month, and heavy snows which will prevent the harvesting of potatoes in eastern production centers, are responsible for the shortage, according to wholesalers.

Asks Life Jobs for Postmasters

Santa Rosa, Calif.—A bill intended definitely to divorce postmasterships from politics by making appointments to such positions permanent will be introduced in the next congress by Representative Clarence F. Lea of the first congressional district of California.

Bus, Train Crash Fatal to 10.

Waycross, Ga.—The death toll of the school bus-Atlantic Coast Line train collision, mounted to 10 when 2 more of the injured died.

Pup Couldn't Digest Big Feast of Nails

Hop, Skip and Jump, each a four-months-old police dog, found a bag of nails while they were playing under the counter of Max Goldman's trunk store, 95 West Houston street. They swallowed the nails, and when they began indicating that they did not feel well, Goldman took them to a hospital for animals.

There Dr. Alfred W. Meyer operated on Skip, removing a pound of nails from his stomach, but Skip died. The surgeons then operated on Hop, and in his interior found 558 wire nails, each an inch long; one three-inch nail, two long pieces of bent wire and a stone as large as a plum. Hop recovered from the operation and probably will get well. Doctor Meyer explored Jump, X-ray pictures having shown the presence of nails.—New York Herald-Tribune.

Never Satisfied

Tom Barr, recently appointed state bank commissioner, tells this one:

The state officials closed a bank in one of the smaller towns recently and authorized the institution to be liquidated. The bank was able to pay 100 cents on the dollar.

One middle-aged woman depositor demanded a dividend on her savings. She was told that the bank had no money to pay dividends. To which she replied: "Well, I should think a bank could borrow enough money to pay dividends."—Indianapolis Star.

But if he's truly wise, he will not forget the advantages of a better, more convenient, more attractive HOME; because, after all, the best hours of life are spent there, aren't they?
Remember, too, that the home is the woman's workshop. Isn't she entitled to all the comfort and convenience that modern improvements can give her?

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALES CAMPAIGN HAS NOW BEGUN

Christmas Seals will be placed on sale in every nook and corner of Marshall county, according to the plans of the county campaign director, who announces that organization is virtually completed for the county-wide campaign.

The following have been selected as local managers in the various communities:

Golden Valley, Miss Allie Norbeck; Holt-Arthur Hudson; Alvarado-Carl R. Miller; Grygla-Albert Peterson; MiddleRiver-E.G. Tandberg; Argyle-G. H. Mayer-Oakes; Newfolden-R.R. Werline; Oslo-Lester Skamfer; Radium-J. Everett Lobb; Stephen-Prof. M. L. Malmquist; Viking-Miss Geneva Black; Warren-Mrs. C. E. Grinder. Nels M. Engen of Warren is County Campaign Director.

The rural schools will conduct the sales thru the districts outside the city limits. A prize of a Special School Thermometer, indicating the proper temperature for health and good work, will be given to every rural school that sells five dollars worth of seals or more.

The Christmas seal this year is unusually attractive, the county director states, being printed in the cheery Yuletide colors of red and green. The design shows two lighted candles on a background of holly illuminating the double-barred cross, the international insignia of the fight against tuberculosis.

That every piece of Yuletide mail in the county will bear one or more of these health stamps is the hope of the County Public Health Association, which is sponsoring the sale and which directs the expenditure of the funds for local health work. The officers are:--President, Judge Andrew Grindeland, Warren; and Secretary, Nels M. Engen, Warren.

There is no connection between the Red Cross drive and the Christmas Seal sale, the county director announces, the two organizations being entirely separate. Christmas Seal funds are used entirely to carry on the local, state and national campaign against tuberculosis and for the prevention of all diseases.

Mayor Issues Proclamation

Plans for the local sale of Christmas Seals were announced this week by the local manager, Arthur R. Hudson. The plan will be as follows:-

Mayor Ole J. Backlund has issued the following proclamation, endorsing the sale and urging generous support by local people:

"Holt in common with every city and rural district in the state and nation will have the Christmas Seal Sale in December. This is a campaign which deserves the support of everyone, and because of its nature all can help from the boy or girl who can give only a penny or nickel to others who can afford to give dollars. We should all support the campaign because tuberculosis is everyone's enemy, and we never know where it will strike next. We are told that the disease can be wiped out, just as Yellow Fever has been and the country's record of 50 per cent reduction in the tuberculosis death rate since the first Christmas Seal sale shows what is possible.

"Tuberculosis is one of the worst scourges there is-it still is the greatest cause of death during the most productive years of life from 18 to 45. Authorities tell us that it is not only curable, but also preventable, and that education is the best weapon in the campaign. We in our community can help this great cause which means protection to all by purchasing the penny stamps. Let's buy them more generously than ever this year, and help speed the day when tuberculosis will be no more."

COLONEL MITCHELL RENEWS ATTACKS

Defense Launches Cannonade of New Charges Against Navy and Army Air Services.

Washington—Another reverberating cannonade of accusations was turned loose by Colonel William Mitchell against those in charge of the military and naval air service.

Through his counsel, Representative Frank R. Reid, the colonel informed the courtmartial trying him because of his previous utterances in the air controversy that he was fully prepared to prove his charge of criminal and almost treasonable negligence in government aviation.

Among the multitude of offenses of which the defense counsel promised to furnish proof were these:

That the Shenandoah went on its fatal western trip unfit and against the will of its commander, Zachary Lansdowne.

That a naval officer sought to have Lansdowne's widow give false testimony.

That those who arranged the unsuccessful Hawaiian flight of the PN-9 No. 1 were "incompetent."

That high army and navy officers had testified falsely before committees of congress.

That Colonel Mitchell himself "was demoted and transferred because he told the truth."

King Tut's Body Removed From Tomb for Examination by Carter

Cairo, Egypt—The inner coffin of Tutenkhomen's sarcogus, containing the mummy, has been removed from the Pharaoh's tomb for examination.

The coffin, which is of human shape, with a painted face believed to represent the features of the young king himself, is one of the most beautiful pieces of work discovered by the Egyptologists.

The mummy, however, was found to be adhering to the sarcophagus, owing to the liquids poured over it in the ceremonies of dedicating the Pharaoh as a god.

All those present at the removal of the sarcophagus from the tomb were greatly impressed with the richness and majesty of the art lavished upon it by the ancient artisans. Several days of extremely careful work will be required to detach the mummy safely from the adhering shell.

Corn Crop Shows Increase.

Washington—A corn crop of 3,013,890,000 bushels, one-fifth larger than that of last year, and the sixth in the nation's history exceeding the 3,000,000,000 bushel mark, was announced by the department of agriculture in its November preliminary estimates. Iowa, premier corn producing state, has surpassed all its previous records with an indicated production of 477,386,000 bushels. The board's reports disclosed that the bulk of the corn crop throughout the country matured without frost damage. The drought in the south proved to be less damaging than was feared, but in the plains states its effect was severe. The corn belt east of the plains states had a large crop. The quality of this year's corn was somewhat above the average.

Turkey Crop Big in N. D.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Grand Forks is preparing for its turkey show, one of the biggest events in the northwest, according to Judge E. L. Hayes of Minneapolis, president of the Northwest Turkey Breeders Association. According to a recent survey made by Judge Hayes, the turkey crop of North Dakota for this year is worth $25,000,000, which places it among the important money crops of the state. Hayes' estimate is based on a trip of 4,000 miles during which he visited 26 counties and 1,000 farms.

MRS. WILHELMY SAVED BY FRIEND

Doctor Advised Operation Friend Said Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound First

St. Paul, Minnesota.—"I was all run-down from overwork and worry, had no appetite, could not sleep at night, and looked like a corpse. I have six children (five boys and one girl) and did not get any strength after my last baby was born. I was getting worse and thinner every day. The doctor said I had to go to the Hospital but this I could not do on account of my family. So I went to a friend of mine and told her what the doctor had told me and she said, 'Now do as I tell you. Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I have done. It helped me.' So I started taking the Vegetable Compound and I noticed after the first few bottles that I felt considerably better. After taking 9 or 10 bottles I got over my fainting spells. Everybody who sees me now notices the great improvement in my health. I am gaining in weight and strength and am feeling fine. Eat well and sleep good nights. Any woman can write to me and I will answer her letter." — Mrs. MARY WILHELMY, 809 Duke Street, St. Paul, Minnesota.

The Lost Line

Representative William S. Ware of Philadelphia said on the Atlantic City boardwalk:

"Look at those champion girl swimmers in their one-piece bathing suits doing swallow dives. There, in that wheel chair, are a couple of girl horseback riders in white riding breeches. And there goes a girl in knickers—off for an all-day tramp, no doubt."

Representative Ware smiled and added:

"The one dividing line between the sexes is disappearing—the clothes line."

REPAID THIS MAN A DOZEN TIMES

"I have been repaid a dozen times over in improved health for every dollar I spent for Tanlac, and the medicine is still building me up every day," is the striking statement of Joseph DeSarne.

"Tanlac has driven pains from my body that had troubled me for ten years. Besides backache, which almost killed me at times, I had rheumatic pain and swelling in my hands and legs, my circulation was poor, feet always cold, nerves undone, my stomach didn't feel right, I had regular headaches and I was a discouraged man.

"I have never seen the equal of Tanlac in my life. It has more than doubled my appetite, my stomach feels great and my general health is so improved that I can not praise Tanlac enough for what it has done and is still doing for me."

NYE APPOINTED TO U. S. SENATE

Appointment Comes As Surprise to Political Observers in North Dakota.

Bismarck.—Gerald P. Nye, 33 years old, and publisher of the Griggs County Sentinel-Courier at Cooperstown, N. Dak., Saturday was appointed by Governor A. G. Sorlie to fill the vacancy in the senate caused by the death of the late E. F. Ladd. Because of Governor Sorlie's previous indication that he would not appoint anyone and his action in calling a special election for next June to fill the vacancy, the appointment came as a complete surprise to political observers. The special election proclamation will stand, Governor Sorlie declared, and Nye, if seated by the senate, will serve only until the results of the special election becomes known, unless he is chosen by the voters to fill the vacancy.

Candidate Both Terms.

The appointment of Mr. Nye will give the State of North Dakota full representation in the senate this winter without, at the same time, depriving the people of the right to select a man for the place at the earliest convenient time, the executive said. The June special election will be held simultaneously with the regular primary election. Mr. Sorlie is understood to have pointed out that to call a special election earlier than June would mean an unnecessary expense to the state. It is regarded as certain by most political observers that Mr. Nye will be a candidate for both the unexpired term and the long term at the June primary and the November election. There has been no doubt expressed but that he would receive the indorsement of his organization.

Describing the appointee, Governor Sorlie said Mr. Nye is "a clean-cut young fellow and the type of man we want in the senate. He is a true progressive Republican, and I hope the senate will see fit to seat him."

Was Defeated for Congress

At the last election Mr. Nye was defeated for congressman from the Second North Dakota district by Thomas Hall, a Coolidge Republican.

Complete Surprise.

"Please believe me when I say that the appointment came as a complete surprise to me," the senatorial appointee told the Associated Press. "I have nothing to say now but at a later date I may have a statement."

NYE FACES BITTER FIGHT TO GAIN SENATE SEAT

Washington.—If Gerald P. Nye, appointed to the United States senate by Governor A. G. Sorlie of North Dakota, is seated, it will be only after a bitter battle. That much was definite after it became known that the governor of North Dakota had undertaken to fill the E. F. Ladd vacancy in the senate by appointment.

Action Is Questioned.

From all quarters came declarations that the governor has no authority to appoint a senator and senatorial groups that are known to insist upon this point unquestionably will come into action immediately when an attempt is made by Nye to qualify. The appointment will be resisted on the ground that the legislature of North Dakota has not empowered the governor to appoint a senator in case of a vacancy. Under the constitutional amendment calling for the election of senators by popular vote, it is provided that vacancies shall be filled by election, except that a legislature may empower the governor of the state to make such appointment.

Nye Assails Governor.

Fargo—Governor A. G. Sorlie was assailed in this week's issue of the Cooperstown Sentinel-Courier, edited by Gerald P. Nye, for his action in calling a special election for next June to fill the senatorial vacancy and was called upon in that paper, editorially, to make an appointment.

BROWN GIVEN TWELVE YEARS

Fargo.—George Brown, who was convicted by a jury in Cass county district court of shooting Henry Zehren, Great Northern special officer at Casselton, October 1, was sentenced to 12 years in the penitentiary by Judge A. T. Cole.

Brown was sentenced to ten years on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, and two years were added for carrying a gun.

Mr. Zehren, whom Brown shot in the leg when the officer ordered him to stop for questioning while walking on the Great Northern right-of-way at Casselton, was sufficiently recovered from his wound to testify at the trial, and identified Brown as his assailant.

This woman's experience is typical of thousands. Ask any physician.

"And to think I was poisoning my own Baby!"

"I couldn't see why he didn't gain. I never dreamed that my constipation was responsible until the doctor told me.

"He explained that faulty or slow elimination of waste matter allowed poisons to form and be absorbed by the blood—and this meant tainted milk for baby.

"He prescribed the Nujol treatment and it made a world of difference to both of us. Now that I know how dangerous constipation is and how easily it can be prevented, I am never going to allow myself to get into that bad condition again."

Mothers are the best friends of Nujol. When precious new lives are at stake they seek the remedy that medical authorities approve because it is so safe, gentle and natural in its action. Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body.

Nujol helps in Nature's own way

Nujol simply makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination, without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly in accordance with the directions on each bottle. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Nujol THE INTERNAL LUBRICANT For Constipation

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and begin to enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when elimination is normal and regular.

How to Quickly Limber Up Sore, Stiff, Swollen Joints

It was a high-class pharmacist who saw prescription after prescription fail to help hundreds of his customers to get rid of rheumatic swellings and stiff, inflamed, pain-tortured joints.

And it was this same man who asserted that a remedy could and would be compounded that would make creaky, swollen, tormented joints work with just as much smoothness as they ever did.

Now, this prescription, rightly named Joint-Ease, after being tested successfully on many obstinate cases, is offered through progressive pharmacists to millions of people who suffer from ailing joints that need limbering up.

Swollen, twingy, inflamed, stiff, pain-tortured joints are usually caused by rheumatism, but whatever the cause, Joint-Ease soaks straight in through skin and flesh right down to the tendons and ligaments of the joints—right where all the trouble starts—and then blessed relief comes quickly.

Remember, Joint-Ease is for ailments of the joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, spine or finger, and when you rub it on you may expect speedy and gratifying results.

It is now on sale at druggists everywhere for 60 cents a tube.

Always remember, when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—quick.

Rochester—Alvo Rodriguez, governor of the state of Sonora, Mexico, is in Rochester for medical treatment.

St. Paul—Three hospitals for crippled children in the Twin Cities will share equally in the $30,000 estate of Edward T. Mott, 35 years old, a St. Paul cripple, who died recently.

Pine River—Potatoes are money to Aaron Zoffke, a farmer near Backus who expects to clear $50,000 on this season's potatoes. Zaffke raised 10,000 bushels himself and then purchased 20,000 bushels from his neighbors at from 85 cents to $1 a bushel.

St. Paul—Andrew J. Volstead, legal advisor to Adjutant General Walter F. Rhinow, district prohibition chief, has taken steps to cancel more than 1,000 permits now held by druggists and distributors to sell alcohol body-rub, federal agents said.

Mankato—Heroism in saving the life of a transient in the icy waters of the Minnesota river here in April, 1917, was rewarded when A. M. Kircher, civil engineer, received a check for $1,000 from the Carnegie hero fund commission.

St. Paul—From 7,000 to 8,000 Minnesota federal income taxpayers would be relieved altogether from further payments while 70,000 others in this state would benefit by lower levies, under the plan passed by the house ways and means committee at Washington.

Duluth—General W. F. Rhinow, federal prohibition director for the northwest, and Major B. B. Wilcox, chief enforcement officer, formerly of Duluth, have started activities against rum runners and liquor law violators in northern Minnesota with their arrival here.

Minneapolis—The Gophers found the Butler Bulldogs, trotted their way to a 33 to 7 victory over the Indiana invaders. Twelve thousand frigid fans, who braved the cold weather and tried to keep warm with fur coats, sweaters and blankets, saw a greatly improved Minnesota team.

Thief River Falls—Insufficient volume of business has resulted in the absorption of the North Central Co-operative Poultry Producers Association with headquarters at Bemidji, by the Thief River Falls Co-operative Poultry Association, with head offices here.

St. Paul—To enable the Minnesota veterans of the World war to get all information possible about their rights of renewal of wartime insurance, Representative Allen J. Furlow has requested General Frank T. Hines, director of the Veterans Bureau, to inaugurate an experimental campaign of education in Minnesota, according to reports from Washington.

Dodge Center—The Dodge county farm bureau and the University of Minnesota extension service are sponsoring a poultry production project for which working units are being formed. At least 20 groups are to be formed and the project activities are to begin under the local leader plan soon after January 1.

St. Paul—Final settlement with members of the Minnesota Potato Growers Exchange for their 1924 crop will be made by the exchange, according to the recommendations of Public Examiner Garfield W. Brown, made public. The report of the public examiner shows that growers in the western district, the Red River valley, have been "overpaid," while those in the rest of the state have $179,000 coming. The exchange has $111,203.08 in cash assets, and "overpayments" to the western district growers are figured at $69,759.50, secured by warehouse investments valued at $223,745.68.

Minneapolis—Draft of an ordinance proposing to regulate airplane flights above and within the corporate boundaries of Minneapolis, was before the council committee on ordinances and legislation. The ordinance provides that planes must fly at least 5,000 feet above the surface of the earth while traveling over the city. The usual penalty features are provided for violations.

So. St. Paul—Sleek prize winning baby beeves, worth perhaps a dollar a pound, fat lambs and hogs, and coops of the finest chickens, ducks, geese and turkeys produced on Minnesota farms were unloaded from motor trucks and stock cars in South St. Paul, to be led by proud boys and girls around the prize ring at the eighth annual Junior Livestock show. Seven hundred boys and girls, the pick of the state's junior livestock clubs of 8,000 members, superintended the unloading of the animals. James Noble, 18-year-old cattle grower of Pipestone, and his pure-bred Aberdeen-Angus calf won the grand championship in the baby beef class at the greatest boys' and girls' fancy stock exhibition ever staged in the northwest.

Mankato—Pledged to curb parental extravagance toward children and to establish better child health standards, delegates to the third annual convention of the Minnesota Congress of Parents and Teachers Association closed their final business session here. St. Paul was awarded the 1926 convention.

Red Wing—An organization that aims to exterminate banditry from Goodhue county was effected here. From all sections of the county selected men gathered here and formed a county rangers unit. Eighty-five men were sworn in as deputy sheriffs.

Backache Wearing You Out?

Every day find you miserable with backache? Suffer sharp, stabbing pains? Feel lame and stiff—always tired, nervous and dispirited? Then look to your kidneys! Your kidneys are the blood filters. Perhaps they have failed to properly rid the blood of body poisons. Naturally, then, you suffer the injurious effects of this slow poisoning. Don't risk neglect! If your kidneys need help, use Doan's Pills. No other kidney diuretic is so well recommended nor so successful. Ask your neighbor!

BRITISH SUB AND 68 MEN ARE LOST

Admiral of British Atlantic Fleet Reveals Loss of M-1 in Channel Disaster.

Plymouth, England—All hope of rescuing any of the 68 officers and men of the submarine monitor M-1, which disappeared off the Devon coast has been abandoned. It is believed the sunken craft has been located in 225 feet of water off Statr Point.

Davenport, Eng.—Sixty-eight lives, four officers and 64 of the ranks, it is feared, have been lost by the disaster of the submarine M-1, which dived in the waters of the English channel off Start Point, and has not been seen since. A day-long search proved unsuccessful, and Admiral Sir Henry Francis Oliver, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, signalled the following message:

"The commander-in-chief very much regrets to inform the Atlantic fleet that it is feared the submarine M-1 has been lost with all hands during exercises in the channel today."

The large flotilla, provided with necessary apparatus, failed to locate the exact spot where the vessel is lying. But it is in deep water, where divers' operations are impracticable.

President Honors War Dead.

Washington—In striking contrast with the delirious rejoicing seven years ago over cessation of World war hostilities, the capital quietly observed Armistice day, with impressive ceremonies at the unknown soldiers' tomb in Arlington cemetery and at Washington cathedral, burial place of Woodrow Wilson, war time president.

At 11 o'clock, as President Coolidge was placing a wreath on the tomb at Arlington, governmental activities were suspended for a minute or two while officials and clerks joined in a tribute of silence.

Pinchot Acts in Coal Strike.

Philadelphia—A determination to bring about a renewal of the wage conference between operators and miners was seen here in Governor Gifford Pinchot's request to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and Major W. W. Inglis, chairman of the operators wage committee, to meet him separately to discuss the anthracite suspension. Governor Pinchot has been in daily touch with the suspension since the 158,000 miners laid down their tools on September 1.

Would Abolish Grand Juries

Chicago—Grand juries were termed an extra useless wheel in the American prosecution system by Dean Roscoe Pound, of the Harvard law school, who addressed the Chicago Bar association. "Abolish the grand jury," he said, "and you are taking the most important step toward proper and prompt prosecution of criminals. The grand jury is an antiquated piece of our legal machinery and is about 100 years behind the times. It should be done away with if crime is to be dealt with successfully."

Magnus Talks on Citizenship.

Rockford, Ill.—"Be square with your fellowman, practice the golden rule and try to be a better American citizen tomorrow than you were today and yesterday," Magnus Johnson, "dirt farmer" of Minnesota and former United States senator, urged in an address on "Better Citizenship," at Zion Lutheran church.

Progress
On September 1 we began making Land O' Lakes butter and today 40 per cent and more of our butter is Land O' Lakes.
It is to your own benefit to get as much out of your products as possible, so don't forget to keep your Land O' Lakes cream in a separate can instead of dumping it all into one can and get from 2 to 5c a pound less for all of your butterfat when you can get at least 65 per cent of your cream in the Land O' Lakes class, if you use two cans and deliver 2 times a week.

The Engine of Business

Newspaper advertising is as necessary to a business as a locomotive is to a train of cars. Every live merchant knows this realizes that newspaper advertising is the pulling power which moves him along the road to succes.

The Associated Advertising Clubs of the World is responsible for the story of a chewing gum magnate, who is a nationally known advertiser, and who was recently traveling westward with a friend on a limited train. They finally came around to discussing advertising.

The friend expressed astonishment when the manufacturer told him his firm invested hundreds of thousands of dollars annually in advertising.

The manufacturer replied:

"This train is speeding westward at the rate of fifty miles an hour. How fast do you suppose it would travel without the locomotive?"

"Why it couldn't travel at all!" exclaimed the other.

"To be sure," the manufacturer rejoined. "And that is exactly what advertising is to our business—the locomotive. If we were to quit advertising we we might as well quit business, for we'd never get anywhere."

We received a renewal subscription from Frank Coppay, this week. Mr. Coppay lives in Spokane, Wash., where he moved from here a few years ago. He has been a steady subscriber to the NEWS, and has no intention of missing an issue. Thanks, Mr. Coppay!

Where Was Brock When The Lights Went Out?

John Brumund who runs the Lyceum theater in Thief River Falls, was all set to give the people of Holt a good moving picture show in the Community Hall, when—Bang! off went the lights.

Repeated phone calls to Mr. Brock at Crookston (who is the local manager of the Minnesota Electric Distributing Company) failed to alleviate the condition, for a very good reason. Mr. Brock refused to answer all telephone calls.

The question naturally arises, Where was Brock when the lights went out?

We do not think it very ladylike of Mr. John Stahlberg to roast the residents of a village like Strathcona the way he did in last week's issue of the Karlstad Advocate. Lest our readers be in the dark concerning these soothing remarks we'll explain.

John Stahlberg, super-internationally known long distance hiker to Frisco is again in this neighborhood and for some reason unknown to the present writer, landed in Strathcona where he must have indulged in too much chicken pie, for he immediately began cackling about all he knew about some of the boys in Strathcona.

Notably among these is Magnus Spjut. We sympathize with Spjut and desire to see fair play. We therefore open our columns to him to voice his opinions, and expect the editor of the Karlstad Advocate to do the same.

Old Timer predicts we are going to have an open winter. He bases his predictions on the fact that Emil E. Holmes has stopped writing in the Peoples Press and also that Per Boman recently had his whiskers shaved off.—Lancaster Herald.

Boman evidently does not believe in Bolshevism or Holmes has gotten tired talking about it and Hallgren printing it.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT
By F. A. WALKER

SEEK THE BEST

IN THIS brief life of ours, of which we know but little compared with what there is yet to be learned, let us in earnestness and sincerity strive to seek the best.

While in our restricted world of time and space, of color and sound, of ignorance and hate, let us show ourselves capable of finding the good and choosing the best.

Let us seek the best in companions, irrespective of their good looks or their ability to dance or sing; let quality of heart and mind be given precedence over everything else.

Let us be liberal in sympathy, in kindness, in friendship, in loyalty and in charity, with malice toward none, and give to the deserving the best we can bestow, regardless of their race, creed or condition

Let us read the best books, hear the best music, see the best in art, choose the best plays and seek to find in the unruly boy or girl his or her best quality and do our utmost to develop it into a shining gem of beauty.

The latter, perhaps, may be found the best thing we can do for humanity and ourselves, for any exertion we may put forth in this direction, we will find in our solitary hours of reflection a serene happiness which the combined wealth of nations cannot buy.

To the complaining, the critical, the envious, the proud and the obdurate, those hapless persons with ailing minds, give a warm smile and kindly greeting—the best of which you are capable, and observe from day to day how you are bringing into their pinched lives a gladness which even you may have thought impossible.

Making a habit of choosing the best, in a little while will be found of incalculable benefit to the man or woman who in real sincerity adopts it.

But this cannot be done without sacrifice.

Such work requires a spiritual firmness, an unselfish love and extreme patience, which as the years roll by develops a fine nobility of soul, recognized at a glance in a cheerful face and beaming eyes.

WHO SAID

"The truest self-respect is not to think of self."

IT WAS natural that Henry Ward Beecher, author of the words quoted, should take an uncompromising stand for what he felt to be right in the great moral issues of the day, for Beecher was a direct descendant of Puritan stock which sacrificed all personal matters to the practicing of its professed creed.

Beecher was the son of Lyman Beecher, a famous American clergyman, and a sister of Harriet Beecher Stowe, famous in American literary annals as the author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Henry Ward was born in Litchfield, Conn., June 24, 1813, and graduated from Amherst college in 1834, following up his college work with a course in Lane Theological seminary, near Cincinnati, Ohio. After graduation he began his clerical duties as pastor of a church in Lawrenceburg, Ind. In 1839 he was called to a prominent church in Indianapolis.

As preacher, Beecher achieved his greatest renown as pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church in Brooklyn, N. Y. Here he occupied the pulpit from 1847 until his death, March 8, 1887.

Supplementing his work as a clergyman, Beecher was prominent as a journalist. He was one of the founders of the Independent and of the Christian Union (now known as the Outlook.) Beecher was also known throughout the nation as an antislavery campaigner.—Wayne D. McMurray.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

WHEN making cake for everyday occasions the ordinary bread flour is the most economical. But for a fine-grained cake of delicate texture, pastry flour is the best.

Sponge Pound Cake.

Beat one-half cupful of butter to a cream, add the grated rind of a lemon and gradually beat in one-half cupful of sugar and the beaten yolks of four eggs, one cupful of flour sifted with a tablespoonful of cornstarch and a teaspoonful of baking powder; lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites and bake in a loaf for thirty or forty minutes.

Ribbon Cake.

Cream a scant cupful of butter, add gradually two and one-third cupfuls of sugar, then add four eggs, one after another without previous beating. Sift four cupfuls of flour with four and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder; add to the first mixture alternately with one cupful of milk. Beat thoroughly. Bake two-thirds of the mixture in two layer tins. Add to the remainder one cupful of nut meats, one-half cupful each of cherries, citron and raisins, two tablespoonfuls of cocoa, two teaspoonfuls of molasses, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of cloves. When baked put the layers together with fruit jelly, cover with boiled frosting and decorate with halves of walnut meats.

Simple Dessert.

Butter slices of bread and place in a baking pan, cover with canned blueberries and let stand an hour, then bake until well heated through. Serve with cream and sugar. Other juicy fruit may be used for this pudding.

When a little left-over ham is at hand, put it through the meat grinder and add to scrambled eggs for a breakfast or luncheon dish.

Your Last Name

IS IT BURNS?

IN THE case of Robert Burns, the great poet of Scotland, this name was not anciently spelled as it is now. Possibly in other cases the same is true. Robert Burns was the eldest son of a small farmer named William Burness belonging to an old though humble family of Kincardineshire, Scotland. Burness is said with Burniss to be derived from Burnhouse, and to have had the significance originally of "at the Burn house."

Other Burnses of distinction are John Burns, the well-known English labor leader, and William Wallace Burns, famous Civil war officer with the Union army.

REDWOOD—This name is a little misleading at first. It does not have the significance of the syllables red and wood in the present sense, but makes use of red in the sense of "rid," meaning to clear. Thus "redwood" means a clearing in the wood and the name was probably first given to some one who lived in such a clearing.

The first Redwood in this country was Abraham Redwood, who was born on the Island of Antigua, in 1720, and was educated in Philadelphia, with due regard to his immense fortune and expectations. He married in Newport, R. I., before he was twenty and lived there until he died at the age of eighty. He is remembered as the first benefactor of the library in Newport.

One of Abraham Redwood's daughters was a great beauty in her day and it is said that when sailors stepped ashore at Newport "fresh from the beauties of the world," and saw her passing in the street they involuntarily removed their hats in homage.

Mosquitoes Starved Out

A new method of exterminating mosquitoes by starvation is being successfully tried in New Jersey. "When mosquitoes are in the wriggler or larval stage," says Doctor Rudolfs of the state agricultural experiment station, "they have jaws and feed on bacteria and other minute forms of vegetable or animal life. By putting chemicals in ponds or creeks this food matter is destroyed and the young starve to death before they have grown their stinging bills. The quantity of chemicals is so small that it will not injure fish or plant life." New Jersey is the first state to try this method. Doctor Rudolfs is also of the opinion that the dripping of oil and gasoline from motor cars on the roads is helping to kill off mosquitoes.

THE LOVELY RIVER
By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THERE'S a lovely river
Flowing to the sea,
Though I know not where it flows,
What the end may be.
There are many rapids there,
But the flow'rs are very fair
All along, and green the trees,
Bright the sun, and sweet the breeze.

There's a lovely river
(Men may call it Life),
Lovely, though it has its pain,
Though it has its strife.
There is joy in every pain,
Seldom loss without a gain,
Yes, whatever men may say,
Blossoms all along the way.

There's a lovely river—
I have found it so,
Though I know not where it ends,
Where its waters flow.
Though I know not where it ends,
All along it has its friends.
Has its friendships through its tears,
Growing deeper with the years.

Dear me, lovely river,
Downward to the sea,
Though I know not where you flow,
What the end may be.
I am sure a stream so good,
Flowing through so fair a wood,
Bears me to a wider strand,
To an even better land.

"Why, Uncle Jim! You look ten years younger!"

"When I saw you a couple of months ago, I made up my mind you were getting old. At least you looked it."

"Yes, Billie, and I felt old. No appetite, couldn't sleep nights—one day just like another, and none of them any good. I knew constipation was at the bottom of it, but it seemed the more laxatives I took the worse I got. Then one day I saw Nell giving Nujol to my little grandson. The doctor had prescribed it for the baby, but I found out it's just the thing for old fellows like me, too.

"I tell you, Billie, it keeps me feeling fine all the time. My appetite's back and I sleep like a child. If I look any younger, Nujol gets the credit."

Nujol helps Nature in Nature's own way

Middle age brings on a decrease in the natural lubricating secretions in the intestine. Then you need Nujol. It supplies the deficiency of the natural lubricant. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is gentle, safe and natural in its action.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. Nujol simply softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles. It is not a medicine.

You can take Nujol for any length of time without ill effects. It should be taken regularly in accordance with the directions on each bottle. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and begin to enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when elimination is normal and regular.

AILMENTS OF YOUNG GIRLS

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound School Teacher's Experience

Evanston, Wyoming.—"A few years ago I had troubles every month such as girls often have, and would suffer awfully every time. I was teaching school and it made it hard for me as I had to go to bed for two or three days. One day my mother suggested that I take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and it did wonders for me. In the course of a year I married and after my first baby was born I got up too soon and it caused a displacement. This troubled me so that I could hardly walk or do my housework. I knew what the Vegetable Compound did for me before so I took it again. It strengthened me and now I have five little kiddies. The eldest is six, the baby is five months old and I have twin boys three years old and a boy of five years. I do all my own housework, washing and ironing, and I never felt better in my life. I owe my health to your wonderful medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."—Mrs. VERBENA CARPENTER, 127 2nd Avenue, Evanston, Wyoming.

MINNESOTA NEWS

St. Paul—Cheese makers of West Concord were winners in the regular contest held by the state dairy and food department, N. J. Holmberg, dairy and agricultural commissioner, announced. Peter Swee won the November contest with a score of 95.

Little Falls—Mrs. Margaret Foley, 101 years old, died at the Stottos home here. Born in Ireland, she came to the United States in 1850. She was a pioneer of Minnesota, coming to Little Falls in 1920 from Chokio.

Duluth—About one-fourth of the Rainey Lake water sheds along the Canadian border has already been surveyed and photographed for the government, according to Lieutenant E. C. Ballan of Dayton, pilot of the army amphibian plane, who returned from one of the trips.

Waconia—The annual show of the Carver county poultry association will be held at Watertown, December 11 to 14, it was announced here. The association solicited bids from towns in the county before assigning the place for exhibitions.

St. Paul—From 7,000 to 8,000 Minnesota federal income taxpayers would be relieved altogether from further payments while 70,000 others in this state would benefit by lower levies, under the plan passed by the house ways and means committee at Washington.

Albert Lea—P. M. Magley and G. G. Van Riper, proprietors of the Albert Lea hatchery, have let the contract for a new hatchery to be built here. They claim that when it is completed late this fall it will be the largest electric hatcery in the world. It will have a capacity of 250,000 eggs. These eggs will weigh 16½ tons.

Dodge Center—The Dodge county farm bureau and the University of Minnesota extension service are sponsoring a poultry production project for which working units are being formed. At least 20 groups are to be formed and the project activities are to begin under the local leader plan soon after January 1.

Hanley Falls—Wolves along the Minnesota river bottoms near here have been causing farmers heavy losses in sheep the last few weeks. Because of it, the Izaak Walton league chapter of Hanley Falls has organized a drive against the animals and will stage a wolf hunt, with some 40 experienced hunters and wolf hounds participating.

Shakopee—Hundreds of acres will be added to the pasture and meadow areas of this section by seeding to sweet clover and alfalfa tracts of sand and gravel, now waste land. Experiments by farmers have shown that the use of lime with careful preparation of the seed beds will convert these waste areas to fertile fields.

Northfield—Five thousand maize and blue bedecked students, graduates and friends of Carleton college, with here and there a sprinkling of red and orange beribboned Coe students, cheered and danced and sang and cheered some more in a combined celebration of th school's greatest homecoming and its football victory over Coe College, by a score of 7 to 0.

Minneapolis—Stanley McCormick, convicted in the famous $2,500,000 stolen bond conspiracy trial in Minneapolis, in which 63 witnesses told how bonds stolen in a $2,000,000 New York mail robbery and a $500,000 Chicago mail holdup were sold in the Twin Cities, must serve a sentence of seven years in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., and pay a fine of $3,000.

St. Paul—Railroads operating in Minnesota were called upon to show cause why they should not haul freight within the state at the 1915 rates set by the railroad and warehouse commission, instead of charging the higher tariff established by the interstate commerce commission on July 1, 1925. These orders constitute the first direct move made by the railroad commission of Minnesota in combatting increased freight rates in the state.

Minneapolis—A great Minnesota football team, possessing an almost unstoppable offense as well as a brilliant defense, smothered Iowa before 48,000 rooters in the Memorial Stadium. It was the annual Homecoming game and the "old grads" saw a formidable football machine run over the Iowans in the worst beating they have received at the hands of a Minnesota eleven since the days of Dr. Henry L. Williams. It was the final appearance of the 1925 Gophers on the home gridiron, and it was a great farewell.

St. Paul—One thousand acres of land in Aitkin, Cass and Crow Wing counties will be thrown open to former service men for homesteading privileges commencing December 7, in accordance with a decision made by the department of the interior. In the case of former service men who have served more than 90 days, the time spent in the service can be applied on the homestead requirement, and men who have been in the service 21 months or more are only required to live seven months on the land.

HOMEMADE CANDIES

This is the season of the year when we enjoy making candy, having candy pulls, and giving the children of the family a good time.

Molasses Candy.—To one and one-half pounds of sugar add one cupful of molasses, one cupful of water and one-fourth cupful of vinegar. Boil until a hard ball is formed when dropped into cold water. Add one-half teaspoonful of cream of tartar as soon as the boiling commences. When almost done add one-half cupful of butter and one-fourth teaspoonful of soda. Pour out to cool, then pull.

Ice Cream Candy.—Mix three cupfuls of granulated sugar with one-half cupful of vinegar and one and one-half cupfuls of cold water with a tablespoonful of butter. Boil to a hard ball, then pull when cold.

Sultana Caramels.—Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add two cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of milk, one-fourth cupful of molasses when boiling—boil seven minutes. Add two squares of unsweetened chocolate and stir until melted; boil seven minutes longer, add one cupful of chopped nuts and two tablespoonfuls of chopped raisins. Beat until creamy. Pour out and mark into squares.

Ice Cream Candy.—Boil three cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of boiling water, one-half tablespoonful of vinegar and one-fourth teaspoonful of cream of tartar. When the mixture becomes brittle turn onto a buttered plate and cool. Pull, flavor while pulling with orange extract, oil of sassafras, or vanilla. Cut into pieces with shears, wrap in waxed paper or put into a jar and seal. If left for several days it will be honeycombed and soft.

Peanut Candy.—Take a pound of peanuts, shell and roll with a rolling pin until like coarse crumbs. Into a saucepan place two pounds of light brown sugar and twelve tablespoonfuls of butter. Stir until melted and count the time from the first bubble—cook and stir constantly for seven minutes. Remove from the heat, add the nuts and pour into a well-buttered pan to cool.

Coconut Candy.—Add softened butter, using a tablespoonful to a cupful of powdered sugar, cream until well blended, add coffee—a few drops at a time, mixing well until the mixture is creamy and smooth; add a cupful of coconut and drop from a spoon on buttered paper.

Seasonable Foods.

As quinces are now in the market one may enjoy a dish that is a trifle unusual.

Stuffed Quinces.—Wash and core six quinces, place them in a baking dish with one cupful each of water and sugar. Fill the cavities with chopped raisins and nuts, cover and bake until tender. Set away to cool and serve with cream.

Beef and Corn Pudding.—Take a can of corn and one pound of lean beef; put through the meat grinder. In a saucepan brown one tablespoonful of fat with a teaspoonful of minced onion; cook for two minutes, then add one tablespoonful of browned flour. Add one cupful of stock, salt and pepper to taste, and cook until smooth. Into a buttered baking dish put layers of the corn and beef; sprinkle lightly with seasonings and the thickened sauce. Cover and bake in a moderate oven. Uncover and sprinkle with grated cheese.

Armenian Goulash.—For this dish use two lamb or mutton hearts. Slit the hearts, wash and remove the arteries. Cut into inch cubes and parboil, then drain. Mince eight large onions very fine, also three green peppers; place in a deep saucepan and add the prepared hearts, one teaspoonful each of thyme and sage and a quart of boiling water. Cook until the meat is tender, then add one dozen dumplings, prepared as follows: One cupful of mashed potatoes, one teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of paprika, three-fourths of a cupful of flour, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley and one teaspoonful of baking powder. Mix and form into twelve dumplings and drop into the goulash. Cover tightly and cook for fifteen minutes. Lift the dumplings to a hot platter. Thicken the gravy and pour out the goulash in the center of the platter. Garnish with parsley.

Broiled Venison Cutlets.—Cut chops from the loin of venison. Brush with salted butter or olive oil, sprinkle with salt and pepper, roll in bread crumbs. Broil over coals or under a gas flame until cooked to the right turn.

Chestnut Salad.—Shell and blanch fresh chestnuts. Boil fifteen minutes, then drain and cut into slices or quarters, add an equal amount of finely cut celery, mix with French dressing and serve on crisp head lettuce.

First Crop Paid for His Land

"IN 1920," says Mr. Adolph Bellard, of St. Paul de Metis, a district in Alberta, Canada, "I had twenty-five acres of wheat, which yielded forty bushels per acre."

Forty bushels per acre!

With wheat at, say, $1.50 per bushel, forty bushels give a return of $60.00 per acre.

Yet, you can buy land in Canada capable of growing the best wheat in the world for $15.00 to $20.00 per acre!

Started With $1,500.00 Now Worth $20,000.00

Adolph Bellard came to Canada from Rice Lake, Wisconsin, in 1911, with $1,500.00 capital. He settled in the "park" country of Central Alberta—mixed prairie and woodland. To-day, he is worth $20,000.00, owns a half section of fine, rich land, with good buildings and all the necessary livestock and equipment. "This is a splendid country," says he, "with plenty of water, trees and shelter for cattle, which run out all Winter."

There is a New Opportunity For You in Canada

Canada, your great and busy neighbor, offers you a new opportunity such as is not to be found in older lands. Canada, with its rich, low-priced lands and bigger crops at lower cost, is a country of real opportunity. Think of the advantages for your boys and girls to grow up where fertile farms of their own may be had at low cost.

Canada, your near neighbor, just across an imaginary line, offers you this chance; friendly folk, thrifty, law-abiding and industrious. You will enjoy free political institutions, free public schools, and an ordered Government, based on the free will of a free people.

Canada has great areas of rich, fertile, virgin land awaiting improvement along the railroads, at prices ranging from $15.00 to $20.00 per acre. Fully improved farms at somewhat higher prices, with long terms of payment if desired. Free homesteads, farther back, for pioneers. This is the supreme chance of the present generation. CARL CHRISTOFERSON MAKES BIG SUCCESS WITH COWS

Former Resident of Holt Sells Milk To Duluth People; Takes In Over $900.00 Per Month

Carl Christoferson of Duluth is one of our steady readers who have paid up their subscriptions this week.

Mr. Christoferson is a former resident of Holt, having lived here many years. He worked on the dredges, on the railroad, and in various other places before he settled in this village and became janitor in our school. About this time he began to realize that he would never become financially independent by working for others, so he bought some cows and ran a dairy on a small scale besides being janitor.

In 1918 Mr. Christoferson sold his dairy herd and moved to Duluth, where he invested $200 that he had saved up, in dairy cows. He then began selling milk to people in Duluth. The business grew so fast that he soon had to hire a man to help him.

Mr. Christoferson now has property valued at $9000, and is taking in over $900 a month with the aid of his dairy cows.

The story of his wonderful success shows what can be done in the dairy business, and should be an inspiration to every farmer in this community.

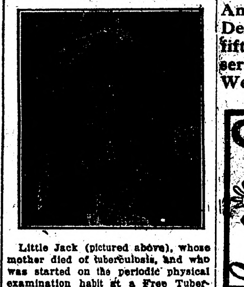
CHRISTMAS SEALS SAVE HUNDREDS OF LIVES



Little Jack (pictured above), whose mother died of tuberculosis, and who was started on the periodic physical examination habit at a Free Tuberculosis Clinic.

A six year old girl found to have tuberculosis of the hip at a Free Orthopedic Clinic, who as a result of early discovery and prompt treatment will be saved from going through life a cripple.

A mother, whose tuberculous condition was discovered for the first time at a Free Tuberculosis Clinic, now on the road to recovery in one of Minnesota's sanatoria.

A young boy, to whom four weeks at a Christmas Seal summer camp brought a gain of fourteen pounds, transforming him from a frail, lifeless child into a healthy peppy youngster, and definitely putting to rout the threatening tuberculosis germs.

These are but a few of the hundreds of people in whose lives the Christmas Seal played a telling part during the past year. Every day through the entire year the dollars and cents given for the health stamps are at work in the cure and prevention of tuberculosis.

Free physical examinations, school inspections, an occupational bureau for ex-sanatorium patients, summer camp for underweight children, partial support of a preventorium for children infected with tuberculosis, county nursing service, lectures, exhibits, motion pictures, press and magazine publicity, the Northwestern Health Journal, free health phamphlets, books and posters all form a part of the Minnesota campaign against tuberculosis supported by Christmas Seals.

August Nass was omitted from the list for the month of September. He should have been credited with 130 pounds of butterfat. Our Land O' Lakes cream is on the increase, which we are mighty glad of, and should be worth while to the patrons since it will mean considerable more money to them. If you have to buy your feed it will pay you to do so at the present prices of butterfat.

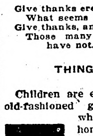
THINGS WE LIKE



Children are especially fond of the old-fashioned ginger cream cooky which can be made at home.

Frosted Ginger Cookies.—Cream one-fourth of a cupful of butter with one cupful of sugar and the beaten yolks of two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of strong coffee infusion, one-half cupful of pastry flour, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-third of a teaspoonful of salt and three-fourths of a cupful of chopped candied ginger. Combine the ingredients and drop from a spoon onto baking sheets. Bake in a moderate oven and when cool frost with marshmallow icing.

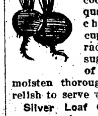
Fig Jam.—Wash three pounds of dried figs and pass them through the meat grinder. Add one quart of water, one sliced lemon and one sliced orange. Let stand overnight. Add four cupfuls of sugar and cook until thick and transparent, stirring frequently.

Fruit Mincemeat.—Take one glass of spiced grape jam, one pint of canned cherries strained from their juice, one pint of peaches, one pint of plums, stones removed and juices strained; one glass of quince preserves, one of apple butter; four quarts of chopped apple, one cupful of finely shredded suet, one pound of raisins, four ounces each of finely cut citron, orange peel and lemon peel minced—the last two candied; two tablespoonfuls of cinnamon, one tablespoonful of nutmeg, one-half tablespoonful each of cloves, allspice and ginger. Mix all together and add one cupful of good vinegar; let stand a few days to ripen.

Popcorn Crackle.—Prepare a large pan of popped corn. Make a sirup of one cupful of molasses, one-half cupful of sugar, a tablespoonful each of vinegar and butter. Boil slowly until the mixture is brittle when dropped into cold water. Pour a little at a time over the corn, mixing well until each kernel is touched with the sirup. Two persons will do this much better, one to pour and the other to stir and mix the corn.

More Good Things.

The following relish has the advantage of many, as it may be made after all the fresh vegetables are out of the market.



Beet Relish.—Chop cooked beets to make a quart; add one quart of chopped cabbage, one cupful of grated horseradish, two cupfuls of sugar, one tablespoonful of salt and vinegar to moisten thoroughly. This is a good relish to serve with fish.

Silver Loaf Cake.—Take two and three-fourths cupfuls of pastry flour, one and one-fourth cupfuls of granulated sugar, two-thirds of a cupful of water, one-half cupful of butter, the whites of seven eggs, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of flavoring, and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Cream the butter, add the sugar, mix well, then add the flour and dry ingredients sifted together, alternating with the water; fold in the stiffly beaten whites and bake in a moderate oven for one hour.

Pound Cake.—Take ten eggs, two cupfuls of sugar, four cupfuls of flour, one and one-half cupfuls of butter, two teaspoonfuls of lemon extract, one teaspoonful of salt. Cream the butter, add the sugar, and beat until white and foamy. Separate the yolks and whites of the eggs, beat well. Add alternately one heaping tablespoonful of flour, with a small portion of the beaten yolk and white, beating well between each addition. The success of a pound cake depends upon the fine ingredients and much beating—then, finally the baking in a slow oven at first, increasing the heat to a moderate oven. Bake one hour and a half.

Beans, Tongue and Egg Sandwiches.—To one cupful of Boston baked beans add one cupful of finely chopped cold boiled tongue or ham. Add two hard cooked eggs finely chopped, season with one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, salt, pepper, and two tablespoonfuls of vinegar from the onion pickle bottle. Mix well and spread thin slices of brown bread with mustard and creamed butter, cover with a layer of the mixture, then with lettuce dipped in French dressing; put together in pairs. Press and cut into triangles, garnish with fan-shaped slices of pickled cucumbers.

Barbecued Ham.—Have the ham cut very thin and broil quickly. Arrange on a hot platter and add to the fat in the pan a teaspoonful each of sugar and of made mustard, a dash of red pepper and four tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Stir until bubbling hot, then pour over the ham and serve at once.

The apple is another fruit of the gods. "An apple a day keeps the doctor away," is an old and well known saying. They, too, are laxative, and hold valuable salts, such as sodium and iron.

NEARLY INSANE AT TIMES

Mrs. Saunders Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Troubles of Change of Life

Knoxville, Tenn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound while going through the Change of Life. I was very nervous, could not sleep and had melancholy spells. In fact, I was nearly insane at times and my memory was almost a blank. I was so weak I could not do my housework half of the time and suffered dreadfully with my back. My doctor said I would have to worry it out and I went through this for three years before I began taking the Vegetable Compound which I saw advertised. I think it was eight bottles that I took. It has been two years since I took any and I haven't had a doctor since for that trouble. I do all my washing and ironing and I have gained from 116 to 188 pounds. I feel so well I think I do not need any medicine now, but I advise all women who suffer physically and mentally as I did to give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. I hope it will do as much for them as it did for me."—Mrs. T. A. SAUNDERS, 711 E. Depot Street, Knoxville, Tenn.

Thomas F. Kilby of Anniston, former governor of Alabama, has formally qualified as a candidate for United States senator to succeed Senator Oscar W. Underwood.

Jardine Given Draft of Farm Relief Measure by Cummins

Washington—Senator Cummins, Republican, of Iowa, laid before Secretary Jardine his draft of proposed farm relief legislation providing for the creation of an agricultural exports commission to handle surplus crops.

The secretary declined to commit himself on the various provisions of the proposed bill, but promised to discuss it with agricultural organizations and confer again with the senator.

He informed Mr. Cummins that he understood some of the agricultural co-operative associations were opposed to the principles of the bill, which is in some respects similar to the McNary-Haugen measure that failed of passage in the last session.

Senator Cummins expects to submit his draft to President Coolidge and Secretary Hoover in an effort to get their indorsement.

Support Assured River Traffic.

St. Louis—General T. Q. Ashburn, chief of the Inland Waterways corporation, assured representatives of upper Mississippi river cities here that the government will give full support to the project for barge line transportation between Minneapolis and St. Louis. He advised the upper Mississippi Barge Line Co., of which S. S. Thorpe of Minneapolis is the head, to proceed at once with the construction of barges. General Ashburn said the government will agree to take over the privately operated line after the boats are actually placed in operation.

King's Brother To Rule Siam.

Vancouver, B. C.—His royal highness Prince Pajadhipek of Sukhodaye, has been proclaimed king of Siam in succession to King Rama, ruler of the country for 15 years, who died. Rama had divorced his queen and taken another wife in the hope of having an heir to the throne, but his hopes were not realized.

Des Moines—The intricacies of the Charleston, latest fad dance, probably will appeal less to Melvin Eusifre of Des Moines when his knee is released from splints in a few weeks, than they did when Eusifre attempted the dance at a house party here. COAL WAR PEACE TERMS OFFERED

Pact Advocated Contains Provision to Protect Consumers and Miners.

New York—The committee on coal and giant power, comprised of engineers, economists, publicists, lawyers and business men from all parts of the country, announced the issuance of a suggestion for a basis on which to settle the present strike in the anthracite coal fields.

The plan, which has been sent to officials of both the miners and operators, contains the following suggestions:

A wage increase of 50 cents a day for the lowest paid miners.

No price increase over the average 1924-25 pre-strike prices.

An increase of 25 cents a ton on only domestic sizes of coal.

A revision of all piece work rates, both those now above the average and those below the average annual earnings of $3,000.

A check-off of regular union dues only by opeartors of mines where a ballot of all the workers shows a two-thirds vote in favor of it.

Immediate appointment of a committee by the operators and miners to work out an adjustment of piece work rates, and to supervise the balloting on the establishment of the check off.

This same committee, it is proposed, will submit to the consuming public six months before the expiration of the new agreement a complete report on the state and needs of the industry.

Storm on North Sea Takes Toll in Wreckage and Death

London—Sea captains arriving in London on ships caked with frozen spray to their funnel tops, described a storm which raged in the North Sea as the worst in their experience.

Reports from the northern European countries indicate widespread damage. Three high wireless towers at Norddeich, near Bremen, collapsed, while in Denmark the storm, which caused the king to change his route to London for the funeral of Queen Mother Alexandra, disorganized traffic generally and severed communications.

Along the North Sea coasts of England and the continent, numerous fishing boats and small craft were wrecked, with a score of lives lost.

"But constipation is serious, Grace"

"Not so long ago I was like you—headaches a good deal of the time, sleeping badly, and the least bit of housework tired me out. My complexion too, was bad.

"Finally, I went to see Dr. Farman. He showed me that it was constipation that was back of my troubles. He said that it was a very serious thing because poisons from clogged waste matter were picked up by the blood and carried to every body organ. And if I didn't correct it in time I might become a victim of one of those terrible organic diseases.

"He made me drop laxatives altogether, changed my diet, and put me on Nujol. I don't think I've ever felt better. I sleep well, my headaches have disappeared, and you can see for yourself what an improvement there is in my skin. Nujol has done wonders for me."

Nujol Works Like Nature

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It is neither a food nor a medicine. It does not gripe. It is gentle and natural in its action and is prescribed by leading medical authorities.

Nujol simply makes up for a deficiency — temporary or chronic — in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly, in accordance with the directions on each bottle. As Nujol is not a laxative, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Nujol THE INTERNAL LUBRICANT For Constipation

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and begin the perfect health that is possible only when intestinal elimination is normal and regular.

Fire and Explosion

Last Saturday night, at about 11:30 an overheated gasoline and wood combination heating stove exploded in the K. O. Flakne paint store. Mr. Flakne had just started the fire in order to heat the room up in which he sleeps, and in the mean time he went over to the Bennes confectionary to get a cup of coffee before retiring. The stove had become overheated and had formed gas, which filled the building. The gas was ignited, and the explosion blew out one of the front windows.

GOVERNOR URGES SUPPORT OF STATE HEALTH WORK

Governor Theodore Christianson in an official proclamation urges the generous support of the Christmas Seal campaign by the people of the state. His proclamation follows:—

"The question of public health is intimately associated with all other efforts for public welfare. It is directly related to all such questions as public morals, education, good government and personal efficiency. Therefore, every person who is interested in the happiness of the people and the promotion of public welfare, should be interested in the improvement of public health.

"While we must depend upon private physicians for the treatment of the ailments of the individual, and upon the public health authorities to prevent the spread of contagious and infectious diseases, any general and permanent improvement in public health must come largely through education.

"Eighteen years of persistent, intensive effort has resulted in a 41 per cent decrease in the tuberculosis death rate. Much remains to be done, however, before this and other preventable diseases are eradicated.

"It is important, therefore, that we give whole hearted support to the Minnesota Public Health Association. This association and the affiliated county organizations are financed entirely by the sale of Christmas Seals. The purchase of these seals will be an effective help in the fight against tuberculosis and in the prevention of this and other diseases. Let me urge that the sale of seals have the generous support of all public-spirited citizens."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

MENTAL PERSPECTIVE

IT IS a good policy every little while to call up your invisible self and make a critical examination of your methods of work, whether you be a painter, a soldier or a statesman.

To do this successfully, you must fling aside everything that savors of egotism.

Summon all your strength of character and austerity.

Consider that you are about to quiz some vain competitor of whom you are envious and that, under no consideration will you spare worthy censure or praise.

Be as cold-hearted a critic as Herod was a king. Assume for the nonce that you possess indisputable knowledge of all there is in art, in drilling and in statecraft.

Survey yourself from a goodly distance. Get the true perspective of your creative make-up. In all likelihood you have been so close to that which you have been doing that you have not the slightest idea of how your work appears from a distance or in the eyes of others.

Hundreds of men and women, gifted with brilliant talents, amply qualified in every way to perform work pleasing to their own eyes, fail every year in reaching their pictured goal, for the obvious reason that they lack mental perspective, or inability to observe themselves in a true light.

They see nothing beyond the tips of their noses. They do not recognize their own thoughts, or if they do, they hesitate to give them free expansion, fearing that their name may be sullied with the crime of stealing.

Criticism from others often stirs bitter resentment.

On the other hand, such criticism as you may find with yourself, when the scolding mood seizes you, especially when it is accompanied with a full realization of your own frailties, can but arouse your noblest instincts and give you new inspiration and courage to wage the battle to a glorious and honorable end.

HAVE YOU THIS HABIT?

By MARGARET MORISON

JOHN FREEMAN

JOHN FREEMAN did not at the time know it, but about 7 p. m. on the 24th of December, 19—, he made the momentous decision of his life. Hurrying down one of the long streets of the city toward dinner at his usual little corner restaurant, he suddenly caught sight of a face that took him back twenty years. As John Freeman kept pace with the figure across the way, his mind raced in curious confusion. Should he go over and speak? It would mean being later for his meal. They probably had nothing in common now—better let sleeping years lie. Then quite illogically he dashed through the traffic at a cross street, and touched the other on the shoulder. Eventually they had dinner together on John Freeman's invitation at John Freeman's special table in what he had come to consider his private little restaurant. It was many years since John Freeman had acted host.

Afterward he actually allowed himself to be persuaded to go to see a Christmas Eve street celebration.

An hour later on his way up the stairs to his two-rooms-and-bath, he passed the old woman who kept his apartment and the other apartments in the building clean. He suddenly became conscious of the fact that from week to week he hardly set eyes on her.

"Merry Christmas!" he said with unwonted geniality.

"Thank you, sir!" said she evidently pleased.

Inside he found a letter. His sister back home had written to ask if he would find a decent boarding house for his nephew, a boy of sixteen, who had been offered a job in the city. John Freeman knew of such a place, the house where he himself had lived before prosperity made possible his present arrangement. As he stood with the letter in his hand, the clock struck ten. Afterward he always thought ten to have been the hour when he made his revolutionary decision; he would have Jack live with him. In reality, when at seven o'clock he had crossed the street to give an invitation to dinner, he had started a habit that three hours later only continued—the habit of social-mindedness.

WHO SAID

"Wise men and gods are on the strongest side."

SIR CHARLES SEDLEY, author of the words quoted, led a wild and dissolute life as a young man. Later he refused to support the pretensions of James II for the throne of England because the monarch was of dissolute habits!

Sedley is known to fame in the world of letters as an able poet. The drama appealed especially to him and many of his works were presented to the public and received with considerable success.

The father, Sir John Sedley, died before the birth of his son and Sedley inherited his title. Thus, lack of paternal guidance, and to an over-indulgent mother, may be credited much of the wildness of Sir Charles' youthful life.

At an early age Sedley was entered at Wadham college, Oxford, and shortly after his graduation he was successful in his quest of a seat in parliament. His term of office began shortly after the Restoration and the young man stood high in the favor of Charles II. When the revolution occurred he favored it, in opposition to James II, on the ground that the latter had ruined his daughter, later the Countess of Dorchester.

Sedley was esteemed by his contemporaries for the wit and satire with which his dramatic works are replete.

Sedley's date of birth is generally fixed at 1639. He died in 1701.—Wayne D. McMurray.

A SILVER FROST

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WINTER will come, and none can say it nay;
Winter will come, and tresses turn to gray,
Turning to white. So run the years away.

Winter will come, but winter need not be
Born of the storm, wild with the melody
Of swaying pine, or mad, tempestuous sea.

Winter will come, age in its time appear;
All of our years are after all a year,
Seasons of life; spring, when the buds are here.

Season of dreams; and summer, hope's high noon;
Autumn in turn, and round the golden moon;
Winter will come—yet never comes too soon.

If it shall come as I have seen the white
Of silver frost upon a moonlit night
Paint all the world with new and pure delight.

A silver frost!—the tree, the fence, the cot,
Sculptured in white, all ugly things forgot;
Dawn without wind, and earth without a blot.

Let us grow old, our age a silver frost;
Nothing we won, nothing we won or lost,
But that we know, know it was worth the cost.

Let us grow old, let us grow old in peace;
Silent the sky, now let the thunders cease;
After the storm, this is the sweet release.

A silver frost! So I have seen it there
Upon the brow, silvering ev'ry hair.
Yes, it is age—but marvelously fair.

Silver Lake—Farmers of this community realize very satisfactory profits from seed corn raised for market. It was reported that Silver Lake seed corn sold at prices 30 per cent higher than the Chicago market price and netted $1.05 to $1.07 a bushel.

Minneapolis—The profits of the Big Ten teams from football this fall will exceed $1,000,000, declared Major John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner of the Western Conference. Major Griffith asserted all of this money goes to the athletic treasuries of the conference members for the administration of athletics for the masses.

St. Cloud—Benton county police patrolling the Jefferson paved highway effectually broke up part of a liquor running gang from Canada when Deputy Sheriff Charles Drops arrested one man, took possession of an automobile, and 25 cases of Canadian Scotch whisky and riddled another fleeing machine with bullets in a pistol duel. The alleged rum runner was shot in the thigh.

St. Paul—Minnesota's trust funds, which are the largest of any state in the union, total $47,444,779, or an increase of approximately $4,000,000 more than a year ago, it was disclosed by tabulations completed in the office of E. Stark, state treasurer. The state is now in possession of $10,022,000 in United States Liberty bonds and also holds Minnesota municipal bonds totaling $30,411,240.

Minneapolis — Northwest shippers turned their attention to obtaining a contract from the federal government through which the Inland Waterways Corporation would operate a barge line fleet between Minneapolis and St. Louis, which would be financed and constructed by the Upper Mississippi River Barge Line Company, a $1,000,000 corporation incorporated by upper river business men.

Minneapolis—A new fieldhouse at least a block long, two new gymnasiums and all the land possible are imperatively needed at the University of Minnesota, to give students the athletic activity and recreation they should have, L. D. Coffman, president of the University, said, adding that thousands of university students are denied the activity they need, and only an extensive program, started at once, will remedy the present situation.

St. Paul—Minnesota state bank deposits have gained more than $25,000,000 in the last fiscal year, and of this amount, Minneapolis banks have reported $18,021,197, A. J. Veigel, state superintendent of banks, reported. The increase brings the state total to $461,176,049. The legal reserve required by state law is $29,881,394, at the last bank call, and the actual reserve on hand was $59,462,056, double the amount required. Certificates of deposit and savings accounts have increased $17,593,000 over last year, bringing the total to $326,496,000.

Barnum—Clearing $1,700 from his poultry flock this year, William Metcalf, a recent addition to the poultry raising colony, has set a new mark for his community, University Farm poultry specialists said. In his report to the "U" farm school, Mr. Metcalf wrote: "I had 520 pullets in 1924 and out of these I sold $1,694.42 worth of eggs, $202.15 worth of broilers and $75 worth of culls. This made a total of $1,951.57. My total expense was $1,573.12. This left a net profit of $378.45 but from 2,000 chicks of last spring I have 700 pullets which are worth $1.50 apiece or $1,050. I also have 400 yearlings worth $300 and so my total cash profit for the year's business is $1,728.45."

Minneapolis—Boyish cuts and flapper neck shaves are pushing a lot more work onto Minnesota's 5,000 barbers. Hair bobbing now represents 50 per cent of the business done in some Minnesota barber shops, J. P. McGill, secretary of the Minnesota State Examining Board of Barbers, announced.

Duluth—With the iron mining season in northern Minnesota virtually ended, Minnesota ore production for the year passed a total of 38,000,000 tons, the shipping season was extended to December 12 to permit ore movement, and a few mines prepared to carry on well into the winter.

A "BEARFOOT" CHRISTMAS

By EMILY BURKS ADAMS

THE beautifully decorated house, the gently falling snow, the brisk atmosphere, the hurry, and the expecting of loved ones, evidenced the presence of Christmas. Merry laughter and hurried steps assured Mrs. Bearfoot that her adored son and daughter had arrived.

"Hello, mother, a Merry Christmas!" shouted Rose and Wayne. "You've heard about Edith, mother, so here she is. I know you'll love her; Edith does, and I'm about to. Shake hands with mother, Edith," continued Wayne, excitedly.

"Yes, we are so glad to have you, Miss Darrow," said Mrs. Bearfoot, as she shook hands with Edith.

"Thank you. I am delighted to be here and to know you. What a thrill I'm having! I'm wild about Oklahoma. Rose and Wayne think they have a joke on me because I thought all those oil wells were windmills."

"Yes, mother," interrupted Wayne. "Edith said, 'How all these windmills remind one of Holland!'"

"Oh, well, I shall be all the wiser when I return to Chicago. I'm anxious to see all the Indians Rose and Wayne have told me about. Are they joking me about that, too? I hope so, for I am mortally afraid of Indians, but of course the government keeps them guarded."

"Yes, Edith, if I may call you Edith?" and she caught the twinkle in her son's eye. "The Indians need watching; they are cunning. Wayne is a good athlete and will see that you are not scalped, at least."

"Well, I want to climb to the top of one of those 'windmills.' All the wells I know anything about go down and I shall still call those tall things windmills. I want to see a tepee and an Indian chief, too, before I return home."

Dinner was served and Edith noticed the exquisite table service and appointments. The drawing room was spacious and Edith marveled at the magnificent furnishings. The rugs were Oriental; the pictures were done by master artists; and the culture of the home was in keeping with the elegant furnishings.

"I'll Count It a Mighty Fine Christmas Present."

Rose and her mother were visiting, as only a mother and daughter can, after a four months' separation. "Oh, mother, it's too funny! Edith thinks Oklahoma is wild. Don't you like her? She is a dear, and Wayne is crazy about her. I think it is mutual, however. Her idea of Indians so amuses us."

Wayne and Edith were visiting as if they, too, had been separated several months. "Well, Edith, what think you of Ponca now, and of mother? She is some mother, I tell you. You need not fear the Indians. Now that you've met mother and have seen Ponca, aren't you ready to give me that answer? I'll count it a mighty fine Christmas present."

"Oh, Wayne, you must wait until after the community tree. I want to see more of these natives. All good things are worth waiting for, you know, and besides, it isn't time yet to give our presents."

It was Christmas Eve, and Edith and Wayne were talking of the community tree. "My! What a crowd there was, Wayne. The singing was next to divine; but where were the Indians?"

"The man who sang that beautiful baritone solo was at one time an Indian chief; the girl, who gave that impressive oration was his granddaughter. The Indians were all around you, Edith."

Edith's eyes opened—"Oh! I thought all Indians wore blankets and guns!"

"Edith, the Indian of today is civilized. A race that has suffered, yes; but a truly American race; a race that was sent from place to place; a race that fought and won. Only a small portion of their vast inheritance was allotted them, but that portion has waxed rich in oil. I am an Indian, Edith, nor would I conceal it. I am bestowing upon you the highest honor man can give to woman. Will you become my wife, Edith—the wife of an Indian—a man who would die for his race and you? If you will promise me, this will be the happiest Christmas of my life."

"Yes, Wayne, I promise. I want to be the wife of an Indian—a Bearfoot Indian—with a brave athlete as my protector." The radio was tuned in and—"A Merry Christmas to all," was the greeting.

TASTY GOOD THINGS

IF YOU have been served with a bowl of hot milk with a piece of toasted bread floating in it, for milk toast, you may like to review the way a real dish of old-fashioned milk toast is prepared:

Milk Toast.

Prepare the white sauce, using two heaping tablespoonfuls of butter and two of flour, cook until bubbling hot and smooth, then add a quart of milk, a little at a time until well blended. Season with salt and set back where it will just simmer while the toast is being prepared. Toast the bread, using slices that have been cut from a day-old loaf. Use an electric toaster or a fork over coals to make the ideal toast. As each piece is prepared keep hot and when enough is prepared to serve the family, dip each crusty edge into hot milk, and butter generously—the more butter the better the toast. When all are thus prepared, boil up the white sauce and pour over the toast which has been placed on a large platter. Serve at once, piping hot. Once serve this toast properly made and it will be welcomed for one meal each week. Dried beef is nice served with such a dish, or generous slabs of rich cheese may be passed with it.

Cheese Spread.

Put two cupfuls of milk into a double boiler; when hot add two teaspoonfuls of salt, one-half cupful of flour fixed with four tablespoonfuls of butter, add one pound of cheese cut fine; cook until smooth, beating well. The addition of a little chopped pepper will vary the flavor. Spread on buttered bread or wafers, or use as a sandwich filling.

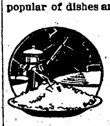
When happiness can be manufactured so cheaply and sell so high and is always wanted in the market, it seems a pity that more of us do not set up in the business.—W. C. Gannet.

SUCH GOOD THINGS

A tasty salad is one of the most popular of dishes and we all like something different. Try this:



Raisin and Green Pepper With Lettuce.—Simmer one-half cupful of raisins in enough orange juice to moisten well; when soft, add a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Arrange sliced green pepper in rings on crisp lettuce and fill them with the softened raisins; pour over when serving:

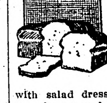
Boiled Fish.—Wrap a firm-meated fish in cheesecloth and drop into boiling salted water to cook until the fish flakes from the bones. Drain and serve with:

Hollandaise Sauce.—Wash one-half cupful of butter, divide into three pieces and put one piece into a dish with the yolks of two eggs, and a tablespoonful of lemon juice; work together until smooth, set over hot water, stirring constantly until the mixture is well blended and the butter is melted, then add the second piece of butter and as it thickens the third piece, taking the dish from the hot water occasionally to keep the mixture from curdling. Season with salt and cayenne and serve at once. If the sauce does curdle add a tablespoonful of thick cream or two tablespoonfuls of thick white sauce and beat well with a Dover egg beater. This sauce is very appetizing with parsley on broiled steak.

Orange Jelly Salad.—Make one quart of orange jelly with prepared gelatin or with the following: Take two tablespoonfuls of gelatin softened in one cupful of cold water, then add two cupfuls of boiling water, one-half cupful of orange juice, the juice of a lemon and one-half cupful of sugar. When all the ingredients are well blended, fill a wet ring mold with half the jelly and let stand in a refrigerator until it begins to thicken. Meanwhile, soften one small cream cheese with a teaspoonful of cream and form into balls. Arrange the balls at intervals in the mold, add the rest of the gelatin and set on ice until stiff. Unmold on a bed of lettuce and fill the center with stoned white cherries filled with filberts. Serve with mayonnaise.

Favorite Sandwiches.

A suggestion or two will often call forth something new in sandwich fillings. The following may be suggestive of many others:



Hot Ham Sandwiches. — Lightly toast thin slices of bread on one side. Spread the untoasted side with salad dressing; cover with lettuce leaves and on the lettuce place very thin slices of hot broiled ham. Cover ham with another slice of bread, toasted side up. Cut into triangles and serve with sliced pickle. A dainty way to serve cucumber pickles is to cut them very thin, leaving the stem end uncut, spread out in the shape of a fan and use as a garnish to a plate of sandwiches.

Roast Duck Sandwiches.—Remove the meat from the breast of a cold roast duck in thin slices. Spread thin slices of bread with horseradish butter, cover half of the slices with the meat, sprinkle with salt and pepper and cover the remaining slices with finely chopped celery and Bermuda onion moistened with mayonnaise. Allow one-fourth of an onion to a cupful of celery. Put together in pairs, press the edges together and trim off crusts. Cut into halves diagonally and serve with a spiced crabapple for each sandwich.

Prepared Mustard. — Sift together two tablespoonfuls of ground mustard, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and one teaspoonful of salt. Add one egg slightly beaten, three-fourths of a cupful of vinegar added slowly while stirring constantly. Cook five minutes, remove from the heat, and add one tablespoonful of olive oil very slowly, beating all the while. Use to spread on sandwiches when meat or cheese are used for filling.

Horseradish Butter. — Cream one cupful of fresh butter, then add freshly grated horseradish, a little at a time until the desired flavor and strength is obtained. Season with salt and pound in a mortar or work with a spoon until thoroughly blended. A few drops of vinegar may be added with the horseradish if one likes.

Egg and Anchovy Sandwiches.—Chop hard cooked eggs and pound to a paste with anchovies, using two anchovies to each egg. Season with paprika, salt and a few grains of cayenne. Moisten with salad dressing. Spread thin slices of bread with mayonnaise and an equal number with the egg mixture. Put together in pairs, press edges together, trim off crusts and cut into narrow strips. Serve with a dinner salad.

DAIRY FACTS

GIVE DAIRY CALVES GOOD MILK RATION

A great many experimental feeding trials have been made to determine whether dairy calves could satisfactorily be raised on substitutes for whole or skim milk. These feeding trials failed to produce satisfactory growth where attempts were made to almost entirely eliminate whole or skim milk from the ration by substituting other feeds. The gain was lower and the cost higher. This led to feeding trials to determine the minimum amount of whole and skim milk that could be used and get very satisfactory growth. Thus far no wholly satisfactory substitute has been found for whole and skim milk in getting dairy calves well started.

The method used in the limited milk ration is to get the calves well started on a whole and skim milk ration, at the same time encouraging them to eat as much grain and hay as possible, and then wean them as soon as they are able to continue to develop satisfactorily on grain and hay alone.

The Missouri and Minnesota experiment stations did some work of this nature, using a grain mixture composed of 4 parts corn meal, 1 part wheat bran, 1 part linseed oil meal. The roughage used was alfalfa hay. This and the grain mixture were fed as soon as the calves would eat the roughage and grain. The average of 7 trials resulted in a daily gain of 1.23 pounds for each calf which was 94 per cent of normal gain when compared to calves fed on unrestricted skim milk ration. The results indicate that 170 pounds of whole milk and 650 to 700 pounds of skim milk will give a calf a satisfactory start so it will continue on grain and roughage.

Some Extra Grain Will Keep Up Flow of Milk

A little thought to the feeding of fall-freshened cows will be well repaid in increased returns. Too many cows freshen in poor condition and cannot be expected to yield a good return. To begin with a dry period of at least six weeks is essential to enable the cow to build up a reserve. As the cow is fed during this interval will largely determine her production after she freshens. A little extra grain at this time means dividends later. Freshening in good flesh the cow starts her lactation at a big advantage, and a larger total production is the result.

Wheat pasture is excellent for keeping up the milk flow and takes the place of more expensive feeds. But it is too washy and not concentrated enough for cows giving much milk. Production can be held up with economy by supplementing the pasture with ground barley, equal parts ground oats and corn chop, or about six parts ground kafir or sorgo heads to one of cottonseed meal. This grain should be fed at the rate of one to five pounds of milk as long as the pasture is good. Don't expect the milk flow to increase materially but it will hold up over a much longer period of time when prices are good and therefore more than pay for the grain consumed now.

Milk Tests Continually Vary as to Butterfat

Milk tests are continually varying. The cow does not give the same quality of milk every milking, but the average is practically the same. As soon as milk is drawn from the cow, the butterfat begins to separate and come to the top because it is lighter than the milk. Most variations in testing come from the fact that it is very difficult to get samples of milk that are exactly alike. The majority of errors in testing milk, and which cause dissatisfaction, are because it is extremely difficult to get a correct sample. When milk stands overnight, much of the cream has risen to the top, and it is next to impossible to get it reincorporated with the milk as it was before. Two samples taken from this milk will differ.

Dairy Notes

A cow requires about eight gallons of water a day.

* * *

Put an old horse collar on the cow that sucks herself.

* * *

A milch cow produces an average of from 60 to 70 pounds manure a day, estimating solid and liquid.

* * *

Giving milk is largely a voluntary act of the cow. Kept in a sweet temper she will yield her milk.

* * *

If one feeds and treats his cows well and is punctual with his feeding and milking, economical milk production should be the inevitable result.

* * *

Maintenance of the proper speed and even pressure on the separator handle is an important factor in the separation of milk and cream.

* * *

A bushel of corn fed to a dairy cow before calving is sometimes worth as much as two bushels fed after freshening.

"They haven't missed a single day at school!"

"They're well all the time. The doctor says they are the healthiest children he knows.

"He told me constipation is what makes so many growing children sickly. Poisons from the waste matter spread through the little bodies, and lower their resistance to disease. So I'm very careful to guard against constipation. I simply give them a little Nujol every night.

"Nujol isn't a laxative at all, you know, but it keeps them just as regular as clockwork. They like it, and the doctor says it's just the thing for them."

Nujol helps Nature in Nature's own way

Mothers are the best friends of Nujol. When their children's health is at stake they seek the remedy that medical authorities approve because it is so safe, so gentle, so natural in its action.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body. Nujol simply makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination, without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly in accordance with the directions on each bottle. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and let your children enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when their elimination is normal and regular.

Revenge

Donald, age two, has found a unique and legitimate method of evening up scores with his parents. Recently, after the humiliation of corporeal punishment had been endured, he sauntered up to his dad with a fly swatter in his hand. Suddenly dad was treated to as stinging a swat as the baby hands could administer, while, with an angelic smile, his young offspring offered the explanation, "fly." The performance was repeated until vengeance was satisfied, and the fond father has to acknowledge that there certainly are "no flies on Donald."—Exchange.

Interesting Letter From G. P. Sorter

Long Beach, Calif.,
Dec. 3, 1925.

Mr. Hans Hanson,
Holt, Minnesota.

Dear Sir:

When I left Holt I promised to write you, but have not had time to before now. We—Ingvald Johnson and I—stopped over one day in St. Paul. From there we went thru the corn belt of southern Minnesota and northern Iowa to Sioux City. It is a very nice farm country all thru there. Mostly corn is raised and it seems so they have had a fairly good crop.

From Sioux City and on it became too dark to see what the country looked like. We crossed the Missouri River at Omaha and bunked up there for the night.

When we woke up next morning we were climbing to a higher elevation into Nebraska and Colorado. This is mostly a cattle and sheep ranching country, altho some corn is grown in the lowlands.

The land is very hilly. We had a steady climb until we got about 60 miles this side of Denver, when the country became more level again.

This country, that is, that of the Burlington Route, is nearly all irrigated. Water is taken from the Rockies.

They are raising mostly sugar beets with some corn there. We passed several sugar beet plants on this route. We saw thousands of cattle and sheep out in the fields picking sugar beet tops.

We got into Denver about 4 o'clock in the afternoon and "took in" that city in the evening. Denver is located at the foot of the Rockies, is a very nice town, and has a population of 256,491. It is 5000 feet above sea level.

We left Denver the next morning on the Santa Fe, going thru a very nice irrigated valley until we got into the mountains, where we had to climb quite steep up-grade until we reached the elevation of 8000 feet. Then we went rapidly downhill again to Colorado Springs, which has an elevation of 7500. At this place we took a sight-seeing car into the mountains. We drove thru narrow canyons with solid rock walls, hundreds of feet high on both sides.

The most interesting scenery there is the Garden of the Gods and the Cave of the Winds. In the Garden of the Gods we saw the most wonderful formations of rock. With a little imagination one can see many strange animal, human, and bird forms. In another canyon is a little town called Manitou. This town consists mostly of cottages and cliff houses to be rented out to tourists.

The cave of the winds is located two miles north of Manitou and 1200 feet above the town. There we got the most thrilling mountain climbing with a car that we ever cared to undertake, as we went zigzagging up the mountain side nearly to the top of the peak. The Cave of the Winds is three-fourths of a mile in length inside of this mountain. The cave is decorated with all kinds of formations crystallized from mineral water that once upon a time was dripping down. It shines into different kinds of colors, reflected from the electric lights. This cave is pronounced to be one of the most beautiful caves in the world.

Going back to Manitou we visited the Manitou bath-house, which was erected at a cost of $400,000.00. Here is where the famous radio-active waters of Manitou Springs are utilized in the baths. The water of this spring is charged wite soda by nature, and is free to visitors to drink and to carry away.

Leaving Colorado Springs, we also left the mountains behind, and went thru some more sugar beet and corn country. Then in southern Colorado we got into the ranch country again. We passed thru some fair-sized towns—Pueblo, La Juenta, and Trinidad—which are mostly railroad centers.

After leaving Trinidad we got into another mountain range, where there is considerable coal mining done. Here we climbed to quite a high elevation—I don't know how high, but we could feel the air getting pretty thin. Coming down on the south side of this mountrin, we got into New Mexico and into ranch country again. It got so hot in some of them canyons that we felt miserable. The only thing I would say of this country that it has fine distant mountain scenery. A person can see snow caps almost any time he looks thru the window.

At Albuquerque (pronounced Al-bekirk) we had to wait 5 hours for a train. There we felt like we were in a foreign country, as the inhabitants of this town spoke only Spanish wherever we went. Very few of them could talk decent English.

At this place (Albuquerque) we got on a thru train to Los Angeles, due west all the way, thru Arizona. This state is very much like New Mexico, being too dry for farming and suited for ranching. However, there seems to be more white people in Arizona than in New Mexico.

We went thru western Arizona and eastern California at night so we didn't see any of it. But people told us that we didn't miss much.

We arrived in Los Angeles early in the morning, exactly one week to the hour after we left St. Paul.

This letter is getting rather long, so I will quit for this time. If you want any more of my scribbling, let me know.

Yours truly,
G. P. Sorter.

P. S.—The weather was nice and clear all the way on this trip.

Condensed Stories of Happenings of the Week in Minnesota

Eveleth—John Greco, has been designated by the war department as a candidate for the military academy at West Point. He was recommended by Senator Shipstead.

Minneapolis—Minnesota may play Michigan twice in 1926. This is the first time in the history of the Western conference that two Tig Ten teams have met each other twice in a season.

So. St. Paul—Northwestern livestock raisers are getting $150,000,000 in cash for cows, pigs and sheep sent to South St. Paul in 1925, the greatest cash total ever paid for shipments to this market, a survey of shipping records showed.

Stillwater—Chisel and drill burglars who took their time to break into three vaults in the Stillwater postoffice escaped with $20,000 in stamps and cash from one safe after they had knocked the dials off three vaults. In failing to get into one safe, they missed another $20,000, Ira E. King, postmaster, said.

Minneapolis — Transportation systems dug themselves out of the snow, and restored normal traffic on all lines after a snowstorm accompanied by a 30 mile wind had blocked roads for 24 hours in an early winter demonstration. Three storm deaths, the first of the winter, were listed, as snowstorms and cold gripped the northwest.

Minneapolis—The profits of the Big Ten teams from football this fall will exceed $1,000,000, declared Major John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner of the Western Conference. Major Griffith asserted all of this money goes to the athletic treasuries of the conference members for the administration of athletics for the masses.

St. Cloud—Benton county police patrolling the Jefferson paved highway effectually broke up part of a liquor running gang from Canada when Deputy Sheriff Charles Drops arrested one man, took possession of an automobile, and 25 cases of Canadian Scotch whisky and riddled another fleeing machine with bullets in a pistol duel. The alleged rum runner was shot in the thigh.

St. Paul—Minnesota's trust funds, which are the largest of any state in the union, total $47,444,779, or an increase of approximately $4,000,000 more than a year ago, it was disclosed by tabulations completed in the office of E. Stark, state treasurer. The state is now in possession of $10,022,000 in United States Liberty bonds and also holds Minnesota municipal bonds totaling $30,411,240.

Minneapolis—Judges honored Minnesota girls at the International Livestock show at Chicago when contestants from among 1,200 visiting boys and girls were awarded prizes in the various divisions. Second place in the bread-baking demonstration went to Marie McPhee and Margaret Roberts of Anoka. The Winona Canning Club won fourth place.

St. Paul—Lieutenant Edward A. Michaud, St. Paul business man, was killed in an airplane crash at Wold-Chamberlain flying field. He was an officer in the 109th observation squadhon, Minnesota national guard, and although not a rated pilot, was flying one of the squadron's ships at the time of the crash. He spon into the ground from an altitude of 100 feet, preparatory to a last landing for the afternoon.

Barnum—Clearing $1,700 from his poultry flock this year, William Metcalf, a recent addition to the poultry raising colony, has set a new mark for his community, University Farm poultry specialists said. In his report to the "U" farm school, Mr. Metcalf wrote: "I had 520 pullets in 1924 and out of these I sold $1,694.42 worth of eggs, $202.15 worth of broilers and $75 worth of culls. This made a total of $1,951.57. My total expense was $1,573.12. This left a net profit of $378.45 but from 2,000 chicks of last spring I have 700 pullets which are worth $1.50 apiece or $1,050. I also have 400 yearlings worth $300 and so my total cash profit for the year's business is $1,728.45."

Minneapolis—The cost of state government in Minnesota and most other states of the middle west has more than doubled since 1918. In Minnesota, the general revenue appropriation for 1925 amounted to $20,848,618, which was this year's allocation from the biennium fund of $40,329,953, set up by the 1925 legislature. In addition to the current general expense fund, Minneosta this year is spending $61,417,592 in special appropriations, for soldier compensation, the university and other schools maintained in whole or in part by the state. The latter sum includes many millions for loans to county schools, which will be repaid.

Minneapolis—Upward of 1,230,000 fans paid about $2,250,000 during the football season just closed to see games in which one or more of the western conference teams participated. Minnesota, with an attendance of 245,000 and gross receipts of $510,000, has about $255,000 left after splitting up with the teams it played. This is about $100,000 in excess of any other year

Minneapolis — The University of Minnesota made nearly a clean sweep of the Yorkshire awards in the fat swine division at the International Livestock show.

69TH CONGRESS OPENED MONDAY

Longworth Is Elected Speaker of the House—Nye Loses in Legal Ruling.

Washington — Indications that the question of seating Gerald P. Nye as senator from North Dakota will be settled only after a fight on the floor of the senate developed when it became known that Senator Goff, Republican, West Virginia, who was delegated by the senate elections committee to submit an opinion, holds that Nye's appointment was illegal.

Washington—Congress came back into session Monday after its longest recess in years.

With the opening ceremonies at noon the big republican majorities rolled up in the Coolidge landslide of 1924 took the saddle in both senate and house but kept a weather eye on the democrats and insurgents who again were threatening a coalition against some of the pet projects of the administration.

A democratic-republican insurgent coalition on the first day of the new congress was apparent when the house prepared to adopt rules of procedure.

With almost a mid-session momentum, the house put the new tax reduction bill at the head of its calendar and prepared to go to work at once.

Nicholas Longworth was elected speaker of the new house.

He received the necessary majority of all votes cast on the first ballot, despite the refusal of the republican insurgents to support him.

Meantime the senate, after its customary manner, was organizing leisurely and putting off its decision regarding the recognition to be given republican insurgents on its big committees. The credentials of Gerald P. Nye, as senator-designate from North Dakota, were referred by the senate to the privileges and elections committee.

Jardine Reports Farm Situation

Washington—Improvement in the agricultural situation continued in a moderate degree throughout 1925, but as yet farmers have not reached an economic parity with other groups of producers, William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, said in his annual report. The continued betterment of agriculture has reached a point, he said, where the position of the farmers on the whole is now the most favorable since 1920. "The [illegible] net movement of rural population away from farms has been checked," the secretary said in his report. "Noteworthy progress has been made in the liquidation of indebtedness among farmers. Purchase of supplies and materials for farm use has been resumed over the country on a scale contributing measurably to general business prosperity."

Argentine Leads in Meat Exports

Chicago—The United States has lost its position as the world's largest exporter of meats and fats, J. S. Naylor of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural foundation said, in addressing a crowd of visitors studying his exhibit of half ton baby beeves and two-ton litter of pigs at the International Livestock and Horse show here. "During the last year, for the first time on record, Argentine, with its tremendous shipments of chilled beef, mutton and tallow, exceeded the United States and took first place in this respect."

German Cabinet Resigns

Berlin—The German cabinet decided to step down, in accordance with Chancellor Luther's announcement prior to the Locarno pact signing ceremnoy. The chancellor tendered the government's resignation to President Hindenburg. It is expected that Dr. Luther will be asked to form a new ministry on a coalition basis, in sympathy with the aims of the Locarno peace and security program. The present ministers will continue to conduct affairs until the new cabinet is completed.

Trotsky Dedicates Power Plant.

Moscow—In dedicating the newly completed 65,000 horsepower electric plant at Shatura, near Moscow, Leon Trotsky said, "we have no American ambassador here, but we have powerful American masts which will carry power to the factories of Moscow and light the darkest huts and villages. Thus we shall cultivate electric diplomatic relations with the United States. Such relations cannot but bear fruit.'

Robert Ingersoll Estate $88,398.

New York—An appraisal of the estate of Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll, agnostic and lecturer, who died July 21, 1899, at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., was filed with the state tax commissioner. It revealed net assets of $88,398.

5 Billion Year in Building Forecast.

Chicago—The year 1925 will record a $5,000,000,000 building program, the largest in the history of the United States, says Herbert U. Nelson, executive secretary of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

WILLIAM C. DURANT

Underwood & Underwood

William C. Durant, automobile manufacturer and stock operator, is said to have made $2,500,000 in two days when the stock of U. S. Cast Iron Pipe rose more than 40 Points.

22 Entombed Miners Rescued After 18 Hours; 2 Are Dead

Nederland, Col.—Twenty-two miners entombed in the flaming subterranean passage of the Fairview mine, near this little mountain town for nearly 18 hours, emerged from their underground tomb—alive.

Half of them—Big, iron-hearted and strong armed fellows, staggered almost unaided from the smoking tunnel, while others of their comrades were carried out unconscious.

The battle shifted from the tortuous firesweept earthen chambers to a little frame house where a temporary hospital has been thrown up to receive the 22, together with 10 volunteer rescue workers who collapsed from the fumed that rolled through the mine. There the fight continued and death came to claim two—Robert Stevenson, a miner, and Charles Herquist, a rescue worker.

Baker of Kansas City, Mo. The sale of the prince's bull was one of the big events on the program of the international livestock exposition yesterday. The sale attracted a large crowd.

20 Held In Rum Ring Capture.

New York—Half a hundred prohibition agents, deputy United States marshals and special patrolmen raided the offices of a liquor ring which prohibition agents said was the largest in the history of prohibition and was "the backbone of rum row." A syndicate which controlled 18 ocean steamers in the liquor trade, bribed coast guard officers wholesale, and had its own secret service system for watching federal officers, was said to have been broken up by the raiders, whose first roundup of the day netted 20 men.

COOLIDGE PLEDGES AID TO 'CO-OPS'

Executive Condemns Proposals to Bring Government Into Field of Buying, Selling.

Chicago—Convinced that co-operative marketing with governmental encouragement offers the best possible solution of the farmers' problem, President Coolidge intends to give the movement his active and energetic assistance. He is opposed to proposals that the government sell and buy farm products, or fix prices directly or indirectly. Further he believes present tariff duties benefit the farmer and should not be revised.

Outlining his views on the agricultural situation and proposed remedies in an address at the annual convention here of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the President said that, despite its present embarrassments, agriculture as a whole should lead industry in future prosperity.

"Protection (by tariff) greatly aids diversification and so eliminates an unprofitable surplus," the President said. "Under our tariff our flax acreage has increased from 1,641,000 in 1921 to 3,093,000 in 1925. Much of this would otherwise have been devoted to wheat, increasing the surplus and further demoralizing that market. The same principle holds in relation to sugar, wool, and other agricultural products."

"I propose actively and energetically to assist the farmers to promote their welfare through co-operative marketing. They do not wish to put the government into the farming business.

"Wherever there is a farm there is the greatest opportunity for a true home.

"In intelligence, in education, in the general standards of living, farm life was never so well equipped as it is today."

Fall-Doheny Bribe Indictment Ruled Valid in U. S. Appeal

Washington—The Fall-Doheny bribery indictments, which were quashed several months ago in the lower courts here, were held to be valid by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. A plea in abatement filed by former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, Edward L. Doheny, oil promoter, and his son, Edward L. Doheny, Jr., which the lower court granted, was overruled by Chief Justice George E. Martin on motion of the government's special oil counsel, Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts. Two indictments were covered by the court's decision, one charging Fall with receiving a bribe of $100,000 to influence his official action respecting certain oil leases, and the other charging the Dohenys with giving the bribe.

Buried City Found In Missouri

Quincy, Ill.—A buried city, the site, perhaps, of a preglacial age civilization, has been found in excavations in Pike county, Missouri, six miles from the Mississippi river and 50 miles from here. Beneath 12 feet of glacial drift a well defined shaft has been uncovered, leading to a floor, 65 feet down. A wall leads from the foot of the shaft, crossed by a similar wall, either dividing the passage from subterranean chambers or supporting the roof as pillars.

Fire Sweeps Council Bluffs

Council Bluffs, Iowa—A destructive fire struck the business section of Council Bluffs, causing property damage estimated at more than $1,000,000 in loss to buildings and several hundred thousands of dollars in loss of stock in stores. The fire started in the basement of the Continental Furniture Co. when a boiler exploded.

It Was the Night Before Christmas

Little Snowflakes Glad to Be of Service on Greatest of All Days.

By W. D. PENNYPACKER

IT WAS one of the tiniest things imaginable. In all the whitened fields of late December it could scarcely be reckoned with. It was a snowflake. Fleeting was the span of its existence. Today, here, tomorrow possibly drawn into the moisture of the atmosphere, depending upon temperature, and where it chanced to fall.

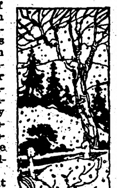
Some say fairies fashion snow-crystals in wonderful workrooms and laboratories which man has not explored. It may be. They are more exquisitely cut than the rarest jewels.

It was the night before Christmas.

There was the usual sense of quiet which comes over things when the preholiday rush and confusion ends—the sense of peace—perhaps the echo of that old song which man has so often and so ruthlessly heard and forgotten.

It seems that the snowflake knew.

In the land whence snowflakes come there is a great chief. The country, if one speaks of it as such, is an absolute monarchy. But it is different from those our geographies name under Political Divisions. It is a monarchy ruled by love, where a desire to give happiness is the prevalent ambition.



So, on that night before Christmas, as the snowflakes danced about in great billowy clouds, some of them thought of companions already fallen to earth. Yes, some had fallen, and their beauty had lasted for a while, then disappeared.

Then the chief spoke:

"Fellows," he said, with an appealing note in his voice—a voice that had much of the plaintive sound of the north wind, "there is a service to perform. This is the night before the birthday of our King. Millions will worship Him when the morrow comes, but more, ignorant of its source, will seek to revel in the gladness which His coming brought and many millions more—" he went on.

"The nations of the world wait for that gladness. Once a year they seek to know the spirit and the significance of the Christmas time. They see vaguely what the carroling of angels and the song of shepherds was all about—and then forget. "Perhaps," he said, "in the chaotic strivings of man's life he is not so much to blame."

Silence profound. A stillness like unto the silence of the plains before the angels uttered their refrain of "Peace, on earth, good will toward men."

"Comrades," said the chief.

"Aye!" answered the crowd in a note that had the shrill keeness of the winter wind and yet was warm with an eagerness to serve.

"Down, just below us, there are boys and girls dreaming of Santa Claus, and snow, and sleighs, and sleds. To some, your going would give life and zest and happiness to Christmas. You may stay here, or go to give them joy. Think soberly before you make reply."

So hearty and so quick was the response that the results were almost blizzard like. Twisting and turning in fantastic ways they fell to earth, filled high the paths, and all but capped the fences, and almost blocked the roads.

When morning broke, a truly Christmas day, the world lay white as untouched marble. Such myriad flakes had fallen in the nght that the ablest statistician could not guess how many, and, oh, what joy! Snowballs, snow men and sledding. And coasting, too, on yonder hill. Such healthy winter exercise, such ruddy cheeks, such mighty appetites!

Who would have thought so much of good a little snow had wrought?

An aggregation of tiny snowflakes was putting value into the sleds which Santa Claus brought and making of the day a real Christmas, in themselves, the little flakes scarcely counted at all, but in their united desire to give happiness to unnumbered boys and girls, they became a great power.

The chief had wireless communication with each of his humble subjects, of course. When night fell he was eager to ascertain the feelings of his white crusaders, some of them crushed, beaten down and muddy, as a result of their service. Some would have thought it a hard day for them.

Nobody really thought of the white ground covering as an aggregate of individuals. They recognized no personality, and thought it merely "snow."

Yet in spite of the fact that billions of snow crystals were maimed and soiled and melted, as a result of their Christmas Day mission, the chief received many replies:

"We have given a child happiness, and would rather do that than stay in the clouds forever," said one:

"Enabled a boy to play with his old sled," said another, "and would not come back if we could."

"Has been a great Christmas. We have given much but have received full measure in return."

These and similar bulletins were posted in the court of the clouds, and every snowflake held in reserve felt a sense of regret that it had not been a participant in providing so much of the joy and jollity of Christmas. Only a snowflake!

Yes. But it rendered service.

And this was the snowflake that was glad.

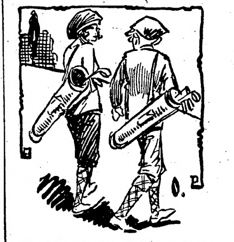
A MATTER OF MONEY



He—I'm going to give you a Christmas present this year that no money can buy.

She—I prefer one that some money can buy.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

WHAT ABOUT NEXT YEAR

WHAT kind of person shall I be next year?

Put that question to yourself; ask it seriously, repeatedly and with the determination of giving it an intelligent, workable answer.

It can do you no harm even if you fail to find a satisfactory reply.

When it comes up to you, don't shrug your shoulders, look the other way, or try to pass it by without a friendly nod and a hearty handshake. You have nothing to fear.

Ask it again; "What kind of person shall I be next year?"

Every day you are undergoing a physical and mental change.

You are improving or deteriorating.

Time is acting imperceptibly on your bone and blood, on your sinew and mind. You are gaining or losing.

Life today is a preparation for the life of tomorrow, its new problems, changing form between every sunrise and sunset.

Present life is the pathway to future life in the process of making, with which you have much to do.

If you are going to be something worth while in the years that lie ahead, you would better begin today.

If you are cruel, vindictive, quarrelsome, tyrannical and neglectful today, the probabilities are that you will be the same tomorrow.

If you shirk duty this morning, the old gray-bearded timekeeper tomorrow morning will mark you a "shirker" without arching his brow or asking a question.

The man or woman who cannot listen to wise counsel without becoming resentful or abusive, who cannot weigh and decide questions in fairness, is in a position where he or she should stop and look ahead.

Tomorrow demands pay for yesterday's follies.

Wranglers of today are likely to be bigger wranglers tomorrow, exhibiting more selfishness with a larger stock of temper, turning their wrath loose on any person within their reach.

If in youth or in middle life, men and women do not realize that they are preparing for the future, they are doomed to an isolated old age, too impotent to make a bid for sympathy or success.

The secret of preparing for next year is to live nobly today by casting out selfishness, envy and spite, and doing unto others as you would have others do unto you.

WHO SAID

"I would rather obey than work miracles."

MARTIN LUTHER, the author of the words quoted above, who is known to history as one of the great religious reformers, was destined by his father to be a lawyer. He was deeply religious from his youth, however, and in 1505, contrary to his father's wishes, he entered the monastery at Erfurt, Germany.

Five years after his entrance into the monastery Luther made a pilgrimage to Rome. That pilgrimage had a great effect upon his later life. Many of those occupying high places in the established church in Rome were untrue to the high trust reposed in them as the heads of the church and their conduct changed Luther's attitude toward the Roman church. He wrote his celebrated ninety-five theses condemning the sale of indulgences, and the consequent action of the religious authorities in declaring them heretical drove Luther to still further activity.

Luther originally intended no separation from the established church. He wrote a modest letter to the pope seeking pardon and asking that several reforms be incorporated in the church law. This was followed by a bull excommunicating Luther and his friends. Aroused to passion, Luther publicly burned the bull of excommunication and his severance from the established church was completed.

The reformation now spread throughout Germany and the power of the established church to curb Luther by means of bulls of excommunication was rendered useless. In his fight Luther was greatly aided by a powerful German prince whose protection saved him from punishment.

Luther died February 18, 1546, at Eisleben, Germany, his birthplace.—Wayne D. McMurray.

SEASONABLE FOODS

COOL evenings create the desire for hot dishes; for the evening meal, there is nothing more appetizing than a good, hot, well-seasoned potato soup. For the normal family who enjoys the wholesome onion the following will be a cherished recipe:

French Potato Soup.

Fry two or three medium-sized onions in two full tablespoonfuls of butter for 15 minutes, without browning. Meanwhile cook three or four medium-sized potatoes until tender, add the boiling potato water to the onions and cook them a little longer, while mashing the potatoes, then add them; mix well and add a quart of hot milk, salt and pepper and another two tablespoonfuls of butter. Serve piping hot with tiny cubes of bread browned in butter.

Potato Rolls.

To one cupful of hot mashed potato add one-half cupful of potato water, and one cupful of scalded milk, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-fourth cupful of butter or a mixture of butter and other shortening, one egg and a yeast cake dissolved in a little lukewarm water; add flour to make a batter which will stir well with a spoon. Set to rise and when light enough to knead add flour to mix and knead (as little flour as possible). Put to rise again and when light, cut down, cover and rise again, then make into finger rolls or place three small balls of the dough in well-greased gem pans; when very light bake in a quick oven.

Peach Cup.

Take eight canned peaches, two eggs, one-half cupful of milk, one and one-half cupfuls of flour, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and one teaspoonful of butter. Mash two of the peaches and add the beaten egg yolks of two eggs, then the milk and the dry ingredients, and the butter melted. Pour some of the mixture into a buttered custard cup, add half a peach, cover with batter, sprinkle the top with sugar and bake in a moderate oven 20 minutes. Serve with whipped cream or a hard sauce.

NOT JUST TODAY

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

NOT just today I wish you joy,
And happiness, and cheer,
But on the next day, and the next,
And so through all the year.
For life is long, the road is far,
And many little bumps there are,
And yet I hope a silver thread
Runs all through all the days ahead.

Not just today I hope that friends
Will gather 'round your fire,
But all the year I wish you love
And all that you desire.
May every little walk you take
Meet merry hearts, and hands to shake,
And friends to greet you now and then
At night when you come home again.

Not just today I wish you peace,
And certainty, and song:
I wish you all a friend can wish
Today and all along.
Let New Year's day remind us of
The folks around us we can love,
Of things to do, and things to say,
Through all the year—not just today.

Among the NOTABLES

LOUIS XVI

LAST of the French kings before the Revolution, weak-willed and with no special desire and certainly no aptitude for statecraft—such was Louis XVI.

He was born August 23, 1754, at Versailles, grandson of Louis V, became heir to the throne when he was eleven, and was married at sixteen to Marie Antoinette in order to make more firm the peace between France and Austria. At first he did not care for his wife, but after a time, during which he had ascended the throne, he came considerably under her influence.

The young queen had reacted against her very strict bringing up, and was plunging recklessly into the dissipation and gayety of the times. Politics were like a seething cauldron, then, bound to boil over; indeed it did boil over—into the Revolution of 1792. Marie Antoinette, by her extravagance and because she was Austrian (and there was a growing feeling against her country), became very unpopular. Louis, meantime, wanted nothing but to spend the days in hunting. Never bright mentally, he became more and more stupid and retiring as time passed.

The revolution came and the gayest court in the world was literally thrown into prison. Louis was condemned and guillotined early in 1793. One by one, the figures who make the tale of these courts so fascinating, were driven through the streets to their death—for the most part, going with dignity and a look of contempt for the rabble who had them in power. The queen herself was beheaded in 1793.

Cat Picks Car for Nursery

It is not only millionaire motorists who on returning to their unattended cars find them lightened of some of their contents, observes the London Post in "The Way of the World," column. Sometimes, however, it happens the other way round, and with equally embarrassing results. "The other day," writes a correspondent, "I came across a man in a quiet suburban street contemplating his car with a puzzled air. He explained that he had left it by the curb for an hour or so and returned to find it in the possession of a cat which had chosen that part of the floor which is best warmed by the engine as a suitable place for bringing into the world a family of kittens."

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Good talk is like good scenery—continuous, yet constantly varying, and full of the charm of novelty and surprise.

An apple a day keeps the doctor away.

A CHAPTER ON APPLES

The wholesome apple is such a well liked fruit that it needs no one to sing its praises. A fresh, juicy apple eaten at least once a day is the best of medicines. For the ill, a baked apple is easy of digestion and always appetizing. As a dessert, nothing can be more wholesome than a good apple well baked.

Baked Apple With Raisins.—Pare and core apples, fill the cavities with sugar, raisins and pieces of butter. Bake fifteen minutes. Remove and fill the centers with more sugar and cinnamon and butter. Replace in the oven and baste with boiling water to make a sirup. Bake until the apples are soft. Serve hot with cream.

Apple and Brown Bread Pudding.—Take one pint of brown bread crumbs, one pint of chopped apples, two-thirds of a pint of finely chopped suet, one cupful of raisins, one egg, one tablespoonful of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and one-half pint of milk. Mix the apples and bread crumbs. Add suet, raisins, egg, flour, salt. Mix with milk and boil in a buttered mold for two hours. Serve with lemon sauce.

Lemon Sauce.—Take two teaspoonfuls of cornstarch or arrow root, two cupfuls of water, one cupful of sugar, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter, the rind and juice of one lemon. Mix the starch and sugar, add boiling water and cook twenty minutes. Add flavoring and butter and serve hot.

Onion and Apple Salad.—Chop fine a small Bermuda onion, add two cupfuls of finely diced apple (good flavored tart apple), add a handful of dates cut fine, a sprinkling of chopped green pepper and mayonnaise enough to moisten. Serve on heart leaves of head lettuce. Sprinkle with paprika as a garnish. A spoonful of apple sauce on top is both appetizing and decorative.

Apple Dumpling.—Take four cupfuls of sliced apple, one-half cupful of water, two cupfuls of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth cupful of sugar, one cupful of milk and a little grated lemon rind. Mix and sift the dry ingredients, except the sugar. Add milk. Fill a buttered pudding dish with apples, add sugar, water, lemon rind, cover with flour mixture and steam one and one-half hours. Serve with lemon sauce.

Potato Pancakes.—Peel three large potatoes, grate them, add salt, pepper, a little milk and flour enough to make the batter the right consistency to fry. Heat the griddle hot, add fat and fry long enough to thoroughly cook them. Serve with apple sauce or jam of any kind.

Nourishing Soups.

A cream soup is sufficiently nourishing to serve as the main dish. Where the dinner is served at noon, a hot soup is greatly appreciated for the night meal at this season of the year.

Celery with potato or onion with potato makes a good flavored soup that satisfies all.

Cream of Potato Soup.—Boil two large potatoes and mash well, adding a cupful of cream, season with salt and grated onion. Blend two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour, add two cupfuls of cold milk and cook until smooth. Serve hot with croutons.

Sweetbread Soup.—Reheat one quart of veal stock and add two cupfuls of cream which has been blended with two beaten egg yolks. Take from the heat; season to taste, add one cupful of parboiled sweetbreads cut into fine pieces. Garnish with whipped cream and minced parsley.

Egg Soup.—Butter six slices of stale bread, sprinkle with sugar and brown in the oven. Reheat two cupfuls of veal stock and two cupfuls of milk beaten with the yolks of three eggs. Add a tablespoonful of butter; season with salt and pepper, minced parsley and a grating of nutmeg. Pour over the toast; cover for ten minutes and serve.

Cream Veal Soup.—Chop fine three pounds of lean veal and one large onion. Cover with two quarts of cold water; simmer three hours, strain and cool. Thicken with two tablespoonfuls of flour blended with a little cold milk, add three well-beaten eggs and a pint of milk. Season with salt and pepper and minced parsley.

Veal and Celery Soup.—Cut up three pounds of veal, break the bones, cover with four quarts of water and simmer for four hours; strain and return to the fire. Add two bunches of celery and two chopped onions, simmer until the vegetables are soft. Press through a fine sieve, thicken with two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch mixed with two cupfuls of milk; add two tablespoonfuls of butter in small bits, reheat and serve with diced fried bread.

Blood stains of woolen goods, if fresh, may be completely removed if saturated at once with dry starch. It absorbs the moisture and when dry all the stain will brush out.

Advanced Ideas in This German Prison

At Ichtershausen near Arnstadt, in Thuringia, the prison is so pleasant that no one has ever attempted to escape from it. The prison authorities have made the prison life tolerable, humane and educational. In the first place there are only 400 prisoners, although there are cells for 520. Within the prison is a local court in which all misdemeanors are judged by four employees, assisted by two representatives of the convicts. Many of the sentences imposed by the judge are lighter than those suggested by the convicts. Every prisoner is permitted to supplement the prison fare by purchases from the outside. The prisoners work for low wages but are allowed to keep the money—on an average 15 marks a month, although clever workers make as much as 40 marks. The living conditions are as pleasant as possible and the prisoners are allowed regular gymnastics and occasional turner competitions.

It is to your own benefit to get as much out of your products as possible, so don't forget to keep your Land O' Lakes cream in a separate can instead of dumping it all into one can and get from 2 to 5c a pound less for all of your butterfat, when you can get at least 65 per cent of your cream in the Land O' Lakes class, if you use two cans and deliver 2 times a week.

Dorcas Society Had Annual Meeting Monday

On Monday, Dec. 21, the Dorcas Society had its yearly meeting at the parsonage.

A very interesting report was read by the secretary, Ethel Johnson. The following officers were elected:— Hildred Ordahl, president; Esther Hagberg, vice-president; Hilma Nohre, secretary-treasurer.

This year the society has built a new porch to the parsonage, which amounted to about $90.

Most of the material made into articles for the sale was bought by the society, which amounted to quite a bit. These incidents make them feel very much encouraged by the results of the year's work. And at the same time they wish to express their gratitude to you all who have so kindly helped along, both in entertaining the society as well as donating for the sale and for the lunches served after it. They also thank you who helped so much in getting the articles ready for the sale.

Most of all does the society feel grateful to Mrs. Sovde, who has been superintending the work, and Mrs. Clarence Erickson for her wonderful help the last part of the year.

We wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Blessed and Prosperous New Year.

—Submitted by Hildred Ordahl, President.

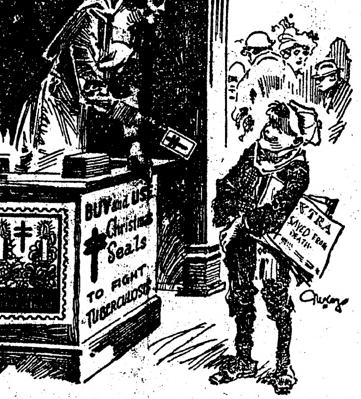
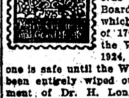
THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS



BUY and USE Christmas Seals TO FIGHT TUBERCULOSIS
EXTRA SAVED FROM DEATH
Chapin

TUBERCULOSIS KILLS MORE THAN AUTOS



One Minnesota resident dies from tuberculosis every five hours! This is what the last records of the State Board of Health, which reports a total of 1707 deaths from the White Plague in 1924, show. That no one is safe until the White Plague has been entirely wiped out is the statement of Dr. H. Longstreet Taylor, pioneer leader in the organized campaign for the control of tuberculosis.

"Minnesota has made remarkable progress in the fight against tuberculosis and thousands of people are living now, who would have died had the death rate continued as high as it was when the Christmas Seal campaign started in 1908," said Doctor Taylor. "We must not, however, be too optimistic. Tuberculosis is not a disease that will stay on the wane unless a persistent fight is continued against it.

"Over four times as many people died in Minnesota last year from tuberculosis as were killed in automobile accidents, but everyone is very much more alarmed over the number of auto deaths. Like automobile accidents, tuberculosis deaths are needless, for the disease is curable and preventable, yet we had 1707 of them in one year. And for every death there are nine living cases—which means that approximately 15,000 Minnesota people are in the grip of tuberculosis.

"Tuberculosis is a communicable disease and no home is safe until it is completely controlled. It is everybody's fight, for no one is immune. Christmas Seals furnish the ammunition and every penny stamp purchased brings victory nearer."

CLOWN SHOWS CHILDREN ROAD TO HEALTH

From clowning and magic tricks to health instruction seems a far cry, yet this is one of the means utilized in the state-wide campaign to interest children in building strong bodies.

"Chew Chew," shown in the above picture with his little dog "Creamo" has brought health information in a most captivating way to thousands of Minnesota boys and girls, with whom he has left a lasting impression of the importance of long hours of rest, fresh air, sunshine and proper foods.

The clown is but one of the many original methods used in the state-wide Christmas Seal health work for children. The Modern Health Crusade, in which children earn awards for actually doing daily health habits; health stories, posters, games, school projects, the monthly Northwestern Health Journal, health play contests, all form a part of this work.

"Prevention" is the slogan of this phase of the war on tuberculosis supported by Christmas Seals.

MITCHELL DRAWS LONG SUSPENSION

Military Judges Announce Leniency on Account of War Services—Airman Smiles.

Washington—A verdict of guilty on all specifications and the general charge coupled with a sentence of suspension for five years from "rank, command and duty" in the army, was found against Colonel William Mitchell by the court-martial which has been conducting his trial for insubordination since October 28.

"The court, upon secret written ballots, two-thirds of the members present at the time the vote was taken concurring in each finding of guilt, finds the accused guilty of all specifications and the charge.

"The court sentences the accused to be suspended from rank, command and duty, with forfeiture of pay and allowance, for five years.

"The court is thus lenient because of the military record of the accused during the World war, two-thirds of the members who were present at the time the vote was taken, concurring."

Colonel Mitchell, standing as the decison was announced, with Mrs. Mitchell at his side, smiled.

Adjournment of the trial automatically transferred the Mitchell case from the old brick building, near the capitol, to the war department. There it will be forwarded by the adjutant general of the army to the board of review in the judge advocate general's office to be checked for inaccuracies. Later the board will pass it on to Secretary Davis, who, in turn, wil submit the voluminous trial to President Coolidge for final review and approval.

E. T. Winship, Good Road Leader Diversified Farm Pioneer, Dies

Owatonna, Minn.—Ernest T. Winship, 64, president of the Ten Thousand Lakes association, and an outstanding advocate of good roads, diversified farming and improved dairying in Minnesota, died Monday at Owatonna. His death was due to heart trouble.

As president of the Minnesota State Automobile association, Mr. Winship for many years had been an enthusiastic advocate of better highways and had been an active worker for legislation to carry out plans for the state association and the highway department. He was a vice president of the Automobile Association of America.

He had just become president of the Ten Thousand Lakes Association, on the death of R. R. Wise of Brainerd, three weeks ago. He was to have presided at the association's annual meeting in Minneapolis this week.

Auto Show Plans Arranged.

Minneapolis—More than 150 exhibitors have signified their intention of entering the 1926 Twin City automobile show, Feb. 6-13, Manager Harry E. Wilcox announced. This figure beats all preceding records at this stage of the preparatory efforts for the annual motor car display. A large swimming pool; Minnesota trees and foliage in their native state; running streams and a comprehensive display of fish and game will be included in the "Outdoors" department of the show.

Ask More Facts in Schall Contest

Washington—Counsel for Magnus Johnson, former Farmer-Labor senator, were informed that if they could not produce specific charges out of which an issue could be drawn, the investigation of the contest against Senator Schall, Republican, of Minnesota, would not proceed further. Johnson's counsel was called upon by a subcommittee of the senate elections committee to produce witnesses to establish a prima facie case. They had filed general charges against Schall, but the subcommittee demanded more specific complaint.

Fight for World Court Opens In United States Senate

Washington—The World court issue finally was brought before the senate, with immediate indications that the long and bitter League of Nations fight is to be renewed. The chief point of controversy is whether adhesion to the court means affiliation with the league, and the forces in the senate are arrayed in much the same fashion they were during the months of struggle over the covenant. Leadership of the forces for adhesion again has fallen to a Democrat, Senator Swanson of Virginia. Standing in the foremost of those opposing the court is Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, chairman of the foreign relations committee, who was prominent among the league irreconcilables. Supporting him are the remnant of that group and a number of new senators on the Republican side.

F. C. Hicks Dies Suddenly

Mr. Hicks, who was in charge of the eastern headquarters of the Republican national committee in the last campaign, was a member of the house from New York from 1915 to 1923, and was appointed special United States minister on the diplomatic mission to Peru in 1924.

League Council Gives Irak to Britain With Twenty-five Year Extension of Mandate.

Geneva—The League of Nations Council decided the Mosul dispute in favor of Britain and the league secretaria followed up the action by publishing the league's Mosul commission report charging the Turks in the Mosul region with attacking women and massacering the men to still their protests against the orgies.

The council declared Mosul should go to Irak provided Britain agreed to a 25-year extension of the mandate over that region and to an economic treaty with Turkey.

The investigation committee report, revealing a situation worse than already described by the Laidoner findings, pictured 8,000 Christians, mainly farmers, driven out of their villages since March; women killed by Turk soldiers; men slain—including 40 at Bailjo alone—because they protested at attacks on their wives and daughters and burial alive of five women deportees who fell by the wayside.

Sweeping reductions in the income schedule, effective on taxes payable next March 15, and in almost every other federal tax are provided in the measure, which was drafted on a non-partisan basis and received bi-partisan support throughout the 12 working days it was before the chamber. Madison—Clyde Zimmerman and William Irving Green, who have been confined in the county jail here for several weeks, after escaping from the jail, stole an automobile and made their getaway. Using wire from a waste basket in the cell, the men succeeded in unlocking the door.

St. Paul—A Minnesota law requiring motor trucks used for commercial freighting, and operating on a regular time schedule, to pay a state motor vehicle tax of 10 per cent, was upheld by the state supreme court in hearing an appeal of a case brought by a Minneapolis commercial freighting firm.

Minneapolis—A. L. Roberts of Winona, a leading hotel man of southern Minnesota and a pioneer in the work of developing tourist business and advertising the state as America's great summer playground, was elected president of the Ten Thousand Lakes of Minnesota association at the close of its ninth annual meeting.

Northfield—Plans for conducting a Holstein show in conjunction with the 1926 Rice county fair here were discussed at the annual meeting of the stockholders here. Increased demand for good dairy cows recently has resulted in greater activities among breeders of purebred Holsteins.

St. Paul—Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern railway, announced a $22,000,000 building improvement program. The program includes $10,000,000 to build an eight-mile tunnel lowering by 1,000 feet the Great Northern's crossing of the Cascade mountains, and $12,000,000 to be laid out within a year on other betterments.

Minneapolis—An exchange of shots between a patrolman and bandits after the holdup of a Bloomington avenue meat market, resulted in the death of a 14-year-old boy. Donald Diment, the victim, fell mortally wounded while approaching his home through an alley, when Patrolman James H. Trepanier gave chase to two bandits whose victim he had been a moment before in Schaefer Bros. market.

St. Paul—Half a million new automobile license tags are stored at the state capitol awaiting the 1926 season, which will open promptly January 2. Officials said that they are expecting a rush, and if all applications are handled by February 15 there will be no let up for more than six weeks. After February 15, penalties will accrue, and as the legislature will not be in session, there is no chance of the time being extended.

Minneapolis — Minnesota, having harvested its tourist "crop," which in 1925 was worth more than its wheat crop and two-thirds as much as its famous butter crop, now is preparing to spend $2,000,000 in improvements, so as to be ready for a greater business in 1926, the Ten Thousand Lakes of Minnesota Association was told, at its annual meeting. A total of 1,099,517 tourists from outisde Minnesota spent a total of $59,672,850 in the state in 1925, in the process of enjoying their share of the 10,000 lakes and resorts, H. C. Hotaling, secretary, reported to the association.

Ruthton—A large number of neighbors, with their teams and wagons, invaded the cornfield of A. C. Christensen and gathered his crop of corn for him. Christensen and his son, Korum, are both carrying their arms in slings as the result of trying to crank the family automobile.

Red Wing—Goodhue county rangers have enlisted "for the duration of the war" to combat robbery. The rangers have just received the final shipment of eight shotguns and four rifles for distribution to members of the volunteer force, ready at all times to assist authorities in tracking bandits.

NEED FOR SILENCE

The weary diner called the waiter to him and said: "It is generally considered improper to speak disrespectfully of one's elders?"

The waiter looked puzzled. "So they say, sir," he returned.

"Ah," said the diner, "then I must repress my feelings and be silent about this egg you have just brought me."

Cost of Conversation

We're often told that talk is cheap;
Yet much depends on whether
Expense accounts don't get too deep
When statesmen talk together.

Starting With a Handicap

"That chap Grasper is a wonder," said Mr. Blenkinsop, speaking of the self-made plutocrat. "He started life literally without a penny in his pocket."

"Yes, I dare say, dear," murmured Mrs. B. sympathetically, "but then you started without even a pocket!"—Stray Stories.

Sorry for Thoughts

"Oh! Are you really a mind-reader?"

"Yes! I am."

"Then I hope you aren't offended. I didn't mean what I thought about you."

"Not for running a girl down, no."

Must Placate the Child

A well-known actor was playing to a crowded house, but was frequently interrupted by the squalling of a child in the gallery.

At last the noise grew so unbearable that the actor abandoned his lines and said, "Ladies and gentlemen, unless this play is stopped, the child cannot possibly go on!"

A Mean Quibbler

SEASONABLE FOODS

Where fresh fish are obtainable a fish chowder is a dish which will be often repeated when once tried.

Fish Chowder.—Cut fresh fish into small pieces—codfish which has been freshened may be used as well. Cut a quarter of a pound of fat salt pork into cubes and fry in the chowder kettle until crisp and brown. Add six small sliced onions, stir until well softened but not brown, then add six or eight medium-sized potatoes cut into thin slices. Cover with water and cook until the vegetables are nearly tender, then add the fish and cook until well done, if fresh; if salt, a short cooking will be sufficient. Add a quart of milk, six or eight milk crackers which have been softened in boiling milk, season well and serve hot.

French String Beans.—Melt a tablespoonful of sweet fat or lard in a saucepan, slice a clove of garlic in wafer-like slices, cook for five minutes, add a tablespoonful of finely minced parsley, turn in the beans and when well heated serve.

Ripe Olive Salad.—Take one package of cream cheese, break with a fork and add two tablespoonfuls of orange juice; when soft enough to mold add ten ripe olives cut very fine. Mold the mixture into small balls, roll these in minced parsley and arrange on lettuce. Serve with French dressing.

Pork Chops and Parsnip Stew.—Put six pork chops into a saucepan with five good-sized parsnips which have been washed, scraped and cut into one-inch sized pieces; add five diced, raw potatoes, season with salt, pepper and cook twenty minutes, thicken with flour, a very little, cover closely, adding moisture as needed and cook two hours.

Spoon Corn Bread.—Take one cupful of cornmeal scalded with one cupful of boiling water, add two cupfuls of sweet milk, two beaten eggs, one-half teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a teaspoonful of sugar. Bake in a serving dish and serve with bacon and liver.

Pot Roast Rabbit.—Dress and clean two rabbits and disjoint the pieces ready for serving. Cover with cold water to which a tablespoonful each of salt and vinegar has been added and let stand several hours. Drain and wipe dry and roll in seasoned flour. If the rabbits are tough, parboil them in water with a little vinegar. Roll in seasoned flour and put into a Scotch kettle with an iron lid, adding a slice of salt pork; cover tightly and cook without uncovering until it begins to fry, adding a tablespoonful of water occasionally to keep from getting dry. Chicken or any other fowl is especially good-flavored cooked this way, as all the flavor is kept in the meat and the flesh is especially tender.

Things Worth Remembering.

When using the furnace this winter, place potatoes to bake, beans to bake, steak to broil or roasts to roast, in the furnace or on the ledge. This will save fuel and the food has a different flavor. Onions roasted in their skins are especially delicious. Remove the outside and serve with butter.

When the screw tops of cans fail to respond to the hand, try using a little sandpaper. Another use for sandpaper is on a zinc table when the meat chopper is to be fastened on; place a strip under the clamps to hold it firmly.

When straightening the hem in linen, save all the drawn threads to be used for darning old linens.

For those who dislike dusting, bedmaking and many of the everyday household duties, start the victrola with a lively tune and work to the time of the music. It will take all the drudgery out and time will pass swiftly.

Slip-on covers for ironing boards are easy to wash and keep the board always fresh if one has two or three on hand.

To remove water marks on vases or glasses rub in a little oil, then wash as usual.

Sticks of candy on a child's birthday cake are just as decorative and with a candle or two lighted will add to the pleasure, as the kiddies will eat the candy.

Drop pieces of toilet soap into the boiler when washing; it will take the place of soap and add a delicate odor to the clothing. If more economical, melt the pieces in a little water and pour into a mold. When cold you have a good cake of soap.

Cream Cheese.—Grate all dry cheese, using a cupful of grated cheese and a half cupful of boiling hot cream, stir in the cheese and when dissolved pour into a jar. Add any seasoning liked, chopped pimentoes, red pepper or paprika.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

WASTE NOT AN HOUR

A THOUSAND things displeasing will haunt you later in life if in your feverish chase of fooling amusements, which steal from you character, money and time, you fail to exercise caution and common sense.

To become habitually addicted to empty, catch-penny diversions from which you cannot get some inspiring thought to make of you a better man or woman, or improve your fitness in the field of endeavor you have already accepted as your own, is a perilous departure from the right course.

After the habit of wasting time is once acquired, it is difficult to turn from it and bid it good-by.

You have wilfully accepted as a companion a subtle thief who, at every opportunity, will rob you of your pocketbook, conscience and peaceful nights of sleep.

Although the "old folks," as you disparagingly style your father and mother, may tearfully call your attention to what is likely to result from such folly, you continue to chase the bursting bubbles until their voices are hushed and you face the world alone.

Advice which they gave you sometimes returns on the silent wings of night and keeps you awake.

It bears a new meaning now, and if you have within you the proper spirit, you will this time accept it.

You are here on the mundane sphere for some wise purpose in which no other mortal can have greater concern than yourself.

What you do today will, in spite of all sophistical argument, have a bearing on your life tomorrow.

Your speech, thought, deportment, idleness or industry are molding you each year into a new being—a soul more beautiful and useful or more ugly and worthless.

The beautiful soul is nowhere on earth better developed than by seemly conduct and consideration of others.

A mere word or an act may prove the turning point in your career, and when once launched on its way, it cannot delay the inevitable tide which is carrying you with certainty to a rich life of honor and usefulness, or to a ragged existence without a single ray of faith or happiness—the latter, as the experienced will tell you, being the result of squandering time.

WHO SAID

"He travels safest on a dark night who travels lightest."

THE resolute character of Hernando Cortez, the author of the words quoted above, was never better demonstrated than during his conquest of Mexico. That expedition was, in reality, an offshoot of the expedition of Velasquez to the new world.

Cortez had accompanied Velasquez on his expedition to the island of Cuba. Following the conquest of the island he had sought permission to explore the mainland of Mexico, and it was granted. When he landed he persuaded his men to burn their ships in order that they might not be tempted to return before victory had been achieved.

In his march toward the kingdom of Montezuma, the most powerful in Mexico, Cortez was able to defeat the smaller Indian tribes opposing his advance. The success which he achieved alarmed Montezuma, who forthwith set about making peace with the Spaniards. With his court he received Cortez with the greatest courtesy and made him lavish presents. For days the Spaniards tarried in the country of the Aztecs and gave themselves over to enjoyment.

The wealth which was displayed before the envious eyes of Cortez and his men, however, was too much for them to withstand. The Aztecs were treacherously attacked and their city destroyed and their wealth was confiscated to enrich the coffers of Spain.

In 1528 Cortez returned to Spain to face those who had accused him of treason during his absence. He was coldly received. Once more he returned to America as a powerful noble, but without any position to command. In 1540 he again journeyed to Spain but the sovereign received him with the utmost neglect. Seven years later the great explorer died.—Wayne D. McMurray.

YOUR Last Name

IS IT VERNON?

VERNON is best known to Americans because of its association with the home of Washington on the banks of the Potomac—Mount Vernon. Few persons realize that this home of Washington was named in honor of William Vernon, a staunch patriot with whom Washington corresponded. His home was in old Newport, where he was the host of many distinguished men during the Revolutionary period.

Vernon is an old English surname usually said to have had its origin in Normandy. In fact the Vernons of England claim descent from one who went to England with William the Norman Conqueror. Seemingly there are several places in Normandy or other parts of France that might have given rise to this surname Vernon.

HOWITT—This, like Hewett and Howlett, is from Hugh, made popular as a first name in England and France by two or three saints of the name.

PICKFORD—This is a compound of Pick and ford. Pick here may be an old first name so that the name would have the significance of Pick's ford. Or it may be that it is derived from pick, a form of peak or pike, meaning hill. Then the name would have the significance of hill ford, and the first to bear it would have been so called because of their dwelling near a place of this description.

Early Roman Laws

The Decemviri or Ten Men were those chosen by the Roman people in 751 B. C. with power to govern for a year and at the same time to draw up a code of laws which were written on ten metallic tables, to which a year later were added two tables, so that the code became known as the Laws of the Twelve Tables.

Did you offer to help her? Or didn't you heed?

TASTY SANDWICHES

FOR a hot supper dish the following will be sustaining and satisfying:

Hot Giblet Sandwiches.

Pour off the liquid in the pan in which a turkey or chicken has been roasted. From the liquid skim off one-fourth of a cupful of fat, return the fat to the pan and in it brown five and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour, and cook well until blended, then add two cupfuls of stock from the cooked giblets. Cook until smooth, season with salt and pepper and add the chopped cooked giblets. Spread eight slices of bread that have been lightly toasted, pour over some of the giblet sauce on four slices, cover with the other four and add the rest of the giblet sauce, dividing it equally over the four sandwiches. Serve hot with a pepper relish.

Sardine-and-Olive Sandwiches.

Drain the sardines from a large box. Remove skins, bones, fins, tails and mince fine. Mix thoroughly with two tablespoonfuls of finely minced mustard pickles, add sardines and mix well; moisten with salad dressing. Use as a filling between thin slices of white bread that have been spread with pimento or horseradish butter. Place crisp leaves of lettuce between the slices, cut into strips or triangles and serve.

Egg, Smoked Salmon Sandwiches.

Cut white bread into strips four inches long and one and one-half inches wide. Toast lightly on one side, spread the untoasted side with unsalted butter to which the mashed yolks of two hard-cooked eggs, salt and cayenne have been added, then add one-half tablespoonful of finely minced parsley.

Spread an equal number of slices of bread of the same size with anchovy paste. Cover with finely minced smoked salmon moistened with mayonnaise. Put together in pairs, press lightly and garnish each sandwich with a slice of gherkin. Serve with potato salad.

THE FUTURE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

IF THAT strange lady that we call
The Future came to you and me
Revealing to our vision all
The long, long years that are to be—
Yes, robbed of all her mystery
If she would let us read the days
That are to dawn, reveal the ways
We yet must go, think not that man
Would then be any happier than
He is, who now the road must tread
Not knowing what may lie ahead.

How poor the future joys would seem!
No, joys must come as now they do:
The joys worth having we must dream,
There must be much of waiting, too.
If all were all revealed to you
Then men would miss the greatest joy:
Their busy fingers to employ
To fashion something. Better wait
For joy, although it come too late,
Than have our joy, and have it done,
And not a hope ahead of one.

How great the load of grief would be
If all the grief we are to bear
Were hidden not in mystery.
The present has enough of care—
Oh, may the future always wear
A garment like a clouded moon.
Seek not to know too much too soon,
For who would care to face the years
Who knew the sum of all their tears?—
If that strange lady that we call
The Future should reveal them all.

New York Skyscraper Marvel of Ingenuity

Through one small door, only eight feet square, a 16-story steel and concrete skyscraper was constructed recently within a department store in New York city, in making an addition to the building. To accomplish this surprising engineering feat the workmen had to carry every piece of machinery, every beam of lumber and every steel girder through the single narrow opening. And they did it without disturbing business in the old building in the slightest degree, says Popular Science Monthly.

Before remodeling the building had a rotunda in the center 60 feet square, which extended through the 16 floors from basement to dome. In this space the new skyscraper had to be erected.

The eight-foot door through which the thousands of tons of building materials and hoisting machinery had to be carried was on the street level. Before beginning work on the new building 18,000 wheelbarrow loads of wreckage and waste material from the rotunda had to be carried to the street through this same door.

Included in the material that was pushed through the eight-foot opening were eight elevator motors each weighing eight tons, eight elevator generators of one ton each, 108,000 square feet of flooring planks, 9,166 loads of hollow tile, 3,000 bags of plaster, 6,000 loads of floor arches, 1,000 wheelbarrow loads of bricks, 1,800 loads of ceiling material, 3,000 scaffold planks and 7,000 feet of guide rails for eight elevators.

Shut off from the store by board partitions the progress of the work was so unnoticed that when the new store within a store was opened to the public it was viewed with great surprise. The addition, which is 230 feet high, gives the store 51,200 additional square feet of floor space. It was completed in four months of work.

Woman Does Poise Feat

Paris Loses Landmark

Another historic Paris landmark has disappeared—a linen shop in the Marais quarter, where tradition has it, Mme. de Pompadour, favorite of Louis XV, used to deal. Over the door was a sign worthy of preservation. Before the revolution the shop was adorned with an effigy of John the Baptist, bearing the words "Au Saint Jean-Baptiste." In 1793, all names of saints being vigorously proscribed by law, the proprietor hung up instead the figure of a monkey wrapped in batiste and inscribed "Au Singe en Batiste." It is hoped that this sign will be placed in the Carnavalet museum.

Fire Under Water

A new form of steam boiler, the flame of which burns in water, has been developed. In the new boiler the burner is set at the end of a pipe projecting to the middle of the water reservoir. Oil fuel is used in combination with compressed air. To start the boiler the water level is lowered below the burner. When this has been lighted the water is permitted to rise to the top of the boiler, covering burner and flame, but the flame continues to burn brilliantly under the surface, taking oxygen from the air jet.

River Islands Reserved

President Coolidge by executive order has withdrawn from settlement, location, sale or entry all islands owned by the government in the Mississippi river between Rock Island Ill., and Wabasha, Minn., and has reserved them for the use of the Department of Agriculture in connection with the establishment of the upper Mississippi river wild-life and fish refuge—Pathfinder Magazine.

Glass Walls for Houses

Trees have become too scarce and valuable even in England to use England's oaks for paneling houses, so a London society woman has had her house paneled with a special kind of glass in a rich shade of blue and now everyone who is building a house is doing it. It will no longer be safe for anybody to throw stones. That is one thing folks who live in glass houses shouldn't do.—Capper's Weekly.

Crystal-Gazing Useful

Crystal gazing is not all humbug; it might very well be used in scientific diagnosis, suggests Dr. Lee Edward Travis of Iowa State university, for crystal gazing is a way of making a person daydream, and this is a border line of the hypnotic state. Doctor Travis himself, says Popular Science Monthly, uses crystal gazing in diagnosing certain types of insanity.

Large School Bank

What is probably the largest school bank in the United States is less than a year old. It is in the Seward Park high school, New York city. It started last spring and now has upward of 2,500 accounts. It is expected that this term the bank will reach a 100 per cent enrollment of the school's 6,000 pupils.—Thrift Magazine.

"'Look out for the modern girl. She's very, very fast.'

"'How do you know she's very, very, fast?' said I. 'Have you been chasing her, bishop?'"

Christmas Greetings

At Christmas time we should all remember our friends and neighbors with some sort of greeting, let it be in person or in writing.

It is impossible for us to see you all before Christmas so thru the columns of this paper we are thanking you for all your hearty cooperation and for the interest you have shown in your creamery.

The year 1925 marks the greatest achievement of our creamery.

We have made an increase of 25 per cent over last year, and our greatest accomplishment is the improvement in quality, which our patrons took hold of in such a way that it will mean approximately $4000.00 more to be paid to the patrons than if we had continued in the old way.

Let us not forget our State Creameries' Association and the Land O' Lakes News and all they have done for us.

Let us strive to do still better than we have done, with this thot in mind: That there is no doubt but that the year 1926 will be better than the year we just passed.

Again thanking you one and all, we wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Electric Co. Buys Two More Lines

The Minnesota Electric Distributing Company, owned and operated by the W. B. Foshay Company of Minneapolis, Minnesota, has closed contracts for the purchase of all the properties of the Red River Valley Power Company of Crookston, Minnesota, and the Minnesota Electric Light and Power Company of Bemidji, Minnesota, whereby the Minnesota Electric Distributing Company will become the parent or holding company for all the properties of these two companies, as well as those which it already owns or controls.

The actual consolidation will take place early in the year 1926 which will add to the physical property already owned by the Minnesota Electric Distributing Company, a total property value of over three and one quarter million dollars, which according to recent appraisals made by Messrs. Day & Zimmerman of Philadelphia, will give the Minnesota Electric Distributing Company and its subsidiaries a total property value in excess of seven million dollars.

The Utility Companies owned by virtue of stock ownership, by the Minnesota Electric Distributing Company will include Peoples Light and Power Company, International Public Service Corporation, Red River Valley Power Company, Minnesota Electric Light and Power Company and Bemidji Electric and Manufacturing Company.

The company is at this time rushing work on completion of a high tension transmission line interconnecting existing lines at Brooks, Minnesota, to existing lines at Holt, Minnesota, so that there will be a continuous electric connection and transmission system belonging to the company from Cass Lake, Minnesota, to Crookston, Minnesota, and continuing northwest to Pembina, North Dakota, and serving two towns in Canada.

Under the unified operation, the company will operate the hydro plants at Crookston, Minnesota, and the hydro plant on the Mississippi river near Bemidji continuously, which will be supplemented by the large new steam turbine plant now being completed by the Bemidji Electric and Manufacturing Company, an oil engine plant at Hallock, Minnesota, and the steam turbine plant at Crookston, Minnesota, which will mean that Crookston, Bemidji, and Hallock will be power centers in this division of the company's property in Northwestern Minnesota.

The W. B. Foshay Company of Minneapolis has recently acquired the electric properties at Elgin, Nebraska and the properties of the Cornell Hydro Electric Company of Valentine, Nebraska, which when all taken in will make a total valuation of properties owned and operated by the W. B. Foshay Company, with total combined assets, of more than ten million dollars.

These properties are all located in the states of Minnesota, Nebraska, South Dakota, and North Dakota, excepting the city of Cushing, Oklahoma.

Graceton Farmer Got Nothing For His Hay

From the Williams Northern Light:—"Farmers in this vicinity who have been contemplating shipping out their surplus hay to the St. Paul and Chicago markets, will be interested in knowing the result of a shipment made to Chicago by Sam Moore, of Graceton, a few weeks ago.

"Mr. Moore shipped 18,560 pounds, or something over nine tons. His hay was graded as Number 2 for which he received $19 per ton, or a total of $176.32. Expenses connected with the shipment were: freight, $124.50; inspection, 50 cents; commission, $15.00; or a total of $140.00. Mr. Moore received a check for the balance of $36.32. The baling cost his $27.00, and the loading $10.00, a total of $37.00, so he paid 68 cents out of his own pocket to make up the deficit, besides getting nothing for the hay or the labor and expense of putting it up."

Draw your own conclusions.

Holt Public School Receives State Aid

The Holt school will receive 93 per cent of the state aid it is entitled to. The money available for state aid is not always ample enough to pay in full the aid provided. When this happens the aid is pro-rated. This year Marshall county schools receive 93 per cent of the amounts the law entitles them to.

The figures for the Holt school are:—Regular aid, $500; supplemental aid, $1,526; building and transportation, $1,330; total, $3,356. 93 per cent of this is $3,121.08.

Another Union Brot To Light!

On Wednesday of last week, another big secret was exposed, when Cleve Bergum hired Leo Horien to go out to Golden Valley to get some household goods.

This seems a small, insignificant event, but it immediately aroused the suspicions of a number of residents of Holt. Forthwith, cowbells and dishpans were gathered up and made ready for action, and, according to some, a greased pole was ordered, but luckily for the happy man, none of these materials had to be used. For when Mr. Bergum was interviewed by the dishpan-smashers he presented them with a box of cigars, which stopped the proceedings of the "shivaree".

It all turned out that Cena Johnson, who has been a resident of this vicinity, and Cleve Bergum, local merchant, were united in marriage on the 25th of November, but had succeeded in keeping the fact a secret for almost a month. Mr. and Mrs. Bergum have started housekeeping, having rented the upstairs of the Torger Ness residence on the ridge.

The NEWS wishes them all kinds of happiness as they embark on their matrimonial journey.

New Term At Aggie School Opens Jan. 4

The Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, closed December 18 for the holiday vacation after the largest attendance for any fall term. There was a total of 228 enrolled representing every county of Northwestern Minnesota. Altho a number of interesting events have been carried thru during the term perhaps among the most enjoyable ones were the interclass song contest and the annual get together dinner held the final week. The fourth year students carried off the honors in the song contest with the third and first year classes tied for second place. The second term at the Agricultural school begins January 4. New classes will be organized and students may enroll even tho they were not in attendance for the first term. Those who are planning to attend should write Supt. C. G. Selvig concerning courses offered and for other information.

Several people from here attended the performances.

A Want Ad is small, but, O-Mi!

Local Creamery Gained 25 Per Cent In 1925

According to P. L. Anderson, the manager of our local creamery, the output for our creamery for 1925 was 25 per cent more than the output for 1924.

In 1925, up to December 1, the creamery had manufactured 250,973 pounds of butter, as compared to 200,604 pounds in the same period of time in 1924.

For the month of November 40 per cent of the output was Land O' Lakes butter, and present indications show that more than one half of the December butter will be of the famous Minnesota brand.

These figures show that this community is more and more becoming a dairy center.

Fight Results Badly For Goodridge Youth

Gilbert Thorson, 20 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thorson of Erie, is at the Physicians hospital suffering with the base of his brain fractured and Ludolph Urdahl, 19 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Urdahl of Goodridge, is bound over to the district court under a $1000 bond charged with assault in second degree, as a result of a fracas at Goodridge last Thursday night. Young Thorson's condition is still critical but physicians believe that he will recover. He has been unconscious most of the time since the accident.

The incident occurred following the Christmas program in the Goodridge school at which Thorson and four other young men are said to have made a disturbance and were turned out by Stuart McLeod, a member of the school board and prominent Goodridge farmer, who claims they were intoxicated. After the program's close the "gang" returned to the school, increased to about a dozen, to seek revenge upon McLeod, whom it is claimed they abused in violent language. McLeod, assisted by Urdahl and Donald Thorson of Goodridge, was cleaning up around the school house when they came back. It is reported that when Thorson took off his coat to "settle" for having been turned out, further proceedings were stopped by Urdahl's fist at Thorsan's jaw. The blow caused Thorson to tumble on the icy walk with the result that he hit the back of his head on the ice. He was immediately rushed to the hospital.

Saturday Urdahl was brought into municipal court and waiving preliminary examination Judge N. W. Tarrant bound him over to the district court. The $1000 bond was furnished at once. The charge will depend upon the outcome of the accident. Attorney H. O. Chommie represents Urdahl.—Thief River Falls Times.

Martin Olson was a visitor at Thief River Falls Monday, returning Tuesday.

R. A. Werner has purchased a new radio from Racine Olson which he installed last week.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

LAXITY AND THINKING

YOU may sometimes look forward to the accomplishment of a long cherished piece of work with expectations of inordinate pleasure, but at the final moment, when your task is finished, your heart turns sick in dismay.

Everywhere you see glaring defects, lack of harmony, imperfect values, being as a whole a crazy bit of patchwork that humiliates you beyond endurance and rouses within your throbbing breast spirit of resentment.

Yet you, yourself, are to blame. Where hard thought was required you gave light heed, and here before you lies the material evidence damp with tears of disappointment.

Now that you have the unworthy product in hand you realize how flimsy it is, not all comparable with the substantial thing of which you have been so long dreaming.

Not being a philosopher you cannot accept defeat with complacency.

Oh, critics, why have I failed?

The answer is simple. It applies almost to every failure set off against inconstant human endeavor where thought was brushed aside to make room for feverish haste.

When at last you regain your normal mental composure and your eyes are no more blurred with tears, you see that you stubbornly refused to use your own brain.

Impulsive emotions controlled your every act rather than calm productive thinking, which became irksome.

In love or in war, the fight cannot be won except by hard thinking, intelligent and patient maneuvering.

You cannot rush half blind into battle without incurring risks which coolness and proper thinking obviate.

If you will look Truth squarely in the face you will discover that many of our distressing failures are traceable to the common laxity of thinking.

Every bungling act if hunted down to its hidden lair will be found affiliated with beggarly thought.

The man or woman who neglects to "think things over" will never get far from the starting point.

It is the industrious, clear, persistent thinker who is changing the face of the world, making it better and blazing the way to a more glorious future.

WHO SAID

"Pride and weakness are Siamese twins."

JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL, author of the words quoted, is known to the American public—and to a great section of the British public as a poet. He is less known as an abolitionist, and yet his work in abolishing the slave trade in this country brought him more prominence during his lifetime than did his poetical work.

Lowell was born in Cambridge, Mass., February 22, 1819. Nineteen years later he was graduated from Harvard college. He early joined the ranks of the abolitionists and his "Biglow Papers" did a great deal to take the subject of slavery out of the academic class and make it a popular matter.

In 1855 he was offered the post of professor of belles-lettres at Harvard, a post filled by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. Lowell accepted the office on condition that he might have two years to study abroad. This was granted and after his tour of Europe he returned to this country and assumed the duties of professor.

The North American Review, which numbered many famous literary names among its editors, secured the services of Lowell in 1863. He held that position until 1872 when he resigned from the staff. During the Civil war he resumed his attacks on slavery and published a second series of the "Biglow Papers" in the Atlantic Monthly.

Following his resignation from the staff of the North American Review, Lowell again visited Europe where he was well received. On his return he was appointed minister to Spain, and Great Britain successively. His death occurred in 1891.—Wayne D. McMurray.

Among the NOTABLES

WILLIAM I.

WILLIAM FIRST of the Netherlands was another of the rulers who belonged to the ancient order of kings, believers in absolute authority. Like them, he could not see the spirit of democracy which was spreading over the world, and which was his undoing.

His influence was peculiar. He had a wonderful opportunity to weld together the Dutch and the Belgian nations, after two and a half centuries of separation, but he had not the tact that was needed. Had he combined the Netherlands into one strong nation, the story of the German advance through Belgium might have read very differently.

He was born August 24, 1772, at The Hague, compelled, because of the French revolution, to live first in England, then in Berlin; and not until Holland rose in revolt, after 18 years of exile, was he allowed to return. He directed both Holland and Belgian troops at the battle of Waterloo, then settled down to his political duties as king. But the laws he made were unfair to the Belgians and here he missed his great opportunity. Had he sent his son, prince of Orange, to take care of the interests of his southern subjects, everything would have been well; for the young William was popular with both Flemish and Walloon. But the king declared for absolute rule, there was a revolt, and Leopold was elected king of Belgium. Even the Dutch were rebelling against him, and, at last in despair, he abdicated. He married a Belgian countess to whom he was much attached and, after four quiet, retired years he died—in 1884.

THE CHANGING WORLD

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

I GUESS the world is movin' on,
But, oh, the things a man 'll miss!
A lot of good, old things are gone;
You don't see that, you can't have this.
Familiar things have passed away;
The world keeps changin' every day;
Each day they tell you at the store,
"No, they don't make 'em any more."

A lot of joys have taken wings
That now you'll look in vain to find;
They're lost to sight, a lot of things,
And very nearly lost to mind.
Now, when you ask the clerk for one,
He sort of smiles, your neighbor's son,
And says, "Oh, them are out of date;
Here's something else that's simply great."

The livery barn down by the crick
Is gone, they've built a brick garage.
Take even words: a trick's a trick,
But now they call it "camouflage."
The cracker barr'l, the oyster can—
Why, I could name a hundred, man,
A hundred things you used to see
That now are just a memory.

But you whose whiskers now are gray,
(The younger generation shave),
Don't sit around and scold and say
That all that's old they ought to save.
I guess the world is movin' on:
A lot of good, old things are gone,
But why be sad and why be glum?
A lot of good, new things have come!

SOMETHING TO EAT

ONIONS should be served at least once a week in every family, and oftener will be better.

Onions With Nuts.

Cook the desired amount of onions as usual, drain and cut up with a knife, add well-buttered crumbs, salt, pepper, and a cupful of rich milk. Sprinkle the top of the dish with buttered crumbs, add a half cupful of chopped walnuts and bake until the buttered crumbs are brown.

Turkish Delight.

Soak five tablespoonfuls of gelatin in one-half cupful of cold water for ten minutes. Mix one-third of a cupful of orange juice with three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and a tenspoonful of grated orange rind. Bring two cupfuls of sugar and one-half cupful of hot water to a boil, add the softened gelatin and allow to boil twenty minutes. Remove from the heat, add fruit juice and rind. Strain in a shallow pan which has been wet with cold water. Then cool, turn out on a board, dredge with powdered sugar and cut into cubes. Roll in powdered sugar.

Graham Breakfast Muffins.

Take one well-beaten egg, add one cupful of sour milk, one-half teaspoonful of soda, the same of salt, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and one cupful of graham flour. Beat well, then add three tablespoonfuls of melted fat and pour into hot, well-greased gem pans. This makes six large muffins.

Lemon Wafers.

Cream one cupful of fat and add one cupful of sugar. Add three well-beaten eggs and three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Add flour enough to make a dough to handle. Roll very thin and cut into rounds or fancy shapes. Bake until delicately browned.

Sponge Cakes.

Beat three egg yolks until light, and add one cupful of sugar. Add three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful of grated lemon rind, one tablespoonful of cold water. Sift one cupful of flour with one teaspoonful of baking powder and one-eighth teaspoonful of salt, fold in lightly into the mixture. Add three stiffly beaten egg whites and pour into buttered and floured gem pans. Bake in a moderate oven for thirty minutes.

THE PENCIL MAKES A FARM PAY BETTER

Farm Accounting Reveals Losing Methods and Points Way to Bigger Profits.

(From Banker-Farmer)

A farm cannot properly be called successful unless it pays a fair rate of interest on the investment and returns fair wages for the farmer's labor. Agriculture is considered by all odds the most important industry in the world, and yet in no other industry is the business end so neglected.

It is common to find a farmer with an investment of fifteen to twenty thousand dollars, yet does he keep books? Perhaps he may jot down a note now and then of an important deal, but this is of no value in an analysis of his business as a whole. No other industry, however small, is carried on without books of some sort.

Farming is a business and to be successful must be conducted in a businesslike way. The business man's mind should have indelibly printed upon it two questions: What profit is my business making? How can that profit be increased? To know the latter, one must find out the former; and to find out about profits requires the keeping of books.

It is not necessary for a farmer to have a course in bookkeeping. Almost every agricultural college in the country has issued a simplified farm accounting book which it sells at cost, and only a few minutes are required each day to jot down the day's happenings.

Accounts Increase Profits

Instances number a thousandfold where farmers have profited by knowing their business. Accounts kept by nineteen farmers in Illinois led them to improve the organization and operation of their farms in ways that added approximately $650 to their average net income in 1922, the seventh year they had kept accounts.

An Iowa farmer found at the end of the first year he kept books that crops fed to livestock brought more money than when sold outright. His figures showed that his cows were poor; compared with other farms in the state, he found the number of acres cultivated per man on his farm, as well as the number of acres per horse, were below average. He rented more land and replanned his fields, so that the crop areas per man and horse were increased. He sold some of his scrubs and bought good cows. The second year his income from the farm, after paying all expenses and interest on the money invested, had been increased over $350.

Costs Can Be Regulated

"I have discovered," says one farm bookkeeper, "that the kind of man you have on a job, as well as the particular team, often makes quite a variation in the cost of performing certain tasks. I have learned from the pages of my book that if I could have increased the yield of my wheat field by two bushels and my corn by five bushels I would have realized a substantial profit from them."

While the farmers may not be able to fix prices on their products, they do have a voice in determining the costs of production. To reduce this cost they must first know what the costs are.

The number of farmers who are keeping books on their business has increased remarkably in recent years, but the number of businesslike farmers is woefully small when listed alongside the sum total of the farmers in the country.

Inventory Is Indispensable

The basis of any system of farm accounting is the annual property list or inventory. It is the starting point of the farm records. One must take into consideration decreases or increases in the value of all property owned to gauge the progress of the business. Lacking facts as to the value of his property, no business man can form an accurate estimate of how he stands financially. Increased cash may be due to property which was sold, or increased debts may be due to improvements made. If a farmer is falling behind, the inventory will emphasize this fact. Often when a man is discouraged and thinks he is making no progress, his inventories will tell him that he is better off than he thought.

At the end of each year a financial statement is drawn off. This is the farmer's rating and no farmer with a good financial statement need fear walking into a bank and asking for a loan.

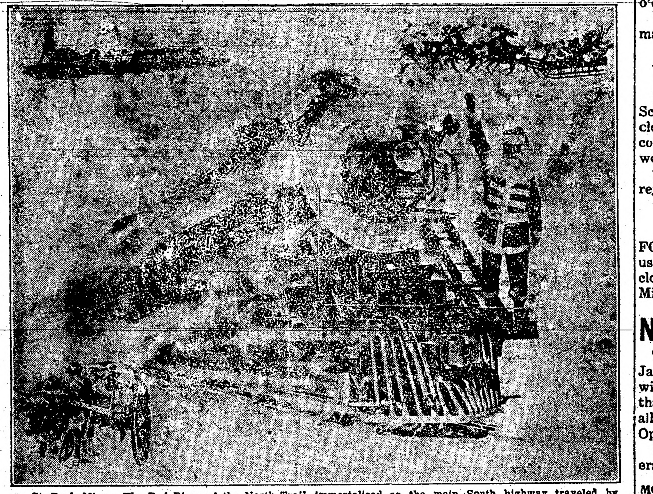
Santa Claus' Immortalized Highway From North Pole Leads to Unique Christmas Greeting



St. Paul, Minn.—The Red River of the North Trail, immortalized as the main South highway traveled by Santa Claus in his annual journey from the North Pole, together with its laterals, is made the subject of a unique educational Christmas Greeting in the form of an artistically printed and illustrated story of "Red River Trails" sent by the Great Northern Railway officials to the 30,000 employes of that road. The foreword congratulates this army of workers upon the importance of their service in helping the world to advance along the paths that have been made through it. The moral drawn is that a world without pathways would be at a standstill.

The net work of the late James J. Hill's transcontinental railway through Minnesota, North Dakota and Canada today parallel the Red River Trails which originally were made by ox carts and dog sledges, linking the summer and winter haul of life's necessities and furs, which were interchanged from St. Paul to the frozen North.

With these early pathways made 250 years ago by explorers, traders and missionaries began the first subjection of a wilderness which passed from the indolent Indian to the progressive white man. Three million people now live industriously in this region and it takes railways to keep their daily life throbbing. In fact, this transportation evolution has shifted the pack of Santa Claus so that almost his entire tonnage of presents now goes over the rails instead of the old trails.

How the evolution in transportation has shifted Santa Claus' pack, from the early "back-load" which he carried in the pioneer reindeer days through a sparsely-settled country up to the modern "quantity production of presents" which now goes in tonnage lots to a more densely populated countryside.

NEARLY INSANE AT TIMES

Mrs. Saunders Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Troubles of Change of Life

Knoxville, Tenn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound while going through the Change of Life. I was very nervous, could not sleep and had melancholy spells. In fact, I was nearly insane at times and my memory was almost a blank. I was so weak I could not do my housework half of the time and suffered dreadfully with my back. My doctor said I would have to worry it out and I went through this for three years before I began taking the Vegetable Compound which I saw advertised. I think it was eight bottles that I took. It has been two years since I took any and I haven't had a doctor since for that trouble. I do all my washing and ironing and I have gained from 116 to 188 pounds. I feel so well I think I do not need any medicine now, but I advise all women who suffer physically and mentally as I did to give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. I hope it will do as much for them as it did for me."—Mrs. T. A. SAUNDERS, 711 E. Depot Street, Knoxville, Tenn.

T. F. KILBY

Thomas F. Kilby of Anniston, former governor of Alabama, has formally qualified as a candidate for United States senator to succeed Senator Oscar W. Underwood.

Jardine Given Draft of Farm Relief Measure by Cummins

Washington—Senator Cummins, Republican, of Iowa, laid before Secretary Jardine his draft of proposed farm relief legislation providing for the creation of an agricultural exports commission to handle surplus crops.

The secretary declined to commit himself on the various provisions of the proposed bill, but promised to discuss it with agricultural organizations and confer again with the senator.

He informed Mr. Cummins that he understood some of the agricultural co-operative associations were opposed to the principles of the bill, which is in some respects similar to the McNary-Haugen measure that failed of passage in the last session.

Senator Cummins expects to submit his draft to President Coolidge and Secretary Hoover in an effort to get their indorsement.

Support Assured River Traffic.

St. Louis—General T. Q. Ashburn, chief of the Inland Waterways corporation, assured representatives of upper Mississippi river cities here that the government will give full support to the project for barge line transportation between Minneapolis and St. Louis. He advised the upper Mississippi Barge Line Co., of which S. S. Thorpe of Minneapolis is the head, to proceed at once with the construction of barges. General Ashburn said the government will agree to take over the privately operated line after the boats are actually placed in operation.

King's Brother To Rule Siam.

Vancouver, B. C.—His royal highness Prince Pajadhipek of Sukhodaye, has been proclaimed king of Siam in succession to King Rama, ruler of the country for 15 years, who died. This information was cabled to Wm. W. Armstrong, consular representative of Siam in Canada by Prince Traedon, Siam's minister of foreign affairs. The new monarch was educated in England. Rama had divorced his queen and taken another wife in the hope of having an heir to the throne, but his hopes were not realized.

Cuba Investigates Sugar Conflicts.

COAL WAR PEACE TERMS OFFERED

Pact Advocated Contains Provision to Protect Consumers and Miners.

New York—The committee on coal and giant power, comprised of engineers, economists, publicists, lawyers and business men from all parts of the country, announced the issuance of a suggestion for a basis on which to settle the present strike in the anthracite coal fields.

The plan, which has been sent to officials of both the miners and operators, contains the following suggestions:

A wage increase of 50 cents a day for the lowest paid miners.

No price increase over the average 1924-25 pre-strike prices.

An increase of 25 cents a ton on only domestic sizes of coal.

A revision of all piece work rates, both those now above the average and those below the average annual earnings of $3,000.

A check-off of regular union dues only by operators of mines where a ballot of all the workers shows a two-thirds vote in favor of it.

Immediate appointment of a committee by the operators and miners to work out an adjustment of piece work rates, and to supervise the balloting on the establishment of the check off.

This same committee, it is proposed, will submit to the consuming public six months before the expiration of the new agreement a complete report on the state and needs of the industry.

Storm on North Sea Takes Toll in Wreckage and Death

London—Sea captains arriving in London on ships caked with frozen spray to their funnel tops, described a storm which raged in the North Sea as the worst in their experience.

Reports from the northern European countries indicate widespread damage. Three high wireless towers at Norddeich, near Bremen, collapsed, while in Denmark the storm, which caused the king to change his route to London for the funeral of Queen Mother Alexandra, disorganized traffic generally and severed communications.

Along the North Sea coasts of England and the continent, numerous fishing boats and small craft were wrecked, with a score of lives lost.

U. S. To Buy Bonds Direct.

"But constipation is serious, Grace"

"Not so long ago I was like you—headaches a good deal of the time, sleeping badly, and the least bit of housework tired me out. My complexion too, was bad.

"Finally, I went to see Dr. Farman. He showed me that it was constipation that was back of my troubles. He said that it was a very serious thing because poisons from clogged waste matter were picked up by the blood and carried to every body organ. And if I didn't correct it in time I might become a victim of one of those terrible organic diseases.

"He made me drop laxatives altogether, changed my diet, and put me on Nujol. I don't think I've ever felt better. I sleep well, my headaches have disappeared, and you can see for yourself what an improvement there is in my skin. Nujol has done wonders for me."

Nujol Works Like Nature

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It is neither a food nor a medicine. It does not gripe. It is gentle and natural in its action and is prescribed by leading medical authorities.

Nujol simply makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly, in accordance with the directions on each bottle. As Nujol is not a laxative, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

The skeletons, some buried only a few inches below the surface, were close together and suggest the discovery of a cemetery. MITCHELL DRAWS LONG SUSPENSION

Military Judges Announce Leniency on Account of War Services—Airman Smiles.

Washington—A verdict of guilty on all specifications and the general charge coupled with a sentence of suspension for five years from "rank, command and duty" in the army, was found against Colonel William Mitchell by the court-martial which has been conducting his trial for insubordination since October 28.

"The court, upon secret written ballots, two-thirds of the members present at the time the vote was taken concurring in each finding of guilt, finds the accused guilty of all specifications and the charge.

"The court sentences the accused to be suspended from rank, command and duty, with forfeiture of pay and allowance, for five years.

"The court is thus lenient because of the military record of the accused during the World war, two-thirds of the members who were present at the time the vote was taken, concurring."

Colonel Mitchell, standing as the decison was announced, with Mrs. Mitchell at his side, smiled.

Adjournment of the trial automatically transferred the Mitchell case from the old brick building, near the capitol, to the war department. There it will be forwarded by the adjutant general of the army to the board of review in the judge advocate general's office to be checked for inaccuracies. Later the board will pass it on to Secretary Davis, who, in turn, wil submit the voluminous trial to President Coolidge for final review and approval.

House Passes Tax Cut Bill.

Washington—The $325,000,000 tax reduction bill was passed by the house. It was sent to the senate in the form drafted by the house ways and means committee and approved by the house. Sweeping reductions in the income schedule, effective on taxes payable next March 15, and in almost every other federal tax are provided in the measure, which was drafted on a non-partisan basis and received bipartisan support throughout the 12 working days it was before the chamber. This constituted a peace-time speed record for disposal of such legislation in the house. The vote on passage was 390 to 25.

Ask More Facts in Schall Contest

Washington—Counsel for Magnus Johnson, former Farmer-Labor senator, were informed that if they could not produce specific charges out of which an issue could be drawn, the investigation of the contest against Senator Schall, Republican, of Minnesota, would not proceed further. Johnson's counsel was called upon by a subcommittee of the senate elections committee to produce witnesses to establish a prima facie case. They had filed general charges against Schall, but the subcommittee demanded more specific complaint.

8 Bandits Capture Iowa Town

Dows, Iowa—Eight bandits captured the town of Dows, held two men and a woman prisoner in the bank for more than two hours, cut all wire communications and stationed sentries along the main street who shot out lights as fast as they appeared, blew open the safe of the Dows State Bank with five charges of nitroglycerin and fled with close to $10,000 in cash.

Troops Battle Wolves

Sofia—The heavy snowfall has driven packs of wolves from the mountains to the plains west of the town of Vidin, where they are playing havoc among the sheep folds. All available troops have been called out to exterminate the wolves, which are unusually fierce and ravenous. The sheep owners have suffered heavy losses.

Fight for World Court Opens In United States Senate

Washington—The World court issue finally was brought before the senate, with immediate indications that the long and bitter League of Nations fight is to be renewed. The chief point of controversy is whether adhesion to the court means affiliation with the league, and the forces in the senate are arrayed in much the same fashion they were during the months of struggle over the covenant. Leadership of the forces for adhesion again has fallen to a Democrat, Senator Swanson of Virginia. Standing in the foremost of those opposing the court is Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, chairman of the foreign relations committee, who was prominent among the league irreconcilables.

F. C. Hicks Dies Suddenly

Washington—Frederick C. Hicks, alien property custodian, dropped dead while attending a performance at the Belasco theater here. He was appointed by President Coolidge in April to succeed Thomas W. Miller, who had resigned the post of alien property custodian to devote himself to the affairs of Fidac, the internal veterans' organization, of which he was president. Mr. Hicks, who was in charge of the eastern headquarters of the Republican national committee in the last campaign, was member of the house from New York from 1915 to 1923, and was appointed special United States minister on the diplomatic mission to Peru in 1924.

It is estimated that for the entire year 50,900,000 cars will have been loaded with revenue freight, exceeding 1924 by nearly 2,500,000 cars or 5 per cent and 1923 by 1,144,000 or 2.3 per cent.

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY

To serve a variety and at the same time maintain economy, is the aim of every thrifty housewife.

Combination Salad.—Take one cupful of chopped cabbage, one-half cupful each of diced pineapple and apple, shredded almonds and diced marshmallows. Mix the ingredients, sprinkle with salt, add boiled dressing, using pineapple juice and lemon instead of vinegar. Garnish with spoonfuls of whipped cream and almonds. Serve on lettuce.

Fruit Imperial.—Arrange on rounds of cake, halves of peaches. Cook together one-quarter of a cupful of water, one-half cupful of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of flour; when thick, add a tablespoonful of butter and one and one-half cupfuls of peach sirup; then add one-half cupful of raisins. Arrange the peaches on the cake and pour over the fruit sirup. Serve hot or cold.

Peppers Stuffed With Raisins.—Parboil six medium-sized peppers in salt water five minutes, after removing the tops, and seeds. Fill with two cupfuls of bread crumbs, one-half of the pepper tops, a few chopped walnut meats, a little minced ham, three-fourths of a cupful of raisins, salt and butter to taste. Moisten with soup, stock or water and bake, setting the peppers in gem pans in a little water. Bake one hour.

A delicious sauce to serve with sliced roast beef is:

Bordelaise Sauce.—Take two tomatoes, one small onion, one green pepper, two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour, a clove, half a teaspoonful of salt, a salt spoonful of red pepper and a half cupful of water. Chop the vegetables, except tomatoes, add seasoning and simmer five minutes, rub through a sieve. Melt the butter, then add the tomatoes, and water. Simmer ten minutes, add another tablespoonful of butter. Serve hot.

Cheese Soup.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter and add two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, cook until smooth and thick, add a quart of milk and boil five minutes. Add one tablespoonful of minced onion and two tablespoonfuls of minced parsley, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt and three-fourths of a cupful of grated snappy cheese. Serve at once as the cheese is melted. If a more nourishing soup is desired beat up one or two eggs and pour the hot soup very slowly over them, beating well.

A tablet of aspirin dropped into the water of a vase of flowers will keep them fresh much longer.

Foods and Diet.

It seems reasonable when thought is put upon it, that our food and health are closely related. An unvaried diet is often the cause of stomach trouble, so it is wise to have a variety of foods, not all at one meal, but varied during the menus of all the days of the week.

Green leaves such as lettuce, chard, spinach, watercress, cabbage and beet and turnip tops contain the valuable vitamines, without which we cannot grow or be healthy. The strictly vegetarian diet is not generally accepted as good. We need fresh milk, milk products, eggs and a moderate supply of meat and fish to have a perfectly healthy body. Too much meat is considered bad diet.

White bread, though called the staff of life, is lacking in vitamines, but does supply energy as do potatoes cooked in their jackets. Whole wheat bread, graham and cornmeal are all wholesome for breads and should be freely used.

Eggs cooked in the shell, using a pint of boiling water to an egg, closely covered and placed on the back of the range where the water will not cool, may be served, hard cooked in thirty minutes, yolks well done, dry and mealy, while the white is tender and delicious. For medium boiled remove at fifteen; for soft boiled six to eight minutes.

Sugar should not be used on fruits by those who suffer from rheumatism.

Professor McCullom of Johns Hopkins tells us that liver and kidneys are more nearly complete foods than lean meat of any kind, which is lacking in calcium, sodium, chlorine and the three types of vitamines.

Grated carrots served in various ways are especially recommended for toning up the blood. Use them with finely minced celery, a little chopped onion, a few minced nuts with a good portion of salad dressing. Serve on lettuce leaves at least twice a week. Vary with apple, green pepper, cabbage or with other vegetables. Raw carrots are richer in these food adjuncts than they are when cooked.

"Don't smoke them, thanks."

Not a Matter of Money

Hale Holden, the railroad magnate, said in a Y. M. C. A. address in New York:

"I hate to hear the rich telling the poor how much nicer poverty is than wealth. Contentment after all, isn't a matter of money."

Mr. Holden shook his head and added:

"Contentment, after all, consists in being perfectly satisfied with what you haven't got."

Hate on Phonographs

Hymns of hate on phonograph records are the latest wrinkle in the anti-foreign campaign being waged in China. Some of the records seized in a raid on a shop in the heart of the business district in the international settlement are said to have been manufactured by a Japanese concern. They were sung by a Chinese employed at the Great World, Shanghai's little Coney Island. They contained references to the shooting May 30 and were designed to stir up hatred against all foreigners, especially the British. The Japanese manufacturer will be haled into court before a Japanese assessor.

Christmas Greetings

At Christmas time we should all remember our friends and neighbors with some sort of greeting, let it be in person or in writing.

It is impossible for us to see you all before Christmas so thru the columns of this paper we are thanking you for all your hearty cooperation and for the interest you have shown in your creamery.

The year 1925 marks the greatest achievement of our creamery.

We have made an increase of 25 per cent over last year, and our greatest accomplishment is the improvement in quality, which our patrons took hold of in such a way that it will mean approximately $4000.00 more to be paid to the patrons than if we had continued in the old way.

Let us not forget our State Creameries' Association and the Land O' Lakes News and all they have done for us.

Let us strive to do still better than we have done, with this thot in mind: That there is no doubt but that the year 1926 will be better than the year we just passed.

Again thanking you one and all, we wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Middle River Dentist's Office Is Destroyed

While Dr. Snyder was over at Warren, at the home of his parents, where he spent Christmas, he had employed Kenneth Nelson to care for the fires in his office during his absence.

About nine o'clock Saturday morning Kenneth went over to start a fire, to have the office warm upon the doctor's return and in his haste took the gasoline can instead of the kerosene and saturated the kindling. Upon lighting it, it exploded. The boy dropped the can and ran, and it was but a few seconds and the interior of the room was all ablaze.

Kenneth was burned on the hands and face, but luckily none of them is of a serious nature, so we are informed.

Dr. Snyder returned from Warren about an hour later. He informs us that his equipment and all belongings are a total loss, partially covered by insurance.

The building was left intact due to the good work of the fire department.—Middle R. Record.

BANKERS HELP

The banks of Linn County Oregon, are showing more enthusiasm than ever this year in behalf of a county corn exhibit similar to that hold last year at the Linn County Fair. Last year's exhibit was the result of a contest for a prize offered by a number of local banks. This was so successful that this year ten out of the eleven banks in the county will subscribe to the effort.

The Agricultural Committee of the Alabama Bankers Association has recommended that a scholarship fund be established for the education of worthy young men and women along agricultural and home economics lines. It is estimated that if each bank in the state were to contribute 25 cents per thousand capital, five to six thousand dollars per annum would be realized.

The Agricultural Committee of the Oklahoma Bankers Association, in its report, recommends that the bankers see that a competent agent is appointed in each county and that he has a degree from some agricultural college. They believe that the agricultural possibilities of the state should be better advertised and that each county bankers' association should do some work along that line.

Searcy County Bankers Association, Arkansas, entertained as its guests recently some seventy-five farmers and business men. The result was the organization of the North Central Arkansas Agricultural Association. Its purpose will be to co-ordinate the efforts of the farmers and business men in promoting a better agriculture. Searcy County bankers are giving 100 settings of purebred eggs for distribution to the boys' and girls' clubs in the county.

H. S. Mowrer, chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the New Jersey Bankers Association, together with H. J. Baker, director of extension work in the College of Agriculture, made a complete tour of the state this spring, calling on the county agents and agricultural committees of the various county organizations to get a definite line-up on the work done and the plans for the coming year. Ways and means for furthering the program of the state committee were considered at these conferences.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON "GOLD BONDS"

"Before I go to the bank to ask advice about investing the money mother left me, I wish you would tell me something more about bonds," said Helen to Aunt Emmy. "Am I right in thinking that gold bonds are absolutely safe? Are gold bonds what people mean by gilt edge securities?"

"What a child it is!" laughed Aunt Emmy. "I can see that you do need to learn something about bonds. The term 'gold bond' does not have anything to do with the term 'gilt-edged security.' The latter is nothing more than a commonly used phrase that means a safe security. Companies that issue gold bonds usually agree to redeem them in United States gold coin of the weight and fineness of the gold coin issued by the United States Treasury at the time the bonds are put on the market. This is done in order to protect the bondholders from the very remote possibility of a radical change in the value of United States currency, such as, for example, the changes in the values of German and other European currencies as a result of the war. While such a thing is unlikely to occur in this country, financiers always try to guard against every possible trouble. Although a bond may be payable in gold it is unnecessary to demand payment in actual gold coin since our American money is on a gold basis anyhow and our good old paper dollars have exactly the same value as golden dollars.

"But you want to bear in mind one thing. Because you buy a so-called 'gold bond,' that does not mean that the bond is secured by gold in any way, or that it is stronger than any other bond. The strength of a bond lies simply and only in the ability of the company that issues it to pay its debts. And of course you should consider the value of the property pledged or mortgaged to secure the bond, if any property is given as security."

"Dear me, Aunt Emmy," exclaimed Helen. "I never realized how much one needs to know before investing one's money. In my case it's awfully important not to have a loss, because although I have only a tiny amount of money it is all I have in the world. How can I ever learn to tell what is good from what is bad?"

"I am not sure you ever can rely on your own judgment, my dear," smiled Aunt Emmy, "but if you will be guided by your bank, you needn't worry."—A. B. Aymes.

BANKERS HELP

A bank in Monrovia, Ind., tests seed corn for farmers. A basement room was fitted out last season for the purpose and 25,000 ears were tested for fifty-six farmers. One-fourth of the seed tested last year was unfit for seed. This year the percentage will run even higher. The work is done under the supervision of the high school agricultural teacher. He reports that the community will have a surplus of seed corn this year.

The banks of Conway, Ark., have offered prizes for the most marketable sweet potatoes produced on one acre of land. A first prize of $150 is offered, along with three district prizes of $50 each. The county agent and the banks are working out the details.

Topics to Talk About

Our idea of a good joke is a person with water on the brain and wine in the cellar preaching prohibition.

If you are looking for long, windy articles that are pointless and dull, in the Holt Weekly News, you will be disappointed, for everything we publish has a meaning of some value. In other words, we have more quality than quantity. In quality we trust.

They are making a new kind of liquor down in Kentucky which is neither moonshine nor mountain dew but is a kill-quick. It is composed of water, lye, poison ivy, and tobacco juice. One swallow will peel your tongue and make it protrude. Safety lies in resisting the temptation to take a drink.—Badger Herald-Rustler.

"Irreverent shears are never laid upon the President's home town paper. That is the greatest newspaper, the most important newspaper that comes to the White House, and the President wants it all."—Tomahawk, Wisconsin, Leader.

The population of every great city is largely made up of men and women from small towns. Many of them are never weaned away from the old home surroundings and they read the home town paper from the first paragraph to the last. That is the reason the rural papers of America have such a far-reaching influence, in safeguarding the ideals and traditions of our constitutional form of government and what it stand for.

There is one man in Holt, at least, who believes absolutely in the power of advertising. He was handing ye editor some hot ones on Tuesday night in Carlson's store in the presence of A. L. Carlson and Marvin Sandberg. We mention these details so you will be able to establish his identity. The discussion of the evening concerned HAY, no doubt arising from the article we published last week.

You will remember that the gist of the article was Sam Moore of Graceton, up near Williams, shipped a carload of hay to Chicago, and had to pay 68 cents out of his own pocket, besides getting nothing for the hay and the time and labor he spent in putting it up and baling it.

Well, the gentleman aforementioned who abused us in the presence of the aforesaid witnesses was mad because he thot that said article of Sam Moore made him lose $200 on some hay said gentlenan owns. "Forsooth," quoth he, "Know ye the results of this blankety-blank advertising in this dashety-banged paper of thine? My subscription to it expired January 1 1926 and you can shove it (you know where) as I don't want to read it any more. Ye farmers will now think that they will be doing me a favor by taking the hay off my land, so I will be able to cut my next year's crop and get it sold before ye editor finds out about it."

Thank you, sir, for the lemons you have handed us. We are pleased. We know now that you believe in the power of advertising, or you would not think that an article telling about the sales of hay in Chicago would hurt the sales of your hay in Holt.

Three cheers to the power of Advertising!

"Newfolden will now have a bank with Resources of over $300,000 and a Capital Stock of $20,000, held almost entirely by local farmers, merchants, bankers and others...."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

PLAYING THE GAME

IF WE could see ourselves as others see us, look upon our rude manners, our derelictions and aspirations with the same cold, fault-finding eye employed by our critics in measuring our frailties, what a sorry picture would confront us each morning as we gaze in the mirror!

The graceful curves about our mouth and the various excellences we intuitively glimpse in our heart would be surely distorted into monstrous disfigurements which would cause us to gasp in amazement at our reflection.

Perhaps it is better for our peace of mind and our temporal happiness that this cannot be done.

For if we could observe our distorted selves clearly, we might lose hope in playing the game of life and become even more displeasing to others than we are now, and perchance, add to our already formidable list of delinquencies still another more appalling than the original.

In spite of our long schooling in the doctrines of spiritual life and morality, there cling to us many traits of our barbarian ancestors, which crop out quite unexpectedly and make us, in our reflective moments, thoroughly ashamed of ourselves.

We cannot wash out the spots of the leopard or yet control fully our animal nature, though the good within us fights unceasingly for mastery.

Between doubt and hope, the faithful soul plays the game gallantly up to the final moment of success or failure.

To play the game rightly is to discontinue covetousness, piracy of our neighbor's character and indulge in unworthy thoughts and deeds, an exceedingly difficult course for the saint or the sinner, but not impossible, otherwise life and effort in the flesh would be of no avail.

As likely as not you have often been tempted to withdraw from the game and wait a more propitious season, falling back in discouragement.

And then in a sudden veer of the wind, which fanned the dying spark of faith within you into a glorious flame, changed your mind, stripped yourself of doubt and won, giving faith the credit for your splendid victory.

The Hotel Stenographer

By Roe Fulkerson

"I'M DONE," cried the Hotel Stenographer.

"Huh?" said the House Detective.

"The next time I see that Denny Haloran, I won't," snapped the girl "A guy who stands me up never has another chance. My Uncle Patrick used to say that the first time a dog bites you it's the dog's fault and the second time he bites you it's your own fault.

"He made a date to take me to the 'movies' last night. He said at the dance at Harmony hall last week that he would come around at eight and we could catch a nine o'clock show and I could pick the place.

"I forgot all about it and made another date with a fair-headed boy I met after church last Sunday. He wanted to come and take me to a dance and I told him I would go with him last night.

"I was putting on my glad young clothes to go to the dance with him when I remembered I had the date with Denny. I didn't know the new guy's last name or how to get him on the telephone. There was only one thing to do and I did it.

"I waited to see which one would come first. The new boy showed up early. I did not get out of my chair when he came in and told him I had sprained my ankle so we could not go to the dance, and he would have to sit it out at home or go to the shindig by himself. He pretended to be glad and sat down to chat and hold my hand, me expecting Denny any minute. That's all the good it did me. I sat anxiously for two hours and Denny never showed up. He forgot his date with me. That's one thing no gentleman ever does. If he does not care enough about me to remember when he is dated up with me, I am through with him forever. He's got no more chance than a goldfish in a wrestling match."

UNDER THE COLD

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

UNDER the cold the roses,
Under the snow the grass—
More than a man supposes
Who carelessly may pass.
Under the winter's chill are things
Of green and yellow that are the spring's.

So, let us go on smiling,
We who can smile through tears,
Sorrows of men beguiling,
Though through the weary years
Under the snow men's hearts may hide,
Showing us only their wintry side.

For I am sure forever,
Though they may scoff at song,
Even the very clever
Under the ice may long
For tear-wet daisies, for heart-blown flowers,
For some of the spring that is always ours.

So, let us go on singing,
Even though men disdain,
Into life's silence flinging
Some little glad refrain—
Under the snow perhaps somewhere
A soul may hear, or a heart may care.

There is very little difference between one man and another, but that little is very important.

It is a greater compliment to be trusted than to be loved.

HINTS AND GOOD THINGS

DELIGHTFUL little cakes may be decorated with animal crackers dipped in fondant chocolate. Gingerbread men—who ever grows too old to enjoy them?

Add a few drops of lemon juice to boiled rice; it improves the flavor as well as its appearance.

A plain cooky foundation may be used for dozens of small cakes. Nuts, raisins, spices and seeds, cocoa and chocolate all may be used in various ways. The way cookies are shaped makes them more alluring even to grown-ups.

Plain Cookies.

Take one-half cupful of fat, one cupful of sugar, one-fourth cupful of milk, one egg, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, flavor to taste and add two cupfuls of flour. This recipe is best doubled for most families. Mix and let stand on ice to chill. This helps to roll them out, taking less flour.

Broiled Parsnips.

Wash and scrape parsnips and cook until tender in boiling salted water. When cold cut in halves, spread with melted butter and broil.

Prussian Rocks.

Cream two-thirds of a cupful of butter, add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar and three well-beaten eggs. Sift three cupfuls of flour with one-half teaspoonful each of soda, clove, cinnamon and one-fourth teaspoonful of nutmeg; add one-half pound of raisins and the same of walnut meats cut fine, to the flour mixture; alternate with one-half cupful of milk. Beat well and drop by spoonfuls on a buttered baking sheet. These cookies are better a week old.

Serve plain ice cream with a hot maple chocolate sauce, using nuts for a garnish. Such a dessert is rich and satisfying and not difficult to serve.

WHO SAID

"In buying a house, and taking a wife, shut your eyes and commend yourself to God."

THERE is nothing recorded in the life of Charles Pinot Duclos, the author of these words, to indicate that there was in his life the elements of marital unhappiness which would justify the cynicism he voices.

Duclos had a varied life and he has left his name on the roll of fame in many capacities.

As a historian he is entitled to be remembered as the author of the ingenious "History of Louis XI" and the "Secret Memoirs on the Reign of Louis XIV."

As a philologist he published some exceedingly interesting studies in the French and Celtic languages which have proved of great value in the world of letters.

As a novelist and wit he has left some excellent examples of his work. In this connection his autobiography cannot be overlooked, for it is both an interesting example of an excellent style and a human document enlivened by much of the author's native humor.

During his life Duclos won the approval of the French Academy and was rewarded by being made perpetual secretary of that body. His aid in revising the Dictionnaire of the Academy was one of the contributing causes to his being thus honored.

Duclos' death occurred in France in the year 1772 when he was sixty-eight.—Wayne D. McMurray.

Advertising Pays

Advertising pays to a startling degree. The wares of the merchant who fails to advertise lie on his shelves collecting dust, consuming his capital to ultimate bankruptcy—likewise the man who fails to draw attention to himself by using his brain power is allowing his intellectual wares to become cobwebbed with uselessness, and is headed for mental bankruptcy.—Cleveland Trust Monthly.

CORN STATES TO STUDY RELIEF

Plans for Parley of 11 States are Formulated at 'All Iowa' Marketing Meeting.

Des Moines, Iowa—Governor Hammill of Iowa expects to call a corn belt farm relief conference to unite the farmers of 11 middle western states back of a program of immediate relief for agriculture. Plans for this conference, and an insistence upon a farm products export corporation were among the principal measures adopted at the "All Iowa" marketing conference here under the auspices of the Iowa Bankers' association.

General Suggestions Adopted.

Among suggestions adopted at the conference were:

Indorsement of a farm products export corporation.

A resolution asking for legislation to enable the farmer to sell his products at a fair profit, that is, obtain prices for farm products comparable with the prices the farmer pays for the things he buys which are tariff protected.

Appointment of an advisory committee by Governor John Hammill to call a corn belt conference of representatives from 11 states, within 30 days.

Organization of a federal agricultural board to assist agricultural areas in co-operative marketing of their products.

Iowa's entire congressional delegation spoke in favor of the "principle of the McNary-Haugen bill" as Senator A. B. Cummins expressed it. Others, especially Senator Smith W. Brookhart and E. T. Meredith, former secretary of agriculture, advocated, in addition, a price-fixing federal farm board.

Cold Wave Sweeps Nation.

Minneapolis — Sweeping down through 20 states, the winter's first general cold wave gripped the nation, from North Dakota to Alabama, with temperatures of from 5 to 30 degrees below zero reported generally. Twelve persons died from the cold at Chicago, while at Alexandria, Va., five firemen were injured fighting a fire from an ice-covered roof. All the way from Washington, D. C., to Jackson, Miss., and from Winnipeg to New York, frigid temperatures, deaths from cold and exposure, interrupted bus, rail and wire service, appeals for clothing and fuel, were recorded.

Chinese General is Killed.

Peking—General Hsu Shu Cheng, known as "Little Hsu," was shot on the railway station platform at Langfang. The assassin, self proclaimed in a countrywide manifesto, was Lu Cheng Wu, a captain in the Kuominchun (national peoples army), and son of General Lu Chien Chang, whom Little Hsu shot in Lu's garden at Tientsin while a dinner guest there in 1918. Captain Lu, who apparently has not been arrested, declared his act was in revenge for his father's murder.

Utah Sugar Plant Burns

Spanish Fork, Utah—Fire destroyed the warehouse of the Utah-Idaho Sugar Co. here, causing a loss estimated by officials of the company at $800,000. The warehouse contained 123,000 sacks of sugar, which will be a total loss

Butler's Successor On Job.

Philadelphia — Christmas brought no surcease to the rigid law enforcement in Philadelphia that marked the two years of General Smedley Butler's reign, as director of public safety. Forty raids within the holiday was the mark Director George W. Elliott, General Butler's successor.

Possibly Oldest Book

Among books coming to the Congressional library for the Korean collection are five out of the ten forming the Buddhistic treatise, "Ri Nyon Mi Ta to Ch'ng Cham Pep," translated by Bunyin Nanjio, as "Rules for Confession in the Temple of the Merciful and Compassionate One." The work is printed on Korean mulberry paper from wooden blocks cut in the second year of the Chin (Tartar) Emperor Ch'ung Ch'ing, 1213 A. D. It is possibly the oldest printed book in the Library of Congress.

EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS

We all enjoy an occasional unusual dish, but the most of humanity like common things well cooked; if we can be ingenious enough to serve and garnish them that they appear unusual, the more honor to the cook.

Boiled Dinner.—A well-seasoned kettle of boiled dinner is a dish fit to set before the king or queen either. As tastes vary so in regard to flavors, one must use judgment in cooking a boiled dinner. One New England housewife, famous for her cooking, never prepared a boiled dinner without slipping in a salt sack of beans—the cranberry variety—to serve with the dinner. They are so well seasoned with the vegetables and meat that they are especially tasty.

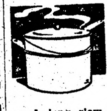
The kind of meat one likes with a boiled dinner will determine the flavor of the whole. Most people like a nice fat piece of corn beef together with a good-sized piece of fresh pork, fat and lean; others prefer salt pork or pigs' feet with salt pork. At any rate enough meat of whatever kind should be started to cook an hour or two before the vegetables are added; this gives a quantity of broth all flavored ready to begin seasoning the vegetables as soon as they are put in. Cabbage, rutabagas, carrots, parsnips, onions and beets cooked by themselves are added to the platter when serving.

Suet Pudding.—Take one cupful of suet, molasses and sour milk, three and one-half cupfuls of flour, two eggs and one cupful of dried fruit. Add a teaspoonful of soda and spices to taste. Steam two hours and serve with:

Egg Sauce.—Beat two eggs until light, add one cupful of powdered sugar, a teaspoonful of vanilla or lemon extract and three tablespoonfuls of any fruit juice to suit the taste. Beat up and serve with any steamed pudding.

Beet Relish.—This may be made any time when fresh beets are good. To one quart of chopped beets which have been cooked until tender, add one quart of chopped cabbage, one cupful of grated horseradish, one cupful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of cayenne pepper, and salt to taste; cover with cold vinegar.

Food for Everybody.



Use the whole wheat right from the granary when obtainable. Wash it, soak it over night, then cook on the back part of the range all day if necessary, or until it becomes a soft gelatinous mass. A fireless cooker is a fine place to cook food which needs long, slow cooking. This wheat when served with a little top milk is the best possible food for the youngsters just going to school. Kept in a cool place the wheat may be served two or three times a week and children like it once they have eaten it.

This is the season when steamed puddings and rich sauces are more frequently used. The following is a simple pudding and easy to prepare:

Suet Pudding.—Take three cupfuls of bread, one cupful each of sugar and suet, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, the same of cloves; one cupful each of raisins and milk. Mix thoroughly, adding a bit of grated orange peel and a little grated nutmeg. Steam three hours. Serve with:

Pudding Sauce.—Mix one tablespoonful of flour with one cupful of sugar, add a little cold water, then one cupful of boiling water; cook five minutes, add one-half teaspoonful of grated lemon rind, one teaspoonful of lemon extract, one-fourth teaspoonful of nutmegs, ten drops of ginger or half a teaspoonful of dry ginger, pour over one-half cupful of creamed butter.

Graham Pudding.—Beat one egg, add three-fourths of a cupful of sweet milk, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-half cupful of graham flour, one teaspoonful of soda, one-half cupful of molasses and one cupful of raisins. Steam two and one-half hours. For the sauce beat the yolks of two eggs, add one-half cupful of sugar, heat in a double boiler; when sugar is dissolved add the beaten whites and serve.

Luncheon Dish.—A few cans of sardines on hand will be found a help in an emergency. For a nice supper or luncheon dish, heat the sardines in a hot frying pan and serve on buttered toast. Serve with raw chopped onion for a relish.

A huge platter of boiled dinner artistically arranged as to color, is an ornament to any dinner table.

Is Winter Time Your Backache Time?

Does Your Back Foretell Every Change of the Weather? Do You Feel Old and Stiff and Suffer Sharp, Rheumatic Pains?

Then Look to Your Kidneys!

DOES every cold, chill or attack of grip leave you lame, stiff and achy? Are you nervous and depressed; feel tired, worn out and miserable? Does your back throb and ache until it seems you just can't keep going?

Then look to your kidneys! Colds and chills throw a heavy strain on the kidneys. They overload the blood with impurities that the kidneys have to filter off. The kidneys are apt to weaken under this rush of new work, become congested and inflamed.

It's little wonder, then, that every cold finds so many folks suffering with torturing backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and annoying kidney irregularities.

If this is the case with you, don't risk neglect! Help your weakened kidneys with a stimulant diuretic. Begin using Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. Local users testify to their worth. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Good People:

A. F. RIVE, farmer, Bottineau, N. D., says: "I was bothered by an irregular condition of my kidneys, that came on when I caught a cold that settled in my back and kidneys. Then my back was lame and achy and hurt, too, when I stooped over or lifted anything. Doan's Pills have always cured me of these attacks."

MRS. G. C. McALESTER, Cando, N. D., says: "I have had more or less trouble with my kidneys for a long time. My back ached and was so lame I could hardly straighten. Sometimes when doing my work about the house I became dizzy and I could hardly see across the room. When these attacks come on, I get Doan's Pills and they always fix me up."

The Refuge

Cortlandt Bleecker said in New York the other day:

"The recent avalanche of divorces—the Valentino divorce, the Widener-Leidy divorce, the Gloria Gould divorce, and so on—make one think there must be something in the widower's remark:

"A widower turned up at his club one night and another member said to him:

"'We've missed you, George. Yes, we've missed you dreadfully. You haven't been near the place since your wife died.'

"'Yes,' said the widower, with a smile. 'Yes, I know. But don't worry, I shall marry again.'"

Evidences of Santa Claus

A group of youngsters of tender years were discussing the probability of Santa Claus.

"Well, I know there is a Santa because on Christmas morning I saw his footprints in the ashes in our fireplace," one held forth as sure proof.

"Huh, I know Santa Claus came to our house, 'cause I saw a toy he drooped in our fireplace just as he started to go up the chimney," said another.

"There is, too, a Santa Claus, 'cause last Christmas he ate a banana at our house and I saw the peeling on our library table when I got up," piped a future President.

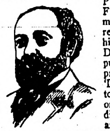
A Farmer Boy's Success



From hard work on a farm to the study of medicine was the course Dr. Pierce pursued. Finally he determined to put up in ready-to-use form his 'Golden Medical Discovery' so the public could easily procure it. This 'Discovery' is a tonic in its effects on the stomach and digestive apparatus; an alterative in its action on the blood, liver and skin. It increases the appetite, stimulates the digestion, enriches the blood, and makes both men and women feel as they did when they were young.

Thousands of people who are sufferers from constipation do not become aware of it until they seek out the cause of their frequent headaches.

"Those bilious headaches can be prevented"

"I know how agonizing they are. For years I was a chronic sufferer.

"And the headaches were not the worst part of it. The strong drugs I used to take to relieve the pain upset my stomach and slowly but surely undermined my general health.

"Finally I found out that my headaches were due to constipation. My doctor advised Nujol. After taking it regularly a few weeks the trouble disappeared.

"Since then I have never had another headache. There is no reason why I should, for the cause has been corrected."

Nujol Corrects Constipation in Nature's Way

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. Nujol simply softens the waste matter and thus permits regular and thorough elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is gentle, safe and natural in its action.

You can take Nujol for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and begin to enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when elimination is normal and regular.

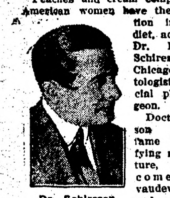
Be a Milk Tippler, Says Dr. Schireson



Dr. Schireson.

Peaches and cream complexions of American women have their foundation in a milk diet, according to Dr. Henry J. Schireson, famous Chicago dermatologist and facial plastic surgeon.

Doctor Schireson has won fame by beautifying motion picture, musical comedy and vaudeville stars and many society women of America. He transformed Fanny Brice's nose, rejuvenated Eva Tanguay's face, removed sixty-four pounds of adipose tissue from Truly Shattuck in one operation, straightened the cross eyes of the leading lady of Singer's midgets, and has performed other corrections for making people young and beautiful.

Doctor Schireson has one infallible prescription for the attainment of beauty. It is: "One quart of milk a day, one hour of sunshine, and repeat ad libitum."

"Beauty specialists and cosmetic makers," says Doctor Schireson, "would be driven out of business in a few weeks if all the women of America would drink their quart of milk a day.

"Babies and children have complexions of angels for the reason that they are fed largely on milk. Milk used externally or internally is a beautifier. Anna Held, I believe, was the first actress who adopted the milk bath. While this was a novelty at the time, and her press agent undoubtedly made the most of it, the principle in itself was sound. But a beauty secret of even more value is the daily quart of milk taken as a part of the diet.

"The milk-fed girl is easily distinguished by the velvety texture and the healthy color of her skin. Milk is a wonderful body builder, because it contains every structural element. It is, in a way, an elixir of life.

"Authorities agree that milk is the most nearly perfect food but it is an extremely delicate one as well. Heat sufficient to kill all bacteria is the essential of absolutely pure and sterile milk. One of the advantages of evaporated milk, which is simply fresh cow's milk with sixty per cent of the water removed, is that it is entirely sterile and is more easily assimilated than ordinary market milk.

"Milk is mentioned forty-seven times in the Bible. The Promised Land of the Israelites was said to flow 'with milk and honey' and Ovid graded milk as second only to nectar, the drink of the gods."

You will notice in your Land O' Lakes magazine what kind of cream is required to make a Land O' Lakes butter. Our patrons have done very well in complying with these rules, for which I assure you means a great deal to me and more to you since it comes back to you in the form of money, however, there is one requirment that might seem of little importance to the average patron and that is the test. Cream should test not less than 27 per cent to comply with the rules and if you have haven't already tried to raise your test in accord with these rules it is my wish that you will do so. High testing cream has a much better flavor than thin cream say nothing about all other points in its favor.

Dear Editor:

The last letter I sent you was from Los Angeles. Los Angeles is quite a big city. They are claiming a population of 1,500,000. The traffic of this city is a little faster than that of any other city I have seen. At street intersections where they have no traffic cops a person is almost running the risk of his life crossing the streets, so the safest way for a stranger is to take a taxicab.

We took one of them to the Pacific Electric station. This station is one of the finest and best equipped for handling passengers that I have ever seen. We took the first train out of there to Long Beach. The population of this city is estimated at 135,000. There is one thing that I must say about this town and that is that it is much cleaner than any town in the East on account of their using natural gas for fuel. There is no smoke arising from them at all, not even in the early morning.

Long Beach is more of a tourist town than anything else. And on that account they are suffering a little this year because a lot of the traffic goes to Florida. Therefore there are many apartments and cottages vacant this winter.

Next in importance comes the oil industry. Mostly all of the hills outside of town are dotted with derricks. On some of the hills they are so thick that they look like a heavy growth of timber and at night they look like lighted Christmas trees.

The first Sunday we spent at Long Beach Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kurtz (Mrs. Kurtz is my sister) took us out for a ride in their Essex sedan. Oscar calls it "Isaak". We filled Isaak up with gas, took a lunch along, and started out in a south-eastern direction thru the best section of orange, lemon, walnut, and grape orchards of southern California. The principal towns in thru there are Santa Ana and Orange. We crossed Santa Ana mountain and rode down into Corona and Riverside. At Riverside we took a snapshot of the Valencia orange tree, of which all the Valencia orange trees have been grown from graftings from this tree or its decendants. From Riverside we went back thru Ontario and Pomona and made a circle around Hollywood thru Pasadena. Hollywood is the part of Los Angeles which touches the beach at Santa Monica. From there we followed the beach home.

When we got home Isaak registered 196 miles for that day. Every foot of the roads we were on that day were either paved or macadamized.

Long Beach has one of the finest beaches I have ever seen. A lot of money is spent to entertain tourists. They have a band here that gives a free concert every day in the beach auditorium. And they are giving a free dance twice a week, dancing the old time square dances. Older people from middle age to 85 years are the ones who usually attend these dances. I have seen as many as 100 couples on the floor at the same time.

I have been at this place nearly a month now and in this length of time we have had three pretty good rain showers. The rest of the time it has been clear altho it is sometimes cloudy in the mornings. The temperature ranges from 50 to 80 degrees. Christmas day it registered 84 above at San Diego.

The peculiar thing about this country is that every river is dry along this coast as far up as I have been. There is plenty water, but it is used up for irrigation purposes before it ever reaches the ocean.

The only thing against this country is that it is too dry. The only trees that can be grown without being watered are the palms, the Eucalintis, the pepper, and Cypress trees. These trees are planted along the highways and they become a perfect shade to the pavement after they get old enough. And they grow very fast, (as there is practically no resting season for them.

The principal crops raised here are lemons, oranges, grapes, walnuts, persimmons, and olives. The biggest orchards are located in the valleys back of the hills. Those fruit ranches are awful valuable, being worth all the way from $15,000 to $100,000 for a ten-acre ranch, according to location.

There is only one thing that I am going to say right now. That is that it is no use to come out here to settle down unless a man has lots of money. You are buying the climate here, not the soil.

I have been spending most of the time at the beach. The amusement down there is on about the same order as the county fair in the East, only on a bigger scale. You meet people here from every state in the Union but most of them seem to be from the state of Iowa. There are a lot of people who come here for their health, taking to salt water and sun baths, and they are laying around in their bathing suits all day long, along the concrete walls, rolling about in the sand.

I like Long Beach so well that I hate to leave it, but I have 1,500 miles yet to travel along this coast before I reach Seattle, so in order to learn more about this country I will leave here the first of the year.

Yours truly,
G. P. SORTER.

Middle R. Record Got County Printing

[From the Warren Register.]

It is proverbial that if you want to find some government agency that is always playing politics, just fix your eyes on the average county board. They are past masters at the game, or try to be. The Marshall county board contains several politicians of more or less astuteness. This morning, just before its adjournment, the board brought the temporary publisher of the Middle River Record to Warren and handed him the county printing on a silver platter. Editor Schuster had in writing made himself a party to the combination bid that had been submitted by the Warren Sheaf, and his double-crossing in the matter is hardly in accordance with the ethics that should govern the conduct of members of the profession in their dealings with each other. Anyway, a man's word should be as good as his bond and when he makes a promise he should keep it.

But Editor Schuster is not alone to blame in this matter. He was weak; he was tempted, and he fell. After the Sheaf's bid had been opened and read (it was the only bid on file at the time set for the consideration of bids for the county printing), it was laid aside "temporarily" without being either accepted or rejected, with the understanding that it would be acted upon at this morning's session. Then, without any notice to said bidder, or to any of the other publishers of the county so far as we have been able to learn, a certain member of the board got Schuster on the phone and prevailed upon him to submit a competing bid. The irregularity of this proceeding is patent. Only one call for bids had been made, and the Sheaf's bid was the only one submitted in response to that call. The successful bid was not offered in response to such call and was only put in after, it is evident. Schuster had been assured of its acceptance.

The board may attempt to justify its action on the ground that it is saving the county money. It may save $200 to $250 during the year, but, as Schuster's bid on first insertion of the financial statement was only 11 per cent below the combination bid and his bid on the delinquent tax list only 3 cents per description lower, with no reduction whatever for publication of board proceedings or second and third insertion of financial statement, the saving is too small to talk about, especially when one considers the loss in service from what the county has been receiving with the chief publications circulated by every paper in the county. The inconveniences to the county auditor's office and to the public generally, in the handling of the county's printing so far away from the county seat is also a matter of no little importance.

Just now some of the members of the board are posing as trust-busters. It is to laugh! What the county demands, and should have, and what the law contemplates its receiving, is service, and service is what the board is not giving the county by putting thru this printing deal.

And what shall be said of the members of the board who induced Mr. Schuster to break his word?

LONG FREIGHT TRAIN PASSES THROUGH HOLT

The longest freight train that has ever passed thru Holt on the G. N. Ry. went thru here Saturday. The train consisted of 43 cars—42 loads and one empty. This shows that business is picking up for somebody.

The men's team of Holt motored over to Argyle Wednesday night and engaged the men's team of that village in a basketball game, coming out on the short end of a 11-18 score.

The school board of the local public school motored over to Newfolden Wednesday afternoon to meet with the school authorities there for the purpose of getting information on making this school state-accredited.

Our principal, Arthur Hudson, accompanied them.

Skoglund, Andrew Hanson, and Louis Wegge won 2d and 3d prizes consiting of various articles which were donated by the Holt merchants.

WE ARE GETTING WISER EVERY DAY

We were shocked to learn that we had one traitor in our profession. We always thot that politics in the newspaper game was confined to the big city dailies. Now we know different.

In Memoriam

On December 27th, 1925, at 10:30 p.m., Mrs. John P. Swanson died at her home one mile south of Steiner from a severe attack of pneumonia contracted a few days before, and with the best of care and medical skill her life could not be saved. She was laid to rest in the Greenwood cemetery, Thief River Falls, December 30, 1925.

Deceased was born in Sweden in 1851, came to Kandiyohi county, Minnesota in 1878, and was united in marriage theer to John P. Swanson. In November, 1882, they moved to the homestead where they have resided ever since.

Here they have reared 11 children, five boys and six girls. One girl, Hilda, died in 1921. Mrs. Swanson's death has left a vacancy in the home, the community, and the Augustana Lutheran church, of which she was one of the original charter members when the Park Ridge congregation was organized in 1887.

She was not born at a time when the poorest classes could get the schooling they wanted and needed, but she was born with an ambition to do what was right, and do it the best she knew how. With this ambition she endured many trials and hardships in the early days, and lived to enjoy a fine home, and see her children prosperous and an honor to the communities where they reside. Many of those who were fed and sheltered in her home have passed to the great beyond but those who are left can still remember her cheerful nature. She lived and worked for her children and home, always ready and willing to help her neighbors and friends. She was faithful to her church. She did not live in vain. She is gone but not forgotten. P.B.M.

Steiner, Minn., Dec. 31, 1925.

S. E. Reierson Taking U. Short Course

S. E. Reierson of this village is at University Farm, St. Paul, attending a six weeks' short course of the University's Dairy School for beginners in creamery operation. Sixty-two of 90 men applying for the course were accepted as students, experiance having shown that the best results are obtained with groups of from 50 to 60.

Instruction is given daily in all phases of creamery operation, including bookkeeping, creamery arithmetic, operation of engines and motors, beld lacing, soldering and general repair work.

This is the third and last course of the Dairy School for the fall and winter of 1925-'6. W. B. Combs of the dairy division at University Farm is in personal charge of the work.

It is said that anyone can forgive and forget but who can do that with our present board of county commissioners?

THOUSANDS FLEE IN RHINE FLOOD

Many Trapped in Homes, Factories Submerged, Many Jobless, Trains Held Up.

London—The whole of western Europe has been involved in disastrous floods. In estimable havoc has been worked in Holland, France, Belgium, Germany and England. The Rhine rose to a higher level than at any time since the year 1784. Holland and Belgium seem to be in an almost equally pitiable condition as a result. The pressure of the rising waters has burst dykes in Holland, involving heavy public cost for repairs when the floods subside, in addition to untold misery and material loss to the inhabitants. The sovereigns of both Belgium and Holland are touring the devastated districts and doing their utmost to relieve the sufferings of the people. At Liege alone, 8,000 houses are under water, and other cities are seriously threatened.

In Holland a broken dyke cut the railway between Venloo and Nymwegen. Queen Wilhelmina toured the Venloo district and then went to Maestrict. The water there is nearly a foot higher than in the terrible flood year of 1880. Altogether over 250,000 workers will be thrown out of employment for a long period by the inundation of numerous factories and the flooding of coal mines near Liége.

Forbes Loses Legal Decision.

Chicago—Colonel Charles R. Fobes, former director of the United States Veterans Bureau, lost his appeal from conviction of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with contracts for hospitals for disabled soldiers. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the conviction in the District Court. John W. Thompson, wealthy St. Louis contractor, who was found guilty with Forbes, appealed with Forbes and both must go to prison unless they appeal to the United States Supreme Court and obtain a stay of sentence to prevent their removal to Leavenworth penitentiary. Federal Judge George Carpenter, before whom they were tried, sentenced each to prison for two years and in addition fined them $10,000 each.

Stand Collapses; 135 Are Hurt

Passadena, Calif.—A day of roses and joy ended in sorrow for 235 persons who were precipitated into a tangled mass of wreckage when a temporary private grandstand collapsed during the parade of the Tournament of Roses. More than 30 cases of serious injuries were treated in the operation room of the Paasdena hospital and 200 others received treatment. Of these 100 left after first aid and went to their homes. A few blocks distant from the secene of the tragedy, a woman fell from the top of a building while viewing the parade and was killed. Mrs. Caroline Sherman, 35 years old, of Long Beach, Calif., died of cerebral hemorrhage caused by the shock of witnessing the stand's collapse.

42 Killed In Mine Blast

Eagle Pass, Texas—Forty-two bodies have been brought out of a Mexican national railway coal mine at Palan, state of Coahuila, where an explosion occurred. News of the disaster reached here by courier and last reports were that other dead probably were in the mine. A score of miners seriously injured have been accounted for. The blast is believed to have been caused by the breaking of a miner's safety lamp, which ignited gas in the mine. Palan is about 85 miles from Eagle Pass.

Polar Photographer Selected

Detroit—The Detroit Arctic expedition announced that Earl Rossman, the American explorer-photographer, will make a pictorial history of the expedition's movements from the time Captain George H. Wilkins and his associates leave Detroit until they finish their work on the Alaskan side of the Polar sea. All the mechanics came from Detroit's automobile factories. Several offered to work 12 hours a day on the Liberty engine and the three air-cooled Wright engines with which the Fokker planes will be motored.

Thieves Loot U. S. Warehouse

Westminster, Md. — A band of thieves said to have numbered at least 50 men broke into the government liquor warehouse of the Industrial Grain Products corporation at Tannery, four miles from here, bound three guards and four other men in the building and hauled away a cargo of approximately 100 barrels of whisky. The liquor was valued at $80,000 by the warehouse manager.

GEORGE W. ELLIOTT

George W. Elliott, assistant director of public safety in Philadelphia, slated to succeed General Butler as director of public safety.

Naval Court Finds Shenandoah's Destruction is Blameless

Washington—The Shenandoah disaster, which cost the lives of Lieutenant-Commander Lansdowne and 13 other officers and men, is "part of the price that must inevitably be paid in the development of any new and hazardous act," according to the conclusion of the naval court of inquiry which investigated the accident. The report urged the navy department to give "most careful consideration" to recommendations that the development of lighter-than-air craft go forward. The big airship was wrecked by the storm which encompassed her, said the report; whether prior minor damage to the hull structure caused by excessive pressure in the helium gas sells was a determining factor in the final breakup, the court war "unable definitely to determine."

Coolidge Gets Air Program

Washington — The administration's program to encourage commercial aviation was brought into more definite shape at a conference between President Coolidge and Secretary Hoover. The commerce secretary has advocated addition to his department of an assistant secretary who would be charged with administration of civil aeronautics, a proposal which was indorsed by President Coolidge in his recent message to congress, recommended by the President's air board, and provided for in the Bingham bill passed by the senate and the Parker bill pending in the house.

Rumania Accepts Boy Prince

Bucharest, Rumania—Crown Prince Carol is no longer heir to the throne. In his stead is his 4-year-old son, Prince Michael, whose mother is Princess Helen of Greece. Meanwhile a council has been created to take over the regency until Prince Michael is 18 years of age, to act in case of King Ferdinand's death. The national assembly passed a measure recognizing Prince Carol's renunciation and Prince Michael's succession rights by a vote of 234 to 3. The assembly also adopted a bill providing for the provisional regency.

White House Opened to Public

Washington—More than 3,000 men, women and children—3,130 to be exact flocked to the White House to shake hands with the President and Mrs. Coolidge, who received for nearly three hours in continuance of the New Year's custom established more than a century ago. A third of the crowd —high government officials, diplomats and others—were admitted by card.

Italy's Queen Mother Dies

Bordighera, Italy—Margherita, beloved queen mother of Italy, died at the royal castle here from pleural pneumonia. Her son, King Victor Emmanuel, and other members of the royal family were at the bedside when the end came, having been summoned when the sudden turn for the worse was first noted. The patient sank into a coma, from which, despite heroic efforts by her physilcans, she never emerged.

Fargo Fugitives Caught.

Fargo, N. D.—After slugging a deputy sheriff with a cast iron pipe, two prisoners escaped from the Cass county jail here, only to be recaptured at St. Cloud, Minn., several hours later. Whenching the pipe from the interior of their cell, the prisoners, Dale Carver, 21 years old, alleged robber, and James J. Jones, alleged abductor, attacked the deputy and made their escape.

Fletcher Fetes Americans in Rome.

Rome—Henry P. Fletcher, the American ambassador, and Mrs. Fletcher gave an informal New Year reception for the entire staff of the embassy and consulate and American newspaper correspondents.

21 STATES DEMAND NEW OCEAN ROUTE

Delegates of Middle West Are Informed of Need for Connection With Sea.

St. Paul—Governor Theodore Christianson, opening the Midwest's biggest offensive to obtain a deep waterway to the sea, sounded a warning to the east that the west will not longer tolerate a sectional resort to subterfuge to defeat its ambitions.

Economic conditions in the west, the Governor said, warrant taking a militant attitude to obtain construction of the $50,000,000 channel to the Atlantic.

Governor Christianson's challenge to opponents of the St. Lawrence deep waterway project was issued at the opening meeting of a two day congress of states of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association at a luncheon. Representatives of 21 states of the west, midwest and northwest and of Canada attended.

The St. Lawrence river holds the key to continued prosperity in the northwest, the delegates were told. The Panama canal marooned this section in the middle of a continent, while the rest of the nation has cheap water transportation. It is only through the tidewater project that this region can get the relief to which it is entitled, delegates said.

W. L. Harding, former governor of Iowa and Governor Christianson of Minnesota made strong appeals for the waterway in order to strengthen the northwest against transportation handicaps.

Tax Dodgers Fined $1,000,000

Washington—Agents of the internal revenue bureau rounded up a total of 13,671 income and miscellaneous tax delinquents and evaders during November, it was announced at the treasury department. From the dodgers and late payers the government collected $7,279,387 and assessed them more than $1,000,000 in fines. In many cases where the payers did not have the money due, warrants for distraint were taken out by the government and personal property was attached. Investigations showed that 11,593 persons in the roundup never made income tax returns and 8,105 delinquents had not filed miscellaneous tax returns.

Aviators Lost In Mexico

San Antonio, Texas—Two of four American army officers who went into Mexico last week on a hunting trip have been lost in a wild region, presumably between Nuevo Laredo and Rodriguez, state of Nuevo Laredo. The missing men are Lieutenant C. S. Thorpe of Brooks field army air training school near here, and Lieutenant Marion T. Pharr, fourth field artillery, Fort McIntosh, near Laredo, Texas.

Davis Calls Sport Parley

Washington—Secretary of War Davis made public invitations addressed to governors of all states asking them to name delegates to the second national outdoor recreation conference here January 20-21. The letter emphasized the desire of President Coolidge that the function of the conference should be "not an effort to federalize recreation at the expense of state interests but solely to effect co-ordination of common interests."

Trotzky Regains Bureau Seat

Moscow—The victory of Leon Trotzky, the former war commissar, and the defeat of L. B. Kameneff and G. Sokolnikov, were the most conspicuous features of elections for membership in the powerful political bureau of the Communist party, the highest directing organ of Soviet Russia.

Say Pershing's Recall Warranted.

Washington—Army medical reports on General Pershing's illness say that unless the general returns to the United States for treatment he may face permanent impairment of his health. General Pershing has been postponing his return in the belief that his work at Arica was more important than his health. President Coolidge, who alone has authority to order the general to return, is confronted with the probability of having such an order misinterpreted an as interruption in arrangements.

THE DAIRY

SEPARATOR CARE, QUITE IMPORTANT

Separating butterfat from the rest of the milk in a cream separator is a delicate process and lack of attention to details, which may seem unimportant, often causes considerable fat to be left in the skim milk, it is pointed out by A. L. Young of the University of Illinois. The manufacturer has done a commendable job in making a machine that will skim as accurately as does the modern separator when it is properly handled, and it should be given the sort of care that a high-class product deserves, he said.

In the operation of such a machine the little things count for more than when a machine of less refinement is being used. Consequently the experienced user will insist that the separator be kept level and fastened securely to a solid foundation, that all the bearings are lubricated with good separator oil, that all the old dirt and oil be cleaned out occasionally with gasoline or kerosene, that the machine be operated at the proper speed with the milk at the proper temperature, that the machine be washed thoroughly each time it is used and that it be protected from the dust and kept dry when it is not in use.

Too often the user fails to watch these points because even when the separator is sorely neglected it will continue to deliver a fairly good amount of cream at one spout and skim milk at the other. Users sometimes fail to realize that a separator which is even a little out of level or which has a bowl which vibrates or is partly clogged with dirt is very likely to send considerable butterfat out the wrong spout. To do good work a separator must be well built, run at the correct speed and kept in good running order.

Particular attention should be paid to the directions furnished with the machine. It should be remembered that delicate bearings operating at high speed will last a long time if they are properly cared for but that they are quickly ruined by dirt or lack of good oil when neglected.

Feed Tags Are Serious Menace to Dairy Stock

"The cow's death was due to a punctured stomach caused by a piece of wire taken in with the feed."

Altogether, one meets such items in the dairy papers too often. And, too often it is the good cows and the bulls that die in that way. If one has examined the contents of a cow's stomach, he will be surprised that more do not die from the same cause. Nails, wire, pieces of glass, screws and pins are not uncommon.

Every sack of feed that is sold must carry a license tag and in many cases these tags are attached with a hook-shaped wire that is economical from the feedman's view and dangerous for the feeder.

In opening and emptying the sacks, it is sometimes easy for the tags to become detached and they at once fall into the feed where they are lost in the mixing. The hook has a sharp point and a round loop. This gives it a shape that is particularly vicious in a cow's stomach and is often fatal. For that reason, it is best to remove the tag and hook before the bag of feed is opened so there is no chance for it to work off in the handling. Under any conditions, it is imperative that one use the utmost care to prevent loss from this cause.

Care at Calving Time

The cow that has just calved should receive no feed for the first 24 hours —unless it be a bran mash. Many successful dairymen offer only a bucket of slightly warmed water during the first day. Feeding should be gradually increased over a week's time, and if the cow is a heavy producer, she should not be on a full ration for two or three weeks. Better underfeed than overfeed at this time. Light laxative feeds will also tend to prevent swollen udders and loss of appetite. Wheat pasture or wet beet pulp are valuable feeds for that purpose. Silage containing much grain should not be fed at calving time.

Keep Out Bacteria

The udder and teats become contaminated when cows lie down. The movements of the udder during the milking process cause the particles of dirt to become loosened and fall into the milk. By keeping the udder and flanks well brushed, much of the loose hair and dirt are removed. In one trial the average number of bacteria in milk before the udder and flank were wiped with a damp cloth, was 7,058 bacteria per cubic centimeter. After being wiped the number was reduced to 716 or a decrease due to wiping of 6,342.

Dairy Notes

Quality, not quantity, is the important consideration in dairy farming.

* * *

Cleanliness is essential for the best results, for the cows when in the barn will not thrive in filthy quarters.

Among New Year resolutions don't omit the one about individual cow records.

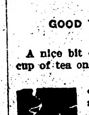
THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

Our climate is a series of surprises, and among our many prognostics of the weather the only trustworthy one that I know is that when it is warm, it is a sign that it is going to be cold.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

A nice bit of cake to serve with a cup of tea on an afternoon is:



Date Bars.—Take one cupful each of nuts and sugar, two well-beaten eggs, one cupful of flour, with two level tablespoonfuls of it removed. Add one-half teaspoonful of baking powder, one cupful of washed, stoned and quartered dates, and one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon. Mix all together and bake in square tins. Dust the tins well with flour after greasing and spread the mixture evenly over the tins. Bake in a slow oven twenty-five minutes.

Chicken a la Reine.—Cream two tablespoonfuls of butter, add the yolks of three hard-boiled eggs, rubbed to a paste. Soak one-fourth of a cupful of cracker crumbs in one-fourth of a cupful of milk and add the egg mixture. Pour on gradually one cupful of chicken stock. Then add one cupful of finely minced chicken. Season with salt, paprika and celery salt. Serve on toast.

Pepper Soup.—Take six or eight large red peppers, remove the seeds and the veins and cook the peppers until tender. Put through a sieve and add a cupful of boiled rice, season with salt and tabasco sauce. Beat one egg with half a cupful of cream, add it to a quart of milk heated hot, combine mixtures and serve poured over toasted squares of bread; serve immediately.

Braised Liver.—Wash two pounds of fresh liver and flour well, seasoning with salt and pepper and a little lemon juice. Lay in a casserole; add two sliced onions and six carrots shredded lengthwise, a bayleaf, a sprinkling of parsley and a pint of boiling water. Place thin slices of bacon over all; cover tightly and bake one hour and a half; then remove the cover, baste and brown ten minutes. Serve with tomatoes or chili sauce.

Chicken Jelly Salad.—Soften one-half teaspoonful of gelatin in four tablespoonfuls of cold water, add to one cupful of boiling chicken broth, stir well until dissolved, adding salt, pepper, onion juice and celery salt to season. Chill until cold, then add part of this to a cupful of finely chopped cooked chicken in layers with the broth as it hardens, adding cooked egg, cooked carrots or beets cut into small shapes to decorate. Let each layer become firm before adding another. Serve unmolded with mayonnaise dressing.

Try this prune pie: Bake a pastry shell and fill with stewed prunes, sprinkle with nuts, cover with whipped cream and serve.

Food for Any Season.

There is no more delicate or appetizing meat dish than tongues, well cooked and seasoned.

Beef Tongue en Casserole.— Take a tongue which has been slightly corned, remove all the rough portions, rub with flour to which has been added a dash of allspice and a pinch of ginger. Fry a few slices of salt pork, then add a sliced onion and the tongue. Tie the tongue into shape and flour lightly on all sides. Prepare a cupful of gravy made from the broth of the trimmings, add the juice of a lemon, three tablespoonfuls of shredded almonds, and half a cupful of seeded raisins. Put the tongue into a round casserole, pour over the gravy and bake half an hour in a moderate oven. Untie the tongue, serve on a hot platter with the gravy poured around it.

Raisin Sandwiches.—Put through the meat chopper alternately a few raisins which have been steamed until plump and a few walnut meats or pecan meats until a cupful of each is used. Add a dash of salt and blend with enough whipped cream to make a mixture to spread.

Cream Prune Pie.—Put a cupful of stewed prunes through a sieve, add a cupful of milk, one teaspoonful of cornstarch, a third of a cupful of sugar, the yolks of two eggs well beaten, a pinch of salt; mix well and pour into a pastry-lined plate. Cover with a meringue and bake all together; if the crust has been previously baked, cook the filling first then add meringue and bake.

Round Steak Birds.—Cut strips of round steak, flatten by pounding until thin. Place on each strip a slice of bacon, a slice of pickle and a slice of onion. Roll up and tie with a string. Dust with salt and pepper and brown in a little hot fat. Simmer until tender, never allowing the meat to boil. Serve with the gravy poured around the rolls, after removing the strings.

Age and the Old

Will Hayes, the movie magnate, said at a Los Angeles tea:

"Age is a very sensitive subject, especially in the movies. In the movies, you see, one is old so soon.

"But everybody is sensitive on the subject of age. A boy said to his father one day:

"'What do people mean when they say a man is in the prime of life?'

"'They mean, son,' said the father, 'to spare the poor old fellow's feelings.'"

Merely Lost It

Harry Leslie, Lafayette, speaker of the Indiana house of representatives, and recognized as a good recounter of stories and after-dinner speaker, told this one on a recent visit to Indianapolis:

"My wife and I have just resumed diplomatic relations. Recently I was showing her through the Union building at Purdue university and we came across a statue of a draped but headless woman.

"'Where is her head?' my wife asked.

"'Oh, she's a woman and has lost it,' I replied, unthinkingly."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

THE TRUE VICTORS

AFTER all that is said and sung about those oft heralded persons whose names appear with frequency on the most conspicuous pages of our newspapers and magazines, it is questionable, whether in the stern battles of life they are true victors.

While they wear their laurels with becoming modesty, you will find, if you question them in their more serious moods that they are not at all satisfied with the distinction which is so generously accorded them.

The glare of the lime-light hurts their sensitive eyes and destroys their peace. It robs them of the sweet quietude of home which to them is dearer than praise.

At a change of the wind or the burst of a storm, their names sometimes wither like leaves in the frosty air of autumn.

Some were cast for leading parts, but the great majority forgot their lines, faltered and failed at the crucial moment, though clad in fine linen and royal purple.

It is not the man who succeeds in attaining wealth, or the woman who excels in dressing her hair and encircling her shapely neck with priceless diamonds and pearls who shall sit in the cool of the day among the true victors, but the lowly who have striven to make others happy and through trial and tribulation kept the faith.

The gentlefolk, the charitable and kindly are the true victors.

Their names are not blazed before an applauding and forgetful world. But instead, the good they have done, the heavy burdens they have lightened for fellow travelers have blazoned their remembrance in imperishable letters in myriad homes and hearts and made life for the unfortunate a perennal spring.

Possibly you may be on speaking terms with such persons, but if you are not seeking them out, cultivate their companionship and imitate in so far as you are able their adorable attributes.

You will know them by the light in their eyes, the smile on their faces, their gentle demeanor and their softly modulated voices that never irritate or hurt.

Rules for Health

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE rich are not the rich in wealth,
For richer he who's rich in health.
Whatever goods you buy or sell,
Who would stay rich must first stay well.

Man learns no wisdom in the schools
More wise than these ten simple rules:

1. Who works indoors, outdoors, must play,
And walk at least a mile a day.

2. Closed windows always are a sin,
So let a little outdoors in.

3. And, if indoors by day you keep,
Then out-of-doors you ought to sleep.

4. The hours to spend in slumber then
For elders eight, for children ten.

5. Eat slowly, not too much of meat,
And something rough as well as sweet.

6. Use water freely, it's about
Our greatest boon, inside or out.

7. And walk and stand and sit erect;
It helps your health and self-respect.

8. Breathe deeply, keep your mind serene,
And keep both mind and body clean.

9. Avoid the folks who cough and sneeze
Or violate such rules as these.

10. The tenth rule is of all the gem:
Be moderate in all of them.

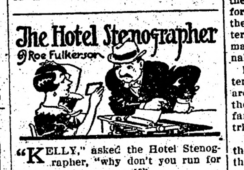
The Hotel Stenographer

By Roe Fulkerson



"KELLY," asked the Hotel Stenographer, "why don't you run for alderman in our ward?"

"Aw, I dunno," said the House Detective. "If they want me, let 'em ask me."

"Kelly," suggested the girl, "that's a fat job. The fatter the job the less likely it will be to run after you. Fat jobs, like fat people, get winded easily and they never chase any one very far.

"I do not know what this town is coming to, Kelly. Last year four aldermen on the city council were not Irish. The next thing we know they will elect Chinamen or something.

"It is high time that stalwart Americans were aroused to their sense of duty to the republic and took office again. So long as we Irish can control the contracting business and be aldermen we need not worry about who writes the nation's songs.

"But sitting still and waiting for a fat job to drop in your lap like Dead Sea fruit, as the poet put it, is the bunk. At the Battle of Waterloo, Napoleon said to his guards, 'Up guards, and at 'em', and they upped and atted 'em. That's the way to get things, Kelly, and it's getting things that counts, not just wanting them.

"I have known girls who went dippy in the bean over some John and sat around and waited for him to ask them while some other girl ponged and jonged, by hustling for him and not waiting.

"But I guess there are people just born to be cops and get fallen arches, while others whose destiny is to be born of honest Irish parents and grow up to be alderman and wear a two quart hat on St. Patrick's day. Maybe you are right in not going after it for you certainly would look funny in a high hat."

Among the NOTABLES

EDWARD JUDSON

EDWARD Z. C. JUDSON was an adventurous soul, whose ability for getting himself out of trouble was only surpassed by his ability to get into it again.

He was born August 1, 1822, into a perfectly proper Philadelphia family; and his father, being a lawyer, expected the son to follow in his footsteps. But young Judson upset these nice plans by running away to sea when he was thirteen. And it wasn't so long after this when, single-handed, he rescued a boat full of people who had been run down by a ferry. He was stationed on a ship in the East River, N. Y., at the time. His bravery caused such a stir he was appointed a middy by President Van Buren. Out of trouble, you see, and a hero.

Then into it again. The other middies, being Annapolis graduates, wouldn't eat with a fellow who had been an ordinary seaman—caste was very important then—so Judson challenged the whole bunch to a duel and came away unscathed and with the reputation of being the best shot in the navy. Out of trouble again, and getting famous.

He turned his hand to writing, and had a story accepted and was made a magazine editor—then was arrested for inciting a riot in the city. When he got out of that scrape, he began writing sensational serials for newspapers, turning out some four hundred thrillers. And then he began another political party, a semi-secret society called the "Know Nothings" (because that was their answer to all questions about themselves). Judson served through the Civil war as a scout with the Indians, was wounded 20 times, and was made a colonel. He ended his career in 1886.

Mother's Cook Book

From four things, God preserve us: a painted woman, a conceited valet, salt beef without mustard, and a late dinner.—Italian.

MUTTON AND SAUCES

MUTTON is one of our most wholesome meats and would be far more popular with every one if the skin were carefully removed before cooking. The wooly flavor which is so objectionable is found in the skin.

One of the important things to remember when serving lamb or mutton is that it should be served piping hot, as the fat hardens so quickly that it leaves an unpleasant taste on the tongue. All serving dishes and platters should be kept piping hot.

Soyer Lamb Chops.

Broil lamb chops until well cooked. When cool cover with a thick white sauce to which a spoonful of chopped ham has been added, with the proper seasoning; cool, dip into egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat just before serving. Keep hot in the oven. French chops are best served this way.

Casserole of Rice and Mutton.

Line a mold, slightly greased, with steamed rice. Fill the center with two cupfuls of finely-chopped cooked mutton, highly seasoned with salt, pepper, cayenne, celery salt, onion juice and lemon juice; then add one-fourth of a cupful of cracker crumbs, one egg slightly beaten, and enough hot broth or water to moisten. Cover the meat with the rice; cover the rice with a buttered paper to keep out the moisture while steaming. Steam 45 minutes. Serve unmolded on a platter surrounded with tomato sauce.

Roast Saddle of Mutton.

A saddle of mutton is the loin cut off in one piece; it is considered one of the favorite roasting pieces. Sprinkle the meat with salt and pepper, place in a baking pan on a rack and dredge with flour. Bake in a hot oven, basting frequently and allow ten or fifteen minutes to the pound, depending upon how it is to be served. Mutton may be served rare, but lamb never. Serve with a brown gravy and currant jelly.

The leg of mutton is roasted in the same way. In making the gravy allow two tablespoonfuls of fat for each cupful of gravy served. Pour off all the fat and measure the desired amount, adding two tablespoonfuls of fat to three of flour, cook until well browned, then add one cupful of water or broth to the portions of flour and fat. Season with salt and pepper and add one glass of currant jelly to the gravy bowl.

PROHIBITION IS FAR FROM LOST

Concrete Example In This Neck O' th' Woods

Bow to the power of advertising!

A few live-wire "wets" in congress have advertised that the country is becoming "wet" again. Saloons will soon be on every street corner! And why do the peoble believe it? Because it is advertised so widely by these few politicians, who know well the power of advertising.

Of course we all know that the country is going dry. We will cite you a concrete example. Our dear brother, Emil Hallgren, of the Hallock People's Press, ran a headliner last week because dear, dear brother Bouvette of the Hallock Enterprise was caught coming across the border (of Canada, of course) with a bottle of "moon," Christmas whiskey, of course.

(We can see some of you readers nodding and saying, "there's your prohibition!")

The most important parts of this story are:

1. The fact that Bro. Bouvette was caught. This demonstrates the efficiency of the border patrol.

2. The fact that Bro. Bouvette had only one bottle. In pre-Volstead times he would be lugging home a couple kegs of the stuff if he bothered about going to Canada at all, or he would be supplied by his local saloon.

3. The fact that Bro. Hallgren gave this story front page publicity and pointed out, "There's Prohibition for you!" He is either ignorant or "wet." There is nothing that fools a reader more than when legitimate news is put up in such a way as to cause him to be prejudiced. In this case all whe read this article in the "Press" would say, "That's Prohibition for you!" and were either ignorant or wet.

We hesitate to term Mr. Hallgren "wet" as his paper is doing so much for the farmers of Kittson county (or so he advertises) and surely he would not want his subscribers, i. e., the farmers, to go "wet," thus forcing hard times upon themselves. For Prohibition means Prosperity.

The more recently adopted method of killing the common barberry which spreads black stem rust of small grains is by the use of such chemicals as salt and kerosene, according to the Department of Agriculture. These methods have several advantages over the digging method formerly used. They are less laborious, cheaper and more certain. This is especially true if bushes are growing in stony ground where digging is difficult. Department Circular 356 tells all about how to use this method.—Banker-Farmer.

HOLT MEN'S TEAM DEFEATED BY ARGYLE; SCORE IS 4 - 9

The men's basketball team of Holt was defeated by the Argyle men's team in a fast and close game here Wednesday night by a score of 4 and 9.

Any criticism of the playing would be unfair, as both teams played as clean a game as is possible on the rather small playing space available in the Community Hall. Fouls and rough playing were inevitable, both teams went "50-50" on these things, but a casual observer of the game could see that the referee was, in common parlance, "crooked."

That the referee was inclined to favor the Argyle team at every turn anyone could see; and this, undoubtedly, was because he was from Argyle himself. He was only human. He could not help that as a referee he was a good Argyle booster. He wanted to help his home town team as much as possible, and he did this by calling as many of the so-called fouls as he dared, which were committed by the Holt boys and the same referee calmly ignored many of the fouls committed by the Argyle team.

The Argyle boys are good, fast players, and have a good guard. It is interesting to wonder how the game would have turned out had the referee been anywheres near fair.

Holt made one field goal. Argyle made two. This might make it seem that the Argyle team was better than the Holt team, but we think different.

The two field goals for Argyle were scored in a particularly trying time for Holt.

The referee had called several "fouls" committed by Holt. The Argyle team secured 5 points out of a dozen or so free throws on these fouls. It took the heart out of the Holt boys. One player disgustedly said, "You can't move before you commit a foul." Therefore the guard of the Holt team slackened down a bit, and Argyle walked off with four points. The Holt boys literally gave the Argyle team these four points rather than commit any more of what the referee termed "fouls".

After all is said about how crooked a referee may be, the fact remains that Argyle has a bunch of keen, hard-playing basketeers. And no Holt citizen will say that the Holt quint is inferior to any team in three counties. We would spend our last simoleon to see a fair game between the two teams.

His son Johnny Lane came on Tuesday from Grafton, N. Dak. to make arrangements for the funeral which will be held on Saturday at Fork, Minnesota in the western part of the county where Mr. Lane resided many years before he came to Holt.

Mr Lane was past ninety years of age.

HOLT BOYS ARE DEFEATED

T. R. F. Boys Too Long; Score Is 18-6.

On Thursday night the boys' basketball team of the Holt school was defeated by the Thief River Falls high school second team by a score of 18 to 6.

The game was played in the Community Hall where a small—disgustingly small — group of fans and otherwise watched the local boys put up a game but losing fight against the well-trained athletes from the south.

The game was rather uneven as the visitors had such a good chance to do their drastic overhead work. However some of the local boys did such notable work that they merit special attention. Fredrickson put up a flashy, scientific game; Hetland made some terrific dribbles thru the opposite team, often advancing the ball by main force, in football fashion; Ellestad worked in some good team-work; the two Larson boys were ball-tight 99 times out of 104 (or some such proportion); and Fritz Knutson (who was substituted for Ervin Larson in the last quarter) was, as usual, the darting, flashing, spectacular dribbler.

Famous Players-Lasky Produce "The Ancient Highway" in the Great Northern Cascades

ORIENTAL LIMITED

1. Jack Holt, Paramount Picture Star, was Engineer for a day on the Oriental Limited. 2. Jack Holt trades flapjack receipts with The Oriental Chef. 3. Irwin Willat, Director Paramount Pictures, who directed The Ancient Highway in the Great Northern Cascades. 4. Billy Dove, popular Paramount Star, on the Oriental Limited.

That Washington and other states of the Pacific Northwest will inevitably become "location" for the production of many future out-of-door pictures, is the enthusiastic belief of Irvin Willat, noted director, and Jack Holt, screen star, who have just completed filming James Oliver Curwood's story, "The Ancient Highway" (meaning river) for the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. This picture was made in the Great Northern Railway's Cascade Mountain territory near Leavenworth, utilizing the beautiful rivers and canyons thereabouts. Important scenes were also taken at Lake Wenatchee.

Expressing delight at finding such wonderful scenic environment, both director and star declared the locations they utilized in this section met every requirement of production, and that the present picture is undoubtedly the forerunner of many others to be filmed in the Pacific Northwest.

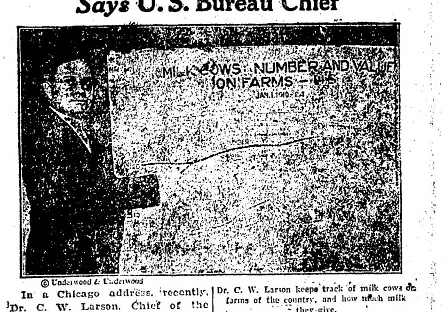
On finishing "The Ancient Highway," which is to be released in November, Mr. Willat declared he found here scenery more perfectly adapted to his picture than that of the story's specified location. He said: "This is scenery which the state of Washington and the Great Northern Railway may be justly proud. The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation is glad of the opportunity to spread its fame over the nation as part of the movement to "See America First." Jack Holt, whose pictures are mostly of the out-of-doors type, declared he has never been "on location" in a more beautiful scenic environment.

More per Cow Rather than More Cows Says U. S. Bureau Chief



MILK COWS: NUMBER AND VALUE ON FARMS - U.S.
JAN. 1 1910-24

© Underwood & Underwood

Dr. C. W. Larson keeps track of milk cows on farms of the country, and how much milk they give.

In a Chicago address, recently, Dr. C. W. Larson, Chief of the United States Bureau of Dairying, made a plea for greater production per cow rather than an increase in the number of cows.

The average cow in the United States yields annually only about 4,000 pounds of milk of which 3.7% is butterfat.

Careful breeding and elimination by test in the milk herd makes an increase to 8,000 pounds of milk annually per cow not impossible with the average dairyman. This would net the milk produced $75.00 above feed cost per cow as compared with the present average of only $26.00.

Membership in a cow-testing association and the maintenance of herd records are extremely desirable. The system of records should at least include an identification record, an account of production for each cow—the amount of feed given and breeding dates. For a grade dairy herd, the record system may be quite simple.

"Cow-testing associations promote a more faithful follow-through of the rudiments of dairying. Among them are intelligent feeding, proper stabling, regular milking, thorough grooming, periodical clipping of the long hair from flanks, udder and underline and other attendant precautions against the presence of bacteria in the milk.

In cow-testing associations, records of the milk and butterfat production of pure bred cows are made under the supervision of the association and are given official recognition.

101 ENTOMBED IN MINE EXPLOSION

Only Eight of Force Escape Alive After Blast Wrecks Oklahoma Mine.

Wilberton, Okla.—All hope that any of the 93 miners entomber in the Degnan-McConnell coal mine, near here, in an explosion were alive, was abandoned by mine officials. Sixty-five bodies had been located. Only eight men of the 101 in the mine when the explosion occurred, have come to the surface alive. These were Negroes. 25 of the men in the mine were white.

Fire broke out in the fourteenth level, and all rescue workers were ordered from the mine. Ed Boyle, state mine inspector, who arrived at the scene of the disaster, said it was apparent the explosion was caused by gas. He will go down into the mine for examination. As the bodies of miners were brought to the surface, they were loaded into trucks and ambulances. Shrill screams of wives and other relatives could be heard for long distances through the cold night air. Nineteen of the bodies were reported located in a group on the sixteenth level.

All other mines in the Wilburton field closed down soon after the explosion, and their crews were rushed to the scene to aid in the rescue work. The wrecked mine was operated on a non-union basis, as are most of the properties in this area. Trained rescue crews from Krebes, McAlester, Hartsborne and Haileyville tendered their assistance. The Wilburton chapter of the American Red Cross served coffee and doughnuts from a hastily-erected canteen.

Nye Sworn as Senator

Washington—By the margin of two votes, Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota was declared entitled to a seat in the United States senate. There were 41 ayes and 39 nays. Immediately following the announcement of the result of the roll call by Vice President Charles G. Dawes, the country editor from the northwest, around whose head had raged a bitter storm ever since his appointment by Governor Arthur G. Sorlie of North Dakota to the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Edwin F. Ladd, was escorted to the presiding officer's chair, and sworn in. Only 33 years of age, and next to Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin, the youngest man in the senate, Mr. Nye came down the center aisle on the arm of his colleague, Senator Lynn J. Frazier and advanced to the marble steps leading to the vice president's desk.

Too Much for Sheriff

A zealous peace officer at Normangee, Texas, intrusted with the collection of a judgment of $100 against the Southern Pacific lines, halted a train, and with a log chain and a lock anchored the engine to a siding. Then the officials demanded that the sheriff remove the attached property from the railway right-of-way. However much he wished to comply with the request, there were fundamental difficulties in the way, and the sheriff had to admit defeat.—Indianapolis News.

20 ARE KILLED BY MEXICAN BANDITS

Twenty Men Board Coaches and Overpower Military Guard—Loot Passengers

Mexico City—A passenger train, attacked by bandits betwen Guadalajara and Mexico city, a majority of the passengers murdered and most of the military escort killed, is the alarming report received here from Guadalajara in special dispatches. Between the stations of Negrette and Vurecuaro, 20 men, armed and disguised, who had boarded the train at Guadalajara, suddenly began knifing the soldiers and robbings and killing the passengers. Of the military escort, all but seven were killed, and these were seriously wounded. The train was burned with the victims. The bandits, who were under the orders of the former Colonel Nanuel Nunez, then made their escape on the engine, carrying away 300,000 pesos ($150,000) in booty. Advices received at railroad headquarters here say that the bodies of 20 dead, burned beyond recognition, thus far have been recovered. The total number of dead is unknown but it is believed other bodies are in the debris of the burned coaches. Every car on the train was wrecked and burned.

Mexican Floods Take Toll.

Los Angeles—Special dispatches say that devastating floods are sweeping the Santiago Ixcuintla district, state of Nayarit, Mexico. The governor of Nayarit in a telegram to the state's deputies in Mexico city, is described as estimating the loss of life at 500 and the property damage at 3,000,000 pesos. Some villages are reported to have been destroyed. Rail communications have been cut. The dispatches also say messages from Durango report that crops have been destroyed and that many miles of countryside are under water as the result of three days of toorrential rains. Rivers have reached a height of some five feet above their normal levels. Preliminary estimates place the damage at 250,000 pesos.

Gold Strike Reported in Wyoming

Denver, Colo.—Discovery of a vein of gold and platinum-bearing ore three feet wide and nearly 100 feet long, in the Cliff Gold Co.'s mine near Centennial, Wyo., was announced here by the company officials. Alfred Daykin, president, said the vein carries gold running $250 a ton and platinum running $100 a ton. Some palladium also is contained in the ore, he said. The mine is 30 miles from Laramie.

Socialists Swing to Hindenburg.

Berlin—The Hessian branch of the German socialist party, under former Chancellor Phillip Scheidemann's leadership formally espoused the cause of a big coalition in the reichstag. The development may result in the abandonment of the socialists' opposition to a cabinet based on the strong parliament army amalgamation, favored by President Von Hindenburg.

Pikeville, Ky.—"We the jury find the defendant guilty as charged," was the verdict returned by a jury in court here in the case of the state of Kentucky vs. Bill, a pretty pet collie, charged with being a dog of "vicious" character. The death sentence was imposed by County Judge J. W. Pruitt, and "Bill" was legally electrocuted.

Brainerd—Preparations are being made here for entertaining the forty-eighth annual convention of the Minnesota State Dairymen's association which convenes January 19 to 21 in the convention hall of the chamber of commerce.

St. Paul—Financial interests of the northwest, headed by the Minnesota Bankers association, lined up in support of a nation-wide movement to standardize the sizes and designs of bank checks and do away with the thousands of different sytles now in use, as an effort to facilitate business transactions, reduce possibility of errors and curtail expense.

Pine City—Four men will spend their lives in Minnesota's state prison at Stillwater to atone for a bank robber ywhich enriched them $1,194.12 for two days they were at liberty. The four men, all of Superior, Wis., pleaded guilty in district court here, and were sentenced to life terms under the law which provides only that penalty for robbery of a bank occupied by human beings.

Minneapolis—The Minnesota state highway commission, the Ten Thousand Lakes association, the state forestry board, the state game and fish commission, the University of Minnesota, the Isaak Walton league, various other sportsmen's organizations and a dozen cities and towns of Minnesota will be represented in booths at the Twin City Auto Show, Feb. 6-13 in the Overland building.

St. Paul—Minnesota's 22 principal crops harvested in 1925 placed the state fourth in estimated value in the United States, with a value of $350,075,000, Paul H. Kirk, state agricultural statistician reports. States ahead of Minnesota in total crop values were Texas, Iowa, and Illinois. For all crops, the hypothetical value in Minnesota was $382,107,000, placing Minnesota fifth among states. For the five year period ended 1923, Minnesota ranked ninth in value of 22 principal crops.

St. Paul—Plans for rearrangement of the old state capitol and a shifting of state departments in line with the reorganization were completed by the department of administration and finance. The state board of health, and the inspection unit, which now comes under the board, move from the new to the old capitol, and the oil inspection department also goes to that building. The supplies division of the adjutant general's department moves to the armory at St. Paul Park.

St. Paul—Farmers of the northwest already have cashed in on most of the 1925 wheat crop and the purchasing power of this section of the country has been increased many millions of dollars in the past three months, according to a railroad survey just completed. Figures compiled by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads show that a crop of about 105,000,000 bushels of wheat was raised in the territory supplied by these two systems.

St. Paul—Minnesota state officers and shippers turned to Washington, in an organized fight for immediate relief from discriminatory freight rates, which they contend were forced upon the state by a federal government agency, acting without jurisdiction. Headed by Governor Theodore Christianson, and including O. P. B. Jacobson and Ivan Bowen, state railroad and warehouse commissioners, the delegates visited the capital to protest what they termed wreckage of the state's rail rate structure by the interstate commerce commission.

St. Paul—A sweeping investigation of criminal law and the machinery for dealing with criminals in Minnesota, with the purpose of formulating remedial legislation, was ordered by Governor Theodore Christianson. The governor appointed a commission of 25 members, including members of the supreme court, leaders of the Minnesota bar, educators and social workers, representatives of the churches, and police and prison authorities to undertake this work at once. This step was taken by the governor as a sequel to the killing of a Minneapolis police sergeant and the wounding of a policeman and a grocer by a paroled convict but two weeks out of Stillwater.

Minneapolis—Charles Dickinson, 82 years old, Chicago aviator and seedman, was awarded the contract for carrying United States air mail on the new line between Minneapolis, St. Paul, La Crosse, Milwaukee and Chicago, according to dispatches from Washington.

St. Paul—Call to the midwinter meeting of the Minnesota Federation of Women's Clubs which will bring representatives of more than 50,000 clubwomen to the Twin Cities the first week of February has gone out. The meeting will open February 4 in St. Paul.

WILLIAM M. JARDINE

Secretary William Jardine of the agriculture department who recently indorsed in principle a surplus marketing bill and who has called into conference a number of leaders in the movement to secure relief for farmers.

Jardine and House Committee Take Up Farm Relief Problems

Washington—Corn belt farmers brought their grievances to Washington, and both the Coolidge administration and the leaders in congress bestirred themselves to provide some method of farm relief. Secretary William Jardine of the agriculture department, who recently indorsed in principle a surplus marketing bill drafted by western members of congress, called into conference a group of agriculture editors and others prominent in farm organizations, and sought their advice as to details of the troublesome surplus crop problem. At the same time the house agriculture committee was called together to hear the opinions of other westerners and the senate agriculture committee, at its first meeting since congress convened, began to piece out the beginnings of a relief program of its own.

Farm Problems Before Congress

Washington—While the rubber and aluminum investigations are going forward, both house and senate committees will begin hearings on other important subjects. Farm legislation will occupy the attention of committees at each side of the capitol, while the senate interstate commerce committee will begin consideration of the railroad consolidation bill. While the house agriculture committee will give first attention to the administration co-operative marketing measure, it is practically certain that it eventually will report out also some form of legislation for disposing of the exportable surplus of farm products.

Millions Honor Dowager Queen

Rome—Some kneelin, some standing bareheaded under the canopy of a gorgeous blue wintry sky, millions of men and women paid their last respects to Dowager Queen Margharita of Savoy as the funeral train bearing her body traveled all day long from Bordighera to Rome. The body was taken from the villa in which the queen died and transported to the Bordighera station in a hearse drawn by six horses, while all the church bells sounded and a huge cortege made up of many thousands of residents of the neighborhood, including American tourists, followed.

Six Die In Hotel Fire

Natchez, Miss.—Six bodies have been recovered from ruins of the Johnson hotel at Ferriday, La., which with an adjoining block of frame buildings and the Van Noy hotel, across the street, was destroyed by fire. Others reported to have occupied hotel rooms are missing. Nine persons were injured by being burned and by leaping from the hotel. The loss was estimated at $100,000.

Turkey To Use Trademarks.

Constantinople — Trademarks are about to make their first appearance in Turkey. An order from the minister of commerce requires that all Turkish manufacturers and merchants shall choose a trademark to be approved and registered within three months.

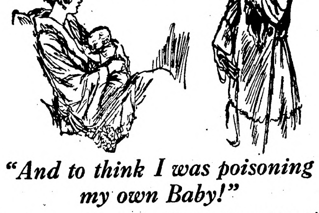
Woman Congressman Joins Wets.

Washington—Mrs. Florence Kahn of California has joined Mary Norton of New Jersey as a member of the unofficial house committee for modification of the Volstead act.

The Stampede

"One of them there devilish airplanes came over my place yeste'd'y," related Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "Just as it was right up above us it div' down and then turned a complete summerset. But before it had flopped over my children gave a united-yell, stampeded for the tall timber and never stopped till they got into the cave over there on tuther side of Mount Pizgy. They hain't all got home yet, but they keep dropping in a few at a time."—Kansas City Star.

This woman's experience is typical of thousands. Ask any physician.



"And to think I was poisoning my own Baby!"

"I couldn't see why he didn't gain. I never dreamed that my constipation was responsible until the doctor told me.

"He explained that faulty or slow elimination of waste matter allowed poisons to form and be absorbed by the blood—and this meant tainted milk for baby.

"He prescribed the Nujol treatment and it made a world of difference to both of us. Now that I know how dangerous constipation is and how easily it can be prevented, I am never going to allow myself to get into that bad condition again."

Mothers are the best friends of Nujol. When precious new lives are at stake they seek the remedy that medical authorities approve because it is so safe, gentle and natural in its action. Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body.

Nujol helps in Nature's own way

Nujol simply makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination, without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly in accordance with the directions on each bottle. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Nujol
THE INTERNAL LUBRICANT
For Constipation

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and begin to enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when elimination is normal and regular.

Overcoming Tuberculosis

Tuberculosis in the Irish Free State is gradually lessening, statistics show. The decrease in deaths from all forms of tuberculosis in five years was 1,371. In 1923 the tuberculosis death rate was 1.41 a 1,000.

F. D. Voth for November should have credit for 16 more pounds than the list showed. We listed it at 266 lbs. when it should have been 282.

Our Land O'Lakes cream is increasing very subatantially. It looks as tho every patron made the same New Year's Resolution as our Land O' Lakes butter has already increased 20 per cent over the month of December.

Every creamery that makes 50 per cent or more of Land O' Lakes butter is entitled to a large SIGN for their creamery, which sign shall be placed in a prominent place, where everybody can't help but see it.

It is very important that we continue to make 50 per cent or more of our butter a Land O' Lakes product. It should make every one of us living in this community proud to think that the patrons of our creamery are bringing in the kind of cream that makes the best sweet cream butter in the world.

We have started the new year right and it is up to us to keep up our percentage of this famous brand of butter. When we get the sign let us keep it.

Cooling tanks are a great factor in keeping cream that makes Land O' Lakes butter. The association has its own supply house and can get you these tanks cheaper than anyone else can. Let us hear how many tanks we want.

Recent Discovery Will Benefit Thousands: Syndicate Formed

New York, Dec. 20. — (Greased wire.)—A syndicate is being organized here for the purpose of financing a project to reclaim chewing gum from tables and chairs of soda fountains and public eating places. It is claimed that enormous deposits are to be found under furniture of every public place thruout the United States and Canada. The syndicate, with harvesting and manufacturing plants distributed thruout the country, expects to be able to place a better chewing commodity on the market than has ever been chewed before, and at a greatly reduced price. The discoverer of the new method claims that shop girls and stenographers can not, at the present prices, afford more than six sticks of gum a day, and that this important living cost can be cut in half. New and varied flavors can be brot out in manufacturing the reclaimed article, i. e., that coming from lumber centers will have a distinct "snooze" flavor, while Italian sections of the large cities will produce the garlic, etc. It is reported that news of the new syndicate's proposed plans caused Wrigley to squirm. —Shevlin Equalizer, Bend, Ore.

Editor Schuster of the Middle River Record surely tore down a wasp's nest when he grabbed the county printing after it had rightly belonged to the Warren Sheaf. Evidently Schuster has been so busy reading and digesting these righteously indignant attacks upon him that he could think of nothing to hurl back at his assailants. He contented himself by reprinting all the little articles.

One little thing riled us up a little. 'Member the little jab we aimed at the county board, reading thus:

"It is said that anyone can forgive and forget, but who can do that with our present Board of county commissioners?"

The Record reprinted that—& headed it off with——"SOUR GRAPES."

He means, dear reader, that we are jealous of him because he got the county printing!

We are of a mind with the Karlstad Advocate, which said:

"We would rather be poor than do the county printing like theMiddleRiverRecord."

If we were to do the county printing, we would do it like the Warren Sheaf did it, and as we do not have the necessary machinery we prefer not to do it at all.

Yeah, the Record bid was 5 per cent lower than the Sheaf bid, but its service is about 90 per cent lower.

"A most business-like transaction!" sarcastically observes the Warren Register, and we agree with it (in spirit).

Emergency Pantry Meets Home Need

By META H. GIVEN
(Home Economist.)

Meta H. Given.

Efficiency and economy go hand and hand in the home as well as in the business world. The emergency pantry, latest innovation in the cuisine of the modern housewife is particularly indicative of the truth of this statement.

This new sort of pantry—it may just be a shelf in the regular larder—does away with that bugaboo of the home maker, the surprise guest. Every woman has had the experience of welcoming an unexpected visitor when supplies were at low ebb and has searched high and low to find something presentable to put on the table. The emergency shelf in the pantry does away with such worries in short order.

A can opener and—presto—a veritable banquet can be prepared in a few minutes. The housewife may have her choice of many excellent meats, corn, tomatoes, mushrooms. If she is short of milk or cream, a can of evaporated milk, which is simply fresh cow's milk sterilized in the can and with sixty per cent of the water removed will do the trick. In fact she may have two hundred or more savory dishes ready to her hand.

When the surprise guest does arrive the hostess naturally wishes to be hospitable. She doesn't want to be tied to the kitchen range half the afternoon. She wants to entertain as she has been entertained.

It isn't possible if she has to phone frantically for the butcher, the grocer and the baker.

But that's only one of the places where the emergency pantry comes in. Backed by a well-stocked emergency shelf, the wife can get together a splendid luncheon or dinner in a jiffy. The spontaneous whim that comes at the last moment to informally invite a few friends for lunch can be gratified at once with the aid of the new pantry.

Afternoon tea for the bridge club is an equally easy matter. A glass of preserves, or jelly, a platter of bread and butter, tea, and a dish of cookies will meet the ordinary demands of the casual caller and a can of evaporated milk will answer the milk or cream need.

High Line Man Damages Truck

Alfred Johnson of Baudette, who has been hauling supplies for the high line company here the past month, had the misfortune to damage his Ford truck considerably Tuesday night when the truck turned turtle into the ditch by the state highway half a mile south of John Simonson's place south of town. Several of the members of the high line crew were with him when the accident occurred, as Johnson was taking them to Thief River Falls.

One of the men who was riding with Johnson in the cab was burned quite badly when he grabbed the exhaust pipe, which Johnson had fixed so that it went thru the cab, thus heating it up. The others escaped with slight bruises. The truck was immediately hauled to Thief River Falls where it is undergoing repairs.

Large Body of Iron Ore Discovered Near Ft. William

Warroad Men Place Big Contract for Poplar Ties

Twelve years ago, George Marvin and R. Sperling delivered 2,000 poplar ties to the Canadian Northern railway which were to be treated and used for experimental purposes. After the ties were treated they were taken to Western Canada and placed in use. The experiment shows that after twelve yeers there are over 80 per cent still in use. On the strength of this the company has placed an order with the local firm for 50,000 poplar ties to be delivered this Winter. This opens up a new industry for this section as there are millions of such ties in this vicinity and will use material that had been heretofore practically worthless.

FARM BILL PASSES HOUSE COMMITTEE

Bill Changed by Committee to Avoid Complications Under Antitrust Laws.

Washington—The administration co operative marketing bill was changed in the house agricultural committee to limit co-operatives under the act to farm producers. The committee voted to report the bill in this form. The changes were made at the suggestion of the Co-operative Association and the secretary of agriculture so as to avoid complications under antitrust laws through industries engaged in manufacture of agriculture products finding a loophole to escape prosecution.

A motion to press earliest considerations of the house on the co-operative bill was then adopted by the committee. The bill as approved provides for the establishment of a division of co-operative marketing in the department of agriculture. The department will employ experts on grain, livestock, fruits, vegetables, and other staple products. This measure backed by the administration provides for an appropriation of $225,000 to carry on the work of the new division. Its duties would include aiding co-operative marketing associations dealing in farm products only, in disposing of crops and spreading agricultural information among the farmers.

Barge Contract Is Signed

Minneapolis—The northwest signed up for the barge line that will give it an all-water route to the sea. Virtually all the details preliminary to the establishment of the line were completed when S. S. Thorpe, president, and A. C. Wiprud, secretary of the Upper Mississippi River Barge Line corporation, affixed their signatures to the contracts with the Inland Waterways corporation, the government agency which will operate the barges between Minneapolis and St. Louis. There now remains to be obtained only the signature of Dwight F. Davis, secretary of war, and General T. Q. Ashburn, chief of waterways corporation.

Minneapolis—An airplane pilot was killed and his passenger seriously injured in the second National Guard airplane accident in the Twin Cities in six weeks. The victims were: First Lieutenant Russell Olson, 28 years old, pilot of the plane, member of the 109th Aero squadron, and university student. Second Lieutenant William N. Nolan, 30 years old, his passenger, deputy state bank examiner and former football player at the university; jaw broken and internally injured.

Olson and Nolan took off from the Wold-Chamberlain air field to put in part of the 96 minutes of flying time required each month of aero squadron members and army reserve officers. They had been up a little more than an hour, when the plane went into a "flat spin" that sent it crashing to the ground from an altitude of approximately 500 feet.

Tax Repeal Faces Fight.

Washington—A fight against some provisions of the tax reduction bill ordered unanimously reported to the senate by its finance committee, appears certain, despite the compromise agreement between Republicans and Democrats.

The provisions for the repeal of the inheritance tax and the publicity of income tax returns are almost certain to be made the basis of the contest by some western senators of both parties.

Looks for Increases in Pearl Production

Rising prices for pearls and enlarged production in the pearl diving industry are expected to bring a total pearl production of about 5,000,000 francs during 1925, according to advices to the Commerce department from Phineas Haskewitch, one of the large pearl buyers in French Oceania.

Pearl diving is hazardous business, Mr. Haskewitch said, and its results difficult to approximate. The estimated production of 1,920 tons of shell for this year is expected to produce about 950 pearls, with a present average price of 4,000 francs. A good pearl ordinarily appears for every 5,000 pairs of pearl shells.

Pearls are found in waters where coral polyps make their home, Mr. Haskewitch explained, the appearance of coral being usually accepted as forecasting the appearance of pearl oysters.

Cities Change Names

During the five-year period of 1921 to 1925, 63 cities in this country changed their names for one reason or another. Generally speaking, it was done for the purpose of avoiding confusion resulting from the existence of several cities with the same name, and in other instances it was for the purpose of simplifying the name. The duplication of city names presents a serious problem. In the postal guide there are 31 Franklins, 27 Madisons, 25 Clevelands, 24 Monroes, 23 Wilsons, 18 Roosevelts, 15 Adams, 12 Tafts and 5 Hardings. In such cases business firms in these towns are often subjected to great annoyance and delay by their mail going to the wrong town.

Precocious Sarcasm

Mrs. John T. Pratt, New York's first alderwoman, told a Christmas story at a dinner party.

"A young father and mother," she said, "were hard up last Christmas so they bought their little son a rather cheap lot of presents.

"When he came into the sitting room and saw his presents on Christmas morning he said nothing—just studied them over, one by one, coldly and silently.

"'Well, little man,' said his father, 'what have you got to say for all these beautiful, lovely, splendid presents that Santa Claus has brought you?'

"The little man thought a minute. Then he said:

"'God bless the 5 and 10-cent store!'"

WHEAT CROP AT 4 BILLION BUSHEL

Department of Agriculture Compiles 1925-1926 Estimates of World Supply.

Washington—The world crop of wheat for the crop season 1925-26 was estimated by the department of agriculture at approximately four billion bushels on the basis of returns received from practically all producing countries except China.

The latest estimates have indicated a production of 3,350,000,000 bushels outside of Russia, and the most recent reports from that country have placed its crop at 646,000,000 bushfiels. The Argentine crop was estimated at 215,000,000 and the Australian at 110,000,000 bushels.

Floods and storms in Europe followed by severe cold are believed by department experts there to have caused considerable winter killing.

"It seems, therefore, that this year's world wheat crop may be consumed at an average price not far out of line with that of last year."

West Virginia Mine Blast Traps 38; Rescuers Save 20

Fairmont, W. Va.—Twenty miners, entombed for 18 hours in the far underground workings of the No. 8 mine of the Jamison Coal & Coke Co., were brought out alive, having been spared the fate of at least 17 of their fellows whose bodies have been recovered. Company officials said 38 men are definitely known to have been in the workings. Virtually no hope had been held out for the rescue of any of the men. Word that all of the miners had not perished came when a rescue crew that had ventured far back from the elevator shaft discovered the men in a niche which had protected them from the deadly fumes that rolled through the mine following the blast. Members of the rescue crews coming outside told of devastation wrought by the blast. A few of the bodies found later in the day were about 200 feet from the poine of the explosion, apparently asphyxiated.

Navy Asks for Metal Dirigible

Washington—The navy department is planning to ask congress for a $300,000 appropriation for construction of a small all-metal dirigible. The request for funds is understood to have been submitted to Director Lord of the budget, and to have the approval of President Coolidge. The Aircraft Development corporation of Detroit, in which Henry Ford is interested, has been negotiating with the navy department for some time for construction of an all-metal dirigible to cost about $700,000, of which the government, under the plan, would provide $300,000.

Coolidge Invites Red Cross

The convention, held under the auspices of the League of Red Cross societies, is expected to act definitely on two major subjects: Concerted relief action on the part of all of the nations in the event of earthquakes or other major disasters, and participation of the societies represented in plans to raise the health standards of the entire western hemisphere.

Bad Footwear Mixup

Three hundred foreign delegates, in Washington for the Interparliamentary union, left their shoes outside their hotel room doors to be polished during the night, as is the European custom, says Capper's Weekly. The hotel help polished the shoes, but, not being used to that sort of thing, got them mixed up in the redistribution. As 41 different languages were spoken by the delegates, the babel of tongues next morning as they sorted out their footgear was better than a comic opera, onlookers said.

101 ENTOMBED IN MINE EXPLOSION

Only Eight of Force Escape Alive After Blast Wrecks Oklahoma Mine.

Wilburton, Okla.—Responsibility for the disaster was placed squarely on the mine operators by Inspector Boyle after an investigation. Boyle declared that in his opinion the explosion was due to the employing of incompetent miners. He said he believed the explosion was from gas collected in one or more passages in the mine and that competent inspectors could have found evidence of the gas before the five score men went to work.

Wilberton, Okla.—All hope that any of the 93 miners entomber in the Degnan-McConnell coal mine, near here, in an explosion were alive, was abandoned by mine officials. Sixty-five bodies had been located. Only eight men of the 101 in the mine when the explosion occurred, have come to the surface alive. These were Negroes. 25 of the men in the mine were white.

Fire broke out in the fourteenth level, and all rescue workers were ordered from the mine.

All other mines in the Wilburton field closed down soon after the explosion, and their crews were rushed to the scene to aid in the rescue work. The wrecked mine was operated on a non-union basis, as are most of the properties in this area. Trained rescue crews from Krebes, McAlester, Hartsborne and Haileyville tendered their assistance. The Wilburton chapter of the American Red Cross served coffee and doughnuts from a hastily-erected canteen.

West Virginia Mine Blast Traps 38; Rescuers Save 20

Fairmont, W. Va.—Twenty miners, entombed for 18 hours in the far underground workings of the No. 8 mine of the Jamison Coal & Coke Co., were brought out alive, having been spared the fate of at least 17 of their fellows whose bodies have been recovered. Company officials said 38 men are definitely known to have been in the workings. Virtually no hope had been held out for the rescue of any of the men. Word that all of the miners had not perished came when a rescue crew that had ventured far back from the elevator shaft discovered the men in a niche which had protected them from the deadly fumes that rolled through the mine following the blast. Members of the rescue crews coming outside told of devastation wrought by the blast. A few of the bodies found later in the day were about 200 feet from the poine of the explosion, apparently asphyxiated.

Navy Asks for Metal Dirigible

Washington—The navy department is planning to ask congress for a $300,000 appropriation for construction of a small all-metal dirigible. The request for funds is understood to have been submitted to Director Lord of the budget, and to have the approval of President Coolidge. The Aircraft Development corporation of Detroit, in which Henry Ford is interested, has been negotiating with the navy department for some time for construction of an all-metal dirigible to cost about $700,000, of which the government, under the plan, would provide $300,000.

To File Treaties With League

Geneva—Announcement that henceforth the American government would transmit all treaties signed by the United States for insertion as part of the League of Nations treaty series, means that the league's famous treaty series now can be virtually completed, officials said. It also means that new treaties entered into by the United States with Ecudor, Russia, Egypt, Afghanistan, Turkey, and Mexico, which likewise are now members, can form a part of the series.

Eclipse Stirs Religious Frenzy.

Calcutta—India was convulsed in a religious frenzy during the solar eclipse. Hundreds of Hindus from Calcutta congregated on the banks of the sacred Ganges river, where they bathed and prayed for protection from the demon believed to be swallowing the sun.

Jardine and House Committee Take Up Farm Relief Problems

Washington — Corn belt farmers brought their grievances to Washington, and both the Coolidge administration and the leaders in congress bestirred themselves to provide some method of farm relief. Secretary William Jardine of the agriculture department, who recently indorsed in principle a surplus marketing bill drafted by western members of congress, called into conference a group of agriculture editors and others prominent in farm organizations, and sought their advice as to details of the troublesome surplus crop problem. At the same time the house agriculture committee was called together to hear the opinions of other westerners and the senate agriculture committee, at its first meeting since congress convened, began to piece out the beginnings of a relief program of its own.

Court Enemies Get Ultimatum

Washington—Unless opponents of the World Court are able to continue a barrage of oratory in the senate they may be forced very soon to permit a vote on the resolution proposing American adherence to the tribunal. Opposition forces led by Chairman William E. Borah of the foreign relations committee, have been notified that upon them rests the burden of continuing debate unless they are willing to vote at once. Senator Irvine L. Lenroot (rep., Wis.), leading the fight for ratification, issued the ultimatum and sought to force the issue by insisting the chamber remain in night sessions.

Ice Crushes Dutch Village

The Hague—Frosts have changed the floods here into catastrophe. At Droumel 100 houses collapsed, only the vicarage and town hall standing. At Alphen 90 houses fell down owing to the pressure of the ice. The ice-bound villages cannot be reached either by boats or sledges. A great number of people are isolated, without possible outside help. A strong eastern wind has quickened the downflow from Germany and Belgium so the water in the flooded areas is again increasing instead of falling.

Approve Bill To Aid Crops

Washington—The house agriculture committee approved the Haugen bill to establish a division of co-operative marketing in the department of agriculture. The measure backed by the administration would appropriate $225,000 to carry on the work of the new division. Its duties would include aiding co-operative marketing associations in disposing of crops and spreading agricultural information among the farmers. The department would employ experts on grain, live stock, fruits, vegetables, cotton, tobacco and other staple crops.

Coolidge Backs Pershing Stand

Washington — The interpretation placed on the Tacna-Arica arbitral award by General Pershing was sustained by President Coolidge in his decision on the Chilean appeal from actions of the plebiscitary commission, over which he presided. The President reiterated that Chilean sovereignty was not involved in the interpretation of the award, and emphasized that both Chile and Peru had pledged themselves to use their resources and authority to bring about a fair plebiscite.

WILL FIGHT BAN ON CORN SUGAR

Bill to Solve Crop Surplus in Congress.

Washington.—Asserting that they have the backing of more than a million farmers and business men of the corn belt, Iowa congressmen have begun a determined fight to solve the corn surplus problem by removing restrictions on the sale of corn sugar now imposed by the pure food act.

In this way they hope to build up a new market which will consume millions of bushels of corn each year and eventually take over the entire annual surplus.

There are no restrictions now on the manufacture of corn sugar, but under the pure food act, all products in which corn sugar is used must be specially branded and labeled to show that corn sugar and not beet or cane sugar was used.

This restriction, it is asserted, has proved a great handicap to the marketing of corn sugar, as the enforced labeling is asserted to carry with it "the stigma of inferiority."

In order to remove this restriction a bill has been introduced in the senate by Senator Cummins (Rep., Iowa) and in the house by Representative Cole (Rep., Iowa). The bill provides for amending the pure food law so that corn sugar products will be added to the list of articles that are not deemed misbranded if not specially labeled.

To the farmers of Iowa and Illinois, who have been forced to accept low prices for corn, largely because of the surplus, increased manufacture of corn sugar would offer a new market for larger quantities of corn. Already thousands of letters have been sent to mid-western congressmen and to the Department of Agriculture urging the immediate passage of legislation which will remove the present restrictions on the sale of corn sugar products.

"If the restrictions are removed and corn sugar can be marketed in large quantities, it means that the total yearly surplus of corn will be sold to food manufacturing plants," Mr. Cole declared. "This undoubtedly would mean increased prosperity for the whole corn belt."

The Department of Agriculture is not so sure that the proposed change in the pure food act would be a good thing. Secretary of Agriculture Jardine is giving close study to the problem, and while anxious to see the sale of corn sugar exploited, he is undecided as to whether changing the pure food law is the best way to do it.

Boy Walks 25 Miles to School; Pays With Bull

Oneida, Ky.—J. R. Burns and a few associates founded an institute here a few years ago, where educational opportunities were few.

When the school opened this fall, Burns says, a boy walked from Leslie county, 25 miles away, leading a two-year-old bull, which was all he had to pay his tuition and other expenses. The institute accepted him.

Later a six-year-old girl rode a mule from her home in the same county 42 miles from the school. She had nothing to offer as payment for her schooling except the promise of a pig that would be given to the institute.

A fourteen-year-old girl walked six miles to the school, where she explained that her father did not believe in education, but she wanted to learn to be a teacher.

Bible 400 Years Old Found in Seminary

Lancaster, Pa.—A copy of one of the rarest Bibles in the world—the Ulrich Zwingli Bible—the printing of which is said to have taken four years, has been discovered in the library of the Reformed Theological seminary here.

The Bible, according to its title page, was printed by Christopher Froschauer in 1529. Four years before that time the first section of the volume, which is in six sections, was printed. The text was compiled by Zwingli and several other preachers of Zurich who were associated with him, and a greater part of the German text was translated from the Latin by Martin Luther. The Bible, according to historians, at the time of its publication corresponded to the popular-priced editions of today.

Boy Uses Dynamite in Game of 10 Pins

San Francisco.—For an hour one morning recently, eleven-year-old John Hickey played a game of 10 pins with 10 sticks of dynamite. The explosive was part of 50 sticks of dynamite stolen by small boys from a construction camp. Policeman Nels Miller, instructed to locate the stolen explosive, found young Hickey playing with the sticks in a lot, promptly halted the game and took the dynamite away from the boy. Other officers recovered more of the stolen dynamite.

MEDINA CENTER OF MOHAMMEDANISM

"Second Best City in World" to Faithful.

Washington.—Medina, Arabia, "second best city in the world," to millions of Mohammedans recently fell to the forces of Ibn Saud, ruler of the fanatical Wahabis of central Arabia. The town is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Mecca and Medina, the two holy cities of Islam, have been first in peace, first in war, and first in the religious devotions of Moslems the world over for 13 centuries," says the bulletin. "The fact that Mohammedanism was planted in Mecca, but made no growth until transplanted to Medina, mirrors the physical differences between the two towns. While Mecca is set down in a steppe which is almost a desert, and while its inhabitants, ever since the place has been known, have made their livelihood as merchants (and caravan raiders), Medina is situated in an oasis and has always had strong agricultural ties. Its valuable groves produce 139 varieties of dates, some famous throughout the Near East.

Flight "Made" Medina.

"Although a town had long existed on the site of the present Medina it was small, and the hegira or flight of Mohammed 'made' Medina almost as truly as the trek of the Mormons made Salt Lake City. This moving day of Mohammed and his little group of Meccan followers is of such importance to Moslems that it was made their year one, and on it their calendar is based. This was in 622 A. D. of the Christian system.

"From the year one to the year ten Mohammed lived in Medina where he dictated his revelations to a scribe, completing the Koran, the Bible of Islam. During these ten years, too, he conducted, from the Medina base, expeditions of his militant followers against Meccans and other Arabians, thus beginning the spread of Mohammedanism by the sword, a practice that was to remake the map of much of the world. From Medina, Mecca was captured; and because its Kabah had been the object of heathen pilgrimages for ages, the city was made the spiritual center of Mohammedanism, and the old pagan shrine was dedicated to Allah.

"Medina remained the temporal capital and Mohammed continued to live there and preach in the Medina mosque. He died in the year ten in the house of one of his wives adjoining the mosque and was buried beneath the floor where he died.

"The mosque is not an imposing structure. Only in its main gateway is there any pretense at decoration. In the courtyard, beside the grave of Mohammed, is that of Abu Bekr, his father-in-law and his immediate successor as caliph. Near-by also is the grave of Omar, the second caliph after Mohammed; and at a little distance is the resting place of Fatima, the prophet's favorite daughter. The burial plot of the three caliphs is surrounded by a high fence of iron and brass network so closely woven that the streams of pilgrims who file by catch only glimpses of the interior. Only mosque officials and great dignitaries ever enter the sacred precincts.

Non-Moslems Barred.

"Medina, like Mecca, is forbidden ground to non-Moslems, and before the Great war it was actually less known to the outside world than the spiritual center of Islam itself. Capture by the British of a detailed Turkish map and photographs of the city and the surrounding country furnished the first authentic information since the making of a sketch by Burton 70 years before.

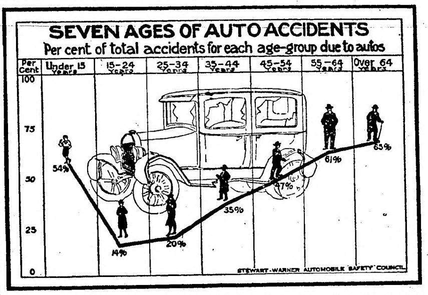
"Medina preserves its inviolability in spite of the fact that it is the terminus of a more or less modern railway. This, the famous 'pilgrim railway' from Damascus into the Hedjaz, was built by the Turks between 1900 and 1908, largely with contributions from the faithful. Practical Western diplomats, however, saw marked military value in the line, and their judgment proved to be correct during the Great war. Because of the road, Turkey was able to hold Medina against the Arab rebellion until 1919.

"Before the war Medina, like Mecca, profited greatly from pilgrims from all parts of the Moslem world. While a visit to Mecca was practically compulsory, the trip to Medina was voluntary, but gave additional merit. A drawing factor is the assertion by Mohammedans that 'one prayer offered in the Mosque of the Prophet is worth a thousand elsewhere.'

"Many thousands of pilgrims from northern Syria and Asia Minor, bound for Mecca, passed through Medina because of the railway, and many more came from Africa because the city is especially holy to their sects. In addition many of the pilgrims who went directly to Mecca made the additional pilgrimage to the second holy city, and to Medina's profit these were often the more wealthy travelers. Hundreds of pilgrims remained in Medina each year and its pre-war population was exceedingly cosmopolitan.

"The war greatly injured Medina. The Turkish garrison deported nearly three-fourths of the population during the siege by Arabs, reducing its numbers from 40,000 to about 10,000. Many houses were pulled down so that their beams might be used for locomotive fuel, and inroads were made into the valuable palm plantations near the city for the same purpose."

Shakespeare Up-to-Date Tells Motorists' Terrible Toll

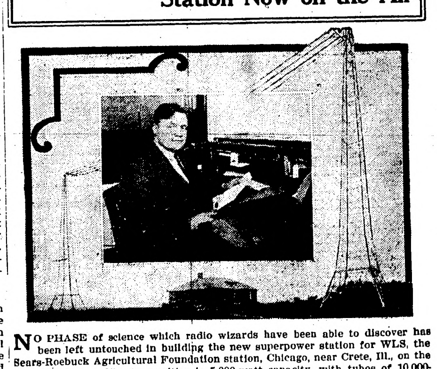


SHAKESPEARE'S seven ages of mankind made no reference to the number who were cut off in their prime by automobiles. If he had, suggests the Stewart-Warner Safety Council, it might have run something like this parody on his famous lines:

At first the infant,
Killed by a truck while in his nurse's arms,
And then the careless schoolboy with his marbles,
Playing in the streets after his lessons
Are over. And then the lover,
Absent-minded, walking with a box of candy
Under his arm, to see his loved one,
Is struck by a taxi and hurtled to the ground.
Next comes the gay young blood
Out for his evening's entertainment, whom
Sixty miles an hour lands forty years too soon
Upon a slab in some unfriendly morgue.
And then the banker, full of worldly pride and honors,
Jay-walks across the street between two mighty deals of finance,
And wakes to find Saint Peter quizzing him.
Next, the family man, with years upon him,
Confused and jostled in the crowd,
Missteps, and dies amid thanksgiving
That his last premium was paid up.
And last, hoary age, tottering and feeble,
Perhaps with crutch, or eye too dimmed with time,
An easy victim for some selfish motorist,
Sans care, sans thought, sans skill, sans everything—but speed.

The chart above shows what proportion of all accidents happening to each age group are automobile accidents. The toll is highest for the very young and very old. This situation is explained partly by the heedlessness of the young and the infirmity of old age. Moreover, these two groups are least involved in industrial accidents which makes their automobile casualties constitute a larger part of their total accidents.

WLS New Superpower Station Now on the Air



NO PHASE of science which radio wizards have been able to discover has been left untouched in building the new superpower station for WLS, the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation station, Chicago, near Crete, Ill., on the Dixie Highway. The transmitter is 5,000-watt capacity, with tubes of 10,000-watt units. A specially designed frequency amplifier assures the holding of the same wave length under all conditions and the use of the capacity reduces the possibility of interference with other stations, according to Curtis D. Peck, engineer in charge. The station is located on a two-and-one-half-acre plot. The site is landscaped and beautified with hedges and creeping bent grass lawns. Fifteen miles of ground wire were plowed in rows under the lawn as a farmer plants his potatoes. The building contains an extra large operating room, office, reception room for visitors, generator and battery rooms and switch closets. The most up-to-date construction has been employed throughout. An elaborate hot-water system has been installed to prevent freezing of the water used in cooling tubes. The towers are 200 feet high and 40 feet at the base. The wave length remains the same—345 meters. The inaugural program was broadcast October 31. A new "radio art" studio in the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, was opened to the radio public at the same time.

A CARAVAN of death and suffering 660 miles long is what the annual automobile casualties of the United States would form if placed in one continuous line. From New York to Detroit, painful mile on painful mile, this ghastly and pathetic human chain would reach. This graphic picture, prepared by the Stewart-Warner Safety Council for the prevention of automobile accidents, tells its own story. Twenty-two thousand killed annually by automobiles and 660,000 injured is the present toll caused by thoughtless drivers and careless pedestrians. Only a small per cent of the accidents are due to defects in the cars or can rightly be called unavoidable.

FARM BILL PASSES HOUSE COMMITTEE

Bill Changed by Committee to Avoid Complications Under Antitrust Laws.

Washington.—The administration co-operative marketing bill was changed in the house agricultural committee to limit co-operatives under the act to farm producers. The committee voted to report the bill in this form. The changes were made at the suggestion of the Co-operative Association and the secretary of agriculture so as to avoid complications under antitrust laws through industries engaged in manufacture of agriculture products finding a loophole to escape prosecution.

A motion to press earliest consideration of the bill in the house on the co-operative [illegible] was then adopted by the committee. The bill as approved provides for the establishment of a division of co-operative marketing in the department of agriculture. The department will employ experts on grain, livestock, fruits, vegetables, and other staple products. This measure, backed by the administration, provides for an appropriation of $225,000 to carry on the work of the new division. Its duties would include aiding co-operative associations dealing in farm products only, in disposing of crops and spreading agricultural information among the farmers.

Olson and Nolan took off from the Wold-Chamberlain air field to put in part of the 36 minutes of flying time required each month of aero squadron members and army reserve officers. They had been up a little more than an hour, when the plane went into a flat spin that sent it crashing to the ground from an altitude of approximately 500 feet.

Tax Repeal Faces Fight

Washington.—A fight against some provisions of the tax reduction bill ordered unanimously reported to the senate by its finance committee, appears certain, despite the compromise agreement between Republicans and Democrats.

The provisions for the repeal of the inheritance tax and the publicity of income tax returns are almost certain to be made the basis of the contest by some western senators of both parties.

Looks for Increases in Pearl Production

Rising prices for pearls and enlarged production in the pearl diving industry are expected to bring a total pearl production of about 5,000,000 francs during 1925, according to advices to the Commerce department from Phineas Haskewitch, one of the large pearl buyers in French Oceania.

Pearl diving is hazardous business, Mr. Haskewitch said, and its results difficult to approximate. The estimated production of 1,000 tons of shell for this year is expected to produce about 950 pearls, with a present average price of 4,000 francs. A good pearl ordinarily appears for every 5,000 pairs of pearl shells.

Pearls are found in waters where coral polyps make their home. Mr. Haskewitch explained, the appearance of coral being usually accepted as forecasting the appearance of pearl oysters.

Cities Change Names

During the five-year period ended in 1925, 63 cities in this country changed their names for one reason or another. Generally speaking, it was done for the purpose of avoiding confusion resulting from the existence of several cities with the same name, and in other instances it was for the purpose of simplifying the name. The duplication of city names presents a serious problem. In the postal guide there are 31 Franklins, 27 Madisons, 26 Clevelands, 24 Monroes, 23 Wilsons, 18 Roosevelts, 15 Adams, 12 Tafts and 5 Hardings. In such cases business firms in these towns are often subjected to great annoyance and delay by their mail going to the wrong town.

"'Well, little man,' said his father, 'what have you got to say for all these beautiful, lovely, splendid presents that Santa Claus has brought you?'

"The little man thought a minute. Then he said:

"'God bless the 5 and 10-cent store!'"

WHEAT CROP AT 4 BILLION BUSHEL

Department of Agriculture Compiles 1925-1926 Estimates of World Supply.

Washington—The world crop of wheat for the crop season 1925-26 was estimated by the department of agriculture at approximately four billion bushels on the basis of returns received from practically all producing countries except China.

The latest estimates have indicated a production of 3,350,000,000 bushels outside of Russia, and the most recent reports from that country have placed its crop at 646,000,000 bushels. The Argentine crop was estimated at 215,000,000 and the Australian at 110,000,000 bushels.

Floods and storms in Europe followed by severe cold are believed by department experts there to have caused considerable winter killing.

"It seems, therefore, that this year's world wheat crop may be consumed at an average price not far out of line with that of last year."

West Virginia Mine Blast Traps 38; Rescuers Save 20

Fairmont, W. Va.—Twenty miners, entombed for 18 hours in the far underground workings of the No. 8 mine of the Jamison Coal & Coke Co., were brought out alive, having been spared the fate of at least 17 of their fellows whose bodies have been recovered. Company officials said 38 men are definitely known to have been in the workings. Virtually no hope had been held out for the rescue of any of the men. Word that all of the miners had not perished came when a rescue crew that had ventured far back from the elevator shaft discovered the men in a niche which had protected them from the deadly fumes that rolled through the mine following the blast. Members of the rescue crews coming outside told of devastation wrought by the blast. A few of the bodies found later in the day were about 200 feet from the point of the explosion, apparently asphyxiated.

Navy Asks for Metal Dirigible

Washington—The navy department is planning to ask congress for a $300,000 appropriation for construction of a small all-metal dirigible. The request for funds is understood to have been submitted to Director Lord of the budget, and to have the approval of President Coolidge. The Aircraft Development corporation of Detroit, in which Henry Ford is interested, has been negotiating with the navy department for some time for construction of an all-metal dirigible to cost about $700,000, of which the government, under the plan, would provide $300,000.

Bad Footwear Mixup

Three hundred foreign delegates, in Washington for the interparliamentary union, left their shoes outside their hotel room doors to be polished during the night, as is the European custom, says Capper's Weekly. The hotel help polished the shoes, but, not being used to that sort of thing, got them mixed up in the redistribution. 101 ENTOMBED IN MINE EXPLOSION

Only Eight of Force Escape Alive After Blast Wrecks Oklahoma Mine.

Wilburton, Okla.— Responsibility for the disaster was placed squarely on the mine operators by Inspector Boyle after an investigation. Boyle declared that in his opinion the explosion was due to the employing of incompetent miners. He said he believed the explosion was from gas collected in one or more passages in the mine and that competent inspectors could have found evidence of the gas before the five score men went to work.

Wilberton, Okla.—All hope that any of the 93 miners entomber in the Degnan-McConnell coal mine, near here, in an explosion were alive, was abandoned by mine officials. Sixty-five bodies had been located. Only eight men of the 101 in the mine when the explosion occurred, have come to the surface alive. These were Negroes. 35 of the men in the mine were white.

Fire broke out in the fourteenth level, and all rescue workers were ordered from the mine.

All other mines in the Wilburton field closed down soon after the explosion, and their crews were rushed to the scene to aid in the rescue work. The wrecked mine was operated on a non-union basis, as are most of the properties in this area. Trained rescue crews from Krebes, McAlester, Hartsborne and Haileyville tendered their assistance. The Wilburton chapter of the American Red Cross served coffee and doughnuts from a hastily erected canteen.

Jardine and House Committee Take Up Farm Relief Problems

Washington — Corn belt farmers brought their grievances to Washington, and both the Coolidge administration and the leaders in congress bestirred themselves to provide some method of farm relief. Secretary William Jardine of the agriculture department, who recently indorsed in principle a surplus marketing bill drafted by western members of congress, called into conference a group of agriculture editors and others prominent in farm organizations, and sought their advice as to details of the troublesome surplus crop problem. At the same time the house agriculture committee was called together to hear the opinions of other westerners and the senate agriculture committee, at its first meeting since congress convened, began to piece out the beginnings of a relief program of its own.

Court Enemies Get Ultimatum

Washington—Unless opponents of the World Court are able to continue a barrage of oratory in the senate they may be forced very soon to permit a vote on the resolution proposing American adherence to the tribunal. Opposition forces led by Chairman William E. Borah of the foreign relations committee, have been notified that upon them rests the burden of continuing debate unless they are willing to vote at once. Senator Irvine L. Lenroot (rep., Wis.), leading the fight for ratification, issued the ultimatum and sought to force the issue by insisting the chamber remain in night sessions.

Ice Crushes Dutch Village

The Hague—Frosts have changed the floods here into catastrophe. At Droumel 100 houses collapsed, only the vicarage and town hall standing. At Alphen 90 houses fell down owing to the pressure of the ice. The icebound villages cannot be reached either by boats or sledges. A great number of people are isolated, without possible outside help. A strong eastern wind has quickened the downflow from Germany and Belgium so the water in the flooded areas is again increasing instead of falling.

Approve Bill To Aid Crops

Washington—The house agriculture committee approved the Haugen bill to establish a division of co-operative marketing in the department of agriculture. The measure backed by the administration would appropriate $225,000 to carry on the work of the new division. Its duties would include aiding co-operative marketing associations in disposing of crops and spreading agricultural information among the farmers. The department would employ experts on grain, livestock, fruits, vegetables, cotton, tobacco and other staple crops.

WILL FIGHT BAN ON CORN SUGAR

Bill to Solve Crop Surplus in Congress.

Washington.—Asserting that they have the backing of more than a million farmers and business men of the corn belt, Iowa congressmen have begun a determined fight to solve the corn surplus problem by removing restrictions on the sale of corn sugar now imposed by the pure food act.

In this way they hope to build up a new market which will consume millions of bushels of corn each year and eventually take over the entire annual surplus.

There are no restrictions now on the manufacture of corn sugar, but under the pure food act, all products in which corn sugar is used must be specially branded and labeled to show that corn sugar and not beet or cane sugar was used.

This restriction, it is asserted, has proved a great handicap to the marketing of corn sugar, as the enforced labeling is asserted to carry with it "the stigma of inferiority."

In order to remove this restriction a bill has been introduced in the senate by Senator Cummins (Rep., Iowa) and in the house by Representative Cole (Rep., Iowa). The bill provides for amending the pure food law so that corn sugar products will be added to the list of articles that are not deemed misbranded if not specially labeled.

To the farmers of Iowa and Illinois, who have been forced to accept low prices for corn, largely because of the surplus, increased manufacture of corn sugar would offer a new market for larger quantities of corn. Already thousands of letters have been sent to mid-western congressmen and to the Department of Agriculture urging the immediate passage of legislation which will remove the present restrictions on the sale of corn sugar products.

"If the restrictions are removed and corn sugar can be marketed in large quantities, it means that the total yearly surplus of corn will be sold to food manufacturing plants," Mr. Cole declared. "This undoubtedly would mean increased prosperity for the whole corn belt."

The Department of Agriculture is not so sure that the proposed change in the pure food act would be a good thing. Secretary of Agriculture Jardine is giving close study to the problem, and while anxious to see the sale of corn sugar exploited, he is undecided as to whether changing the pure food law is the best way to do it.

Boy Walks 25 Miles to School; Pays With Bull

Oneida, Ky.—J. R. Burns and a few associates founded an institute here a few years ago, where educational opportunities were few.

When the school opened this fall, Burns says, a boy walked from Leslie county, 25 miles away, leading a two-year-old bull, which was all he had to pay his tuition and other expenses. The institute accepted him.

Later a six-year-old girl rode a mule from her home in the same county 42 miles from the school. She had nothing to offer as payment for her schooling except the promise of a pig that would be given to the institute.

A fourteen-year-old girl walked six miles to the school, where she explained that her father did not believe in education, but she wanted to learn to be a teacher.

Bible 400 Years Old Found in Seminary

Lancaster, Pa.—A copy of one of the rarest Bibles in the world—the Ulrich Zwingli Bible—the printing of which is said to have taken four years, has been discovered in the library of the Reformed Theological seminary here.

The Bible, according to its title page, was printed by Christopher Froschauer in 1529. Four years before that time the first section of the volume, which is in six sections, was printed. The text was compiled by Zwingli and several other preachers of Zurich who were associated with him, and a greater part of the German text was translated from the Latin by Martin Luther. The Bible, according to historians, at the time of its publication corresponded to the popular-priced editions of today.

Other officers recovered more of the stolen dynamite.

MEDINA CENTER OF MOHAMMEDANISM

"Second Best City in World" to Faithful.

Washington.—Medina, Arabia, "second best city in the world," to millions of Mohammedans recently fell to the forces of Ibn Saud, ruler of the fanatical Wahabis of central Arabia. The town is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Mecca and Medina, the two holy cities of Islam, have been first in peace, first in war, and first in the religious devotions of Moslems the world over for 13 centuries," says the bulletin. "The fact that Mohammedanism was planted in Mecca, but made no growth until transplanted to Medina, mirrors the physical differences between the two towns. While Mecca is set down in a steppe which is almost a desert, and while its inhabitants, ever since the place has been known, have made their livelihood as merchants (and caravan raiders), Medina is situated in an oasis and has always had strong, agricultural ties. Its valuable groves produce 139 varieties of dates, some famous throughout the Near East.

Flight "Made" Medina.

"Although a town had long existed on the site of the present Medina it was small, and the hegira or flight of Mohammed 'made' Medina almost as truly as the trek of the Mormons made Salt Lake City. This moving day of Mohammed and his little group of Meccan followers is of such importance to Moslems that it was made their year one, and on it their calendar is based. This was in 622 A. D. of the Christian system.

"From the year one to the year ten Mohammed lived in Medina where he dictated his revelations to a scribe, completing the Koran, the Bible of Islam. During these ten years, too, he conducted, from the Medina base, expeditions of his militant followers against Meccans and other Arabians, thus beginning the spread of Mohammedanism by the sword, a practice that was to remake the map of much of the world. From Medina, Mecca was captured; and because its Kabah had been the object of heathen pilgrimages for ages, the city was made the spiritual center of Mohammedanism, and the old pagan shrine was dedicated to Allah.

"Medina remained the temporal capital and Mohammed continued to live there and preach in the Medina mosque. He died in the year ten in the house of one of his wives adjoining the mosque and was buried beneath the floor where he died.

"The mosque is not an imposing structure. Only in its main gateway is there any pretense at decoration. In the courtyard, beside the grave of Mohammed, is that of Abu Bekr, his father-in-law and his immediate successor as caliph. Near-by also is the grave of Omar, the second caliph after Mohammed; and at a little distance is the resting place of Fatima, the prophet's favorite daughter. The burial plot of the three caliphs is surrounded by a high fence of iron and brass network so closely woven that the streams of pilgrims who file by catch only glimpses of the interior. Only mosque officials and great dignitaries ever enter the sacred precincts.

Non-Moslems Barred.

"Medina, like Mecca, is forbidden ground to non-Moslems, and before the Great war it was actually less known to the outside world than the spiritual center of Islam itself. Capture by the British of a detailed Turkish map and photographs of the city and the surrounding country furnished the first authentic information since the making of a sketch by Burton 70 years before.

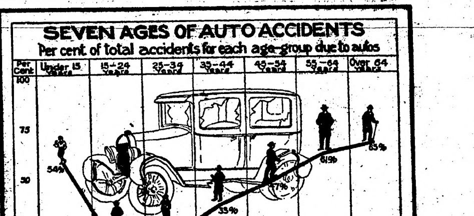
"Medina preserves its inviolability in spite of the fact that it is the terminus of a more or less modern railway. This, the famous 'pilgrim railway' from Damascus into the Hedjaz, was built by the Turks between 1900 and 1908, largely with contributions from the faithful. Practical Western diplomats, however, saw marked military value in the line, and their judgment proved to be correct during the Great war. Because of the road, Turkey was able to hold Medina against the Arab rebellion until 1919.

"Before the war Medina, like Mecca, profited greatly from pilgrims from all parts of the Moslem world. While a visit to Mecca was practically compulsory, the trip to Medina was voluntary, but gave additional merit. A drawing factor is the assertion by Mohammedans that 'one prayer offered in the Mosque of the Prophet is worth a thousand elsewhere.'

"Many thousands of pilgrims from northern Syria and Asia Minor, bound for Mecca, passed through Medina because of the railway, and many more came from Africa because the city is especially holy to their sects. In addition many of the pilgrims who went directly to Mecca made the additional pilgrimage to the second holy city, and to Medina's profit these were often the more wealthy travelers. Hundreds of pilgrims remained in Medina each year and its pre-war population was exceedingly cosmopolitan.

"The war greatly injured Medina. The Turkish garrison deported nearly three-fourths of the population during the siege by Arabs, reducing its numbers from 40,000 to about 10,000. Many houses were pulled down so that their beams might be used for locomotive fuel, and inroads were made into the valuable palm plantations near the city for the same purpose."

Shakespeare Up-to-Date Tells Motorists' Terrible Toll



SHAKESPEARE'S seven ages of mankind made no reference to the number who were cut off in their prime by automobiles. If he had, suggests the Stewart-Warner Safety Council, it might have run something like this parody on his famous lines:

At first the infant,
Killed by a truck while in his nurse's arms,
And then the careless schoolboy with his marbles,
Playing in the streets after his lessons
Are over. And then the lover,
Absent-minded, walking with a box of candy
Under his arm, to see his loved one,
Is struck by a taxi and hurtled to the ground.
Next comes the gay young blood
Out for his evening's entertainment, whom
Sixty miles an hour lands forty years too soon
Upon a slab in some unfriendly morgue.
And then the banker, full of worldly pride and honors,
Jay-walks across the street between two mighty deals of finance,
And wakes to find Saint Peter quizzing him.
Next, the family man, with years upon him,
Confused and jostled in the crowd,
Missteps, and dies amid thanksgiving
That his last premium was paid up.
And last, hoary age, tottering and feeble,
Perhaps with crutch, or eye too dimmed with time,
An easy victim for some selfish motorist,
Sans care, sans thought, sans skill, sans everything—but speed.

The chart above shows what proportion of all accidents happening to each age group are automobile accidents. The toll is highest for the very young and very old. This situation is explained partly by the heedlessness of the young and the infirmity of old age. Moreover, these two groups are least involved in industrial accidents which makes their automobile casualties constitute a larger part of their total accidents.

WLS New Superpower Station Now on the Air

NO PHASE of science which radio wizards have been able to discover has been left untouched in building the new superpower station for WLS, the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation station, Chicago, near Crete, Ill., on the Dixie Highway. The transmitter is 5,000-watt capacity, with tubes of 10,000-watt units. A specially designed frequency amplifier assures the holding of the same wave length under all conditions and the use of the capacity reduces the possibility of interference with other stations, according to Curtis D. Peck, engineer in charge. The station is located on a two-and-one-half-acre plot. The site is landscaped and beautified with hedges and creeping bent grass lawns. Fifteen miles of ground wire were plowed in rows under the lawn as a farmer plants his potatoes. The building contains an extra large operating room, office, reception room for visitors, generator and battery rooms and switch closets. The most up-to-date construction has been employed throughout. An elaborate hot-water system has been installed to prevent freezing of the water used in cooling tubes. The towers are 200 feet high and 40 feet at the base. The wave length remains the same—345 meters. The inaugural program was broadcast October 31. A new "radio art" studio in the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, was opened to the radio public at the same time.

The 700,000 persons killed and injured by Automobiles in 1924 would form an unbroken Chain of 660 miles!
STEWART-WARNER AUTOMOBILE SAFETY COUNCIL

A CARAVAN of death and suffering 660 miles long is what the annual automobile casualties of the United States would form if placed in one continuous line. From New York to Detroit, painful mile on painful mile, this ghastly and pathetic human chain would reach. This graphic picture prepared by the Stewart-Warner Safety Council for the prevention of automobile accidents, tells its own story. Twenty-two thousand killed annually by automobiles and 660,000 injured is the present toll caused by thoughtless drivers and careless pedestrians. Only a small per cent of the accidents are due to defects in the cars or can rightly be called unavoidable.

Wooden Bridges Give Way to Modernism.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Hundreds of old covered wooden bridges, many of them built before the Civil war, have stood stanchly despite their builders' lack of knowledge of many of the present-day principles of structural engineering, according to William S. Titus, chief engineer for the state department of highways.

Despite the highway department's efforts to replace the old covered bridges with modern steel and concrete structures more than a hundred of them remain in use.

While the old covered wooden bridge is not confined to Indiana it is probable more of them were built here than in any other state, Titus said. Timber was plentiful and there were many small streams to be crossed.

From records it is believed the first wooden bridge was built at Dublin in 1834. It was razed a few years ago for a steel structure. The Patoka bridge, on the road between Evansville and Vanderburg, replaced two years ago, was in use 70 years and scores of other bridges stood more than 60 years. The stone in the abutments of the Dublin bridge was Bedford limestone, and as there were no railroads in 1834, it is reasonably believed that it was hauled overland by oxen 150 miles.

Probably the longest covered bridge in the state is at Matamora. Two of the best preserved bridges are at Rushville and Connersville.

Engineers of pioneer days had a twofold purpose in covering their bridges, Titus said, explaining that the covering prevented rain, water and snow accumulating in the bed of the bridge, and increasing the deterioration of the floor, and to provide a shelter for persons caught on the highway during heavy rain or snow storms.

Romance and tragedy are woven into the lore of the old bridges. In their shelter lovers out buggy riding stopped for a kiss, and many a lone wayfarer was beaten, sometimes to death, and robbed by highwaymen who lurked within the cavernous passageways.

It is significant that all the covered bridges were built to cross the stream at right angles, and this accounts for the almost invariable bend in the roadways approaching covered bridges. By building directly across the stream instead of at an angle the builders saved material and expense. Direct traffic lines are necessary today and sometimes a bridge is built at a very pronounced angle across the stream.

Mother's Vow Results in Miniature Church

Cresco, Iowa.—The mother of John Gaertner, a French explorer, who was with Napoleon's forces at the burning of Moscow, vowed that if God would safely return her son she would build a church.

The son returned, but his mother, because of financial difficulties, was unable to carry out her plan. Her granddaughter, Mrs. Mary Anna Huber, however, took up the work, and the result was the building in 1885 of St. Anthony's Catholic chapel.

The church is of native lime rock. It is 11 feet wide and 17 feet long. It has four stained-glass windows, a tall belfry, a cross, four pews, a center aisle, a main altar and two side altars. It seats eight persons.

The tiny edifice, dedicated to the memory of John Gaertner, was maintained by the Huber family until 1924, when St. Anthony's Chapel association, formed by 65 grandchildren of Mary Anna Huber, took over its care.

Horse Meat Is French Luxury as Costs Soar

Paris.—Horse meat, formerly "the poor man's beefsteak," has become a French luxury. Scarcity of butcherable animals is given as the cause of its enormous increase in price.

One pound of choice horse meat at the local markets recently was quoted 9.50 francs—about 40 cents. Pork chops could be had for 8.50, roast beef for 9 and mutton for 7.50.

Besides the gradual disappearance of horses "on the hoof" available for the markets, a tax of 1 franc 25 centimes per pound placed on the meat was said to have influenced higher prices.

Horse meat is recommended by physicians for persons suffering from tuberculosis and all diseases of anemia of the blood.

Grocer's Clerk Must Know His Onions

Olympia, Wash.—Every grocer's clerk will have to know his onions if Representative Moran's bill, which proposes to license these merchants, passes the legislature now in session. Every clerk a dietitian, every clerk a linguist, every clerk a public accountant. Such is the grocery utopia as pictured by the official. His bill provides that no one shall be licensed as a grocer's clerk unless he has had three years' experience working in such a store, and over the age of twenty-one. A grocer's apprentice shall be eighteen years and must possess both affidavits as to good moral character and certain educational qualifications.

"Why, Uncle Jim! You look ten years younger!"

"When I saw you a couple of months ago, I made up my mind you were getting old. At least you looked it."

"Yes, Billie, and I felt old. No appetite, couldn't sleep nights—one day just like another, and none of them any good. I knew constipation was at the bottom of it, but it seemed the more laxatives I took the worse I got. Then one day I saw Nell giving Nujol to my little grandson. The doctor had prescribed it for the baby, but I found out it's just the thing for old fellows like me, too."

"I tell you, Billie, it keeps me feeling fine all the time. My appetite's back and I sleep like a child. If I look any younger, Nujol gets the credit."

Nujol helps Nature in Nature's own way

Middle age brings on a decrease in the natural lubricating secretions in the intestine. Then you need Nujol. It supplies the deficiency of the natural lubricant. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is gentle, safe and natural in its action.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. Nujol simply softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles. It is not a medicine.

You can take Nujol for any length of time without ill effects. It should be taken regularly in accordance with the directions on each bottle. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time. Ask your druggist for Nujol today and begin to enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when elimination is normal and regular.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power,
And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave,
Await alike the inevitable hour:
The paths of glory lead but to the grave.

A VARIETY OF DISHES

For a change when preparing a brace of rabbits, try:

Rabbit Pie (Missouri Style).—Skin and disjoint the rabbits and cover with boiling water. Add one sliced onion, a slice of bacon, a bay leaf, one teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper, and a tablespoonful of kitchen bouquet; simmer tightly covered until tender. Remove the meat, thicken the stock with flour, add any more seasoning needed and strain over the meat. Place a biscuit dough over the meat and bake half an hour.

Potted Pigeon.—Clean, wash and truss the pigeons, season and brown in a small amount of fat—pork fat will be best; add boiling water to cover, with one chopped onion, one bay leaf, a slice of carrot, a sprig of parsley and salt to taste. Cook until tender, remove the pigeon and thicken the liquor with flour mixed with enough cold water to blend, let boil, then pour over the pigeons and serve. The pigeons will require about two hours cooking, depending upon their age.

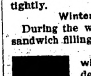
Baked Ham.—Cover a ham with cold water and bring to the simmering point, simmer gently for two or three hours, until the skin loosens, then put the ham well drained and dried into a baking pan, after removing the skin. Mix a teaspoonful of mustard in two cupfuls of boiling water, add one cupful of vinegar and pour the mixture over the ham, beating frequently during the baking. When the ham is well baked, cover with brown sugar, press down firmly, adding a few cloves; dredge the top with flour and return to the oven to brown. The cloves will flavor the ham better if cooked in it during the whole time of baking.

Baked Pork Chops.—Chop some of the fat from the chops very fine, add two tablespoonfuls of the fat to one and one-half cupfuls of bread crumbs, a fourth of a cupful of boiling water, salt and a beaten egg. Lay six chops in a baking pan and cover with the dressing, adding pepper to taste. Cover the bottom of the pan with boiling water and bake in a moderate oven, basting occasionally, one hour.

Apple Preserves.—Make a sirup of a pound of sugar, a pint of water, the grated rind of a lemon, the juice of a lemon; let boil briskly five minutes. Drop quarters of apple into the sirup and cook gently until clear; then set aside to cool. Boil the sirup down, arrange the apple in glass jars and pour over the fruit in the jars. Seal tightly.

Winter Sandwiches.

During the winter more nourishing sandwich fillings are enjoyed.



Deviled Ham Sandwiches.—Mix one can of deviled ham with one or two finely chopped pickles and moisten with mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing. Spread thin slices of bread with mayonnaise, and an equal number very thinly with prepared mustard; spread the latter with the ham mixture and cover with the remaining slices. Press edges together, trim off the crusts and shape as desired. Serve with potato salad and coffee.

Chicken and Nut Sandwiches.—Finely chop the white meat of cold boiled chicken. Season with salt, pepper and moisten with mayonnaise dressing. Shape thin slices of white bread with a crescent, spread thinly one-half the slices with mayonnaise and very thinly sliced almonds or Brazil nuts. Spread the remaining half with the chicken mixture; put together in pairs, press the edges to keep them in shape, arrange in baskets or on sandwich plates. Serve with ripe olives, sweet pickles and dainty cheese balls.

Onion and Bacon Sandwiches.—Broil thin slices of bacon until brown, drain, chop fine. Peel and finely chop one southern onion—there should be one part bacon to two parts onion. Mix thoroughly and moisten with mayonnaise dressing. Spread thin slices of bread with creamed butter, then with mayonnaise; spread half of the slices with the prepared ham, press together and cut into triangles.

Hot Chicken Sandwiches.—Chop medium fine some cold cooked chicken. Have ready rounds of toast, hot and buttered. Slightly moisten the chicken with hot chicken gravy and spread half the rounds with the chicken mixture. Cover with the remaining rounds and arrange on hot plates, pour over the hot gravy and serve at once.

Chocolate Sandwiches.—Melt one-half cupful of broken chocolate, add one-fourth cupful each of sugar and hot water or cream. Cook five minutes, stirring constantly. Add a teaspoonful of vanilla and two teaspoonfuls of butter. When slightly cool spread on sponge cake, lady fingers or white buttered bread. Cut into fancy shapes.

Many Old Timers in Plymouth, Vt.

Plymouth, Vt., which is justly proud of having given a President to the country, has another claim to fame, the Associated Press reports.

It probably is one of the most salubrious spots in this section of the country.

Herb Moore and several oldtimers were discussing with Angus MacAulley, guard at the home of the President's father, Col. John C. Coolidge, the longevity of the inhabitants of Plymouth township.

Someone raised the question of actual numbers and in little more than half an hour they had named 38 men and women whose ages ranged from eighty to well over ninety. They declared there must be at least half a dozen others.

In the Big League

A rising young burglar had just moved in from Milwaukee to Chicago and won the hand of Chi Bessie, the famous dip. He rushed home one morning in the wee, small hours in high excitement.

"Wake up, kid!" he shouted to his wife. "Wake up! Pack up! We gotta hop a rattler quick. I just cracked the biggest crib in town and bumped off a coupla harness bulls!"

"Aw, shut up and go to sleep," expostulated the fair lady. "You're in Chicago now."—From Everybody's Magazine.

North America's Richest Virgin Land for $15 to $20 per Acre

"I haven't the chance that Dad had. When he was young land was cheap, but now—"

If that has been your point of view—if you have felt that your father had a chance which is denied to you—think of Canada, the New Giant of the North, with three hundred million acres of the finest agricultural land in the world. You know what has happened in the Western States; use your imagination to picture what must happen in Canada. See the new Iowas rising out of the Canadian prairies!

The soil is newer, richer—and cheaper. Railroads have already opened up the new country. Canada's railroad service is the pride of the Canadian people, and the freight rates on the farmer's products are lower than in the United States. Dollars saved in freight are dollars added to the farmer's bank account. Roads, schools, churches, market towns, rural telephones—they're all there now, awaiting the new settler—awaiting you.

Every Advantage is With Canada

Lower freight rates are not the only advantage. There is lower taxation—no taxes at all on the farmer's house, live-stock, improvements, machinery, and personal effects! And bigger, better crops. The new, rich soil gives a bigger yield per acre, and the high quality brings a better price per bushel. Canada's wheat crop for 1925 is now officially placed at more than 422,000,000 bushels —an increase of 160,000,000 over 1924. Canada's barley crop for 1925 was 113,000,000 bushels—the greatest on record. Oats increased 116,000,000 bushels over 1924. Other crops—dairying—fruit-raising—all kinds of mixed farming—are rapidly increasing. Canada is going ahead!

Canada's farm lands are rich, fertile, and cheap. Only one-fifth of their great area is as yet under cultivation; the other four-fifths offer you your opportunity—the greatest farm opportunity in the world to-day. Good virgin land, close to railways, can be bought at $15 to $20 an acre, with long terms of payment if desired. Free homesteads farther back.

Indians Lose Lake Land

(By the Associated Press)

Washington, Feb. 1.—The former bed of Mud Lake, Minn., does not belong to the Chippewa Indians, the Supreme Court held today.

The land surrounding Mud lake was sold for the benefit of the Chippewas and the lake was subsequently drained.

The government claimed the bed of the lake for the Indians. The lower Federal courts held that Mud lake was a navigable body of water before it was drained and that the bed belonged to the riparian owners.

The government then appealed its suit against the Holt State bank, the Deposit Bank of Winona, the Federal Land bank of St. Paul, and others.

Holt Basketeers Win Over Roseau

The men's team of Holt defeated the Roseau Independents here last Thursday night by a score of 44 and 17. The large score tallied by the local quint was the result of a vigorous offence which completely broke down the defense of the Roseau team. Joe Holte, the buttermaker from Thief River Falls, refereed the game, and was satisfactory to both teams, we are pleased to report.

New Comic Feature Coming Next Week

Beginning next week we will have a new column feature in our inside pages, entitled "Nellie Revell Says". This is a column of lafter and human appeal by one of the most loved women in America. She has been in the public eye for years. She knows the human race and thinks as others think, only she says it with a smile. But you will have to read this column yourself, starting next week.

On page 2 of this issue will be found an account of the death of Cardinal Mercier of Belgium.

Melvin Nohre and family returned home Friday from Spring Grove where they have spent the past month visiting friends and relatives.

John P. Lein Was Pioneer Resident of Marshall Co.

The following obituary of John P. Lein, who died Jan. 19, 1926 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. H. Gunheim (with whom he has made his home the last ten years), was taken from the Warren Sheaf:

"John P. Lein was born in Frostad, near Trondhjem, Norway, Nov. 17, 1835 and like other ambitious young men in those days took up military training and became an officer with the cavalry forces of his native land. In 1864 he was married to Marit Ringdalen and eight years later this young couple immigrated to the United States and for a few years resided in Iowa. In 1880 they moved to the Red River Valley, taking a homestead in Walsh County, Dakota Territory, and after proving up the same they located in what is now Fork township, Marshall county, Minnesota.

"Mr. Lein became the first clerk of the town of Fork and Postmaster of the Postoffice of the same name, established the Fork store in connection and took a prominent part in public affairs in general until after his wife's death a few years ago when he sold out his business, devoting some time in travels, visiting his old home in Norway, touring Sweden and Germany, and besides at the advanced age of 84 years he was as active and observing as tho a man of middle age."

Carl Nyberg returned to his home at Thief River Falls Monday after a month's stay at the Melvin Nohre home.

Loyd Larson was a visitor at Middle River Saturday where he had some dental work done.

Remarks on One Thing and Another

By Eddy Torial.

Our basketball team is no lollipop-you can't lick it, even tho the final score is against it (due sometimes to a faulty referee).

Our creamery is the capitol building for Holt and vicinity. Right now it is the life of the town. It is the duty of every farmer to support it.

Dumb Dora says that many things do not pass away but merely change names. For instance, during the late war we had Meatless Days. Now we have Ground Hog days. Three cheers for sausage meat!

The editor of the Marshall County Banner at Argyle says (after reading our piece about the Argyle game here):

"......the Holt Weekly News editor (poor sport) thinks that the referee should have given the Holt team the game."

Ponder a moment on these words, and enjoy to the full the ludicrousness of them.

The way the game turned out it looks at tho the referee gave the game to the Argyle boys.... as he was bound to give it to someone....and the Holt team usually wins games where only five men play. We are sticklers for fair play, and we contend that the Holt team is one of the fastest teams in Marshall, Kittson, and Roseau counties. Bring on your teams, but no more bum referees!

Ground Hog Day happened on Tuesday, the 2d of February. According to legend, if this day is sunny, the Ground Hog will see his shadow and will go to bed for another six weex; whereas, if the day is cloudy, the animal will stick around awhile. The deductions from these actions will tell you whether we will have a late or early spring. The memorable day this year was cloudy, so we may soon look for the snow to melt.

Carlson Mercantile Company, Inc.
Holt, Minnesota.

USERS of De Laval Cream Separators have carried away every first prize awarded at conventions of the National Creamery Buttermakers' Association since their first meeting in 1892. The record is unbroken!

The reason is that De Laval bowl design, together with low speed, enables the delivery of butter-fat globules unbroken and in their natural condition—thus insuring better butter.

Because of its close skimming the De Laval produces more cream, which means more butter.

Thus the user of a De Laval Separator gets both more and better butter.

MERCIER, WORLD WAR HERO, DIES

Kingdom of Belgium Plunged In Sorrow as Heroic War Figure, Courageous to End, Passes

Brussels—Cardinal Mercier, primate of Belgium and one of the heroic figures of the World war, died at the age of 74, losing his long battle against the decline that set in after an operation December 29. He was surrounded by members of his family, the clergy of his archdiocese, and a representative of King Albert, when the end came. Already there is talk in Brussels of erecting a monument in honor of "the wartime soul of Belgium" by popular subscription.

Cardinal Desiratus Mercier was acclaimed as hero priest by the civilized world because of his defense of Belgium, stricken to earth with the German advance in 1914. He was in Rome when news of the invasion reached him and hastened back to Belgium. His courageous attitude toward the invaders evoked the world's admiration. His devotion to his people never faltered, even under the pressure of threats of violence to himself. His famous Pastoral Letter of December, 1914, read in every church in Belgium, has been called one of the most damning indictments of the German invasion of Belgium and German treatment of Belgium people ever written.

The working people paid homage to Cardinal Mercier. Stores and factories and workshops were closed down and when the doors of the archiepiscopal palace at Malines closed more than 100,000 persons had walked past the catafalque. The chamber of deputies approved the credits for a national funeral and the session was suspended 15 minutes as a token of mourning.

Weeks Made Defendant in Suit

Washington—A suit against John W. Weeks, former secretary of war, for $1,102,000 alleged to be involved in claims settled in 1921 in connection with the purchase by the United States of Austrian ships, was filed here by Charles B. Brewer, former department of justice employe. Brewer, who figured prominently in the investigation of bond duplication in the bureau of engraving and printing several years ago, declared in his suit that the claim, approved by Mr. Weeks when he was secretary of war, was false and, on behalf of the United States and himself individually, asked recovery of the amount allowed. The claim, he alleged was for $550,000 and was awarded George A. Carden and Anderson Herd.

Crowe Asks Death for Durkin

Chicago—A death verdict for Martin J. Durkin, youthful slayer of two officers, jailed here after his capture near St. Louis, Mo., will be the demand of the prosecution. "Martin Durkin is going to hang if it is humanly possible for us to get a death verdict," said Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, as he planned for Durkin's arraignment. "We will try our best."

Coolidge Greets French Envoy

Washington—Henry Berenger, the new French ambassador, presented his credentials to President Coolidge. President Coolidge took occasion in his reply to the ambassador's remarks to say it was his "honest hope that a fair and honorable adjustment" of the Franco-American war debt "will be reached in the near future."

Jardine Urges Faith in Plan. To Aid Northwest Farmers

Urbana, Ill. — Admitting that the "agricultural surplus problem" does exist, and that it can be solved, William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, went a step further than his chief, Pesident Coolidge, and in an address before the Illinois Agricultural association here indicated a changing attitude in Washington. Before the American Farm Bureau federation in Chicago, December 8, President Coolidge virtually denied there was a "surplus problem." Today his secretary of agriculture, who was raised on a farm in Kansas, admitted that surplus production is pulling down agricultural prices, and pleaded for "sympathetic consideration," while the government grappled with the "undeniable economic conditions back of the problem."

China Submits To Ultimatum

Peking—Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian military dictator, ordered the release of M. Ivanhoff, manager of the Chinese Eastern railway, and the other Russians arrested at Harbin. This information was received by M. Karakhan, the Soviet minister here, from his consul general at Harbin. The Soviet government had made strenuous representations for the release of the arrested men. Other official telegrams from Harbin make no mention of the release of M. Ivanoff, but quote the Soviet secretary of the railway as saying that if the Chinese refused to comply with the Soviet ultimatum (giving 72 hours for the release of Ivanoff), Red troops would march in and take control of the railway.

House Will Fight Tax Cut

Washington—Already facing stiff opposition in the senate, the tax reduction bill has new troubles before it with notice from the house of its unacceptability as revised by the senate finance committee. Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee, which drafted the bill approved by the house, opposes the revised measure on the ground that its additional reductions would mean an ultimate loss in revenue of $467,000,000 or $167,000,000 more than Secretary Mellon previously stated could be allowed.

Crown Prince of Sweden Coming

Minneapolis—Gustav Adolph, crown prince of Sweden, and his wife, Princess Louise, will visit Minneapolis and St. Paul, June 27 and 28, a dispatch from Stockholm announced. The Twin Cities will be included in a tour of the United States for which the crown prince and his wife are to leave Stockholm in May. They expect to remain in the United States until August 1, when they will leave for the Orient from San Francisco.

Federal Agents Seize Rum Ship

New York—Marine police seized the ocean going tug Rescue with a cargo of liquor said to be worth more than half a million dollars after a chase off Sandy Hook in which a half dozen shots from a one-pounder were fired. Coast Guard officers said there was a possibility that the Rescue, which is of 537 tons, and 200 feet long, may have brought the liquor across the ocean.

The Reason Why

A Sunday school teacher asked a pupil why Ananias was so severely punished.

The little one thought a minute, then answered:

"Please, teacher, they weren't so used to lying in those days."

Help That Bad Back!

Too Often It's a Warning of Disordered Kidneys

WHY drag around feeling old, worn out and miserable? Why not make up your mind to be well? That daily backache, those sharp, stabbing pains—dizziness, bladder irregularities, nervousness and depression, are signs of kidney inactivity. Use Doan's Pills. Thousands recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

Here Is Convincing Proof: A North Dakota Case

Mrs. W. F. Rardon, Cando, N. D., says: "I have had attacks of kidney trouble when I could hardly get around. I have had backache and lameness in my sides and hips. At times when I stooped, I became dizzy and specks came before my eyes, blurring my sight. Doan's Pills have always rid me of these attacks."

"But constipation is serious, Grace"

"Not so long ago I was like you—headaches a good deal of the time, sleeping badly, and the least bit of housework tired me out. My complexion too, was bad.

"Finally, I went to see Dr. Farman. He showed me that it was constipation that was back of my troubles. He said that it was a very serious thing because poisons from clogged waste matter were picked up by the blood and carried to every body organ. And if I didn't correct it in time I might become a victim of one of those terrible organic diseases.

"He made me drop laxatives altogether, changed my diet, and put me on Nujol. I don't think I've ever felt better. I sleep well, my headaches have disappeared, and you can see for yourself what an improvement there is in my skin. Nujol has done wonders for me."

Nujol Works Like Nature

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It is neither a food nor a medicine. It does not gripe. It is gentle and natural in its action and is prescribed by leading medical authorities.

Nujol simply makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly, in accordance with the directions on each bottle. As Nujol is not a laxative, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

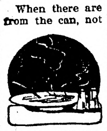
The KITCHEN CABINET

It would be thought a hard government that should tax its people one-tenth part of their time, to be employed in its service, but idleness taxes us much more, if we reckon all that is spent in absolute sloth or doing nothing, with that which is spent in idle employments, or amusements that amount to nothing. Sloth by bringing on disease, absolutely shortens life. Sloth, like rust, consumes faster than labor wears. —Poor Richard.

GOOD OYSTER DISHES



When there are a few oysters left from the can, not enough to make a soup or stew alone, add a pint or more of chicken broth to the stew—the flavor of the oysters and chicken is especially good together. The oysters may be chopped and added to the soup.

Deviled Oysters.—Place oysters in the following sauce and let them stand an hour: One-half cupful of vinegar, one tablespoonful of grated horseradish, one tablespoonful of worcestershire sauce, four drops of tabasco sauce, two-thirds of a cupful of olive oil, one teaspoonful of pepper, one-half teaspoonful of paprika and a little grated onion. After standing, roll in crumbs and beaten egg, then again in crumbs. Fry in deep fat, drain on paper. Serve very hot.

Oyster fritters are delicious served with:

King Sauce.—Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, two tablespoonfuls of finely minced pepper, cook until well done, add one cupful of milk, and two-thirds of a cupful of oyster liquor. Cook until well blended.

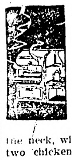
Oyster Scramble.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add three beaten eggs, one-half cupful of milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one cupful of parboiled oysters cut into small pieces. Cook until well heated through and serve on toast.

Oyster a la King.—Cook two tablespoonfuls of minced mushrooms in four tablespoonfuls of butter and one green pepper chopped (for four minutes), add two tablespoonfuls of flour, one and one-half cupfuls of milk, two egg yolks beaten, one chopped pimento, salt to season, two cupfuls of oysters, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and one-half teaspoonful of onion juice. Cook until the oysters curl and serve hot on buttered toast.

Lobster en Casserole.—Shred one cupful of lobster. Make a paste of one and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour and a little from one cupful of milk. Place the rest of the milk in a double boiler and when warm add the flour paste. Cook, stirring until the sauce thickens, then add one teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of paprika, four teaspoonfuls of minced parsley, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter, and the same of lemon juice. Drain two cupfuls of canned peas, then stir them into the sauce. Place a layer of bread crumbs in the bottom of a baking dish, then add layers of the lobster and the sauce, using bread crumbs to finish the top. Set into a pan of water and bake about thirty minutes. Any other sea food such as crabs, shrimps, oysters, salmon or other fish will be good instead of lobster.

Foods That Are Liked.

For a change when nothing seems to appeal to the taste try:



Stuffed Baked Potatoes.—Cut a core with an apple-corer from the center of good-sized potatoes and insert a roll of bacon, stop the end with a cork of the potato and bake until well done. Small sausages may be served in this way, adding variety.

Chicken Soup.—Take the neck, wing tips and feet of one or two chickens, cover with cold water and bring to the simmering point. Simmer for several hours, then remove the bones, strip off all the meat and return it to the soup. Serve with a little rice or thickened with a tablespoonful of flour and butter. Serve with small squares of bread fried in butter or buttered and browned in the oven. Scald the chicken feet and remove the skin before using them for soup. They contain, with the bones, sufficient gelatin to use as aspic for a salad, if not used as soup.

Minute Pudding.—Mix two tablespoonfuls of butter with two of flour and when well blended add a cupful of milk, a little salt, cook until smooth and thick and serve with sugar and butter as pudding or with diced bacon in a white sauce, as a hot dish for luncheon or supper. The bacon should be cooked crisp and brown before adding to the white sauce.

Cabbage Salad.—Shred very fine a quart of crisp cabbage. Drop into ice water to stand and chill for an hour, drain and serve with a teaspoonful or less of salt, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, a half-cupful of cream and a few tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Mix well and serve well chilled.

Green peas cooked, a few chopped peanuts and one or two sour pickles finely minced, adding salad dressing will make another good salad.

Canada's Cattle

"Take the Cream"

LIVE stock breeders in Canada grow rich. The men who farm in your easily-reached neighbor country find every encouragement for raising high quality beef and dairy cattle.

At the great National Dairy Exposition at Indianapolis in October, 1925, the most coveted prize offered—first award for State Herd—was captured by Canadian Holsteins. The Senior and Grand Champion Female was a Canadian cow. Likewise, the Junior Champion Bull came from Canada. Of 24 animals entered by 10 Canadian breeders and shown against approximately 300 of the best dairy type animals produced in North America, 18 won individual prizes. The uniform high quality of the exhibit from Canada was conceded by all and was very generally commented upon.

Equally great are the opportunities in Canada for grain growing, mixed farming and fruit and poultry raising. Cheaper land, larger crops and bigger profits await you—along with a cordial welcome, and every facility for prosperous, independent life. Three hundred million acres of North America's richest agricultural land—virgin soil on which the best hard wheat in the world can be raised at lowest cost and marketed at highest prices!

This most productive land is fully served by railways. Freight rates are lower than in the States. Land taxes, too, are lighter. Good roads, markets, schools, and churches. Rural telephone service. Good neighbors, who probably include folks from your home district. Yet the cost is only $15 to $20 an acre—with long-term payments arranged, if desired. Farther back from the railroads, free homesteads, partially wooded, are still available within reasonable distances. In 1924 Americans took up 608 of these homesteads; during the period from January to November, 1925, Americans took up 657 homesteads in Canada.

If you are a farmer, or a young man eager to farm under ideal conditions, do not put this paper down until you write a letter to salaried officials of the Government of Canada who are at your service to assist you in moving and getting suitably located. Canada wants you and is willing to serve you. Act at once! 576

POTATOES were a very profitable crop in 1925, according to a survey made by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. The acreage was the smallest since 1919 and the yield the lowest since 1917. Following four years of overproduction and very low prices, the 1925 season started off with a good price, which increased daily. The peak will be reached in spring shipments.

The annual consumption of 3½ bushels per capita, including seed, is 370,000,000 bushels. The 1925 crop is estimated at 323,243,000 bushels or 46,757,000 bushels under normal consumption.

The 1925 crop is 24 per cent less than the crop produced in 1924, but the ratio of consumable potatoes for the two years may vary still more in favor of the 1925 crop.

With the acreage cut severely all over the country in 1925, the opening prices started out on a higher scale than the peak prices for 1924 and began to increase at digging time until they reached in some instances $3.50 and $4 per hundredweight at local shipping stations. Every grower should save seed for next spring, as all indications point to high-priced seed potatoes for 1926 with an exception that the acreage planted will be larger in 1926.

One Dollar Fifty Per Year In Advance

Issued Weekly From The Home Of The Biggest Co-operative Creamery In Marshall County

MEN'S TEAM WINS AND LOSES GAMES

Comes Out 14-11 Winner At Red Lake Falls; Loses 13-19 at Roseau.

The men's basketball team of Holt journeyed down to Red Lake Falls last Friday nite and engaged the men's team of that town in a rough game. Holt came out at the final whistle in the lead, the score being 14-11.

The men's team lost a game to Roseau at Roseau last Thursday nite by a score of 13 and 19. Apparently the Holt boys went into the game with too much confidence, and therefore overstepped themselves and lost.

Dr. Bowers Has Auto Accident

While Dr. J. T. Bowers of Thief River Falls was driving out to the Ed. Horien home on a call last Thursday evening his coupe overturned into the ditch about five miles south of town on the Jefferson highway.

He had gotten that far when the lights of his car burned out. He decided to make Holt without lights. As he was facing a snowstorm, his car ran off the grade with the above results.

He and Mrs. Bowers, who was riding with him, were forced to make the rest of their trip in a wrecking truck which Dr. Bowers called out from Thief River Falls.

Luckily no one was injured and little damage was done to car.

The Hi-Line men have now completed the new sub-station east of town and Holt is now getting the current from Bemidji.

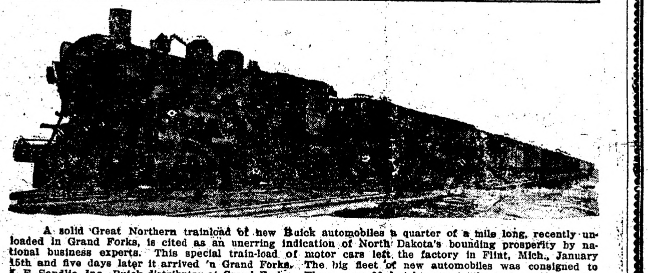
Manifestation of North Dakota's Prosperity Appears in Special Trainload of Automobiles



A solid Great Northern trainload of new Buick automobiles a quarter of a mile long, recently unloaded in Grand Forks, is cited as an unerring indication of North Dakota's bounding prosperity by national business experts. This special train-load of motor cars left the factory in Flint, Mich., January 15th and five days later it arrived in Grand Forks. The big fleet of new automobiles was consigned to T. E. Sandlie, Inc., Buick distributor at Grand Forks. There were 30 freight cars in the train and the automobile consignment was valued at $137,374. It was one of the largest shipments of automobiles to be sent to a single dealer in the history of North Dakota. Another big order has been placed for March delivery. "Business in North Dakota never was so good for the man with the right product," Mr. Sandlie declares.

Mrs. S. Hagen and her sister-in-law, Mrs. O. Haug, came last Friday from Greenbush to visit at the home of the former's dauter, Mrs. Peter Hanson. Mrs. Haug returned to Greenbush on Monday, but Mrs. Hagen remained here to visit for a while.

Former Holt Man Is Killed in Calif.

Word was received here that Dan Dahlstrom, a former resident of Holt, was killed at Turlock, California last week, where he has been making his home the last few years.

His car, with which he was driving over a railroad crossing, was hit by a fast-moving train. Dahlstrom was instantly killed.

Good Argument For Prohibition

One argument that the prohibition law is a failure is because the law is ignored by the moonshiners, rum-runners, blind-piggers, and boot-leggers. Using the same line of argument, the laws against arson, robbery, and murder are also failures because they don't stop those crimes. It would be just as sensible to abolish the law against murder as to abolish the law against liquor crimes because they continue in spite of the law.—Hibbing Daily News.

Meet Nellie Revell: Laff Troubles Away

Men like her for her bubbling humor and her stories of Broadway. Women like her for her human touches and her knowledge of a woman's heart.

That's Nellie Revell! The most loved woman in America and possessor of more friends than any other because she has been in the public eye for years, has traveled all over the country, and has aroused widespread sympathy and admiration for her brave four-year fight she made flat on her back in a hospital.

But she is chiefly dear to thousands of hearts because of her infinite capacity for friendliness. She knows the human race. She thinks the way others think, only she says it with a smile.

What's this all about?

Why, simply this:

Nellie Revell is going to write a column of lafter and human appeal for the HOLT WEEKLY NEWS. The first article appears elsewhere in this week's issue. Look for it now and see if you don't enjoy every word of it.

The Black Gang

By Cyril McNeile

Under the pen name of Sapper, the author had achieved a considerable fame for stories of unique character and lively action. Then he wrote "Bulldog Drummond," which jumped into instant popularity, was dramatized and ran for several years, and even now is being shown in moving pictures to fascinated crowds in various portions of the country. NEW RECORD SET IN CAR CAPACITY

More Than Square Mile Area of Wheat is Transported by One Loading of Five Great Northern Box Cars.

St. Paul, Minn.—Five cars loaded on the Great Northern Railroad during the big wheat movement transported 12,565 bushels of wheat, the equivalent of the yield from 837 acres, figuring 15 bushels to the acre as an average yield. Each of these cars had a marked capacity of 140,000 pounds, nearly twice the capacity of any of the average box cars in the country. In this particular loading these Great Northern cars carried an average of 150,780 pounds or more than 70 tons of grain per car.

Commenting on this the Railway Age said: "It has been by similar, although seldom such extraordinary, increases in the capacity of equipment, and by all the improvements in physical facilities and operating methods required to handle freight in big carloads and trainloads, that the economy of transportation has been continually increased on the railroads of the United States with the result that, in proportion to wages and prices, they handle freight much cheaper than railways anywhere outside of North America."

Italy Leads in Lemons.

The bulk of lemons entering into world trade are from Italy. Her exports in both 1920 and 1921 were approximately 4,000,000 boxes, which was about half the pre-war figure of 8,000,000 boxes. Imports into the United Kingdom amounted to 1,000,000 boxes in 1921, as compared with 700,000 boxes in 1920 and 900,000 boxes in 1913. After the United Kingdom, Germany and the Netherlands are the heaviest importers of lemons.

In King Tut's Time.

Folks in King Tut's time were not so slow. Carl Mitman, in cataloguing the ship models in his department of the Smithsonian Institution, points out that Egyptians built boat hulls of the correct form for speed nearly 4,000 years before modern scientific designers arrived at the same conclusions. Vikings had the right idea and Malay pirates had the waveline theory of construction down to perfection when English and American sailboats were clumsy tubs.

BOYS WIN FROM T. R. F.

Visitors Scrappy But Inexperianced; Game Was Very Rough

Last Thursday evening a group of boys from Thief River Falls calling themselves the "East Siders" came up here, full of fight, to play the school team of Holt, but were defeated.

The game was rough in the extreme, resembling a football game rather than a basketball game. Very little teamwork could be sandwiched in, as both teams fot furiously for possession of the ball, leaving little room for passing. By a flash of luck one of the Thief River boys managed to cage one basket from a difficult position just before first half ended. This made the score 2-0, in favor of the visitors.

In the 3d quarter Trygve Hetland of the locals plopped in three baskets in succession and Leonard Ellestad shoved in one. The visitors retaliated by making three baskets, thus making the score an 8-8 tie at the end of the third quarter.

The last quarter saw one basket made for Thief River, and two for Holt, one by Leonard Ellestad and the other by Fritz Knutson. Thus the game ended with a score of 12 and 10 in favor of the locals.

Fred Fredrickson at forward position had hard luck with his tries for the basket, but "fed" the ball to his team-mates with results.

Ervin and Loyd Larson at the positions of guards were, as usual, "tight" keepers of the goals. Fritz Knutson, who substituted for Ervin Larson in the last quarter, made some nervous, flashy dribbles down the hall, but only one netted him a basket.

O. C. Johnson refereed the game.

MINNESOTA NEWS

Bemidji—Establishment of a national park on the east peninsula between upper and lower Red Lakes depends upon ratification of a program of this kind by the Chippewa Indians who own the Red Lake reservation.

Morton—Married 65 years and residents of Minnesota for 60 years, is the record of Mr. and Mrs. William Witte, who just observed their wedding anniversary. Mr. Witte is 92 years old and his wife two years younger.

St. Paul—The house agricultural committee approved a bill by Representative Knutson, Republican, to preserve the navigability of Cass lake. The measure would authorize the government to accept title to a dam at the outlet of the lake and to construct and maintain it in good condition.

Fort Snelling—A drive for funds necessary for the erection of a chapel at Fort Snelling at a cost of $100,000 was begun in the Twin Cities by groups of business men. The campaign brings to a head the scattered efforts extending over several years.

Minneapolis—Prince Paul of Greece, who is making a tour of the United States, arrived in Minneapolis and was wildly greeted by his countrymen who rushed him away to breakfast, took him to church, showed him an American skiing contest and sandwiched in a number of luncheons and receptions during the day.

St. Paul—On the eve of a sweeping investigation into paroles, law enforcement and indeterminate sentences by Governor Theodore Christianson's interim crime commission of 25 members, the state board of parole granted paroles to four prisoners in state penal institutions and denied 202 applications.

St. Paul—Because they refuse to obtain new automobile licenses until the last possible moment, and because there is no state legislature in session to extend an iron clad limit set by law, 165,000 automobile owners throughout Minnesota faced the necessity of paying delinquency penalties ranging from 25 cents to $10 each—a total of at least $400,000—in spite of everything they can do.

Minneapolis—A 100 per cent liability assessment on the par value of the stock of the U. S. I. Realty Co. totaling $638,800, was ordered by Judge Paul W. Guilford in Hennepin county district court. The order fixes the assessment at $100 a share, the par value of the stock, based on a total of 6,288 shares. Approximately 1,000 stockholders in the northwest are affected by the order.

St. Paul—The number of prohibition enforcement officers in the northwest district, supervised by General W. F. Rhinow, will be 31 below its quota after February 1. The cut was ordered by General Lincoln C. Andrews. There are 36 federal agents working in Minnesota, 17 in Wisconsin and 12 in North Dakota, besides 10 inspectors under Mr. Rhinow's supervision.

Minneapolis—Stressing the point that rediscounts of the Federal Reserve bank now are the lowest since 1917, reflecting the financial improvement of the northwest, Roy A. Young, governor of the bank, called upon investment bankers of the district to aid in perpetuating the renewed prosperity by continuing the high standards of their business and safeguarding the quality of their offerings to commercial banks and the investing public.

Plainview—Deputy Sheriff Edward Fitzgerald of Wabasha county left for Gulfport, Miss., to bring back to Minnesota Edwin L. Sylvester, 66 years old, at one time president of the Plainview State bank. He is charged with having wrecked the bank 11 months ago by having embezzled approximately $100,000 of its funds. Sylvester was found, a bent and feeble old man, working as fireman in a hotel at Biloxi, Miss. He seemed almost anxious to admit his identity.

St. Paul — Indian Commissioner Burke has ordered a special investigation into reports that the Chippewa Indians in northern Minnesota are in distress and almost faced with a famine. The inquiry was directed on the basis of letters received by Senator King, Democrat, Utah, from Indian families at Beaulieu, saying that moneys due from the government have been withheld and that many of the Indians are without proper amounts of food.

Minneapolis—More than $150,000 will be spent to advertise Minnesota and its cities to tourists, convention visitors and prospective new residents during 1926. The total will be the largest fund ever spent to advertise Minnesota and will be done by the following groups: The Ten Thousand Lakes association, advertising campaign and tourists' service, $40,000. The Arrowhead association, $50,000. The Minneapolis Civic & Commerce association, committee on conventions and publicity, including the tourists' bureau, $30,000. The St. Paul Association, committee on conventions and publicity, $25,000.

St. Paul—Complete financing of the Upper Mississippi River Barge Line corporation was assured when the Greater St. Paul committee agreed to underwrite that city's quota of $48,000. The Minneapolis quota of $72,000 has been underwritten by the committee of 100, and down-river cities have agreed to provide their share of the $170,000 being raised by this method.

APPETIZING GOOD THINGS

WE ARE all looking for variety which will appeal to the appetites of those for whom we cook. The following salad may be enjoyed because it is different:

Kidney Bean Salad.

Take one can of kidney beans, two cupfuls each of diced celery and apple, one cupful of diced dill pickles, two tablespoonfuls of chopped pimentoes; mix and add mayonnaise.

Mayonnaise.

Into a bowl place two eggs; beat, add a teaspoonful of salt, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of mustard, four tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and one cupful of oil. In another dish mix two tablespoonfuls of flour, three of cornstarch, one cupful of water, two tablespoonfuls of oil. Cook until the starch is well cooked, then turn into the first bowl of ingredients while hot, mix and beat with a dover egg beater, adding one more cupful of oil. This dressing will keep indefinitely when kept in a cool place. Thin with cream when using.

Chicken Warmein.

Cook in plenty of broth, one good-sized fat chicken, if small add two sweetbreads or veal to help out in bulk. Cut up the cooked meat as for salad, place in a double boiler to keep hot. Cook three bunches of celery cut into dice, in the chicken broth, with one small onion, diced. Remove the celery to another dish and keep hot. Add noodles to the seasoned stock and cook; drain and place a nest of noodles on a serving plate, over them the celery, over that the chicken. Garnish with very small croutons and serve very hot.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At Twenty-one: Ernest Thompson Seton Wrote a Story No One Has Yet Taken.

"AT THE age of twenty-one I wrote a wild-animal story which still lies in my desk (for which I am now thankful as I look over it).

"I made other attempts after that, but it was not until six years later that I wrote a story which received respectable payment. This was 'The Drummer on Snowshoes,' which appeared in a magazine. For this story, with five illustrations, they paid me the incredible sum of $50—cash (not promises)—enough to keep me on the prairies for a year.

"I showed this story to Joe Collins, the Canadian writer. He had editorial instinct, and said briefly: 'You can sell as many of this kind as you choose to write and as fast as you choose to write them'; and he proved right, for this was later rewritten and republished as 'Redruff,' in my most successful book of animal stories.—Ernest Thompson Seton."

TODAY.—Mr. Seton is the most famous writer of animal stories in the world and vastly popular. He was brought up on the Canadian prairies and in the woods and obtained his material then, as he does now, first hand. At about the same time that he wrote the story mentioned above he became naturalist to the province of Manitoba, Canada, and published a volume on the mammals of Manitoba. He was only twenty-six then.

The Hotel Stenographer

By Roe Fulkerson

"WHO is she?" asked the House Detective

"A great-granddaughter of Jim Polk, or Jack Adams or one of the other early Presidents," answered the Hotel Stenographer.

"You take much stock in family trees?" asked Kelly.

"Nix." The girl snapped her fingers. "Who couldn't find a bird of a big league ancestor if they dug back far enough. We all have two parents and four grandparents, and then sixteen, and then thirty-two and then sixty-four and so on, so each generation spreads out fan-wise back into the past. In fifty generations one ancestry includes more people than there are now on earth.

"If in all that gang you cannot find one champion heavyweight you are a poor hunter. And for that one grand wow that you can tell everybody about, there are about one hundred butchers, bakers, candlestick makers, rag pickers and horse thieves.

"That dame there carrying her chin so high you'd think she had a bad egg for a breast pin and all because she had one big-gun ancestor. Wonder how many honest washwomen there were among 'em and how many men who lived off the money they made at the tub?

"Kelly, if I can get by on my own I am satisfied. I am willing to let the good and bad deeds of my ancestors lie silent in their graves. They were all Irish and so they all fought and all loved and I rather suspect some of the men looked on the wine when it was colored and some of the women talked scandalous about their neighbors. I just take it for granted they were nice folks 'cause I'm nice folks myself. That's the safest bet. Anybody who rakes 'round in the dead ashes of the past is likely to find a hot coal and get burned."

Among the NOTABLES

BOOTH TARKINGTON

MANY claim that Booth Tarkington is the greatest living American writer. He was born in Indianapolis, July 29, 1869, went to Exeter academy and finally to Princeton university.

Though he may have intended to become an author from the very beginning, he decided to go in for business, at first, and took a position with an oil company. He began in his twenties to write "The Gentleman From Indiana," which was published when he was thirty years old. The same year his university conferred an A. M. degree on him.

He took up authorship seriously from that time on—so great was his first success. Critics said that he had established a new school of fiction. The first book was followed by "Monsieur Beaucaire," also a great success. From then on his reputation has steadily grown.

More recently, in collaboration, he wrote a play, "The Man From Home," which had a record run in New York and, later, played practically all over the country. William Hodge made his reputation as the homely, wise, unspoiled man from Kokomo.

Then he wrote the Penrod stories, beloved by everyone who has any sympathy for boyhood—stories of the merely average boy and his average adventures, so true to life that grown men find their own boyhood in them and gain a greater sympathy with boyhood while they chuckle over them. He has also written equally wonderful stories of the boy and girl in the half-grown stage of seventeen.

PAY-NIGHT

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THERE is dancing tonight at the bow'ry,
And the boys and the girls will be there,
And the girls will be dressed in the best of their best,
And the boys will have grease on their hair.
There'll be pink lemonade in the arbor,
There'll be things you can buy at the stand—
Oh, the world's mighty fine on a pay-night,
When you've got a week's work in your hand!

Oh, the world's mighty fine on a pay-night,
And the street will be full of the crowd,
For they'll all be in town, walkin' up, walkin' down,
And they'll all be so gay and so proud.
For the trees by the road are a-blossom,
And the grass mighty sweet with the dew—
Oh, the world's mighty fine on a pay-night,
For then what's a dollar or two?

But what's that I hear at the window,
And who's that who rattled the door?
Why, the wind's swung around, and the folks they have found
That it won't be so fine any more.
Oh, the world's mighty fine on a pay-night,
But it gits mighty cold in the fall,
And when old Mister Wind comes a-howlin'
Then you ask what you done with it all!

WHO SAID

"No sword bites so fiercely as an evil tongue."

THE man who uttered these words of wisdom was Sir Ralph Sidney, one of the conspicuous figures at the court of Queen Elizabeth and one of the queen's favorite courtiers. Sir Phillip had an intimate knowledge of the workings of the life at the court of England's monarch, and his remark, "No sword bites so fiercely as an evil tongue," may well be considered a mature reflection on the meteoric rise and fall of so many favorites of the queen.

Sir Phillip had seen many rise to power, prominence and favor in court circles, only to be dashed to oblivion by the wagging of some evil tongue. And when this man compared the biting of an evil tongue to a sword, he knew whereof he spoke—for Sir Phillip Sidney was a warrior as well as a man of letters, and it was on the battlefield that he gave his life for his nation and his queen.

Sir Phillip was born in Kent, England, in 1554. Upon completing his education, he was introduced at court and Queen Elizabeth at once took a fancy to him. As a mark of her favor, she sent him as ambassador to Germany. Upon his return he married Frances, daughter of Sir Francis Walsingham, and the same year (1583) the queen admitted him to the peerage. In the year 1585 he went to the Netherlands.

In addition to his fame as a courtier and a soldier, Sir Phillip Sidney is known—best, perhaps—as a man of letters. His best known works are "The Arcadia," a medley in prose and verse after the prevalent Italian style of the period: "Astrophel and Stella," the first important body of sonnets in English; and "The Defence of Poesy," published in 1595.—Wayne D. McMurray.

A feller has not time for hate, out fishin',
He isn't eager to be great, out fishin',
He isn't thinkin' thoughts of pelf,
Or goods stacked high upon the shelf;
But he is always just himself—out fishin'.

FISH DISHES

Codfish when not to be obtained fresh is always in the market either dry or in brine. A pail of codfish will be a refuge in time of famine when meats are not at hand.

Codfish Timbal.—Scald one and one-half cupfuls of milk, add two tablespoonfuls of butter, one teaspoonful of grated onion, one-half cupful of bread crumbs, one and one-half cupfuls of flaked fish, one teaspoonful of crushed pimento, one beaten egg. Mix and pour into individual molds, set in hot water, cover with buttered crumbs and bake until firm. Turn out on a hot platter and serve with cheese and celery.

Fish Cakes.—Take two cupfuls of shredded codfish, two cupfuls of hot mashed potato, a few dashes of cayenne, one beaten egg, two tablespoonfuls each of butter and milk, one onion, one-half of a green pepper and one-fourth pound of salt pork. Try out the pork, remove the scraps, cook the pepper and onion in the fat for five minutes, remove them. Mix the fish, potato and pork scraps, stir in a beaten egg and shape in small cakes. Fry until brown and serve with water cress or onion salad.

For creamed codfish use a cupful of rich white sauce to half a cupful of shredded codfish. Serve with baked potatoes.

Codfish chowder has been given so many times that it hardly seems necessary to mention it, yet it is a popular dish. Fry a thick slice of salt pork cut into cubes, add three sliced onions, one-half dozen sliced potatoes, cover with boiling water and cook until the vegetables are tender. Then add half a pound of shredded codfish that has been parboiled, a quart of milk, salt and butter to season. Serve with a large milk cracker in each soup plate. A half pound of pork will not be too much for this amount of chowder.

Dutch Codfish.—Take two slices of diced bacon, try out and add four cupfuls of chopped cabbage and cook five minutes, stirring constantly; add one-fourth of a cupful of water and cook until the cabbage is tender, season to taste, add two cupfuls of cooked codfish, and when hot mound on a hot platter; dot with hard-cooked egg in slices and toast points for a garnish.

Winter Foods.

As cold weather is the most appetizing time for oysters let us serve them frequently.

Oysters Perfection.—For this dish take a shallow baking dish which will take all the oysters in one layer. Brush the dish with butter, spread out a pint of well-drained oysters, mixing them well with one-half cupful of chopped chives and cover carefully with one cupful of cracker crumbs well mixed with half a cupful of melted butter. Bake in a moderate oven until the crumbs are brown and the oysters cooked. Serve from the baking dish.

Baked Ham With Raisin Sauce.—Soak a ham overnight in cold water. In the morning scrub it thoroughly and put on to cook in enough boiling water to cover; add one cupful of vinegar and one cupful of brown sugar. Simmer for three hours, skimming off as much of the fat as possible. Let cool in the water. Remove the skin and add one cupful of cider and rub the ham well with one-half cupful of brown sugar, adding a few cloves stuck well into the fat. Baste and bake for two hours. Half an hour before serving time add one cupful of raisins. Thicken the sauce with a little corn starch mixed with water, if it seems too thin. Serve the ham on a hot platter, surrounded with spiced peaches or apples. Serve the sauce in a separate dish.

Sour Cabbage.—Chop fine one apple and one onion, add two tablespoonfuls of fat to a frying pan with the onion and apple and fry ten minutes. Add one-half of a medium-sized cabbage head shredded, and two cupfuls of boiling water. Simmer one and one-half hours, adding water as needed. When two-thirds done stir in one-half cupful of sugar and one-third cupful of vinegar. Season well and serve hot.

Honey Sandwiches.—Mix grated American or Cheddar cheese with honey to make a paste. Spread thin slices of bread with butter, then with the cheese, toast and serve hot.

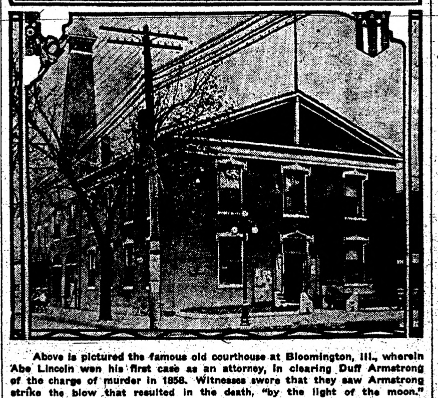
Lincoln's Legal Triumph



Above is pictured the famous old courthouse at Bloomington, Ill., wherein Abe Lincoln won his first case as an attorney, in clearing Duff Armstrong of the charge of murder in 1858. Witnesses swore that they saw Armstrong strike the blow that resulted in the death, "by the light of the moon." Lincoln produced an almanac and showed that there was no moon on the night of the murder and that the witnesses were wrong in their identification of Armstrong, who was subsequently acquitted.

REAL GREATNESS BEYOND LEGEND

History Will Know Lincoln as "Patient, Kindly, Wise, Foreseeing Man."

Perhaps the one thing to fear for Lincoln's greatness is the growth of legend about it. There is no doubt there is such an incrustation forming upon his fame, and if that process is active so soon after his death, what must be its progress in the centuries to come? What must his real greatness suffer from it? Not in the interest of history alone, but in that of the name and fame of one of the greatest and wisest of Americans, it ought to be the concern of those who are almost his contemporaries to arrest this growth, to remove it so far as it has already obscured the genuine and solid substance beneath and to insist that the qualities that made Abraham Lincoln what he was are sufficient to preserve him, as Edwin M. Stanton said, for the ages.

The reason why Lincoln's greatness lends itself to legend are plain enough. As a national figure he flashed upon the rapidly turning pages of history for but a moment, and was gone before his countrymen came to know him. His entire career, it may be said, covered only four years, something perhaps unprecedented in the annals of the great. Before he became President he was a country lawyer, almost unknown outside of Illinois. In an instant he burst upon the national horizon like a meteor, lighting up the whole sky, and while the eyes of millions were yet upon him trying to make out this sudden portent, he vanished leaving his countrymen and the world with a question unanswered. The attempts to answer it have had a natural result: the Illinois circuit-riding lawyer has become the legal peer of Coke and Mansfield and Marshall; the President who had never seen an army until he was fifty-two years old has become a military genius; the prairie debater has taken his place with the world's first orators; the lonely, sad, overburdened leader of a nation crying out in its travail is a mystic and a poet.

Don't Account for Lincoln.

There is some truth in all of these things, but not enough in any one of them to account for Lincoln; there have been greater American lawyers, military leaders, orators and poets, yet none of them was a Lincoln. He knew and could expound the law, but this was perhaps more successfully demonstrated in his debate with Douglas than in his practice at the Illinois bar. He acquired a certain shrewd military knowledge and insight, but this was chiefly remarkable as showing the extraordinary powers of his logical mind; its practical value in the direction of the northern armies is debatable. We think the second inaugural, which is carved in marble on the walls of the Lincoln memorial in Washington, ranks with the highest poetry of the Bible, on which, indeed, it was modeled. The Gettysburg address reaches the topmost note of human eloquence Lowell's Eulogy Lives.

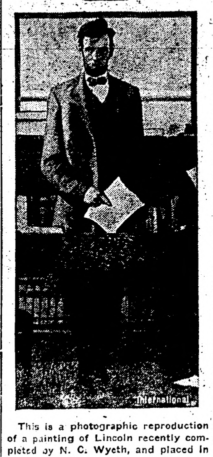
But these qualities of mind and these achievements of painstaking and often groping effort do not account for Abraham Lincoln, declares the Kansas City Star. James Russell Lowell accounted for him in a few simple words. "This patient, kindly, wise, foreseeing man." In 1861 the nation could not have been led by the greatest lawyer, military genius, orator or poet. If Lincoln had been all of these and nothing more he must have failed. Hating slavery he dared not strike it; the North was not ready. Hating war he dared to make it, yet had to make it gently—often a fatal thing and almost fatal then; his task was to hold the North and the border states with one hand and strike or beckon the South with the other—he hardly knew which to do and first and last did both. He had to find leaders for the armies, to keep Europe off the North's back, to placate and disarm powerful foes in his own party, to fight battles when victory was almost as terrible as defeat in this war of brothers, to shed civil blood and yet preserve the nation and to lead at last the public opinion of the North to the inevitable necessity of emancipation. "This patient, kindly, wise, foreseeing man" accomplished the task, and history's tribute to him must be the recognition that a Seward, a Chase, a Stanton, a Grant could not have done it. Lincoln led the North slowly because the North would be led no other way. A swifter military success might have been obtained by a Napoleon, but a military success achieved before the North had learned that the war could end only in the destruction of its cause would not have preserved the Union.

Lincoln will grow—is growing—with the knowledge of his countrymen that his true greatness was in these qualities of leadership that went down to the character and fiber of the man; to his simplicity, honesty, wisdom, forebearance, truthfulness and mercy. In these was his power over men, in his time and ours.

LINCOLN'S "STUDY"

The picture shows the Onstott cooper shop at New Salem, Ill., which is rich with historical interest. It was in this building that Abraham Lincoln studied law by the side of the fireplace, the only light available. The fire was fed with shavings so that Lincoln could see to study. The building today appears very much the same as it did during Lincoln's time, and the original logs yet remain.

GIANT AMONG MEN



This is a photographic reproduction of a painting of Lincoln recently completed by N. C. Wyeth, and placed in the Federal Reserve bank at Boston.

Lincoln's Wisdom

It is better only sometimes to be right than at all times to be wrong. Before I resolve to do one thing or the other I must gain my confidence in my own ability to keep my resolves when they are made.—Lincoln.

NELLIE REVELL Says:

JUST what tact, that most indispensable part of social life, really is even Webster finds it hard to define concretely. But perhaps one of the best illustrations of its nature came from the lips of a friend of mine, Brig. Gen. Thornwell Mullally, U. S. A.

A negro, he told me, had achieved the rank of orderly to a captain of the expeditionary forces. In the latter's absence the negro was left in charge, with the warning to treat his white command with tact. Sam assured the captain that tact was his long suit, but after the officer's departure he looked up a colored friend and told him what his instructions were.

"Now," inquired Sam, "what is dishayere tact? I got to know how to do it."

"Ah'll enlighten yore intelleck," replied his friend. "When Ah wuz back in de States, Ah wuz wukkin' at de Waldawf. One day, when Ah wuz shoffeh to a vacurum-cleaneh, Ah opened a barfoom doh, and dah wuz a lady a-settin' in de tub. Ah shet dat doh quick an' sez: 'Beg yo pahdon—suh.' Dat 'Beg yo pahdon' was jes' p'liteness, but boy, dat 'suh' wuz tact."

Once when Irvin Cobb came to see me and asked me how I felt, I told him I had a pain in my "abandon," as Tom Ryan used to say in vaudeville. He came back with the information that that meant I was sick all over.

"How's the back?" he inquired, so I let him in on the secret that if I put my hand on both my pains at once, I would be doing a sailor's hornpipe. While he was with me, E. F. Albee, president of the B. F. Keith circuit of theaters, came in.

"Can I drop you some place?" he wanted to know of Mr. Cobb.

"No, thanks. I'm just getting over the last drop I had some place," retorted the gentleman from Paducah.

"Come on. Take a ride in my Ford," urged Mr. Albee. That was the best part of it. The man who thinks nothing of building a $5,000,000 theater drives around New York in a Ford.

Recently a friend sent me a story to illustrate what he meant by the acme of pointless ambition. The fame of monkey glands, it seemed had reached even the rural communities of New Hampshire and one day the village doctor was surprised by a call from the oldest inhabitant.

"Doc," said the graybeard, "what's all this gland business I read about? Do you think you could do anything to make me live to a hundred years?"

"Well, I don't know," said the doctor, sizing the old chap up. "How are your habits? How have you lived? Do you drink?"

"Never took a drink in my life." "Use tobacco?" "Never." "How is your appetite? Eat much meat?" "Nope. I'm a vegetarian." "Married?" "No, sir. Never have and never will be."

The doctor leaned back and looked at the old man for a moment.

Then he burst out: "What the devil do you want to live a hundred years for?"

Roy K. Moulton, the columnist, has brought me many a laugh by his writings and more than once a tear. A paragraph of his which caused a lump in my throat was about a trip to the seashore.

"We were on our way to Long Beach," he wrote, "to take a swim. The car was not working properly and when we arrived at our destination after some delay we were ill-tempered. On the beach we found about seventy-five crippled children. They were in bathing suits. Some could only go around by crawling on their hands and knees. Three young girls with soft, sweet faces pulled themselves along the sand with their hands. One little colored girl hopped along like a toad. They were all laughing and having a good time. We watched them for a while and then joined in the fun."

He did not have to append a moral, for everyone who read the paragraph must have wondered what healthy people had to become ill-tempered about.

It was amazing to one who had been shut in for five years to see how styles have changed in that time. I don't mean only clothes, for everyone would be disappointed if they didn't change three times a year.

When I left Broadway taxicabs were any color; now they've all got jaundice, while store fronts, methods of window display, the traffic-control system, electric sign messages and almost everything else, all have altered, though it probably has been imperceptible to those who have seen it happen day by day.

Even styles in musical comedy are different, and for the benefit of those who prate about "the good old days" my opinion is that present fashions are better. So far as I have been able to observe human nature hasn't changed—thank God.

Twenty-one of our patrons make up this list with a total butterfat production of 55375 lbs.

To illustrate what can be done in dairying in this community, a careful analysis of this report will be helpful. These 21 patrons are 11½ percent of our total number of patrons, yet they have produced 25 percent of our total butterfat. Just think what it would mean if the average of all our patrons had been the lowest amount delivered in the above list! Our pay roll for 1925 would have been approximately $175,000.00. The average for all patrons for 1925 is about 1200 lbs. butterfat, an increase of 25 per cent over 1924—in other words, an increase of 240 lbs. butterfat per patron, which is a very good increase, especially so when 80 percent of this increase is due to better feeding, breeding up herds and getting rid of "boarders".

We often hear this statement: "What is the use of getting big cream checks when you pay it all out for feed?"

As an answer to this question it happens that our best patron, Mr. Arno Steinhauer, received an amount of $155.00 per month for every month during 1925 and NOT ONE CENT'S WORTH OF FEED DID HE BUY. All feed was raised on his farm. I claim this is a nice income for any one of us and no one appreciates it any more than do Mr. and Mrs. Steinhauer themselves.

We are taking orders for Cooling Tanks. The price of the tank will be $12.00 here at the creamery and everyone who buys a tank will receive a "cream stirrer" free of charge.

Creamery Stockholders Held Their Annual Meeting On Saturday

The stockholders of the Farmers Cooperative Creamery Company held their annual meeting last Saturday. As the original articles of incorporation were to be in force only twenty years, they will go out of force next February. At the meeting held Saturday the corporation was reorganized and amendments were made to the by-laws, so the company will be all set to continue their work when Feb. 1927 comes.

Among other things done at this meeting, a change was made in the election of directors. Five men are now on the board, whereas only four were chosen before. The three directors who were re-elected are: Louis Wegge (president); Theo. Sorum (vice-pres.); and T. B. Folden (sec.-treas.) They will serve for a term of two years.

J. P. Augustine was elected director in place of F. D. Voth, and T. E. Ellestad was chosen as the fifth director. These last two will serve one year. Thus the terms of the members of the board will not all expire at the same time as they formerly did.

Six members of the Hi-Line crew that has been working west of here lately staged a rough-and-tumble fight in the Holt cafe on Monday night, in which a lot of dishes and furniture was smashed. According to an [illegible] the six had entered and ordered lunch. That they were intoxicated was plain. When they finished lunch they began quarrelling about who should pay for the lunch. In a moment the six were entangled in a rough-and-tumble fight during which they swayed back and forth, tipping over chairs and smashing dishes.

Then they desisted a while and invited the by-standers to try to stop them from fighting. This plainly was an act of braggadocio and as no one wanted to become involved in a brawl, the tipsy six retired to their lodgings across the street.

When they had left the cafe, O. E. Sovde, one of the proprietors, closed it up for the night. However, the drunken gang craved for more action and returned to the cafe before Sovde had gone home. They began kicking on the door and on the wall in front, ordering Mr. Sovde to open up again.

Sovde, thinking things had gone a little bit too far, called up Sheriff Hanson who, with two deputy sheriffs came over here from Warren about 2 o'clock

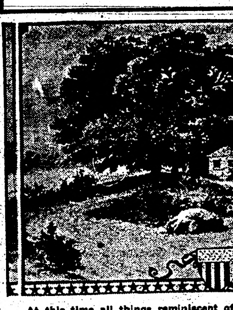
Birthplace of Washington



At this time all things reminiscent of the "Father of His Country" are more than passably interesting. This is an old and little known woodcut photo of Wakefield, Va., where George Washington was born.

To Restore Washington's Birthplace

The Wakefield National Memorial association, founded in 1923 in Washington for restoring the old "Washington homestead" to its original state, already has acquired 70 acres of this long-neglected site.

The plan of the association has been to restore and replace the Wakefield home in Westmoreland county to the state it was on February 22, 1732, when Washington was born.

The name, "Wakefield," which has so long been veiled in obscurity, the association points out, is destined to bring to the nation a new meaning when as a shrine it will be fittingly emphasized as the birthplace of the first President. During congressional hearings held for consideration of plans and authorization of adequate appropriations for the bicentennial celebration of the birth of Washington it was suggested that the observance should "begin at the beginning"—Wakefield.

His Boyhood Home.

There at Wakefield, where much of the beautiful romance of Washington's boyhood was lived, is a spot where all Americans may do homage.

Referring to the visit of the Coolidge Presidential party to Wakefield, Dr. Charles Moore, chairman of the national commission of fine arts and a trustee of the Wakefield association, wrote:

"During his brief visit the President must have been depressed with conditions prevailing at a place so historic and at the same time so beautiful in itself. When he came to depart the ebbing tide made it impossible for a small boat to approach the shore; and the government wharf had long ago been so broken by the ice that it survives only as a melancholy and unsightly wreck. Therefore, the party was compelled to drive eight or ten miles to Colonial beach to board the Mayflower, the President's yacht. This was the best of an object lesson," concluded Doctor Moore.

Granite Shaft on Spot.

Going down the country road some forty miles below Fredericksburg and a half a dozen miles below the little settlement of Oak Grove, one notes at the left a small tablet inscribed, "This is Wakefield." Turning in, one traverses for a mile or two a road which was built through the combined efforts of the state of Virginia and the government, and comes out into a little clearing among the pines and cedars. In the center of the knoll rises the granite shaft erected by the government.

The Potomac at Wakefield is some eight miles wide, and on the clearest days the trees on the Maryland shore appear only as a blue haze. No house is in sight from the monument site, although as a matter of fact several historic residences are not far away. Wakefield lies practically between Pope's creek and Bridge's creek.

Scene of Romance.

Washington's first romance occurred there, too. Betsy Fauntleroy, a "Lowland Beauty" who lived at Naylors Hold, fifteen miles from Wakefield, won his youthful affections. Proof of this is seen in a letter written by Washington to Betsy's father. It ran as follows:

"May 20, 1752.

To William Fauntleroy, Sr.

"Sir: I should have been down long before this, but my business in Frederick detained me somewhat longer than I expected and immediately upon my return from thence I was taken with a violent pleurice which has reduced me very low; but propose as soon as I recover my strength to wait on Miss Betsy in hopes of a revocation of the former cruel sentence, and see if I can meet with any alteration in my favor. I have inclosed a letter to her, which should be much obliged to you for the delivery of it, I having nothing to add but my best respts to your good lady and family.

"GEORGE WASHINGTON."

His "Lowland Beauty."

This letter resolves all doubt about the identity of the "Lowland Beauty," around whom has gathered so much sentimental mystery and interest. Gen. Fitzhugh Lee discovered this letter written after Washington's return from Barbadoes, March 4, 1752, so he must have received his "cruel sentence" from Miss Betsy before the voyage. September, 1751, which would make him nineteen years of age and the young lady sixteen. Thus it can be seen that Washington not only claimed Wakefield as his birthplace, but as the beloved spot of his boyhood and first love as well.

It is the ultimate purpose of the Wakefield association to buy the entire tract of 1,000 acres between Bridge's creek and Pope's creek, adjoining the 11¾ acres owned by the government. The association proposes to erect on or near the site of the Washington family home a copy of the original house, the foundations of which already have been traced.

Tablet in Honor of Washington's Brother

A bronze tablet in memory of Col. Charles Washington, founder of Charles Town, Va. (now West Virginia), in 1786, was unveiled at exercises in charge of Bee Line chapter, D. A. R., which erected the tablet in the historic courthouse at Charles Town, W. Va., last year.

Citizens and officers of the county gathered. Miss Frances D. Packette, fifth great-niece of Charles Washington, unveiled the tablet. Col. B. D. Gibson of Charles Town was master of ceremonies.

Col. Charles Washington, brother of George Washington, was born on May 2, 1738. He served under his brother, General Washington, in the Revolution, after which he returned to his estate in Berkeley county.

Washington's Courtesy

In that terrible winter at Valley Forge when the fortunes and the spirits of the American army were at their lowest ebb, there arrived at the camp a letter for Gen. George Washington, a letter containing a strange request. The writer, Miss Kitty Livingston, wanted to know if the general would send her a lock of his hair. General Washington forwarded the lock of hair, together with his compliments.

This human sidelight on George Washington was revealed recently when the original letter was read before the Mount Vernon Ladies' association. The letter was donated by Miss Margaret Norton and Miss Elizabeth Norton, great-granddaughters of Kitty Livingston. It reads:

"General Washington having been informed lately of the honor done him by Miss Kitty Livingston in wishing for a lock of his hair, takes the liberty of enclosing one accompanied by his most respectful compliments."

MINNESOTA NEWS

Duluth—E. J. Wilkinson shot the first wolf killed within Duluth's city limits for 1926 while hunting rabbits, it was learned when he applied for a bounty.

Minneapolis — Otto Swanstrom of Duluth was elected president of the Minnesota State Automobile association at the annual meeting. He fills a vacancy caused by the death of Ernest T. Winship of Owatonna.

St. Paul—More automobile-interested persons visited the Twin Cities automobile show the first day, than ever before attended the exposition on its opening day. The attendance was more than 12,120, as against 9,638 in 1925.

Minneapolis—Preparing to handle 100,000,000 pounds of butter in 1926, the Minnesota Co-operative Creameries Association, distributing the dairy products of 80,000 farms, will move into a new, specially built $350,000 building at the Northwest Terminal in Minneapolis, marking the greatest development in co-operative marketing in Minnesota in years.

White Bear—A St. Paul man and woman were killed almost instantly and two others injured when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Twin City-Duluth Northern Pacific train at the outskirts of the village of White Bear. The dead are: Frank Erickson, 22 years old; Mabel Magnuson, 19 years old, both of St. Paul.

Pipestone—A contemplated airplane trip from Pipestone to Wichita Falls, Texas, where he planned to visit his family eight hours after his take-off came to an end when the plane of Earl Smith, commercial flier of this city, crashed to the ground but a few seconds after the take-off. The machine was wrecked almost beyond repair, but Smith and his assistant, Harold Tofflemeir, also of Pipestone, escaped unhurt.

Lake City—America's "oldest old-time fiddler," who won national recognition when he played "Old Zip Coon" over WCCO, died at his Lake City home. He was Oliver Perry Francisco, nearly 97 years old, who fiddled for the "Back to Paris" radio revue staged by the Minnesota American Legion over WCCO January 22. He had been a resident of Minnesota for 72 years.

St. Paul—Despite the postwar deflation in prices of Minnesota farm lands, the farms of the state in 1924 were valued at $2,010,829,845, a gain of $422,729,111 or 26 per cent over the value of $1,588,100,734 reported in 1914. The figures were made public by the state commission. The buildings on Minnesota farms during the 10 years gained nearly 60 per cent in value, mounting from $218,986,036 to $348,207,228, an increase of $129,221,192.

Winona—Representatives of the upper Mississippi river cities meeting at Winona, pledged $25,000 as their share of the $170,000 stock subscriptions being raised to finance a barge fleet on the upper Mississippi river and thereby completed the financing work. With the financing details settled, officials of the barge line corporation are expected to rush the work of placing the barges and tow boats on the river in readiness for the government, which will operate the fleet.

St. Paul—The first state hen census ever taken in Minnesota revealed that hens, producing 15 eggs for every man, woman and child in the United States, have given Minnesota another "major industry," one of the five most valuable crops produced in the state, by putting $40,000,000 in eggs on the market in 1925. Livestock, too, continued to grow in value, Paul H. Kirk, state agricultural statistician, said, reporting that stock on farms gained $27,000,000 in value in 1925, passing the $250,000,000 mark.

St. Paul—Beginning in May, the month in which vacationists plan their summer trips, 20 magazines of national scope and as many large daily newspapers will carry advertising matter about Minnesota, the executive board of the Ten Thousand Lakes association decided. The advertising firm selected two weeks ago to handle the campaign was given final orders to proceed under a basis which contemplates spending of $40,000 in promoting the state as a summer playground.

Caledonia—"An Acre of Alfalfa for Every Cow," is the slogan adopted by the Houston county alfalfa campaign according to W. D. Stegner, county agricultural agent. In an effort to promote an increase in the alfalfa acreage of the county, the seed committee of Houston county farm bureau has undertaken to obtain the best alfalfa seed for farmers who are planning to start alfalfa fields in the spring. "The average cost of starting an acre of alfalfa in Houston county is only $13," Stegner says, "and some local fields that are eight years old now are still producing $50 worth of hay a year."

Duluth—Fifty thousand persons witnessed the most spectacular parade in the history of this city, the march marking the inauguration of Duluth's first winter frolic. The evening's activities ended with the coronation of Miss Dorothy Jones as queen of the frolic.

Slayton—Fire believed to have been caused by defective wiring in the basement of the building housing the State Bank of Slayton destroyed the structure. The postoffice, Masonic and Woodmen's lodges, occupants of the building, suffered losses from water

Two Letters

The first written twenty years ago, the second recently by Mrs. J. H. Bourland, Frankston, Texas.

June 2, 1904, she writes:—

"For twenty-three years I was a constant sufferer from chronic catarrh. I had a severe misery and burning in the top of my head, a continual dropping of mucus into my throat causing frequent expectoration. My entire system became involved and I grew worse. It seemed as if I could not recover from a constant cough and frequent attacks of bilious colic. My bowels were affected, causing alarming hemorrhages. I tried many remedies and finally took Pe-ru-na. In three days I was relieved of my bowel trouble and entirely cured by five bottles. I most cheerfully recommend Pe-ru-na."

June 30, 1924, Mrs. Bourland writes again:—

"I will soon be seventy-nine years old and enjoy good health for one of my age. I still recommend Pe-ru-na and take it myself when necessary."

For more than half a century Pe-ru-na has a proud record of good done. Men and women the world over stand ready to testify to its value in the treatment of all catarrhal disorders.

Send 4 cents postage to the PE-RU-NA COMPANY, Columbus, Ohio, for book on catarrh.

What Use Are Husbands?

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE husband woman wants is one
Who helps her get her dishes done,
Who picks things up, not leaves them loose,
A man who's just a little use,
And not too proud to sweep a floor,
A handy man to hang a door,
Or close one that he finds ajar—
And not the way that most men are.

The husband women like to see,
I think all women will agree,
Is one who holds a baby right,
Is one, when he comes home at night,
Who takes the children off her hands,
Is one who children understands—
I guess the model husband, maybe,
Is one who likes to hold the baby.

But ordinary husbands—well,
You women know, I needn't tell.
There's not a thing that they will do
To help you get your housework through.
They're off downtown at break of dawn,
To some old office they have gone,
And there till late at night they stay—
What are they good for, anyway?

GOOD FOODS

AS SPINACH is such a valuable vegetable it should be served often during the winter and oftener in the early spring. When the fresh vegetable cannot be obtained the canned will answer very well.

Cream of Spinach Soup.

Take one-half peck of spinach cooked and put through a sieve, add to it one pint of chicken broth and one quart of milk, thicken or bind with two tablespoonfuls each of flour and butter. Cook well and serve hot with croutons.

Anchovy Puree Sandwiches.

Pound four boned anchovies, two hard-cooked egg yolks, one-fourth of a cupful of butter and a few dashes of cayenne in a mortar until smooth. Then press through sieve, spread small rounds of white bread with the mixture and an equal number with mayonnaise dressing. Put together in pairs. Sprinkle one side of each small sandwich lightly with paprika and serve with salad.

Meat Loaf.

Take one pound each of chopped beef and fresh pork, one cupful of bread crumbs, one cupful of strained tomato juice, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, salt and pepper to taste. Stir and mix well, bake one hour in a small bread tin.

Lemon Dumplings.

Add the grated rind to the juice of one lemon, one cupful of molasses, one-half cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of butter, one cupful of hot water, one egg, one cupful of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Let the lemon, molasses, sugar, butter and hot water come to a boil, then drop the dumplings into it—made by sifting the flour and dry ingredients, adding just enough milk to make a drop batter. Cover closely and boil twenty minutes to one-half hour, using care that the mixture does not burn.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

SHUTTING DOORS

ALWAYS shut the door after you upon entering a house or you will never have a house of your own. This is a superstition to be encouraged. It is not near as common as it ought to be: it should be brought to the attention of those people who always leave the door ajar on cold or stormy days especially.

It is gratifying to know that the American Folk Lore society finds it fairly common in various parts of the land. The idea in the superstition is that ancient and primitive one of binding and losing, of confining by tying or otherwise; a form of sympathetic magic. That which is associated in thought is associated in fact. When upon entering a house you close the door behind you you confine yourself to the house and by shutting yourself into it identify yourself more thoroughly with it. You and the house are parts of one whole, as it were, in the idea of association. Sympathetic magic takes its course and some day you have a house of your own. But if you leave the door open you are associated in thought with out-of-doors, that association prevails and the oftener you do it the stronger is the association. So you never get a house of your own—and don't, really, deserve one.

The Hotel Stenographer

By Roe Fulkerson

"DO YOU know about that Greek horse Pegasus?" asked the Hotel Stenographer.

"Running at Tijuana?" asked the House Detective.

"No, Kelly," replied the girl. "Pegasus never ran at Saratoga either. He lived many, many years ago and then only in the imagination of the Greeks.

"They had a lot of gods of everything from the vacuum cleaner to the weather vane on the roof. These gods were somewhat like our patron saints. Just as we have St. Anthony as a patron saint of lost things and put 'S. A. G.' under a postage stamp to make a love letter go right, expecting St. Anthony to guide it, so the Greeks had gods of this, that and the other.

"This winged-horse Pegasus was the god of poets. They gave him four legs so he could keep his feet on the ground when dealing with solid facts and a pair of wings so he could take the air when imagination began to work on him. The poets used his wings and the income tax collectors used his hoofs.

"It seems to me, Kelly, that Pegasus should be the patron saint of women instead of Cupid. If there is anything on earth a woman needs its her feet. They ought to be on the earth all the time. She takes the air on wings of fancy too blamed much as it is.

"She sees some husky lad driving a delivery wagon for a butcher shop who can shake a wicked hoof at a parish hall dance and right away her feet leave the ground and she imagines he is a hero; mentally she dresses him in green tights and puts a mandolin in his hand and brings him under her window to improvise love songs. If she had all four of Pegasus' feet and they were all on the ground she would know that a delivery wagon driver knocks down about eighteen bones a week. As a good delivery boy cannot cop food out of other people's baskets she'll have to be willing to live a whole lot on the food of fancy, which is quite different from fancy food."

Among the NOTABLES

JULIA MARLOWE

THE name "Julia Marlowe," has a magic sound, for it brings up visions of delightful matinees and wonderful evenings, while this talented actress played "Rosalind" in "As You Like It," and the wonderful "Juliet" and others of Shakespeare's lovely women characters.

Julia Marlowe, whose real name was Sarah Frost, was born August 17, 1870, in England but came to this country when she was about five years old. Her family settled in Ohio, and she was educated there. But when she was twelve, her overpowering desire to go on the stage led her to join a juvenile company which was playing "Pinafore" and "Chimes of Normandy." She toured the country with them, and showed such talent that she became the little leading lady. Then she played a child's part in "Rip Van Winkle" with a regular company, and a small part in "Romeo and Juliet." That decided her, she wanted to play Shakespeare.

So she went to New York, and studied hard for three years and became a real "star" when she was only about seventeen. She played "Ingomar" and was highly praised—meantime, she had adopted the stage name of "Julia Marlowe." Seriously, then, she started playing Shakespeare, at first receiving plenty of praise from critics but little financial support from the public. Presently, however, every performance was crowded and she became the best loved actress of Shakespearean drama.

WHO SAID

"Nothing succeeds as success"

THE life of the man who uttered these words was a living exemplification of their soundness and truth. Success was the mother of success in the life of Charles Maurice de Talleyrand Perigord. His success succeeded and led to greater honors and achievements.

Born in Paris, France, February 13, 1754, this man who is best known to history as "Talleyrand," was president of the national assembly at the age of thirty-six. Two years later he was sent to England on a diplomatic mission; but while there, charges were brought against him at home of being implicated in a royalist plot, and he was proscribed. To return to France would have meant death at the hands of the revolutionists, so Talleyrand followed the plan of so many political refugees of that time and sailed for America.

He remained in this country for two years, after which he returned to his native country. Here, the enmity for him having decreased, he was again active in political circles and was appointed minister of foreign affairs. Soon his old enemies commenced their work again, and because of further charges of favoring the royalists, he was forced to resign.

Talleyrand now devoted himself heart and soul to the coming master of France, "the man of destiny"—Napoleon Bonaparte; and to the work of Charles Maurice de Talleyrand Perigord can be attributed much of the fame of his illustrious sovereign. Upon the return of Napoleon, and his appointment as first consul, Talleyrand was reappointed minister of foreign affairs and for the next four years was the man who executed all of the Napoleonic schemes.

Following the Peace of Tilsit in 1807, however, he became an opponent of the emperor and secretly joined a royalist organization. To him goes the credit for organizing the Quadruple Alliance. He died in Paris May 17, 1838.—Wayne D. McMurray.

Get back that lost weight!

When you start to waste away to a shadow, when the color leaves your cheeks and your poor, tired legs will hardly hold up your weakened body it's high time you started taking a fine tonic and builder like Tanlac.

Tanlac will build you up and make you feel that life's worth living. Made from roots, herbs and bark gathered from the four corners of the earth and compounded under the exclusive Tanlac formula, Tanlac is just what the poor, starved body needs.

First of all it cleanses the blood stream and puts the digestive organs in order. You find, after a few days' treatment, that you want to eat. Pretty soon the welcome color steals back into your cheeks and the scales tell you that you're gaining weight. From then on it's only a short time until you're feeling fit as a fiddle.

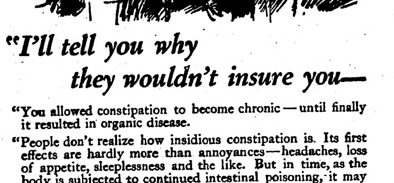
Millions of men and women have taken Tanlac with great benefit. More than one hundred thousand people have written us glowing tributes to this wonderful tonic.

When you know it has worked wonders for so many folks it's folly not to take advantage of Tanlac's help yourself. Don't put it off another day. Get a bottle at your druggist's now and start the good work right away. Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation.

Tanlac Gave New Life and Energy

"Acid stomach made me miserable. Food lay like a stone . . . I was pepless, nervous and irritable. Five bottles of Tanlac completely cured me. I've put on 15 lbs. and enjoy life again."

Albert H. Kramer
145 W. Rice St.
Owatonna, Minn.



Like this man, thousands of people give heed to constipation only when it is too late.

"I'll tell you why they wouldn't insure you—

"You allowed constipation to become chronic—until finally it resulted in organic disease.

"People don't realize how insidious constipation is. Its first effects are hardly more than annoyances—headaches, loss of appetite, sleeplessness and the like. But in time, as the body is subjected to continued intestinal poisoning, it may lead to high blood pressure, rheumatism, diabetes or even Bright's disease.

"Stop constipation if you wish to live long. Take a little Nujol every day—that will keep you regular."

Nujol relieves constipation in Nature's way

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is safe, gentle and natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly in accordance with the directions on each bottle. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and begin to enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when elimination is normal and regular.

6 DRUNKS ARRESTED

next morning and made a grand cleanup of the gang that had caused the disturbance. They were haled into Justice Court at Warren where they plead guilty to charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Three of them were fined $50 apiece and the other three were soaked $85 apiece (because they resisted capture). Besides this the boys had to pay costs and damages. Total cost to the law-violators was over $500. We call this rather expensive fun, if breaking the law and ruining stomachs and reputations can be called "fun".

The volcanic six returned and resumed work on the hi-line Wednesday morning, poorer and probably wiser. Sober, they are all right. We would like to know the name of the skunk who sold them what they got drunk on.

USERS of De Laval Cream Separators have carried away every first prize awarded at conventions of the National Creamery Buttermakers' Association since their first meeting in 1892. The record is unbroken!

The reason is that De Laval bowl design, together with low speed, enables the delivery of butter-fat globules unbroken and in their natural condition—thus insuring better butter.

Because of its close skimming the De Laval produces more cream, which means more butter.

Thus the user of a De Laval Separator gets both more and better butter.

G. N. Freight Has Wreck At Red Lake Falls

The local freight train of the Great Northern Ry. wrecked on the river bridge at Red Lake Falls Saturday afternoon. The reason for the wreck was that a flatcar heavily loaded with pulp wood had failed to negotiate the curve, the front trucks leaving the rails. This caused the wheels to be pushed under the center of the car, which put so much weight on them that they cut clean thru the floor of the bridge. The southbound passenger was delayed at Red Lake Falls until the next morning before the track was cleared.

A Colorado newspaper recently took thru the courts a suit against a subscriber who owed eleven years' subscription and refused to pay, claiming he had ordered it for only one year. The court decided the subscriber must pay, holding that he had accepted the paper during all that time and therefore owed for it.

Many people have the impression that a newspaper cannot collect delinquent subscriptions, but it can. It has been thru the supreme courts of practically every state in the union, and the newspaper has invariably won.

DRUG STORE LOOTED AT MIDDLE RIVER

Safe In Clay Pharmacy Blown Up By Burglars

When the store was opened Sunday morning it was found that the door of the safe had been blown off during the night. A light charge was evidently used as it merely knocked the safe door off and did not damage any other article in the place. No one claims to have heard the explosion.

Salesman For Face Cream Learns a Lesson

New York City. Mr. H. B. Menne writes:—"I was a salesman of creams for healing pimples, blemishes, etc., but when my face broke out with blotches, pimples and blackheads, I tried one salve after another with no results. I found it as impossible to sell skin creams as a bald headed man finds selling hair tonic. Finally I decided I would have to get at the cause—constipation. I was amazed to find that within a few days after taking Carter's Little Liver Pills my skin took on a new healthful look." Druggists, 25 & 75c red packages.

Music in Colors

We often have heard music described as cheerful. Now music in colors has become an actual fact. A machine recently invented by M. R. Ulrich of Portland, Ore., says Popular Science Monthly, projects music on the screen in the form of color patterns that vary in delicate shade and form according to changes in the sound vibrations of melodies or harmonies being played or sung.

However, Havana is to have a new building 20 stories high, which will correspond with the highest buildings used for business and hotels in the United States.

TOWN BURIED BY SNOW; 76 DEAD

Others Smothered Under Wreckage in Mining Camp—Bodies of 35 Recovered.

Chicago—The middle west was digging itself out of one of the heaviest snowfalls of the winter which was left in the wake of a blizzard that swept across half a dozen central states. The snow was general in northwestern Arkansas, Iowa, Missouri, eastern Kansas, southwestern Nebraska and northern Illinois.

Bingham, Utah—Thirty-six dead and 40 missing was the known toll of the avalanche of snow that overwhelmed the Highland Boy mining camp in Sap Gulch, near here. A force of more than 100 men began a systematic search of the debris at the foot of the gulch under the direct supervision of Frank A. Wardlaw, superintendent of the Utah-Delaware Mining Company. In this was it hoped to recover the bodies of those still unaccounted for. Beginning at the bottom of the gulch, the debris was being moved a shovel-full at a time. Splintered boards—the remains of what was once the homes of a score of families—and other debris was destroyed in a bonfire.

Mr. Wardlaw said he hoped to dig down to "rock bottom." A space averaging more than 100 feet wide and at least 400 feet long filled to an average depth of 15 or 20 feet is covered by the debris, every cubic foot of which is to be moved. Night and day shifts will be kept at work until the entire ground has been covered, Mr. Wardlaw said. He estimated two more days will be required to make this search. "And then we may miss some," he said. "We may not know the exact number of dead until spring when the snow melts away." Twelve survivors are in the hospital and more than a score received first aid treatment. Officials directing the search of the scramble ruins of a score of buildings, one a three story frame boarding place housing 50 persons, believe that in the neighborhood of 76 lives had been lost.

Suzanne Lenglen Wins Title

Cannes, France—Miss Helen Wills' quest for world supremacy in tennis has failed—but failed gloriously. The 20-year-old American champion went down before the racquet wizardy of Suzanne Lenglen, hailed by many as the greatest woman tennis player who ever stepped on a court. Suffering from a gash in the knee which she received in a fall, Helen extended the redoubtable Suzanne as she has never been extended since her memorable default to Molla Mallory after the loss of a set at Forest Hills in 1921. The score of the match, the final in the Carlton tournament, was 6-3, 8-6. It was played before a crowd that packed the stands, with hundreds clamoring at the gates, unable to gain admittance.

The real cause of bad breath

"You cannot 'cover up' unpleasant breath for any length of time. The only way to rid yourself permanently of it is by removing the cause.

"Sometimes poor teeth are responsible. But the commonest cause of a coated tongue and offensive breath is constipation. You may not realize that your intestines are slow in eliminating waste matter, or that your breath is objectionable. But others will notice it.

"Get rid of constipation, and your breath will become fresh and sweet. Even more important, you will notice an immediate improvement in your health and spirits."

Nujol relieves constipation in Nature's own way

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle, and so natural in its action.

Nujol simply makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles. Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly in accordance with the directions on each bottle. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol today. Remove the cause of bad breath and begin to enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when elimination is normal and regular.

NELLIE REVELL Says:

WHEN I wrote this I could hear the sound of a chisel and a hammer and an air riveting machine, wielded by the workmen constructing an apartment building nearby. "Doesn't that noise nearly kill you?" asked a visitor as the sounds pierced the air. I admitted it was not as soothing as some things I could mention, but added that it did not irritate me nearly as much as the noise made by the wrecking crew while tearing down the building that formerly occupied the same site.

According to all traditions and legends the noise should upset me. I presume it would if it were not for the fact that I know they are building, and that the hammer, which plays a quick, light march, and the chisel, which makes a little pizzicato, are constructing, not destroying. Then I recalled how thrilled I always had been at the sight of a Labor day parade, where every muscular son of toil represented construction. Whether he was a master workman or an entered apprentice, he was a builder of homes, churches, schools, bridges or something that would promote civilization.

In contrast I recalled another parade which I had been invited to witness from a grandstand seat. There came back to me the cheers and applause of the throng as the youngest and strongest of our country swept proudly down the gayly decorated avenue. The finest specimens of manhood in our land, all physically perfect, and every mother's son of them trained to be a killer of his fellow man. And somehow the noise of the derricks which told me of rebuilding did not seem as nerve racking as the crash of falling bricks and mortar which had come to me when the old building was being torn down.

It is the noise of destruction that annoys me. The noise of tumbling bricks and mortar, of boards being ripped from their moorings. While I listened to the noises which accompanied the pulling down of the old building I found myself thinking of those soldiers I had seen in that parade. They were going forth to face the noise of destruction, of guns and howitzers, of exploding shrapnel shells and bombs. All destructive.

Now since they have started rebuilding, the clear, ringing noise of the hammer and saw seemed to soothe rather than annoy me. A new building was being constructed. The world was moving ahead. The noise has a sort of harmony. There is a [illegible] "clink, clink" of the trowels, shaping bricks into regular form. I am not able to see the workmen, but the quick, deft strokes of fine steel in skillful hands seems to inspire me. They are building homes in which families will live, home ties be forged, children will be born and love will predominate. Perhaps its wall will shelter the architect of a great cathedral or some other great man. But anyhow they are building.

And I tried to picture some of those boys who had listened to roar of guns and the bursting of shrapnel shells and had come back unimpaired working on that new building. I like to think of them as captains of industry—those boys who had been trained to kill. I like to think that the hand which had been taught the use of destructive weapons had been relieved of that responsibility and could now be turned toward the constructive work of wielding hammers and saws.

The man who builds is the only man who pays his fare in life's highway, the man who can roll together two little balls of dirt, making a stronger one; the man who can lay one plank upon another, so that it will hold another's weight; the man who can push a stone beneath the corner of a house to hold the structure; the man who can put two words together and send an idea winging on its way is a builder. Everyone can be a builder. Whether we build by a word, spoken or written, or a deed, we can be builders.

Every man knows whether he is a builder or a waster. Every man knows whether he is an asset or a liability to humanity. I believe it was George Meredith who said, "Men who think in terms of lifetimes are of no use to civilization. If a man's building is measured by his own span of life he does not build well."

Jack or Tommy or whatever his name is, as he carries his hod of mortar up the ladder is a builder, and his work will stand long after his earthly tribulations end, and his mundane sins are forgiven. The first gravedigger was a delightful buffoon, a cheat and a charlatan, but he had vision. He boasted that he built stronger than the mason, the shipwright and the carpenter, and he argued his case with some plausibility. The mason, the shipwright, the carpenter, the poet, the preacher, the hod carrier, the writer. We must call them great. The world is in good hands.

Somebody sent me an engagement book. I wonder if they know any more jokes like that. It reminds me of the old negro in jail calling down to the street to another colored man to ask what time it was.

"What do you care, you ain't goin' nowheres," was the answer.

That's me. I'd rather have a speller or a book of synonyms.

A FEW FAVORITES

Here are a few recipes that other folks like, and they may appeal to you.

Bon-Ton Omelet.—Beat the yolks and whites of four eggs separately. Mix one-fourth of a teaspoonful of cornstarch with one-half cupful of milk, then add to the yolks and fold in the beaten whites, add salt and pepper to taste and pour into a hot, smooth frying pan in which a tablespoonful of butter has been melted, and cook slowly, loosening the edges with a knife occasionally until done. Slash the opposite side and fold over on to a hot platter. Serve at once. If the top of the omelet does not seem to be well cooked, set in a hot oven for a few minutes before folding.

Quick Tea Cakes.—Cream two tablespoonfuls of butter with one cupful of sugar, add two-thirds of a cupful of sour cream, one-fourth teaspoonful of soda, two beaten eggs, one teaspoonful of vanilla, and one and one-half cupfuls of flour sifted with one teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat well; add a few raisins or one on top of each; bake in gem pans or irons and serve warm.

Prune and Date Jam.—Cook one pound of prunes until soft in a small amount of water. Remove the stones and add one pound of stoned chopped dates which have been cooked in a small amount of water. Add the juice of half a lemon with half a cupful of honey. Cook the mixture until thick.

Prune Cake.—Mix together and boil five minutes, the following: Two cupfuls each of brown sugar and boiling water, three cupfuls of soaked pitted prunes, stoned and chopped, one teaspoonful each of salt and cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful each of cloves and nutmeg. Dissolve a teaspoonful of soda in two tablespoonfuls of warm water, and add four tablespoonfuls of fat. Sift two cupfuls of flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and add the first mixture with a cupful of chopped nut meats. Bake in a tube cake pan for one hour.

Oyster Soup Supreme.—Take one quart of veal or chicken stock, two tablespoonfuls of flour, two of butter, two-thirds of a cupful of minced chicken, one pint of oysters, one teaspoonful of onion juice, one cupful of thin cream, salt and pepper to season, and a little minced parsley. Prepare as usual, adding the oysters and chicken just long enough to curl the oysters, and heat the chicken. Sprinkle each bowl or cup with finely minced parsley and serve.

Good Things to Eat.

For a change from the every-day muffin here is a good one to try:

Rice Muffins.—To two well-beaten eggs add one cupful of milk, one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of sugar three cupfuls of flour sifted with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder; add one cupful of boiled rice and five tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Stir lightly and bake in muffin pans.

Asparagus Cream Salad.—Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in one-half cupful of cold water, add one cupful of boiling water and cool. Rub one can of asparagus through a very coarse sieve, or cut it into small pieces. When the gelatin has dissolved and cooled add the asparagus one cupful of pecans, one cupful of grated cheese and a few dashes of cayenne. Whip one cupful of heavy cream until thick and fold into the mixture. Let it harden in molds. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Stuffed Egg Salad.—Cut six hard-cooked eggs into halves lengthwise and remove the yolks. Cream four tablespoonfuls of butter and mix with the egg yolks; add six skinned and boned sardines to the egg yolks and stuff the whites with the mixture. Serve on head lettuce with a mayonnaise dressing.

Pimento Butter Sandwiches.—Cut white bread into one-fourth inch slices. Spread generously with pimento butter; spread lettuce leaves with mayonnaise and place between each pair of slices. Press edges lightly and cut into triangles. To prepare the pimento butter, cream one-half cupful of butter. Drain the liquor from a can of pimentos, rinse with cold water and dry. Rub the peppers through a sieve and gradually work the pulp into the butter; season with salt. If the pimentoes are small, use four.

Popular Salad.—Soak one tablespoonful of gelatin in one-fourth cupful of cold water, then add one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water and stir until the gelatin is dissolved. Add one-fourth cupful of lemon juice, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, the grated rind of a lemon, then two cupfuls of chopped cabbage, one pimento chopped fine, two cupfuls of sliced, diced pineapple and one cupful of nut meats. Mold and serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing.

Honor Mme. Sevigne

At the Carnavalet museum this year will be observed the three hundredth anniversary of the birth of Mme. de Sevigne the famous letter-writer of the Seventeenth century. The Paris municipal council has voted 30,000 francs (about $1,150) for the purpose. A special exhibition of portraits, souvenirs and documents associated with the distinguished letter-writer will be shown in the section of the building in which she lived for several years. The museum possesses a large collection of her documents, but other museums will lend from their collections to make the exhibition complete.

Carlson Mercantile Company, Inc. Holt, Minnesota.

USERS of De Laval Cream Separators have carried away every first prize awarded at conventions of the National Creamery Buttermakers' Association since their first meeting in 1892. The record is unbroken!

The reason is that De Laval bowl design, together with low speed, enables the delivery of butter-fat globules unbroken and in their natural condition—thus insuring better butter.

Because of its close skimming the De Laval produces more cream, which means more butter.

Thus the user of a De Laval Separator gets both more and better butter.

Holt, Minnesota.

USERS of De Laval Cream Separators have carried away every first prize awarded at conventions of the National Creamery Buttermakers' Association since their first meeting in 1892. The record is unbroken!

The reason is that De Laval bowl design, together with low speed, enables the delivery of butter-fat globules unbroken and in their natural condition—thus insuring better butter.

Because of its close skimming the De Laval produces more cream, which means more butter.

Thus the user of a De Laval Separator gets both more and better butter.

During the month of January we shipped 15,927 pounds of butter thru the Association, of which 10,304 pounds were Land O'Lakes grade. It is, in our opinion, a very creditable showing for the Holt creamery and its patrons.

We are now entitled to a large Land O' Lakes sign which is given to all creameries making 50 p. c. or more Land O' Lakes butter. Let us all make up our minds to keep this sign here, and I am sure we will, judging from the co-operation we have received heretofore.

We have six cooling tanks on hand and shall be glad to order many more. It is very important to have a good place for your cream at all times and especially during the summer months.

Orchids, so prized by the flower connoisseur, and in almost all sections of the United States comparatively expensive, are a little short of costly pests in some parts of Porto Rico. PART DOG, PART WOLF

This stirring story of the Canadian wilderness is not so much a sequel as it is a successor to James Oliver Curwood's dog classic, "Kazan." And it stands on its own merits. It is a dog story, but it has all human elements that make it good reading—love, adventure and fighting. There is the lovely French-Indian girl, Nepeese; Pierrot, the trapper; the sinister Bush McTaggart; Carvel, the adventurer. And in their lives Baree plays a thrilling part—a major role. Part dog and part wolf, Baree is dog when it comes to serving his friends and wolf when he wreaks vengeance on his enemies. Baree's intelligence is almost human and in his courage there is no fault. In the beginning Baree is as wild as any other wild thing of the Silent Places. But he comes in touch with civilization through his love for the lovely Nepeese and through his hatred for the villain factor, McTaggart, through his loyalty to the lovable adventurer, Carvel. And it is Baree who brings together Carvel and Nepeese.

Chapter I

—1—

To Baree, for many days after he was born, the world was a vast gloomy cavern.

During these first days of his life his home was in the heart of a great windfall where Gray Wolf, his blind mother, had found a safe nest for his babyhood, and to which Kazan, her mate, came only now and then, his eyes gleaming like strange balls of greenish fire in the darkness. It was Kazan's eyes that gave to Baree his first impression of something existing away from his mother's side, and they brought to him also his discovery of vision. He could feel, he could smell, he could hear—but in that black pit under the fallen timber he had never seen until the eyes came. At first they frightened him; then they puzzled him, and his fear changed to an immense curiosity. He would be looking straight at them, when all at once they would disappear. This was when Kazan turned his head. And then they would flash back at him again out of the darkness with such startling suddenness that Baree would involuntarily shrink closer to his mother, who always trembled and shivered in a strange sort of way when Kazan came in.

Baree, of course, would never know their story. He would never know that Gray Wolf, his mother, was a full-blooded wolf, and that Kazan, his father, was a dog. In him nature was already beginning its wonderful work, but it would never go beyond certain limitations. It would tell him, in time, that his beautiful wolf-mother was blind, but he would never know of that terrible battle between Gray Wolf and the lynx in which his mother's sight had been destroyed. Nature could tell him nothing of Kazan's merciless vengeance, of the wonderful years of their matehood, of their loyalty, their strange adventures in the great Canadian wilderness—it could make him only a son of Kazan.

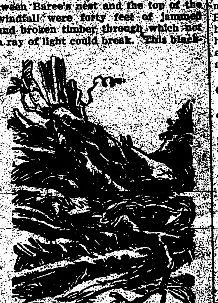
And then came that wonderful day when the greenish balls of fire that were Kazan's eyes came nearer and nearer, a little at a time, and very cautiously. Heretofore Gray Wolf had warned him back. To be alone was the first law of her wild breed during mothering-time. A low snarl from her throat, and Kazan had always stopped. But on this day the snarl did not come. In Gray Wolf's throat it died away in a low, whimpering sound. A note of loneliness, of gladness, of a great yearning. "It is all right, now," she was saying to Kazan; and Kazan—pausing for a moment to make sure—replied with an answering note deep in his throat.

Still slowly, as if not quite sure of what he would find, Kazan came to them, and Baree snuggled closer to his mother. He heard Kazan as he dropped down heavily on his belly close to Gray Wolf. He was unafraid—and mightily curious. And Kazan, too, was curious. He sniffed. In the gloom his ears were alert. After a little Baree began to move. An inch at a time he dragged himself away from Gray Wolf's side. Every muscle in her lithe body tensed. Again her wolf blood was warning her. There was danger for Baree. Her lips drew back, baring her fangs. Her throat trembled, but the note in it never came. Out of the darkness two yards away came a soft, puppyish whine, and the caressing sound of Kazan's tongue.

Baree had felt the thrill of his first great adventure. He had discovered his father.

This all happened in the third week of Baree's life. He was just eighteen days old when Gray Wolf allowed Kazan to make the acquaintance of his son. If it had not been for Gray Wolf's blindness and the memory of that day on the Sun rock when the lynx had destroyed her eyes, she would have given birth to Baree in the open and his legs would have been quite strong. He would have known the sun and the moon and the stars; he would have realized [illegible] have seen the lightning flashing in the sky. But as it was, there had been nothing for him to do in that black cavern under the windfall but stumble about a little in the darkness, and lick with his tiny red tongue the raw bones that were strewn about them. Many times he had been left alone. He had heard his mother come and go, and nearly always it had been in response to a yelp from Kazan that came to them like a distant echo. He had never felt a very strong desire to follow until this day when Kazan's big, cool tongue caressed his face. In those wonderful seconds nature was at work. His instinct was not quite born until then. And when Kazan went away, leaving them alone in darkness, Baree whimpered for him to come back, just as he had cried for his mother when now and then she had left him in response to her mate's call.

The sun was straight above the forest when, an hour or two after Kazan's visit, Gray Wolf slipped away. Between Baree's nest and the top of the windfall were forty feet of jammed and broken timber through which not a ray of light could break. This blackness did not frighten him, for he had yet to learn the meaning of light. Day, and not night, was to fill him with his first great terror. So quite fearlessly, he began to follow. If Gray Wolf heard him, she paid no attention to his call, and the scrape of her claws on the dead timber died away swiftly.



Everywhere He Looked He Could See Strange Things.

This time Baree did not stop at the eight-inch log which had always shut in his world in that particular direction. He clambered to the top of it and rolled over on the other side. Beyond this was vast adventure, and he plunged into it courageously.

It took him a long time to make the first twenty yards. Then he came to a log worn smooth by the feet of Gray Wolf and Kazan, and, stopping every few feet to send out a whimpering call for his mother, he made his way farther and farther along it. As he went, there grew slowly a curious change in this world of his. He had known nothing but blackness. And now this blackness seemed breaking itself up into strange shapes and shadows. Once he caught the flash of a fiery streak above him—a gleam of sunshine—and it startled him so that he flattened himself down upon the log and did not move for half a minute. Then he went on. An ermine squeaked under him. He heard the swift rustling of a squirrel's feet, and a curious whut-whut-whut that was not at all like any sound his mother had ever made. He was off the trail.

The log was no longer smooth, and it was leading him upward higher and higher into the tangle of the windfall, and was growing narrower every foot he progressed. He whined. His soft little nose sought vainly for the warm scent of his mother. The end came suddenly when he lost his balance and fell. He let out a piercing cry of terror as he felt himself slipping, and then plunged downward. He must have been high up in the windfall, for to Baree it was a tremendous fall. His soft little body thumped from log to log as he shot this way and that, and when at last he stopped, there was scarcely a breath left in him. But he stood up quickly on his four trembling legs—and blinked.

A new terror held Baree rooted there. In an instant the whole world had changed. It was a flood of sunlight. Everywhere he looked he could see strange things. But it was the sun that frightened him most. It was his first impression of fire, and it made his eyes smart. He would have slunk back into the friendly gloom of the windfall, but at this moment Gray Wolf came around the end of a great log, followed by Kazan. She muzzled Baree joyously, and Kazan in a most doglike fashion wagged his tail. This mark of the dog was to be a part of Baree. Half wolf, he would always wag his tail. He tried to wag it now. Perhaps Kazan saw the effort, for he emitted a muffled yelp of approbation as he sat back on his haunches.

Or he might have been saying to Gray Wolf:

"Well, we've got the little rascal out of that windfall at last haven't we?"

For Baree it had been a great day. He had discovered his father—and the world.

And it was a wonderful world—a world of vast silence, empty of everything but the creatures of the wild. The nearest Hudson's Bay post was a hundred miles away, and the first town of civilization was a straight three hundred to the south. Two years before, Tusoo, the Cree trapper, had called this his domain. It had come down to him, as was the law of the forest, through generations of forefathers; but Tusoo had been the last of his wornout family; he had died of smallpox, and his wife and his children had died with him. Since then no human foot had taken up his trails. The lynx had multiplied. The moose and caribou had gone unhunted by man. The beaver had built their homes undisturbed. The tracks of the black bear were as thick as the tracks of the deer farther south. And where once the deadfalls and poison-baits of Tusoo had kept the wolves thinned down, there was no longer a menace for these mohekuns of the wilderness.

Following the sun of this first wonderful day came the moon, and the stars of Baree's first real night. It was a splendid night, and with it a full red moon sailed up over the forests, flooding the earth with a new kind of light, softer and more beautiful to Baree. The wolf was strong in him, and he was restless. He had slept that day in the warmth of the sun, but he could not sleep in this glow of the moon. He nosed uneasily about Gray Wolf, who lay flat on her belly, her beautiful head alert, listening yearningly to the night sounds, and for the tonguing of Kazan, who had gone like a shadow to the hunt.

Half a dozen times, as Baree wandered about near the windfall, he heard a soft whir over his head, and once or twice he saw gray shadows floating swiftly through the air. They were the big northern owls swooping down to investigate him, and if he had been a rabbit instead of a wolf-dog whelp, his first night under the moon and stars would have been his last; for unlike Wapoos, the rabbit, he was not cautious. Gray Wolf did not watch him closely. Instinct told her that in these forests there was no great danger for Baree except at the hands of man. In his veins ran the blood of the wolf. He was a hunter of all other wild creatures, but no other creature, either winged or fanged, hunted him.

What an appealing little wild creature is this Baree—part dog, part wolf!

Dr. Johnson Famous for Sharp Retorts

Dr. Samuel Johnson used a bludgeon rather than a rapier in his repartee, as some anecdotes about him by Charles Hopkins Clark in the North American Review show. On one occasion, on a Sunday, a pompous acquaintance, whom he did not like, came up to him with, "Doctor Johnson, we have had an excellent sermon today." "That may be so," said the doctor, "but it is impossible that you should know it."

After a heated argument, which, by the way, was the kind he said he enjoyed, he finished his opponent with, "If I have said anything you understand, I beg the pardon of the rest of the company."

Mr. Cholmondely stopped the carriage in which Johnson was riding and attempted to speak to him, but got no attention. Someone said, "Here is Mr. Cholmondely." "What if it is?" said Johnson, and went on reading a book.

Someone attempted to introduce a friend: "Here is my friend, Mr. Vesey, Doctor Johnson." "I see him," said the doctor and turned away.

Sir Lynch Cotton asked Doctor Johnson what he thought of a neighboring peer. "A dull, commonplace sort of man," he answered, "just like you and your brother."

Doctor Bernard, president of Jesus college, Oxford, unintentionally offended him with a passing jest, and, by way of apology said at once, "I meant nothing, Doctor Johnson." To which polite remark Johnson answered, "If you mean nothing, say nothing, sir!"

GOOD HEALTH NECESSARY

Many Busy Women Owe Their Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught school, some did housework, some found work to do at home and a few took up nursing.

Today there are very few occupations not open to women. Today they work in factories with hundreds of other women and girls. There are also women architects, lawyers, dentists, executives, and legislators. But all too often a woman wins her economic independence at the cost of her health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain who works in the Unionall factory making overalls writes that she got "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Chamberlain lives at 500 Monmouth St., Trenton, N. J. She recommends the Vegetable Compound to her friends in the factory and will gladly answer any letters she gets from women asking about it.

If Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you?

NELLIE REVELL Says:

IN A hospital every little noise has a meaning all its own. There is so little to see and so much to hear that one quickly learns to read and interpret the numerous sounds of the day and night.

In an early story of H. G. Wells a man reaches a country in Africa in which all the inhabitants are blind. At first he is impressed with his tremendous advantage over the natives, but before long he discovers that he is the one who is handicapped. So keenly developed are the senses of hearing and touch of these people that the newcomer is forced to blind himself lest he be outclassed in the struggle for life. The story was recalled to me by the realization of what a sensitive "receiving station" my ears had become during my long sojourn in a hospital room.

Of all the day's noises the dominating ones are the bells. From early morn until late at night bells mark and punctuate the passing hours. They begin at five o'clock in the morning with the delicate tinkle of the bell carried by the nun who precedes the priest and his spiritual aid. Then follows the chapel bell, summoning the patients who are able to attend services.

A special ring heralds each doctor's entry into the hospital; another bell, in the hall, signals that he is ready to make the rounds with a senior nurse. A welcome bell is the one which indicates that broth has left the diet kitchen, and a genuine thriller is the one proclaiming that meal trays are ready for distribution.

One of the most exciting sounds to a shut-in is the peal of the telephone bell. It carries with it a suspense that it never has in the office or home. I could hear it every time it rang while I was in the human repair shop, and often I waited what seemed an age for the nurse to come down the hall with the message and stop at my door—or go to another.

In the gamut of hospital bells, however, the most sinister and most impressive is the ambulance bell. It is the black sheep of the bells. Many times I was awakened from deep sleep by that somber gong and listened with sorrow and fear to its clangor, shattering the calm of slumbrous streets, as the ambulance tears away on its unknown mission.

The imagination tried to follow and fill in the picture. What awaited the interne at the end of the journey? A tenement house fire? A child run over? A murderous brawl? Or perhaps some weary soul who had found the fight too hard and tried to cut the threads of fate. Then I would lie awake, waiting for the ambulance to return—for the first faint, brazen clatter that increased with steady crescendo until the machine roared past the corner and stopped at the hospital entrance. It was easy to tell when there was a passenger, for then the ring was unusually loud so that the staff in the accident ward could be ready for instant action.

No bell in the hospital can arouse such sheer terror as the firebell. One night some electric wires got crossed and the fire gong sounded. I lay helpless, waiting for the nurse to come in—an eternity of breathless apprehension it seemed. When the signal for fire drill is sounded the nurses are required to take their stations at the hall telephones and there await instructions. Though it is only a few minutes before they come to tell the patients it is only a drill, in that short space of time the imagination can startle one with mental pictures of what a fire in a hospital would mean.

But of them all the most exasperating, the most nerve-racking is—the bell that isn't answered.

Every walk in life has its own code of superstitions. The sailors are superstitious about certain things, the waiters have theirs, actors have many, and the newspaper people are not without some. While nearly everybody regards thirteen with apprehension, the actor includes twenty-three in his list of things to beware of. But what thirteen, twenty-three, breaking a mirror and whistling in a dressing room all combined are to the actor, that much and more is "thirty" to a newspaper man (or woman).

It means, "That's all. Good night. No more." We write "thirty" at the end of our story to let the copy editor know there isn't any more. And when a member of the fourth estate leaves this land of doubtful assignments we say he got his "thirty."

So imagine the chill that chased up my spine when I woke up in the hospital about five years ago, having been brought in on a stretcher in an ambulance, and asked the number of my room.

"It's all right," the doctor said. "I know you show folks don't like thirteen or twenty-three. So I picked out a nice even number for you. You're in room thirty."

Harry Hirshfield says he went into a soda-water emporium and said "Give me an ice-cream soda without flavoring."

"What do you mean, without flavoring?"

"Why, you might make it a soda without chocolate flavoring."

The clerk went away and after a bit returned with the verdict: "Sorry but we haven't got chocolate. You'll have to take it without vanilla."

SUFFERED MANY YEARS WITH FEMALE TROUBLE

PE-RU-NA LIKE A GIFT FROM HEAVEN

Mrs. Katie Scheffel, R. F. D. No. 5 Lowell, Ohio

"I have been suffering for years with female trouble. Was operated on five years ago. It relieved me some but I did not regain my strength. Two years later was taken sick and bedfast several months. I treated a long while without much relief. I was discouraged, my mind affected, so nervous I could neither eat or sleep and unable to do anything.

We tried several doctors but one after another gave up my case as hopeless. Finally a good friend advised me to try Pe-ru-na. I did. It relieved me almost immediately. Your medical department said I was suffering from chronic catarrh of the system. I began taking your medicine in March, 1914, and continued until August. I took ten bottles of Pe-ru-na and three bottles of Man-a-lin and felt like a new person. Your medicine seemed like a gift from Heaven. It was like coming from darkness into light.

We have used your medicine since for coughs, colds and grip with good results. We will always keep it on hand. I weigh twenty-five pounds more than I ever did, eat and sleep well and can do a good day's work. Everybody says I look fine. Even the doctors are surprised. I cannot thank you enough and will always recommend Pe-ru-na to sufferers from catarrh."

MRS. KATIE SCHEFFEL, R. F. D. No. 5, Lowell, O.

Mrs. Scheffel is only one of many thousand women in the world, who owe their present health to Pe-ru-na. The record of this medicine is a proud one as Pe-ru-na has held the confidence of both sexes for fifty years or more.

Riceless Day

The Chinese are now conducting a campaign that is very much different than anything we have ever seen in this country. We are used to all sorts of campaigns to promote the eating of certain foods, but in China they are now conducting a campaign to get people not to eat rice. This is necessary, says the Progressive Grocer, because the heavy rice consumption usually leads to famine at the end of the year.

GOOD SEASONABLE DISHES

During the cold weather, hot dishes of various kinds appeal to the taste.

Hot soups are good for either luncheon dinner or supper, and are of such variety that the same one need not be repeated often.

Hot Chicken Salad.—Mix one pint of cooked chicken cut into cubes, one cupful of cooked peas, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper, one tablespoonful of onion juice, one pimento, one teaspoonful of lemon juice; set aside in a cool place for at least one hour. Make a sauce using one-fourth of a cupful of butter, the same of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one cupful each of cream and chicken broth. Add the seasoned ingredients and let stand over hot water until ready to serve.

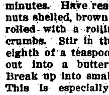
Savory Smoked Fish.—Cut one pound of smoked fish into strips, put over the fire in cold water, let come to a boil, then simmer slowly for ten minutes. Heat one cupful of stock with one-fourth of a cupful each of tomato sauce and vinegar, one tablespoonful of made mustard and a few dashes of cayenne. Drain the fish, saute in a little butter with two tablespoonfuls of flour; stir this into the saucepan containing the fish and stock, cover and simmer for five minutes. Serve on a hot platter surrounded with split and toasted crackers.

Pork chops are very good and a little unusual served with:

Tomato Celery Sauce.—Chop one onion, one green pepper, a large bunch of celery. Mix two and one-half cupfuls of tomato (which has been drained) with one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, two tablespoonfuls of allspice berries and two-thirds of a cupful of vinegar. Simmer for two hours. Place the allspice in a small muslin bag and remove it before serving. If kept some time leave the spice in the mixture.

Raisin Muffins.—Beat one egg, add one cupful of sour milk, one teaspoonful of soda, one cupful of graham flour, three tablespoonfuls of melted shortening and one-half cupful of finely-cut raisins. Bake in muffin pans.

Sweets for the Children.



The candy which is prepared in one's own kitchen is far superior to the confections bought in any candy store. Here are a few good ones worth cherishing and using occasionally when the appetite clamors for sweets:

Creamy Fudge.—Take one cupful each of brown and white sugar, one-half cupful of milk, one tablespoonful of butter, one-third of a cupful of corn sirup and four tablespoonfuls of cocoa. Boil to the soft ball stage and set away in the dish to cool. When cool stir until creamy, adding flavoring and nuts if desired. Knead until smooth and then put into a buttered mold and cut into squares. If maple flavor is desired omit the cocoa and add maple flavoring.

Peanut Candy.—Take two pounds of brown sugar, twelve tablespoonfuls of butter, put over a slow heat to melt, stirring constantly; when it begins to bubble count the time and cook seven minutes. Have ready a pound of peanuts shelled, brown skins removed and rolled with a rolling pin like coarse crumbs. Stir in the peanuts with an eighth of a teaspoonful of soda. Pour out into a buttered pan and cool. Break up into small pieces and serve. This is especially delicious peanut candy and not so hard as the brittle which we all like but avoid because of danger to the teeth.

Cream Candy.—Take a cupful of cream, two cupfuls of sugar, boil to the soft-ball stage, flavor to taste, then beat until thick; drop from a spoon on buttered sheets.

College Nugets.—Take one pound of brown sugar and one cupful of water, boil to a soft ball, then pour over the well-beaten white of an egg. Continue beating until the mixture is creamy, then add flavoring of vanilla and chopped nuts. Drop by spoonfuls on a buttered sheet before it gets too hard.

French Fondant.—Take one pound of sugar, one-half cupful of water, two tablespoonfuls of corn sirup or one-eighth of a teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Boil until a soft ball is formed in cold water. Set away to cool in the same dish or pour out on a large buttered platter. When cool stir until creamy, then knead into a ball and pack into a buttered bowl to stand for several days to ripen. Melt over hot water, add coloring and flavoring and drop by spoonfuls to make patties. Mold into balls and decorate with nuts or fruits for bonbons.

Chopped pineapple added to fondant, flavored with a little vanilla or almond, made into balls and dipped into chocolate makes delicious candy. Melt the chocolate over hot water.

As Charles, age four, was the only "man" at the boarding house where he and his mother had been eating for six or eight weeks he returned thanks each meal.

The fare was wholesome but very plain. On the landlady's birthday a cake adorned with candles was very conspicuous—while waiting for the landlady to take her place the cake was discussed. When Charles returned thanks he said:
